So then, with vision born of the Holy Spirit, this little group of young men and women determined to do something about the situation rather than sit back and see their beloved Church shut down. They did not know it then, but they were to be the "leaven that leaveneth the whole lump." One of these young people who is still an active Communicant of St. George's tells the story in her own words as follows:

"Due to the lack of ministers during and after World War II we were without a Vicar for six and a half years. Our congregation continually decreased as people transferred to other churches. Repeated requests were made for a minister and we got the Rev. H. R. Stevenson as acting Vicar. This arrangement wasn't too satisfactory as he had his own Church too. Finally in 1948 the young people went to see Bishop Gilbert and pleaded their case. He was surprised that as many young people were interested in the Church. He wouldn't give a definite answer but he said he would review the situation and let us know. Finally in 1949 Father Lasher was assigned to our Church."

The Dean's Column

I WISH to take this opportunity to thank the many clergy and lay people in the Diocese who have been kind enough to help spread the word about our weekly television program, especially those who have made so many helpful suggestions and given us so many constructive criticisms. We need the latter especially as we are feeling our way in order to make the program increasingly useful in providing Christian perspectives on matters of current concern. And in this way we hope to teach the Faith and ethic of our tradition.

On December 18 the program will change from 1:30 to 4:00 p.m. and on this same date the program will be made available across the country to the West coast (it now goes only as far as the Middle West and Texas). Again, we will appreciate anything you can do to help spread the word here and elsewhere.

Speaking of December 18, on that Sunday the Cathedral will be very "live," to use the colloquial phrase of the TV-radio industry. In addition to the ABC program referred to above, the Cathedral will be the scene of a segment of the "Wide, Wide World" program of NBC and between 5 and 5:30 will reach about 32,000,000 viewers. In addition, the traditional Service of Lessons and Carols (at 3:00 this year) will be taped by the ABC radio network for presentation on two evenings of the following week. We hope that you will be joining us in one or all of these presentations on your television or radio set.

And, on Christmas Eve, the Midnight Eucharist will be "simulcast" (i.e., over both TV and radio) by the ABC network. Of course, normally the place where you belong is in your parish church for the service, and hence we will not expect you among our viewers; but we would appreciate it if the word could be passed to shut-ins and others who will not be able to get out for the Midnight service. The service will be on the airwaves from 11:00 on, and will cover the period from the Procession through the Agnus Dei and of course include the sermon by the Bishop.

At 7:15 p.m. on Christmas Eve, on the John Daly program over ABC-TV there will be a brief visit to the Choir School dining room at the conclusion of the boys' Christmas dinner. While we are on the airwaves the traditional Yule log will be lighted and the boys will sing a carol. We owe a great deal, incidentally, to the Director of Public Relations, Mr. William J. Moll, for his skillful planning and coordination of these special events.

We are glad in these ways to have our part in what should be the task of all of us — in our parishes and individually — in emphasizing the real meaning of Christmas. It is especially important this year: the material side of Christmas has had its play in the shops and stores since long before Thanksgiving! That the living God has designed to translate himself into the language of a human life for us men and for our salvation is the real message of Christmas; since this is so easily crowded out we need do all we can to keep the Incarnation at the center of the season, for this Fact is the rightful source of our joy — indeed our jollity — during the days ahead. May He bless all of you, and all whom you love, especially this Christmastide.

Bishop Gilbert Has 25th Anniversary

At noon on October 28th, the Rt. Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, Retired Bishop of New York, observed his 25th anniversary as Bishop, at the Cathedral Church. Bishop Donegan read the Epistle and the Gospel and was the Celebrant at Communion. Bishop Gilbert presided and gave the Blessing.

Many clerical and lay friends of Bishop Gilbert were present at the Service.

At a luncheon the same day Bishop Donegan presented Bishop Gilbert with a book — testimony of the love and esteem in which he is held.

Report of Woman's Auxiliary To The Diocesan Council

BY MRS. ARTHUR J. SIMPSON, PRESIDENT

THIS has been a busy summer and a still busier autumn. The five delegates who represented this Diocese at Triennial took their responsibilities very seriously and have been travelling all over the Diocese reporting on it since their return. The interest in Triennial has been far greater than ever before, perhaps because we did a better preparation than ever before.

The annual conference held in June was well attended and I am happy to say the discussions were very productive. As Bishop Donegan once expressed it, we were "able to disagree without being disagreeable." Several major changes were voted on and a good program prepared, which we are now in the process of carrying out. For example:

The Department of Devotional Life has changed its title to Devotional Life. We have felt for some time that by putting Devotional Life into a department it is kept there by some members and not made the center and meaning for every part of our work. This change met with unanimous approval and we are now, in our monthly devotional workshops, showing how this basic meaning can be expressed in every department. We also approved and authorized the Devotional Life committee to prepare a set of noonday prayers which will be printed on a card and used by all our members. These have been approved by Bishop Donegan and are now being printed. We hope to have the cooperation of the Clergy in the distribution of these cards.

A resolution was prepared to be presented at Triennial re changing the name Woman's Auxiliary to a more comprehensive one such as Women of the Protestant Episcopal Church. This was presented at Triennial and was placed in committee to be considered and brought up at the next Triennial. This is a step forward as when it has been pre-

"Things I Always Thought I Knew"

by the Rev. Canon E. N. West, Sacrist

Q. — I thought only the Roman Catholic Church had priests. Yet sometimes I have heard your clergy referred to as priests. This is not correct, is it?

A. — The Prayer Book includes under "Holy Orders" Bishops, Priests and Deacons, and also recognizes the distinctions between these ranks in the Sacred Ministry. In addition it anticipates that certain services may be said by Lay Readers. Thus, the general term "minister" is used for the person who may appropriately perform a particular service. When a particular portion or the whole of any service may be performed only by a priest or Bishop that fact is noted in the rubrics. The phrase "EPISCOPAL MINISTER" is no more appropriate for us than the phrase "Greek Minister" would be to describe one of the clergy of the Eastern Orthodox Church.

Q. — Does your Church ask its members to observe Fridays?

A. — The answer is "Yes, and a number of other days besides."

Page li of the Prayer Book lists two absolutely solemn Fasts: Ash Wednesday and Good Friday. It also lists other days of fasting, "on which the Church requires such a measure of abstinence as is more especially suited to extraordinary acts and exercises of Devotion." The other fast days are: the Forty Days of Lent, the Ember Days at the Four Seasons, and all the Fridays in the year except Christmas Day and the Epiphany, or any Friday which may intervene between them.

It is to be noted that the discipline of this Church expects and presupposes self-discipline. Just to shift from a meat diet to a fish diet may be of small spiritual use to a person whose favorite food is fish. To give up eating and smoke twice as much as usual is not particularly suitable "to extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion." Fasting, in this Church, is a matter of principle, not of legalism.

Q. — I believe in God and I try to follow the teachings of Jesus but why is it so important to have an organization called the Church to which we are supposed to go regularly?

A. — The answer is the simple question "How did you manage to hear anything about the teachings of Jesus?" If there weren't an organization called the Church, the teachings of Jesus would have long since disappeared or would be known only through some discovery of ancient documents — but possibly not even that, since the Gospels would not have been written had there not been a Church. The Church exists to spread the Good News of salvation. The Church is guided in this by the Holy Spirit; it is the witnessing community. Jesus is first and foremost known in the midst of two or three gathered together in his Name.

Q. — Was Jesus really divine?

A. — If Jesus is just a good man with a few unfortunate delusions of grandeur, then he is not a good man at all, and the Christian religion is the biggest fraud ever foisted on human beings.

Socrates was a good man but he made no particular claims to intimate relationship with the mind behind the universe. Jesus made such claims and his whole Gospel centers around these claims. He died to make men understand and accept the extent of God's love; he rose from the dead to show forth the eternal victory of God; he sent the Comforter to lead men into all truth. One does not learn this first through reading Scripture but through meeting a Christian. The Scripture only starts to make sense when one already knows that Christ lives and reigns.

LETTER FROM A LEPER COUPLE

"Dear Friends:

"This is the first time that we communicate with you. We can assure you that it is the great suffering of our lives that is forcing us to write this letter. It has been a few years since we became ill with this horrible disease of leprosy and we have been on this rocky isolated island of Spinaloga, the leper colony on the island of Crete. Leprosy, unfortunately, attacked the limbs of our bodies and especially our eyes. We need to undergo surgery, but we do not have the necessary money. We want to buy some instruments so that we may be able to walk and to move around a little bit, but we cannot do that either. For two solid years now we have been lying in bed without being able to move. On top of all these great trials of our illness, misfortune struck another hard blow at us, and that is that our little home in the town of Volos where our eight children used to live has been completely destroyed by the recent earthquakes. We lost everything we had, and so now our eight children are in the streets exposed to the elements of nature. Poverty and suffering are their constant companions and we, their parents, are unable to offer them anything or even to see them because we are in this far-away leper colony. This is why we ask you to help us as much as you can so that we may be able to rescue our children from certain death. Whatever you do for us the Lord will give it back to you a thousandfold.

"My dear brothers and sisters, the cross that we bear is very heavy indeed. I am without any feet and almost without eyes and now the home of our children has been destroyed. Life has become unbearable. This leper colony is certainly indebted for what you have done for it and may God bless you. Won't you do something now for us and our children? My wife and I close this letter expecting a favorable reply from you. Please help us before it is too late."

Leper John Sfindourakis

Note: Nothing need be said concerning the above pathetic appeal. The Lord Jesus had a special interest in the lepers. Won't you do the same? Please send your contributions for these lepers and others like them to: American Mission to Greeks, Inc., Rev. Spiros Zodhiates, General Secretary, Dept. BU, P.O. Box 423, New York 36, N. Y. ## The Suffragan

THE RT. REV. CHARLES F. BOYNTON, D.D., S.T.D. SUFFRAGAN BISHOP OF NEW YORK

MANY devout Church people find it difficult to pray for any extended period of time, as for example, the five or ten or even fifteen minutes before a Service begins. This is not because they don't know how to pray nor what to pray for. Rather, it is largely due to the fact that they do not have a memorized general outline into which they can fit as many particular items as time will allow.

Here is a suggestion. I have found it the answer to my problem of how to pray for almost any length of time, anywhere, under any circumstances.

Memorize the prayer called "A General Thanksgiving," page 19 of the Book of Common Prayer. Change the "We" to "I". And beginning with the second sentence, use each word or phrase as a springboard for an extended prayer. Pray extemporaneously on the subject indicated by the particular word or phrase until you are ready to go on to the next subject heading. Once you get used to it, you will find that there will rarely be time even to pray fully to the end. You will have to decide to linger long and lovingly on one or two subjects one day, another one or two the next day, etc.

Your prayer will begin something like this:
"Almighty God, Father of all mercies, I, thine unworthy servant, do give thee most humble and hearty thanks for all thy goodness and loving-kindness to me and to all men. I bless thee"

1) "For my creation" (for the opportunity of loving thee and serving thee in this life in preparation for the life to come; especially in the following ways . . . . .);

2) "For my preservation" (from the beginning of my life until now, particularly . . . . ., and above all during the past night/day with its many dangers to body and soul, particularly . . . . .);

3) "And for all the blessings of this life" (which thou hast bestowed upon me, unworthy though I am and have been of any of them. Especially do I thank thee for the blessings of my inheritance, environment, health, education, marriage, children, friends, etc.);

4) "But above all, for thine inestimable love in the redemption of the world by our Lord Jesus Christ" (for the gift of his love, teachings, comfort, Cross and Passion, etc.);

5) "For the means of grace" (through prayer and the sacraments of my baptism, confirmation, my Holy Communions, the forgiveness of my sins, my marriage, etc.);

6) "And for the hope of glory" (in thine Everlasting Kingdom for myself and all the faithful departed, especially . . . . .).

But enough. It will be the filling in of the outline and each subdivision of the outline which might mean everything in the world to your life of prayer as it certainly does to mine. The Lord be with you.

St. George's Church, Williamsbridge

During the two and a half years from October 1949 until May 1952 when the Rev. Newell A. Lasher was Vicar and during the following year when the Rev. William G. Weinhauer was Vicar (to September 1953) St. George's Mission grew to the point where it became virtually self-supporting for the first time in its history. The number of Communicants increased by slightly less than 50% and the financial support increased by a staggering 300%! When the present Rector, The Rev. J. Robert Orpen, Jr., came as Vicar in November 1953, no further financial assistance was being directly rendered by the Diocese.

On the strength of this plus the fact that both the Communicant strength and the financial support received locally were continuing at the same sharp rates of increase, the members of St. George's decided to accept full responsibility for the challenge that now confronted them, and voted to become an independent Parish in union with the Convention of the Diocese of New York. The date of this historic special parish meeting was February 27, 1954. And so it was, after some sixty-five years as a Mission, St. George's was legally incorporated as a Parish, March 1, 1954. Father Orpen, formerly Vicar and now Priest-in-Charge, was called to be the first Rector of St. George's, Williamsbridge. On April 23, 1954 he was officially instituted by the Rt. Rev. Charles F. Boynton, D.D., S.T.D., Suffragan Bishop of New York, acting on behalf of the Diocesan, the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, D.D., S.T.D.

One of the first things that the newly elected Churchwardens and Vestrymen of St. George's Church undertook to do was to find some way in which to reach a large number of Episcopalians and unchurched people in a relatively nearby area of the Northeast Bronx where there are no Episcopal Churches. Some three years earlier the Diocese had made an attempt to open up a new Mission in this area which was to be maintained by the Vicar of St. George's. The attempt was unsuccessful and was subsequently abandoned while St. George's was still itself a Mission.

The need was still there, however, even after St. George's became a Parish. Reactivation of the Mission was impossible; therefore the Vestry decided that if there could not be a church building in that neighborhood, at least it would be possible to do the next best thing and provide transportation over to St. George's. To that end, they authorized an appropriation to make it possible to operate a bus route serving the people formerly served by the Mission. The bus really had a dual purpose, for in addition to the practical need it met, it also served a broader missionary purpose in that it advertised the existence of St. George's Church far and wide and has resulted both directly and indirectly in making it possible for more people to find the Church and for the Church to find more people to bring into her fold.

This summer the bus route was discontinued. In its place there has been inaugurated a "share-the-ride" plan whereby people with automobiles pick up those who need rides. The basic missionary purpose of the bus had been amply fulfilled.

For the last year certain members of the Vestry, Acolytes and Young People of the Parish together with the Rector have, under the able direction of the organist, Mr. Robert E. Othmer, been engaged in a "leisure" time activity of moving and installing a theater organ which they were given. It is hoped that it will be in playing condition by the time of the anniversary celebration when the Bishop will be making his visitation on the Feast of the Dedication. It is not every city congregation that would undertake such a project unassisted; in this case it is just one more manifestation of the way in which the leaven is leavening the whole lump, for the operations of the Spirit are indeed diverse. But in each instance the end is the same—"to work, pray and give for the spread of His Kingdom." We do it as a family with our Parish family life centered about the Altar in the Family Eucharist, our chief act of worship, in thanksgiving to God for His manifold blessings.

Christian Social Relations Announce Their Policy Concerning Appointment of Probation Officers

THE Department of Christian Social Relations of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of New York officially voted its disapproval of the policy of appointing Probation Officers for the Children's Court on the basis of a religious quota, it was announced by the Rev. Dr. Leland B. Henry, Executive Director of the Department.

The Department maintains that such a policy is undemocratic and violative of the federal constitution, which allows no religious test for any public office; it interferes with the appointment of the personnel shown to be the best qualified by impartial civil service examination, and discourages well prepared graduates in social welfare from seeking to make probation work with children in New York City a career.

The Department of Christian Social Relations went on record as standing for public service chosen on the basis of competence, rather than on the basis of any consideration of race, religion or national origin.

New Appointments to Service in The National Church

THE Bishop, five priests and two laymen of the Diocese of New York have been appointed to several Joint Commissions and Joint Committees of the General Convention by the Presiding Bishop and the President of the House of Deputies.

Bishop Donegan has been reappointed to the Joint Commission on Assistance to Eastern Orthodox Churches and appointed to the Joint Commission on the Work of Deaconesses. Dean Pike has been appointed a member of the Joint Committee on Structure and Organization of the General Convention and has been reappointed to the Joint Committee to Supervise Publication of the New Annotated Edition of the Constitution and Canons. At the Convention he was elected a Trustee of the General Theological Seminary. Canon West has been reappointed to the Joint Commission on Architecture and Allied Arts. Dean Rose, of the General Seminary, the Rev. James W. Kennedy, D.D., Rector of the Church of the Ascension, and Clifford P. Morehouse, LL.D., of St. Luke's, Katonah, have been appointed to the Joint Commission on Ecumenical Relations. Dr. Morehouse will also serve on the Joint Standing Committee on Committees and Commissions. George W. Burpee, Sc.D. of Christ Church, Bronxville, has been appointed to the Joint Commission on Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy. Byron G. Clark of St. Mary the Virgin, Manhattan, has been appointed to the Joint Commission on Assistance to Eastern Orthodox Churches.

Canon Johnson has been appointed to the subcommittee on Inter-Anglican Relations of the National Council's Committee on Ecumenical Relations, and Dean Pike to the Division of Curriculum Development of the Department of Christian Education.

Our Policy on "Released Time"

"RELEASED TIME" — a rather unfortunate phrase, for it bears the suggestion of "recess" or playtime, and at least one seminarian has spent time in hospital as a result of the discipline problem that sometimes develops from Release Time. But it is still a wonderful opportunity.

A decade ago the question of the proper place of religious instruction in an increasingly secularized public education was "hot". The "McCallum Case" was wending its way toward the Supreme Court with much attendant publicity, and the resulting decision stirred the continent. In effect it said: It is illegal to use even the physical equipment of public education (buildings, blackboards, notice boards, etc.) in the cause of religious instruction — no matter what day of the week, no matter what hour of the day, no matter who does the teaching! Since then a second Supreme Court decision has gone a long way toward reversing the philosophy of the McCallum decision but the extreme separation of Church and State, education-wise, still stands.

Out of the resulting furor came clearance for the removal of children from the responsibility and environs of public education and the establishment of a released time school on school time. And in the wave of interest created by publicity and many fine speeches, the Churches across the continent took up the challenge. In the subsequent years many of these schools have been discontinued and most have declined in effectiveness but it is still true that in the Diocese of New York more than half the parishes either now have or have only recently abandoned a released time program. Yet there has been almost NO HELP coming to the Parishes from either national or Diocesan leadership. Scores of the clergy openly admit that they appreciate the opportunity provided but are not at all happy about their use of that opportunity.

The Diocesan Department of Christian Education has been aware of its responsibility toward Released Time but only now, through its Children's Division and the leadership of the Rev. Robert Spears, Vicar of the Chapel of the Intercession, do they feel ready to move into the field with the definite note of leadership.

The clergy have already received the Bishop's announcement of a Diocesan Policy on Released Time. This policy was suggested to the Bishop by the Department and has received his complete approval and support.

The policy deals with two areas of opportunity — (1) the long standing permission for the excusing of children on Holy Days, and (2) the more recent permission for release of the children for the purpose of religious instruction for one hour each week.

The policy suggests that all Feast Days having an Octave in the Book of Common Prayer and the major fast days (Ash Wednesday, Maundy Thursday, and Good Friday) are a special opportunity for the Church's ministry to children. When such days fall on a regularly scheduled school day Parishes are urged to make plans for the whole day or as much of it as can be constructively used.

The policy also urges parishes to make use of the Released Time opportunity in one of three suggested types of schools — (1) a school planned and conducted for the children of a specific Episcopal Parish; (2) a school planned and conducted by two or more neighboring Episcopal Parishes for the children of those Parishes; (3) a school planned and conducted in cooperation with other religious bodies in the community.

Curriculum, philosophy and materials are a key problem and the Diocesan Department has already formally requested the Department of Christian Education of the National Council to include this concern in the work of its Curriculum Development Division. In the inter-church school the policy suggests that the curriculum should confine itself almost exclusively to the Bible.

Plans are already under way for the implementing of the policy and for some of the leadership training that will be necessary. They include a Diocesan Conference in February and a training program to be carried out in conjunction with the usual Curriculum Conferences in the Convocations next June.

Clergy or laity wishing to receive copies of the policy or further information about it should write the Department of Christian Education, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York 25, N. Y.

sented at former Triennials the resolution was promptly voted down.

There is one other thing which was discussed at long length at our conference in June and which I was commissioned to bring before this Council. At the Diocesan Convention in May, the question of women as members of Vestries and delegates to convention was brought up for the second time and in spite of the fact that Bishop Donegan gave a very logical and stirring speech in its favor the motion was defeated. That is not, however, what I have been commissioned to bring to you. These facts you all know. The part which the women feel most concerned about is the flippant, untrue, and humorous remarks which were made in opposition to it. To classify a group of women, who are not only dedicated workers but some of whom are far ahead of a great many of their critics in intellectual attainments, as neurotic and moronic is hard to take. It is certainly the members of the Convention's privilege to vote against the motion, but is it necessary for the opposition to speak in such terms? I regret also that at General Convention it was thought smart to treat the matter in the same way. We earnestly hope that this motion will not be brought up again until it can be discussed in a more dignified manner. We shall be glad of any suggestions which you may make as to the best way of combating this approach to women's position in the Church. You may be interested to know that over 9,000 women shared in the United Thank Offering in this Diocese and gave over $161,000.

The Missions Craft Exhibition opened in April and has struggled through the summer. Mrs. Barrett has had to give up this work and we are now in the process of reorganizing for the winter. Please stop and look at the articles when you are at the Cathedral.

Our fourth School of Worship started on November 7th with a fine group of speakers. The other departments are going steadily forward.

DO YOU WANT AN ORGAN?

The Church of St. Barnabas, Irvington-on-Hudson, plans to install a new organ next summer. The present organ, two manual console and blower, manufactured by Odell in 1893 and completely rehabilitated in 1935, is offered as a gift to any church or mission that can make use of it, providing the cost of removal and transportation is borne by the recipient. For details communicate with George C. Miles, Ardsley-on-Hudson, New York (telephone Irvington 9-5165).

Ten Deacons Advanced To Priesthood

On Friday, December 16, at 10:30 a.m., in The Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, Bishop Donegan advanced ten Deacons to the Priesthood.

The ordination sermon was preached by the Rev. Frederick M. Morris, D.D., Rector of St. Thomas' Church, New York City.

The following list shows the Deacons advanced, together with their Presenters and the parishes or missions where the Deacons have been following their vocations since their ordination as Deacons.

Wilfred Eugene Boughton was presented by the Rev. James W. Hyde, Rector, St. John's Church, Salisbury, Connecticut. Mr. Boughton is Vicar at St. Martha's Church, White Plains, N. Y.

Malcolm Lysle Foster, was presented by the Rev. Albert A. Chambers, Rector, Church of the Resurrection, New York City. Mr. Foster is Assistant Minister at the Church of the Resurrection, New York City.

Thomas Marland Horner was presented by the Rev. Darwin Kirby, Jr., Rector, St. George's Church, Schenectady, N. Y. Mr. Horner is Assistant Minister at St. George's Church, Schenectady, N. Y.

Eric William Hutchison was presented by the Rev. Hugh D. McCandless, Rector, Church of the Epiphany, New York City. Mr. Hutchison is Assistant Minister at the Church of the Epiphany, New York City.

Samuel Wataru Ishibashi was presented by the Rev. W. Colin Lee, Rector, St. Mark's Church, Mt. Kisco, N. Y. Mr. Ishibashi is Assistant Minister at St. Mark's Church, Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

Wiley Washington Merryman was presented by the Rev. G. Paull T. Sargent, Rector Emeritus, St. Bartholomew's Church, New York City. Mr. Merryman is Assistant Minister at the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest, Ill.

Jack Horace Thorn was presented by the Rev. Herbert M. Barrall, Rector, Grace Church, Middletown, N. Y. Mr. Thorn is Assistant Minister at Grace Church, Middletown, N. Y.

John M. Kettlewell — Bishop Donegan acting for the Right Reverend Gerald Francis Burrill, S.T.D., Bishop of Chicago — was presented by the Rev. Dr. J. V. Langmead Casserley, Professor of Dogmatic Theology, General Theological Seminary, New York City. Mr. Kettlewell is a fellow and tutor at General Theological Seminary, New York City.

Bishop Donegan Sponsors A Refugee Family

Kozma Kandaurow, a Russian refugee factory worker; his wife Sofie, and their children, Hanni, 9, and Sonia, 5, arrived recently from Germany aboard the navy transport General Langfidt to find a surprise Christmas present awaiting them. The present sponsor of their journey was Bishop Donegan, all of which was unknown to Kozma Kandaurow and his family.

The Bishop furnished the family with a three-room apartment on the fifth floor at 400 East 110th Street, and the Refugee Committee of the Department of Christian Social Relations of the Diocese is now busy securing for Mr. Kandaurow, and his wife, work which will put them on a self-sustaining basis.

It may be of interest to know that the Episcopal Church led all other churches cooperating in such Church World Service's Refugee Resettlement Program by having as-

The Bishop's Message

My dear friends:

THE New Year is important in the Far East. Even though the New Year date is a variable one, having seen the Chinese and Japanese in their own land, one can understand why this should be so. In both countries realism and optimism go hand in hand. Probably never before in my life have I seen people with as much courage and hope, and as little apparent reason for it as in Hong Kong. Before the second world war the total population of Hong Kong was just under 600,000 people—today it is two and a half million. The population has been increased by the hundreds of thousands of displaced persons from the mainland of China. The resultant living conditions of these refugees are grim. Frequently one finds families of three generations occupying one room the size of an ordinary American living room. Thousands live in squatters' huts on the mountainside. The Government of this Crown Colony and the saintly Bishop of Hong Kong are working ceaselessly to better the living conditions of these unfortunate people. The building projects sponsored by the Government reminded me of the housing developments on Manhattan Island.

I was fortunate enough to be able to visit the Bishop's mountain-top residence with its simple chapel, and to see the work done by the Swedish Mission to former Buddhists which is carried on in a former Buddhist monastery situated on the next peak below. During my stay I preached to a Chinese congregation in Kowloon, addressed the Cathedral congregation in Hong Kong, and led a conference for the clergy and lay people of the Diocese. I also had the privilege of being the first American Bishop to officiate at the laying of the cornerstone of a church in the Diocese of Hong Kong. The cornerstone was inscribed with the ancient Chinese Nestorian cross and bearing an inscription in Chinese and English noting that the Bishop of New York had presided. The silver trowel and mallet used in the ceremony were presented to me by the congregation as a memento of the occasion. It was appropriate that an American should have participated in the dedication of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Kowloon, since it was the Presiding Bishop's Fund which made the building of this much-needed church possible. Hong Kong is one of the most colorful and exciting cities in the world and I shall never cease to be grateful for the kindness shown to me by the Bishop and clergy and people of that great city.

The sun was setting as the plane bound for Tokyo moved up the length of Japan, and for the first time I understood the quality of Japanese art. The beauty of that sunset is impossible to describe. At the modern airport the Bishop of Tokyo and a number of clergy and laymen made up the welcoming party. I am sorry there is not enough space to write in detail of my stay in Japan. I am sure that no one visits there without wishing to return. Japan is fascinating in endless ways, and the people are friendly and extremely courteous.

It was thrilling to see for the first time institutions which had formerly been only names to me — St. Luke's International Hospital, St. Margaret's School, St. Paul's University, Central Theological Seminary, St. Barnabas Hospital, Momoyama Gakuin, The Elizabeth Saunders Home where I dedicated the new dormitory, and KEEP, the Kiyosato Educational Experiment Project in the hills above Cofu, overlooking Mount Fuji. I was impressed by the work going on at these, and many other places.

As throughout the Far East the Church faces many difficulties for Japan, too, is affected by the rising tide of nationalism, and being an occupied country does not help the cause of Christianity. Nevertheless the loyalty of the clergy and laity can be counted on, and if we provide the assistance that is needed the future for the Nippon Sei Ko Kwai is indeed hopeful.

The New Year is important to these our brethren on the other side of the Pacific for in spite of the discouragements and difficulties which beset them they have courage and hope. How much more important should it be to you and me who have not only the hope but also the reason for it, namely, the absolute knowledge of the love of God as revealed in Jesus Christ Our Lord Who makes all things new. In Him we become new men, and through Him, by the goodness of God we can make this year truly new. My New Year's wish for us all is "that as we grow in age, we may grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."

Faithfully your Bishop,

Horace W.B. Donegan

Mrs. Roosevelt To Speak On Humanitarian Program Of U.N.

MRS. Eleanor Roosevelt will speak on the humanitarian program of the United Nations and its subsidiary agencies at a service to be held under the auspices of the Department of Christian Social Relations at St. Thomas' Church, Fifth Avenue at 53rd Street, Sunday, January 29, at 8:00 P.M. Mrs. Roosevelt has been closely connected with the U.N. throughout the ten years of its history, having served as a member of the United States Delegation and as chairman of the Human Rights Commission.

Additional information concerning the details of the service will be in the hands of every parish and mission in the Diocese early in January. Meanwhile, the clergy are asked to make an advance announcement of the service, and to save the date.

The Rev. Dr. Leland Henry Appointed To Commission On Inter-Group Relations

THE Reverend Dr. Leland Henry, Executive Director of the Department of Christian Social Relations of the Diocese, has been recently appointed as one of a 15-man Commission on Inter-Group Relations of the City of New York to fight discrimination and foster racial harmony. The Commission members are un-salaried.

The members of this group of which Mr. Herbert Bayard Swope is the Chairman, have the power of subpoena, and are empowered by law to hold public hearings to investigate complaints of bigotry and "group tensions." All the members of the group have worked against prejudice and intolerance.

Theological Education Sunday - January 22

WHEN General Convention met last September in Honolulu, one resolution was passed without a single dissenting vote — "Resolved, that the General Convention calls upon every parish and mission of the Church to observe Theological Education Sunday, as well as to take an offering on that day, or a day locally designated as an alternate day, for the support of the Seminaries of the Church."

Noting thankfully that in 1954 over $400,000 had been given in this way toward the cost of ministerial training, the Convention reminded church people that "a survey of the financial condition of the Seminaries indicates a continued crucial need for financial support" and that "the offerings made on Theological Education Sunday, though increasingly generous, are as yet helping to meet only minimal needs for current operational costs."

What Theological Education Sunday means to the Seminaries today may be seen in the case of the oldest and largest of them, the General Theological Seminary, called the official seminary of the Church in the sense that it operates "under the superintendence and control" of the General Convention. This Seminary's needs and opportunities parallel those of the ten other theological schools of the Episcopal Church.

Since its founding by the General Convention in 1817, the General Seminary has devoted itself to the task of providing a dedicated leadership to the Church. Located in the heart of downtown Manhattan, and only a brief five-minute walk from the busy Hudson River piers, the Seminary buildings border the shaded lawns of Chelsea Square, forming an entire city block where over two hundred students live and work during their three-year course of study.

The Seminary's third dean, Dr. Eugene Augustus Hoffman, is largely responsible for the construction of its massive gothic range of buildings. The chapel, the library, the refectory, the dormitories and classrooms — all were the fruit of his vision and labor. But in 1903, when Dean Hoffman's immense building project was completed, the Seminary was not half so large as it is today. Not even Dean Hoffman's vision foresaw the tremendous growth of the Church in the Twentieth Century — a growth which has necessitated a doubling of the population of Chelsea Square.

The Church Cannot Exist

To the Seminary community come men from more than sixty dioceses of the Anglican Communion—men from Maine and California and Alaska and Florida, from India and Brazil. Out of diverse backgrounds and with different viewpoints, these men are brought together by a common dedication to the Gospel of Christ and to the Church in which that Gospel is proclaimed. Together, with a faculty of twenty-five members, they make up the body of the General Seminary — a Seminary which is "general" because it is inclusive and representative of the whole Church.

Governed by a Board of Trustees appointed largely by the General Convention of the Church, the General Theological Seminary is dependent upon three sources of income —its own endowments, tuition fees paid by students who can afford them, and upon the gifts of those men and women who realize that the welfare of the Church is closely related to the quality of its ministry. The student who pays full tuition contributes only one-third of the $1,900 which it costs to provide for his instruction and maintenance. Another third is made up from Seminary endowment; but for the remainder, the Seminary must look to the interest and generosity of the laity of the Church, expressed in the offerings made on Theological Education Sunday.

The result of such investments in ministerial training is found in the life of the Church at large. Each Seminary makes its essential contribution. Thus, the General Seminary alone has graduated forty-four of the bishops of the Episcopal Church now living, and sixteen others received part of their education there. More than 1100 of the present total of seven thousand clergy are graduates of the Seminary, and 650 others have studied there at one time or another. Almost a quarter of the priests now serving as missionaries abroad are graduates of the General Seminary.

If the Church's Seminaries are to maintain their present level of effectiveness, and to face with confidence the need for future improvement and expansion, the active support of all congregations of the Episcopal Church is urgent. The Seminaries seek the means and equipment to guarantee the high standard of training which the public takes for granted in the professional schools devoted to law, medicine, and engineering. The words which Bishop Hobart wrote in 1817, the year which saw the beginning of formal theological education in the Episcopal Church, are no less true today: "Without a ministry, the Church cannot exist, and destitute of a learned as well as a pious ministry, she cannot flourish."

1. A CHAPEL TOWER DOMINATES THE GENERAL SEMINARY GROUNDS. In the quiet haven of Chelsea Square in crowded Manhattan, some 200 young men spend three years in an exacting program of worship, study, and work to prepare themselves for the Church's ministry.

2. THE DEAN INTERVIEWS A NEW STUDENT. A faculty of twenty-five members makes it possible for a student to have close personal guidance during his career at the General Seminary.

3. FRIENDLY GATHERINGS ARE PART OF SEMINARY LIFE. The Dean's Reception in September is the first of many occasions when faculty members and students from more than sixty dioceses enjoy community fellowship.

4. PREPARING TO PREACH THE WORD OF GOD. Practical training as well as academic study are designed to fit a seminarian for the three-fold role of priest, pastor, and preacher.

5. "...SO THAT YOU MAY TEACH THE PEOPLE COMMITTED TO YOUR CHARGE". The parishes and institutions of metropolitan New York offer varied opportunities for a student's practical training under Seminary supervision.

6. GRADUATION CONCLUDES INTENSIVE PREPARATION FOR THE MINISTRY. The Seminary's diploma testifies to the faculty's judgment that a man has been prepared "to exercise his Ministry duly, to the honour of God, and the edifying of the Church".

7. THE MINISTRY BEGINS. For more than 130 years graduates of the General Theological Seminary have passed through its doors to dedicate their lives to God and the Church in many types of ministry at home and abroad.

The Dean's Column

The following story is reprinted from The Militant of St. Margaret's Church in the Bronx with permission of the Reverend David Weden, Priest-in-Charge—J.A.P.

CORRECTION OFFICER Walter Cholmondeley, pronounced Chumly, is a recent convert to the Christian faith. Mr. Cholmondeley is a very big man, but in God's family he is not yet a year old, having been baptized in St. Margaret's December 16 of last year. . . .

Not long ago Walter Cholmondeley, a young veteran who had never belonged to any Church, began to go out with a pretty Roman Catholic girl from British Guiana, Friedel Roberts. Walter had not told her that he was not a Christian and was embarrassed when she began asking him to take her to his Church. But she kept asking him what Church he belonged to, and finally Walter got desperate. He told her the biggest Church he could think of, "The Cathedral of Saint John the Divine."

"Then take me there next Sunday," said Friedel.

When they drove up in front of the Cathedral the next Sunday, Walter pointed out that they were late. "We'll have to try again next week," he said, hopefully.

"We'll try this week," said Friedel firmly.

Walter began to feel trapped. "But there's no place to park," he stalled. Just then a parked car pulled out ahead of him.

Walter gave up. He parked in the space and headed bravely up the steps and in the door of "his Church." Walter says that the place was so big, and he knew so little about churches, that he walked half a block down the side aisle before he realized he was inside the Church!

That was his first visit. But he kept coming back, Sunday after Sunday. He had found something that became more and more important to him. Under the influence of the Church some things about his life up to then began to bother him, and he went back to the Cathedral one weekday, hoping to find someone to talk to. The seminarian on duty listened a while, and then suggested that, since he lived not far from St. Margaret's, he should go there and talk to Fr. Weden. He did. He came and talked. He began taking instruction in the Faith. He made his first confession and was baptized. Not long after, he was confirmed and Friedel, who is now Mrs. Cholmondeley, was received from Rome.

Since that time, Mr. Cholmondeley has been a faithful and hard-working member of St. Margaret's. He is Assistant-Scoutmaster of the Troop and chairman of the Troop-committee, a member of the Parish Council, and served this year on the Every Member Canvass Committee.

Besides his wife, Friedel, and his baby daughter, Mr. Cholmondeley's interests include the problem of applying his Christian faith to his work as a Department of Correction Officer attached to the Bronx County Court House. . . .

A "church-wanderer" for many years, Mr. Cholmondeley declares that it was only when he discovered the Episcopal Church that he began really to understand the Gospel of Christ.

Chaplaincy At Sing-Sing

"I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me." These words in gold and color should adorn a canopy above the altar in St. Augustine's Chapel in Sing Sing Prison. Not in complicated script, or other ornamental lettering, but in bold block, simple and easy to read.

It is to the promise in them that the members of the Order of The Holy Cross who have been appointed by the Bishop to the Chaplaincy must look for fulfillment. Because of it, one or another have gone to Ossining, week in and week out, to minister to communicants of the Church, who are prisoners there.

To lift our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament; to hold Him up as example and Savior in instruction and sermon; to set souls within range of the magnetism of His love in Penance. This constitutes the most constant and least well known of the external works of the Mother House of the Order.

It began in 1929 when a school friend of Fr. Gorham asked him to arrange to come to the prison to hear his confession and bring him his Easter communion. Fr. Gorham was stationed in Africa, so the request was given to Fr. Parker to attend to by the Father Superior. Before he could organize things, another man heard about it and asked permission to see him. So the need appeared. Word spread and in a few more visits a small congregation came into being.

At first the visits were on a week day, generally Monday, and often as an added assignment after the conclusion of a Mission. Beforehand permission had to be obtained from the prison officials and the men notified. Confessions were heard in any available quiet place, sometimes in the office of the P.K. (Principal Keeper). The Eucharist was held in a curtained off section of a huge room used by the prisoners for recreation. Outside, hundreds of two foot square tables for games and writing; inside the curtain in a space six feet by twelve, with a table for an altar, priest and laity gathered to lift Christ and be drawn by Him. Against the racket of earth, stillness of heaven was opened. Alongside sordid realities of earth the pure reality of eternity was spread. Perhaps this is as perfect an illustration of our Lord's commission to His Church as can be imagined.

Warden Lawes was sympathetic with the work. Gradually an "extra-official" Chaplaincy to Episcopalians was accepted along with the official ones to Romans, Jews and Protestants. When the Theater-Chapel building was erected, permission was obtained through Governor Roosevelt for the use of a room on the ground floor as a chapel. Since then the Eucharist has been offered every Sunday. On most Saturdays there are confessions to hear, instruction for Baptism or Confirmation, personal problems, or just the chance for a quiet talk with an outsider draws other men.

St. Augustine's Chapel, smaller than most living rooms, is furnished with altar, organ and pews. Over the years, pictures and other ornaments, including a handsome stained-glass window made in the prison have given it

So well has this program succeeded that the National Council has recently extended the Episcopal Church's assurance for at least 2,000 refugees. Of this total of refugee resettlement the Diocese of New York has had a very large share. This particular work is under the direction of the Rev. ## "Things I Always Thought I Knew"

by the Rev. Canon E. N. West, Sacrist

Q. — Why missions? There's plenty to be done right here at home, and after all other people have their own religions.

A. — If St. Paul had felt this way, most of us would still be painting ourselves blue and worshipping in Druidic surroundings.

The Christian religion is Good News and Good News cannot exist in a vacuum. It exists for the sole purpose of being spread. In the words of the old missionary hymn the church exists

"To tell to all the world that God is Light;
That he who made all nations is not willing
One soul should perish, lost in shades of night:"

To cite only one instance, it is because of Missions that the civilized world no longer considers slavery tolerable.

Q. — What happens after death?

A. — According to the Prayer Book a Christian soul on the day of death may rest in peace on that very day and have as his dwelling place The Paradise of God. He may, with God's favour, increase in knowledge and love of God, and go from strength to strength, in the life of perfect service, in the heavenly kindom, and may in that heavenly kindom have continual growth in that love and service.

In the Communion Service we not only pray for the dead as an integral part of Christ's Church, but we also recognize that our ultimate act of praise is in union with angels and archangels and with all the company of heaven.

This Church holds to the scriptural doctrine of Paradise, rather than "the Romish Doctrine concerning Purgatory."

Q. — Is there a hell?

A. — What this question generally implies is "is hell everlasting?" Most of the New Testament references to hell and hell fire are references to the Valley of Hinnom, where filth was burnt and are descriptive of what moral filth deserves, rather than references to a future state. Hell with a small "h" or hades could be described, as the Prayer Book does, as the place of departed spirits. Hell in the negative, austere sense of the New Testament means the kingdom of sin, satan and death. This is the hell referred to in the question, and such a condition certainly exists. The fact that the language is symbolic must not for a moment let us forget the dread solemnity of the New Testament warnings on the subject. We are and shall be responsible for our actions before that Lord in Whom God revealed the flaming righteousness of His love. Whether this state is everlasting (admitting that we are talking about something outside of time) is a subject which the universal Church has never decided and which each man can only hold as a tentative theory drawn from his own total picture of the majesty of God's love being all in all.

Q. — Why does God allow pain?

A. — The question might just as well be asked, why does God allow pleasure? — we could scarcely know one without knowing the other. Pain and pleasure are not problems, they are facts. The only real problem is, why should the good suffer? There is no short or easy answer to this problem; possibly the only answer is that God so loved us that He let His only begotten son die in agony on the cross, and that it is because of and through this suffering that triumph and joy have come into the world. The Collect for the Monday before Easter makes this point clear: Almighty God, whose most dear Son went not up to joy but first he suffered pain, and entered not into glory before he was crucified; Mercifully grant that we, walking in the way of the cross, may find it none other than the way of life and peace.

Vale, Thelma Caruso

After three years of service with the Girls' Friendly Society, Diocese of New York, in the capacity of Field Consultant, Miss Thelma E. Caruso will leave the Close on January 12, 1956 to become Camp Coordinator for the Girl Scouts of Charlotte, North Carolina.

Until further announcement, the G.F.S. offices in Diocesan House will continue to serve the parishes of the Diocese through the office secretary, Mrs. George Diering, under the direction of Miss Jean Pflomm, Diocesan President.

Conference for Administrators and Teachers

A conference for administrators and teachers of the Church's elementary schools of the Diocese of New York and others who are interested in Christian Education is to be sponsored by the Division of Boarding and Day Schools of the Department of Christian Education. It will be held at Grace Church School on Friday and Saturday, January 20 and 21 from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock. The theme of the conference is "The Teacher Helps the Child Learn to Worship."

The leaders of the conference are the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, Director of the Department of Christian Education and Mrs. G. P. Sladen, former Director of Christian Education at St. John's Church, North Toronto, Canada, and now a member of the Executive Committee of the General Board of Religious Education of the Anglican Church in Canada.

St. Bede Lectures

| January 9 | English Translations of the Bible |
| January 16 | The Bible in the Liturgy |
| January 23 | The Bible in Private Devotion |

The lectures will be at 8:30 o'clock on the above dates in the Parish House of St. James' Church, 31 East 71st Street, New York, and there will be no admission charge.

Address all inquiries to the Library of St. Bede, 157 East 72nd Street, New York City 21.

Girls Friendly Stamps

Soon we will be seeing thousands of the 1956 G.F.S. Stamps going through the mail and being distributed by the parish G.F.S. branch members, alumnae and friends.

In connection with National G.F.S. Week, January 22-29, 1956, the members of the society in the Diocese of New York will launch their Second Annual Stamp Sale as an endeavor with a twofold purpose. One, to make the G.F.S. better known, far and wide, to as many people as possible. Two, to invite the support of all who care enough to be concerned about the continuance and extension of the official weekday program for the little girls of the church.

Sheets of stamps like the one illustrated, will be mailed to you upon request. Please send your order and contribution to the Girls' Friendly Society, 1047 Amsterdam Ave., New York 25, N. Y.

"Nothing Shall Stay These Couriers"

With the coming of the winter months one is constantly aware of the hazards to which our Mission clergy are exposed as they cover the areas to which they have been assigned. They are called upon to drive long distances over treacherous roads at all hours of the day and night. Their devotion to their work is such that we proudly proclaim that snow, ice, sleet — even floods — "cannot stay these couriers from their appointed rounds."

Every winter we hear of mishaps but we also hear many reports from grateful parishioners to the effect, "We don't know how he did it but he got through to us in time." Often their car precedes the snow plough. Twice within sixty days recently floods covered main highways to a depth of several feet but detours were found and appointments kept. One man, not so fortunate, was swept off the road and though he was saved his car was a total loss.

Tow cables carried by several of our clergy serve a dual purpose — they are used as frequently to pull others out of trouble as they are to get the Vicar back on the road after an unavoidable skid. It does little good to warn them they must not take risks. Though his physician had cautioned him that due to a heart condition he must not attempt to help others, one Vicar persisted — and died!

Driven by a Christ-inspired zeal our men in the field know no fear. Forgetful of their own safety and comfort they cheerfully face any physical obstacle in order that a service schedule be maintained, the sick visited, the dying prepared and the bereaved comforted. To minister to his two churches in the Catskills one priest must travel fifty-two miles every Sunday to keep his service schedule. Once in the past few years he has missed a service and only then because, while travelling in a freezing rain, he slid into a ditch and no car came by for over an hour.

It should be noted that our missionaries do not ask for praise. They do ask our prayers. Please remember them frequently.

atmosphere. Much devotion and many prayers have given it life. The altar vessels and vestments are stored in cabinets made in spare time by some of the men. One of the cabinets was made from a case of a broken-down organ. Its cabinet work, rich carving and coloring, is the work of three men. Please God, the respect they have for their craftsmanship may grow to include the whole of their lives. It seems to stand as a parable of the Chapel. A place where the ugly, the useless and broken-down can, by the craft of the Carpenter of Nazareth, be remade to use and beauty.

Mention of working at Sing Sing produces invariably two questions. Usually the first is: "Do you see any results?" The answer has to be the same as for any other ministry: "Yes-no, maybe."

Amongst other things, in the Parable of the Sower and the Seed, we are told that the sowing itself is imperative. The results lie with God, and in the soil-souls into which the seed is cast. What may look to those who minister as barren rock, weed grown, or hard packed by the traffic of worldliness; to God may be quite another. And what may seem to be fertile well-tilled acreage, may be in fact earth on hard-pan; soil which will grow to leaf and stalk quickly, but will never produce a crop.

At Sing Sing there are satisfactions, and results, but also disappointments. The canopy would serve to remind that the lifting up has to be by His grace, the drawing to Him. Nothing else really matters.

Often the other question comes as a statement. "You must find preaching there difficult." This statement always nettles a little. Perhaps, wrongly, the implication is; "More difficult than here", wherever that happens to be.

Men at Sing Sing are not really men apart from other men. And that in spite of locks and walls. The fact of sin and the brand, "sinner", is not more glaring inside than outside the gates. Actually it is easier to talk of sin and death and the possibility of damnation inside. The gospel of social well-being and a higher standard of living rings hollowly against bars and watch towers. Mrs. Got-what-she-has, or Mr. I. M. Alright, bristle clear out of the pew into the pulpit if you are not careful how you speak to them of such uncomfortable truths. But the men who come to St. Augustine's know too much about life. They are not easily shocked by facts about it. By and large, their greatest need, realized or not, is for love; and the forgiving love of God can be as cold water to thirst tormented bodies.

There is another very real advantage to our work at Sing Sing. Because we are "extra-official", we have no official existence or authority. Men who come for "something", soon don't bother. And since we are not inside during the work-week, the men who come to the chapel on Saturday have to pay a price. In summer there is base-ball and in winter, movies, both seasons arbitrary. So they have to choose between pleasure and duty, under circumstances where the choice between pleasure and duty, under circumstances where the choice can be felt. Perhaps the men do not think it out in those terms, but you can see the difference. And it is sure God does.

Until about a year ago Chaplaincy work at Sing Sing was un-official to the Diocese as well as to the State. At that time, the Bishop made it an official Chaplaincy in the Diocese. But because this was not generally known, recently the family of a prisoner wrote to one of the Parish clergy in Ossining asking for ministrations to their son. They had been told he would have to be cared for by the Protestant Chaplain. We make our own Chaplaincy work known now, so that it can have support of prayers, and also that the men who may have need of us can be informed that the Ministry and Sacraments of their Church are available to them.

Bishop Donegan Chairman of Overseas Dept.

At a meeting December 6-8, of the National Council of the Episcopal Church, Bishop Donegan was elected chairman of the Overseas Department of the Council.

At this meeting the Bishop announced that the Reverend Kenneth E. Heim, Missionary in Tokyo, would return to the United States every other year for a three-months period to teach a course on Missions at the Virginia Theological Seminary, and expressed, for the Department, the wish that other church seminaries would adopt such courses.

Adult Forums

HUNDREDS of lay leaders and clergy remember the Adult Forums during January of last year in which the Rev. Canon Edward N. West, Sacrist at the Cathedral provided some of the basic answers to the "Questions People are Asking", about the Church's teaching. The response to the Forums, and in the weeks immediately following, has led the Adult Division of the Diocesan Department of Christian Education to plan a further series of six Forums for Leaders of Adult Christians.

This year's theme will be "Man's Place in God's Plan" and hopes to speak a basic answer to the ethical questions people are asking. Canon West will again be the central figure, assisted in each conference by the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, Director of the Department and a member of the Adult Division. The conferences are scheduled as follows:

Jan. 14th, Saturday, at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, (in Cathedral House) for Manhattan Convocation.

Jan. 15th, Sunday, Christ Church, Staten Island, for Richmond Convocation.

Jan. 21st, Saturday, St. Margaret's Church, Bronx, for Bronx Convocation.

Jan. 22nd, Sunday, St. Paul's Church, Poughkeepsie, for Dutchess Convocation.

Jan. 28th, Saturday, St. Mark's Church, Mount Kisco, for Westchester Convocation.

Jan. 29th, Sunday, Christ Church, Suffern, for Ramapo Convocation.

Certain changes have been made from last year's plan. Only one conference will be held for Westchester instead of the two conducted last year. The program will begin earlier allowing time for the "long drive home". Last year each parish was asked to send only five lay delegates; this year registration from a parish is unlimited.

The schedule for each conference is as follows:

| 3:30 p.m. | Registration. |
| 4:00 p.m. | "Man's Place in God's Plan", Canon West. |
| 5:00 p.m. | Evensong. |
| 5:30 p.m. | Box Supper. |
| 6:15 p.m. | "God's Action Through Men", Mr. Wetmore. |
| 7:00 p.m. | Adjournment. |

The deep conviction which has seized the Church about the need for adult education is placing a heavy demand both on the clergy and on concerned lay leaders. Many are learning through the agony of experience that they have not the true resource of personal experience which enables them to actually accomplish the goals they set up for that part of the Church's work for which they have accepted responsibility. Yet there is no other answer than parish leadership deciding upon its objectives and doing the best job it can at achieving them. This venture by the Adult Division is undertaken with the hope of being able to assist local leadership see the true depth of the task and have increased resources for doing the job.

All those wishing to attend a Forum should register in advance with the Department at 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York.

Bishop Donegan Dedicates Ancient Icon

AT 3 o'clock in the afternoon on Saturday, December 10th, Bishop Donegan dedicated the ancient Icon given to The Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine by H.R.H. Ileana, Princess of Romania, in Memory Eternal of King Ferdinand and Queen Marie and all those who have served Romania by heroic lives or martyrs' deaths.

The service was held in the Chapel of Saint Saviour, and with the Bishop was the Dean and Chapter of The Cathedral Church.

Present also was Fr. Galdau of St. Dimitru's Romanian Orthodox Church, and a choir who sang a Memorial Service of the Orthodox Church for King Ferdinand and Queen Marie.

Princess Ileana presented the Icon; the Bishop accepted it and dedicated it for The Cathedral Church.

The Icon is a 15th Century Byzantine banner which was mounted as an Icon, probably in the 16th Century. The silver-gilt cover was added in three stages: (1) late 18th Century, (2) early 19th Century, and (3) middle 19th Century.

Hanging from the bottom of the Icon is a plaque upon which is mounted a small urn. On the plaque is inscribed these words:

IN ACEASTA URNA TARANA
ROMANEASCA PUTINA DAR LIBERA

THIS HOLY ICON IS GIVEN BY ILEANA, PRINCESS OF ROMANIA, IN MEMORY OF HER PARENTS, KING FERDINAND AND QUEEN MARIE AND OF ALL THOSE ROMANIANS WHO HAVE SERVED THEIR COUNTRY EITHER BY HEROIC LIVES OR BY MARTYRS' DEATHS. MEMORY ETERNAL!

IN THIS URN IS ROMANIAN EARTH — THOUGH BUT A LITTLE. IT IS FREE.

Young Adult Groups

THE December conference conducted by the Department of Christian Education's Adult Division, with Dr. Reuel Howe as speaker, has raised the whole question of parish plans for young adult members and has uncovered certain needs that presently organized groups have expressed. Following the conference the Adult Division has seen more clearly the direction in which it ought to move and has named the Rev. Arthur Benzinger, Rector of St. Andrew's Church, Walden, New York, as the person chiefly responsible for the development of such a program.

Work among "young adults" is tremendously important, and in many ways can be identified as some of the most optimistic and forward-looking work that a parish could undertake.

Firstly, in a society where such a high percentage of growing parishioners go off to private school and then away to college it means that a very important cross-section of the Church, for several very important years, has no normal experience of parish life. Church life in school and college must by the very nature of its locale be different. On the occasions through the year when people are home they do not see their home parish functioning normally. On the one hand, there are the special observances of Christmas and Easter—with swollen congregations and much of normal life temporarily suspended. On the other hand there are the summer holiday months in which people are either away from "home-base" anyway, or they see a Church life operating on one cylinder.

In such a situation there are a great many people settling into communities (urban, suburban and rural) and establishing home and vocation who find the parish as something they do not understand. They are special people, having a special need, and the best way their need can be met is through some plan which brings them together and helps them to function as an integral part of parish life.

Secondly, young adult work generally brings together both men and women, usually husband and wife, whereas most other work in the parish tends to divide the sexes. Moreover, in a plan where mother and father are both involved the next logical step is to include the children for special occasions, such as a summer picnic or a special Christmas service. In the Church's present thinking, anything which can help the parish work with the family as family, avoiding the "fragmentizing" that generally takes place, is to be highly commended.

Thirdly, young adults are at the early stages of establishing themselves as persons in significant leadership position. Up to now they have either existed "within the matrix of the family" (to use Bushnell's interesting phrase) or have been in the process of breaking out of that matrix into individuality. Now they are about to or have already established their own home and family, their own vocational patterns, their own place in the community. It is most important that such people catch a vision of the purpose and program of the Church and respond in these important

Christ Church, Warwick

CHRIST CHURCH in the village of Warwick celebrated its Centennial in 1954. Modes of travel change and have changed considerably in the relative short history of this parish. The services of the Episcopal Church were first held in Warwick under the ministry of the Rev. William H. Carter who was the priest in charge of St. Thomas' Church, Vernon, New Jersey. The Rev. Mr. Carter travelled by horse and buggy after the morning services at Vernon a distance of eight miles to the village of Warwick. He conducted the services in the Methodist House of Worship which the Episcopalians were able to hire for evening services. The average attendance at these evening services was about 80 in the winter months and 130 during the Summer. The larger attendance during the warmer months was due in part to the fact that the Warwick Valley area has been a very popular summer resort for many residents of New York City.

In 1864 the Rev. Nicholas F. Ludlum became Rector of the Church in Vernon and took charge of the services in Warwick. The services had been suspended for some time after the Rev. Mr. Carter left Warwick. During this time the members of the congregation met in private homes and in one of the local grocery stores. The new Rector did a marvelous piece of work in bringing the people together once again for regular services. The following is a quotation from a report that the Rev. Mr. Ludlum made to the Bishop of New York: "The parish being in a state of formation, and the congregation having the use of the edifice occupied by the Methodists, for the afternoon service only, no Sunday School has yet been organized, on account of the need for a suitable building; the Holy Communion has not been celebrated as morning services cannot be held. The communicants who desire to receive the Blessed Sacrament travel in their horse and buggy to Vernon, New Jersey, attending the morning service at St. Thomas' Church."

The Bishop's Message

My dear People:

LENT commences on Ash Wednesday, the fifteenth of February, and lasts for forty days. Would that we would make Lent what it ought to be — a time of spiritual fellowship with Christ, Who lived through these days a life of love and service. The Church directs us to use this season for the disciplining of our bodies and the strengthening and refreshing of our souls. The Book of Common Prayer states that on these forty days "the Church requires such a measure of abstinence as is more especially suited to extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion."

There are certain things which such observance of Lent obviously includes. It includes the definite practice of self-denial. This is vitally important when today there is much self-indulgence and self-complacency. God has given us the good things of life to enjoy in moderation, but the essence of Christianity is self-sacrifice; and it is in accordance with our Lord's teaching that from time to time we should deny ourselves certain things which we like, and which are legitimate, in order that we may think less of self and more of our duty to God, and our service to others.

Lent is a time for self-examination, self-searching penitence, confession and contrition. This is not morbid but essential, because we are all sinners. "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us; but if we confess our sins, God is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." Lent includes more earnestness in prayer and worship. We cannot grow in wisdom and love, nor have a vital Christian faith without true prayer and worship. We must spend more time and effort with our prayers. We must make our Communion more regularly and prepare for it more carefully.

Another discipline of Lent is more study of the Bible. And here I would like to recommend the Bishop of New York Lent Book for 1956, under the title "How to Read the Bible," written by my friend Dr. Frederick C. Grant, and published by Morehouse-Gorham. Dr. Grant, whose scholarly attainments are recognized throughout the Christian world, gives in simple language the fruits of his long study of the Bible. In addition to his vast learning, the catholicity of his spirit makes him a trusted guide in learning how to read the scriptures. It is essential that people should read the Bible itself. But it is equally important that they should know how to read it, so that their understanding is deepened and their faith developed in the process. Dr. Grant calls the Bible the book of the Church. No one can be an intelligent member of the Church without having an intelligent understanding of the Church's book.

The object of Lent is to bring us to a deeper knowledge of our Lord, that we may discover His purpose for our lives. May God bless our Lenten observance and lead us to a fuller understanding of the meaning of the Christian faith.

Within a year a suitable lot was purchased and $3,500 was raised for the new Episcopal Church edifice so that morning services could be held, the Holy Communion regularly celebrated and a Sunday School could be organized. One of the summer visitors from New York City, Herman D. Aldrich, became interested in the struggling parish and gave a total of $1,600 and a solid silver Chalice and Paten as a thank offering for the recovery from an illness. The cornerstone was laid in July and the new church was completed in December 1866. The opening services were held on the morning of the Fourth Sunday in Advent with the Rector preaching from the text, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

The next great event in the short history of this small parish was the Consecration of the new church in July 1867. By this time the means of transportation had changed for the better. The Iron Horse had reached the village of Warwick. The new railroad which is now called the Lehigh and Hudson River Valley RR meant a great deal to the church and the community. The local population grew and many of the officials and workers on the railroad have been good workers in the Parish and have served on the Vestry at Christ Church for the past ninety years. Bishop Potter officiated at the Consecration. The organist and choir of boys and girls from Grace Church, Middletown, provided the music. The group from Grace Church were able to attend this historic service with the new means of transportation. They used the Erie RR to Goshen and then the new Warwick Valley RR from Goshen to Warwick. From the Warwick Advertiser, a weekly newspaper, we read the following report of the Consecration — "The choir gave full musical services of a high order on this festive occasion. Bishop Potter preached a very impressive sermon from the text, 'This is none other than the House of God and the Gate of Heaven,' setting forth in glowing words the appropriate uses for which a church edifice is erected and set apart to the Glory of the Triune God."

In the 101 years of its history there have been 21 priests who have served the parish. The longest rectorate — over 21 years — was that of the Rev. William M. Pickslay, D.D. "From the beginning of his rectorship in 1898, Dr. Pickslay gave himself unstintingly to the service of others, not only in his own parish, but in the whole community. People from all walks of life, regardless of race, color or creed, came to him for help and guidance as to one particularly endowed with inspired Christian leadership, wisdom and tolerance in dealing with all the problems and errors of mankind, true compassion, more deeply felt for having known great sorrows in his own life, and charity in the fullest meaning of the word. And yet, in the richness of his character, he ever retained a joyousness that particularly endeared him to his people. In the minds of hundreds of men and women, Dr. Pickslay will forever be remembered as the personification of a true Christian gentleman, a man of God and a man of prayer. As his very name became to the people of Warwick a symbol of all that is good and kindly in manhood, so will many of his deeds become legends among our children."

In recent years the automobile has been the chief means of transportation in and around Warwick. No doubt many readers are familiar with the heavy traffic encountered betwen the George Washington Bridge and various cities and villages in the Ramapo Convocation. Our Bishops have encountered some difficulty at times with the heavy Sunday traffic but more especially with the ice, snow and fog over Sterling Forest Mountain and Mount Peter. It has become a common experience for them to follow the snow plow and sanding trucks as they arrived at the parish just in

THE CHURCH IN AN ATOMIC AGE

The Changeless Christ for a Changing World

FOR AN atomic age the Church has the same age-old message that it has had in all ages. But certainly those eternal truths should be set forth with a special emphasis in the light of the crisis of our times:

1. We should reaffirm the doctrine of Creation, namely that all that God has made is good, therefore we should help the world recognize that the release of atomic energy through man's ingenuity is a further exposition of the glory of creation and represents basically a good thing intended by God, as men more and more through science have extended their partnership with him as Creator.

2. We should reaffirm the doctrine of Original Sin, which warns us of the dangers of a concentration of power, dangers made much more mammoth due to the increasing proportions of horror and destruction which wrong decisions can bring about, and into which men are led by blindness to their own motives and self-centeredness masked as patriotism, righteousness.

3. Hence we should insist on as wide as possible disclosure and public discussion of our national aims and decisions, and encourage a religious and ethical approach to the development of public opinion.

4. We should insist on the unworthiness of the use of the atomic bomb or the threat of its use as a shortcut to firm, patient and fair diplomacy and positive and sacrificial co-operative steps to solve the problems which create tension and war.

5. We should affirm that beyond all of the havoc that man may wreak and the evil that he may do to his fellow men, God still reigns and is the Lord of history, and will support in this life and in the next those who are loyal to eternal principle rather than to immediate expediencies and short-range advantages.

6. Above all, we must display that we are made in the image of God: He is Creator; hence we must be positively creative in extending for the weal of men everywhere the benefits of the newly discovered atomic power. He is Redeemer; hence we must display a greater capacity to bind up the wounds of men and nations. He is Holy Spirit — Builder of Community; hence we must more and more find ways of interlacing our lives and causes in the human enterprise of bringing health and comfort, safety and fellowship to men everywhere.

time for the Episcopal Visitation and Confirmation Service.

Transportation has played its part in the growth of this Convocation and in Warwick. With the near completion of the New York State Thruway a rapid growth is noticed throughout this area of the Diocese. In a short time it will be possible to travel to Warwick on what is called the "Water Level Route." Still used are the familiar routes #4 and #17. These have changed quite a bit in the past few years. It was quite open country with gasoline stations and a few refreshment stands. Today there are hundreds of new buildings such as Highway Stores, Restaurants, Motels and at Mahwah is the new Ford plant — one of the largest in the world. For a pleasant Sunday afternoon ride a tour is suggested to what is commonly called the Queen Village of Orange County. Enter the Thruway and ride to the first exit at Harriman and pay the toll collector twenty cents. Then enter the new 17 and turn off at the exit marked Chester which is less than ten miles from Warwick. Traveling over the County road will be seen a sign marked Warwick Airport. Stop there a few moments and consider what this means of transportation means to the community.

A new member of the parish had a factory in the West side of Manhattan. One of his customers was located in Long Island City. He now has a factory located in this area and the travel time from Warwick is no longer than it was from the factory on the West side. Travel by air from the Warwick Airport to LaGuardia Field and a short taxi ride brings him to his customer. All of these extra miles traveled in the same or less time — weather permitting.

A few miles more and into view come the beautiful buildings of the New York State Training School for Boys where so much is being done for some of our troubled youth. A few minutes farther on is the village of Warwick. Here will be found Christ Church with the doors open to all members of the community and the many week-end visitors who enjoy the scenery and the atmosphere of the Warwick Valley.

With all these better means of transportation the churchmen of the Diocese should know that there is an active parish that has served in this part of the Ramapo Convocation for over one hundred years. The life of the parish centers around the Altar with most of the families worshipping together at the Family Service every Sunday. Many of the new parishioners moved here due to a pleasant journey on a Sunday afternoon, and they plan to stay. Maybe others will make this same journey and decide to make Warwick their permanent residence. If they do, they will always find a most cordial welcome awaiting them at Christ Church.

The Bells of St. Paul's

A CHIME of fifteen bells, cast in the foundry of Paccard at Annecy, France, was dedicated by Bishop Donegan at a service of Evening Prayer held in St. Paul's Church, Yonkers, Sunday, January 8th, 1956. Given by Mrs. Helen Andrus Benedict in memory of her daughter, Eleanore Bourne Benedict, the bells are perfectly tuned and voiced and are decorated with appropriate bas-reliefs and ornamentation.

The new Rector, the Rev. Clinton C. Veinotte, was in charge of the service and was assisted by the Rev. Henry S. Sizer, Jr., Rector of St. Andrew's, Yonkers. Archdeacon Brätt preached the sermon.

The congregation, which crowded the Church, remained after the service for a concert given by Professor Arthur Lynds Bigelow, Bell Master of Princeton University. Dr. Bigelow designed the bells and supervised their installation. A social hour in the Parish House followed.

In this book Dr. Grant presents that "foundation of sound knowledge" in a way that can be understood by any serious reader, clerical or lay, and that will open to him new vistas of understanding in both the Old and New Testaments. Dr. Grant offers this description of this book: "Many persons find the Bible hard reading. This is because they read it in driblets and without understanding its origins and setting. The present book tries to sum up the message of the Bible as a whole, in its broadest principles." $2.50

THREE GIVING RECORDS BROKEN IN YEAR 1955

THREE records were broken during 1955 in the giving of the people of the Diocese. For the first time since the system of quotas or goals was established the Diocese of New York met the full amount of a goal set by the National Council. This was accomplished in the Builders for Christ Campaign. While the campaign was disappointing in that it did not provide a $200,000 revolving fund for building new churches in the Diocese, the share of the Diocese in meeting the needs of the Church outside of its borders was fully paid in the sum of $393,548.

Gifts totaling $652,242 had been received by January 16th, 1956 for the regular missionary program of the Church at home and abroad. This is the largest amount ever given for this purpose although it still fell short of the Diocesan goal of $839,674 by $187,432.

In the first year in which the offerings of the people at services of Confirmation were designated for the Bishop's Fund for Diocesan Needs, results were outstanding. The fund received more than double the average amount given at these services in the past.

A list of the gifts for these causes, by congregation, is as follows:

Young Adult Groups

years to the leadership provided by a deep proclamation of the Gospel.

Fourthly, young adults as a group contain their leadership within themselves. Wherever the Church provides group leadership to parishioners in younger years it must bring that leadership in from outside the group. But now there is sufficient maturity within the group to make long range plans and to set in motion the steps that will achieve those plans. Clergy have found that with this group, if they desire, they can be a member rather than a specialist leader; some have even found in such a group the only place where they can "let their hair down" and be accepted as a person rather than have personal relationships suffer once again from the barriers raised by status.

Finally, this is the area which, organizationally, the Church has generally neglected. Parishes with an abundance of activity for children and youth, and elaborate programs for the broad range of adult life, can easily identify an in-between area where lives the man who knows himself too old to be interested in the program of the usual youth group, but is not yet ready for the more mature program of the men's club or vestry. Because of this vacuum many young adults have been caught up in the community service clubs and the Church has never been able to win back a whole response in later years.

The Diocesan Adult Division has a great deal of thinking and careful action ahead of it in this field. Many parishes are already active and are asking for help; many others are ready to move in response to directed urging. The Division thinks it knows a rough description of the kind of group these people will respond to and will allow the Church to carry out its plans. They are thinking of a group which is "a parish service fellowship having worship and educational content." Whether such a group should have a generally accepted name and structure is a question not yet answered. These and other questions must be dealt with during the next few months in the hope of having a direct influence on parish plans made during the late Spring and Summer.

SPECIAL SERVICE OF THANKSGIVING AT CHRIST CHURCH, PELHAM

AT CHRIST CHURCH, Pelham, a special Service of Thanksgiving marking the tenth anniversary of the Rev. Lawrence B. Larsen as Priest and Rector of Christ Church, Pelham, was held in the Church on January 15 at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. Immediately following the special Service a reception was held in the Parish Hall.

Bishop Donegan officiated and the Wardens and Vestrymen of Christ Church greeted parishioners and friends of the Parish in this tribute to Fr. Larsen—who is also Secretary and Registrar of the Diocese of New York.

ST. PETER'S SCHOOL, PEEKSKILL

ST. PETER'S SCHOOL, Peekskill, now in its eighteenth year, has acquired by purchase 38 acres of the Louis E. McFadden estate adjoining its present site for an expansion program scheduled to get under way immediately. This purchase will permit the school to have all of its facilities on one side of the roadway. Included in the transaction is the main McFadden homestead, a large barn, and a greenhouse.

The offices will be moved to the McFadden house and provision will be made for a Housemaster's apartment and accommodations for several boys. The drawing room and large hall will be used for formal dances and the dining

"Things I Always Thought I Knew"

Q. — What ought our attitude be toward other "saviours" who, it is claimed, were born of virgins?

A. — A humble and reverent approach towards the claim of virgin birth — it might be true; careful examination of the extent of the salvation promised. Is it of a sect, or a nation, or a race, and are the works of mercy manifest among those thus saved? A careful consideration of the answers to these questions will but strengthen the Christian in his conviction that our Lord Jesus Christ is the Saviour of the World.

Q. — Why can't all the churches get together?

A. — If one were sensitive theologically, the question could just as well be put "How can the churches get together as much as they do?" Christianity demands absolute integrity of the individual, and it would seem that the Holy Spirit has posed the question to which honest and believing men have given such seemingly diverse answers. We must not deceive ourselves, the assumed superior effectiveness of a unified body cannot, under God, be had at the expense of the sacrifice of convictions which are often manifestly of God's inspiration. It is a mistake to talk about the "re-union" of Christendom since such a statement presupposes that there was once a time when Christianity as such (quite apart from hierarchical concordat) was just one big happy family, and that all religious movements ever since are, of necessity, fragmentations of commonly recognized, commonly accepted truths.

Q. — What does the Episcopal Church teach concerning the Bible? Must one accept it literally?

A. — The clergy of this Church have all subscribed to a declaration that they believe the Holy Scripture of the Old and New Testament to be the Word of God and to contain all things necessary to salvation. According to the Articles of Religion, this Church receives the Canonical Books of the Old and New Testament to constitute the Scripture thus binding, and insists upon the fourteen books of the Apocrypha being included for "example of life and instruction of manners". The Church insists that all Christian men are subject to the Moral Law of the Old Testament, that the mighty acts of Christ are manifest in the Old Testament as well as the New, but that the laws as touching ceremonies and rites and civil precepts do not bind Christian men. Thus, for the people of our Church, the Scripture is regarded as the normative record of God's search for man and of man's response to that search. This Church depends upon Scripture so much that it has had for centuries a passion for textual accuracy and has, therefore, developed many of the world's greatest scholars in this field. The Scripture is the Word of God, but this must not be confused with the words of God.

Q. — Why does your Church have so many different seasons to observe?

A. — Because there are so many facets to the Christian religion that no human congregation can possibly respond to all of them at once. Christ is not only the Good Shepherd (Second Sunday after Easter) but he is also our Redeemer (Christmas Day) and the ultimate Judge both of the quick and the dead (the First Sunday in Advent.) Being human, we do better to meditate on these things one at a time, always remembering in the background that the other facts are there.

THE RT. REV. CHARLES F. BOYNTON, D.D., S.T.D. SUFFRAGAN BISHOP OF NEW YORK

THE SYMPHONY OF THE LIFE OF CHRIST

A LENTEN MEDITATION

ST. JOHN specifically refers to the miracle of the changing of water into wine at the marriage feast in Cana as "the beginning miracle".

Since this miracle, by itself, would have small historical interest and little permanent social value for the readers of the Gospel in the years to come, why did the Evangelist faithfully record it? Because he recognized it for what it was, the opening theme, as it were, of the greatest symphonic life-drama ever enacted in the history of the world. This beginning of miracles, as arresting as any descriptive musical introduction to the symphonies of Mozart, Beethoven, Brahms or Grieg, states that Christ can change the hopeless, colorless, tasteless and fruitless life of the non-Christian into the radiant, hopeful, colorful and fruitful life of the Christian — a contrast best dramatized by the changing of the still water in pots into the best sparkling wine ever tasted.

The rest of St. John's Gospel is an elaboration in detail of this opening theme and tremendous statement of fact.

It is much more than a coincidence that the Wine Theme should occur once again practically at the close of the symphony; this time far more sublime than before and on a higher and more triumphant key. For at the end the Evangelist records the method by which our Lord chose to change mankind from being like unto still water in earthen vessels to that of tangy red wine in sparkling crystal goblets. . . . For in the same night in which he was betrayed, Christ took bread. And when he had given thanks, he brake it, and gave it to his disciples saying, this is my Body. Likewise after supper, he took the cup, full of wine, and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them saying, drink ye all of this, for this is my Blood. He who eateth my Body and drinketh my Blood hath eternal life, and I will raise him up at the last day.

Such is the symphony of the life of Christ as recorded by the Evangelist St. John. The Word that was God and was made flesh and dwelt among us (Christmas) manifested forth his glory by giving life to everything and everyone just as he gave life to water by changing it into wine (Epiphany), and then that very wine which gladdeneth the heart of man he transformed into his own most precious Blood (Holy Week), so that he who drinketh it might have eternal life by being raised up at the last day through his glorious resurrection (Easter).

Report Of The Woman's Auxiliary To The Diocesan Council

by Mrs. Dorothy M. Simpson

JANUARY and February is Budget time and I would like to take this opportunity to report on the changes in the quota pledge of the Woman's Auxiliary. The Woman's Auxiliary of this Diocese has always raised a fairly large amount for the Program of the Church, which amount is credited on the Parish quotas. This plan, unique in the setup of the National Organization, was formed some years ago, when this Diocese was not as interested in Missions as they are today, and the Parish quotas were woefully deficient. The women, at that time working more closely with the Missions at home and abroad, knew of the importance of the support of this work and took upon themselves the responsibility of raising $50,000. annually. In some Parishes all the money raised for the quota came through the Woman's Auxiliary. Two years ago a change of procedure was made in one such Parish which for the first time raised this quota as a Parish responsibility. It does not mean that the Program of the Church gets less. In fact it gets more. But it cut by a considerable amount the Woman's Auxiliary receipts. In several other Parishes, the feeling is growing that this responsibility is that of the Parish. In view of this changing condition we voted to reduce the pledge to $45,000 in 1955 and raised $41,000. So this year we voted a pledge of $40,000 which we think is nearer the sum we can raise. Don't misunderstand me, I feel that the quota raising is now on a much firmer and more factual basis. Members of the Parish will no longer think that Missionary support rests with the women, and will all take their responsibility more deeply. Women will give just as much but it will be as members of the Parish, not as members of the Auxiliary.

One project which was started in April has now completed eight months of operation, and I would like to report briefly on it, namely: The Mission Craft Exhibition in the Exhibit Hall of the Cathedral. It has been successful in many ways. The Missions have received over $2,000. But above all that, we have been able to distribute information about them which could have been done in no other way. During this time we have had visitors from all 48 states, from Canada, Australia, Britain, South America, Haiti, Liberia, Hawaii and the Philippines. We started in a very modest way but the work will be increasingly productive. We do, however, need volunteers for the Exhibit Hall work who will give regular days, who will take the time to learn about the Mission crafts and be able to tell about them.

The Prayer Cards were published in November and have evidently filled a real need as the first printing of 7,000 has been distributed and the second printing is now almost exhausted. For your information they may be obtained from Mrs. Gurney Williams, Chappaqua, New York.

Here and There

The sum raised was $436,000. In the opinion of Dr. Phillips and the Vestry and committee directly responsible for this project, the most satisfying and gratifying feature of the campaign was the wide distribution of gifts among the members. The solidity among the membership behind the project was responsible for its success. To quote The Rye Chronicle, "Christ's Church is not big in the sense that it has a large membership, but it is big in unity and a willingness on the part of its members to make material sacrifice for the advancement of their church and the cause they so devoutly espouse. There are 630 parish families on the roster representing a membership of men, women and children totaling 1400, which is a relatively small group to give so much money to the church, yet it was done with a minimum of effort and fanfare."

ST. PETER'S, WESTCHESTER

View of New Pulpit, and Shrine (lower right)

THE Suffragan Bishop of New York visited St. Peter's, Westchester, to Confirm and to bless the new Lady Chapel and the Shrine of Our Lady of Walsingham. Included in the blessings were the new pulpit and Calvary.

The Lady Chapel is at the right of the main Altar, in the former organ chamber, which has been removed to the West gallery, and is the gift of the parish in general and many individuals.

The Shrine is a polychromed wooden figure, a copy of the image at the ancient Shrine in Walsingham, England, erected in 1601. It is the gift of the Benedictine Fathers of Three Rivers, Michigan.

The pulpit, a modern Gothic, painted and polychromed structure surmounted by a canopy, is the gift of Harry and Jessie Belmont, in memory of several generations of the family in the parish.

The Calvary is a memorial to Estelle Swann Royce, missionary and founder of the Children's Home in the Dioceses of Panama and Haiti.

Youth Work Has "Four Edges"

WORK among young people, like a great deal more of the Church's work, must be welded into an instrument that has 'four cutting edges' or part of the necessary job is neglected. These four blades, however, are so interdependent that they could never do their proper job as four separate instruments.

Christianity must always reach out to those who have never had a direct relationship to it and have never been faced with its challenge as well as to those who stand in open opposition. In every age this has been difficult, but particularly so now when there are so many distractions and so many unworthy gods claiming allegiance. In a culture where God is an option those who would present His claims must do so in an appeal that cannot be easily denied.

But Christianity must also appeal to many who in earlier years were associated with the Church, being brought as children to Sunday School but as parental discipline has vanished so has participation in the life of the Church. For many this adolescent estrangement is something that lasts the rest of their life; they need help on their return journey and all too often the Church fails to provide that help.

Among those who still count themselves within the Church there are some who are already poised for flight and many others are gazing longingly at what seems like a world of greater freedom. Life within the Church must be such as will hold close to it many who, left to their own devices, will inevitably leave, some never to return.

Finally, the Church has its nucleus who are completely caught up in its enterprise and have no present inclination to leave. Yet that enterprise must continue to be a relevant expression of the Gospel which both provides comfort and holds up a challange.

Here, then, are four categories of people living within the shadow of every Church. One has never heard the truth; one has been inoculated against ever hearing it easily; one is beginning to wonder whether it is really important or not; and one is caught up in the struggle of trying to live up to its demands. Yet the Church cannot properly proclaim the truth for which it stands by appealing to these categories as separate audiences, for the truth which is the Gospel only comes clear in the lives of those who believe it, and only is important to those who believe it as they can see the potential it has for those who do not know it.

Such an analysis underlines the general complexity of the church's mission, but it speaks more clearly to the Church's work among young people than to any other age group, for the young can move so readily from one of these categories to another and live in such deep need of the truth. Because these things are true the Church's work among teen-agers must be so planned and carried out as to bring an impact on its whole teen-age community – the young group must be a tool with four working edges.

A New Church Rises In Ardsley

AFTER more than two years of negotiation for a site, and developing building plans, the new St. Barnabas Church in Ardsley is now well along under construction. Unique in design, and located on the brow of the hill at the intersection of Heatherdell and Revolutionary Roads, it can be seen readily from the New York Thruway and the Saw Mill River Parkway. It will serve the people who, during the past three years, have moved into several large developments of single family houses just east of the Church site.

St. Barnabas is a mission of the Department of Missions of The Diocese. Missionary funds to the extent of approximately $65,000, and $25,000 raised by the mission, will finance the construction.

The architect is Mr. William H. Van Benschoten. The Church will seat 200 and beneath it will be a parish hall for Church School and other activities. The building is so arranged that a separate Church School building can be added later.

In the words of the Vicar, the Reverend Donald A. Gausby, the new Church "will open a completely new chapter in our village life. In it we can offer to God worship sincere, beautiful and devout; a sacrifice pleasing and acceptable to Him. Our Episcopal tradition, like our new church, contains a happy blend of the old with the new and this is, in fact, the reason why our building was so designed".

The Bishop's Message

"It is my persuasion which deepens with every year of experience that there will be no revival of vital religion, on any large scale or with any adequate results except through a deepening of the sense of sin, a return to the Christian view about the meaning of sin and its consequences." So spoke Bishop Gore in a sermon before the University of Oxford. The truth of the statement cannot be challenged. It is a tragic fact that the sense of sin is so weak in the best of us and scarcely existent in the vast majority.

We do not take sin seriously because we do not take Christianity seriously. When we do, sin is seen unmistakably for what it really is — the way of futility, failure and final loss. In His love for us God longs to see us following the way to full and rich achievement, the development of all that is highest and best, and ultimately to the attainment of complete fellowship with Himself. All these hopes of God for us are destroyed by sin.

The stark fact confronts us when we contemplate the Cross of Christ that human sin, our sin, has more than grave consequences to ourselves and does more than harm to our neighbors; it breaks our fellowship with God, the very source of life itself. In one sense we cannot know what our sin is until we face the cross and allow the light of its judgment to penetrate the darkness of our lives. Before the Cross of Christ we know that we are sinners in need of redemption.

But we learn more than that at Calvary, for the cross is God's love in action. It speaks of a divine love coming down into human history, wrestling with human sin that it may redeem us, and lift us to fellowship with God. The cross discloses God's purpose and God's love toward us.

As we watch by the cross this Holy Week may we learn both the meaning of sin; and the truth that "if we confess our sins God is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." Then we shall know in faith that God does not forsake us but in Christ bears the burden sin lays upon us, and breaks its grip upon us, and bears it away so that we may be set free to live that new life in Christ which He has won for us.

"God so loved the world," God so loves us, that He gave His only begotten Son to the death of the cross, to the end that we might not perish in our sins but have everlasting life. It is a daring philosophy but the assurance of its truth lies with those who will make the spirit of the cross their own and try to "rise on stepping stones of their dead selves to higher things."

Faithfully your Bishop,

Horace W. B. Donegan

Due to this complexity, and because of the wide differences between parishes in the Diocese of New York, the Division of Youth of our Department of Christian Education has, up to the present, avoided the suggestion that the same instrument (program) will do the delicate task that needs to be done in each Parish. The Youth Leader's Manual made available last autumn, therefore, spoke primarily in principles and left it to the Parishes to work out the details. The principles are these:

(a) Every Parish has a present, urgent responsibility for young people — even though they be few in number or spend most of the year away at school — even if the high school thinks it has a prior claim on all their time.

(b) How the Parish should carry out this responsibility is a decision that only the Parish can make but they should come to that decision out of consideration for (1) What the available leadership is willing and able to lead and (2) What the potential membership (all four categories) are willing and able to follow.

(c) No matter what kind of activity results from this two-fold consideration the Church has a commitment to bring into it a relevant proclamation of the Gospel.

It was to meet such a complicated problem that the Diocesan Division of Youth developed the "Because I Believe" instrument. Those desiring further information should write either the Department of Christian Education or the BULLETIN.

Evening Schools Of Worship For Men And Women

Two evening Schools of Worship for Men and Women will be held on Monday evenings, April 16th and April 23rd, at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine. The Schools are jointly sponsored by the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church and the Evening Branches of the Woman's Auxiliary.

The Theme of the Schools will be "The Faith Of The Church", and Dean Pike and Professor Pittenger (co-authors of a volume of that title) will be the lecturers.

Dessert and coffee at 7 o'clock will be followed by Evensong at 7:30. The lectures begin at 8 o'clock and a question period follows up to 9:45.

All who are concerned about a mature understanding of the content of their faith and its concrete meaning today, are cordially invited to participate. This is one of the few opportunities both to hear and to discuss questions concerning the vital core of our faith.

Christian Social Relations Takes Action On State Legislation

THE Department of Christian Social Relations of the Diocese, at its regular meeting on February 14th, took action on several measures now pending in the Legislature of the State of New York.

1. The Gordon Resolution A-55

The Department reaffirms its long-standing support of this measure establishing a Temporary State Commission to study the domestic relations laws of the State. The Clergy in their pastoral work are frequently brought in contact with cases of family conflict, and we are concerned that the present laws and judicial procedures are inadequate. Obviously, the task of revision requires study, and the creation of the Commission proposed in the Gordon Bill is a logical and necessary first step. We favor the Gordon Resolution.

2. Liquor Legislation

In this field, too, the Church has first-hand knowledge of the tragic results of a mis-use of alcohol, as it affects individuals and the family. We are especially concerned with the relation of alcohol to the problems of juvenile and youthful delinquency. We therefore oppose any measure tending to lessen the control of the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors, and favor any measure establishing wise and effective control.

Specifically, the Department opposes:

S-235 relieving the vendor of responsibility for the sale of liquor to a minor if he has presented written evidence of age "even though this evidence might prove fraudulent." This is an especially vicious piece of legislation, which would, in effect, repeal all restrictions on the sale of alcohol to minors.

A-317, changing a single word in Section 65 of the A.B.C. law, from the present reading, "Any minor, actually or apparently, under the age of eighteen" to read "actually and apparently . . ." This, too, would tend to nullify the present restriction on the sale to minors. It would be a sufficient defense for selling to a 16 year old that he "appears to be 18."

S-97 allowing the sale of liquor on credit.

The Department supports

A-154 prohibiting the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors. The present restriction, placed at 18, is found only in two states — New York and Louisiana. Every other state fixes the age at 21.

3. Gambling

Convinced of the harmful effects of gambling, both on the gambler and his family and on the integrity of law enforcement agencies, we re-affirm our opposition to any weakening, either by law or by Constitutional amendment, of the present prohibition. In addition, we are opposed, on Constitutional grounds, to any attempt to circumvent by law the clear provision of the Constitution of our State. Even if we favored the content of the proposed legislation, we would still object to a method that involves a flouting of the Constitution.

We, therefore, oppose A-336, providing for local option for "Bingo" when conducted by religious and charitable organizations.

In a letter dated February 23rd, the foregoing positions of the Department were sent to all the State Legislators whose districts lie within the Diocese of New York.

ST. MARY'S, TUXEDO

AT THE Christmas Services the Rector of St. Mary's Church announced the gift of $10,000 to St. Mary's by Mrs. Stanley G. Mortimer, of Tuxedo Park and New York, to provide for the installation of an elevator from the ground level in front of the Church to the main floor, and for endowment to care for it. The gift is a memorial for her late husband, Stanley Grafton Mortimer. Plans for the installation were approved by the Vestry, December 11, and work has already been begun. The new lift will be completed in March, when dedication of it will be made. The car will accommodate three persons comfortably and will open into the Church directly in front of St. Mark's Altar.

THE BISHOP AT TRINITY ON ASH WEDNESDAY

FOLLOWING the custom of long years The Bishop of New York preached the Ash Wednesday sermon at Trinity, Wall Street, at noontime. He preached also the noontime sermons on the following Thursday and Friday.

ST. MARY'S, YONKERS

ST. MARY'S, Sherwood Park, Yonkers, held a special service on Sunday, February 5th, at 11 o'clock, commemorating the sixtieth anniversary of the first service held in the church and the thirtieth anniversary of the appointment of the Reverend Van Rensselaer Gibson as Vicar, also the fortieth of his Ordination.

The anniversary sermon was delivered by the Vicar. Archdeacon Brätt took part in the service and made a short congratulatory address. An informal reception was held after the service, in honor of the Vicar. His term of office is believed to set a record for Vicars in the Diocesan missions. He retires next year.

The Dean's Column

ONE of the most rewarding experiences of our lives was the recent visit which Mrs. Pike and I made to Palestine. We visited Israel under the auspices of the America-Israel Society, a non-political organization interested in furthering cultural ties between our two nations, and we visited Jordan under the auspices of the Anglican Bishopric in Jerusalem. While the main object of our journey was to learn about the progress being made in educational, religious, economic and social institutions, it was impossible to ignore the obvious political — and international — problem of which these two nations are the center, but which presents a threat to the peace of the whole Middle East, and indeed of the world. Thus we were grateful that we were given the opportunity to talk to political and religious leaders on both sides of the border. We thought we had known something of the situation before we left, but it was soon evident to us how little we knew. By simply asking questions of those representing both sides of the case and by "getting the feel" of the situation in both countries, we emerged with a somewhat clearer picture and have come to share more "existentially" the anxiety which prevails throughout the region, as well as the well-grounded hopes which both peoples have for a better future.

A "river" of rubble separates the Israeli and Jordanian halves of the Holy City. We had the unusual experience of crossing from the one side to the other — unattended, in full view of machine-gun nests and devastated houses on both sides — and thus were emotionally conditioned to have the fullest possible appreciation of the experience of sharing in worship according to the Book of Common Prayer in St. George's Cathedral, where I preached on a Sunday morning. Here was something that transcended all boundaries, and it was very reassuring to feel we were singing and saying the same things being uttered in the Cathedral back home. The tensions in the area were highlighted, however, as in the Sacristy before the service we discovered that the appointed First Lesson was Genesis 17:8. This obviously would not have "gone over" very well in a service on the Arab side (though it has since occurred to me that Abraham's "seed" includes Ishmael, traditionally the founder of the Arabic peoples, as well as Isaac); anyway, it was fortunate that there was a second choice available: a relatively innocuous passage from Ecclesiasticus.

Our Cathedral is a beautiful one, and very refreshing after visiting the churches built over the "holy places". Apart from the atmosphere of commercialism, there is also the effect of the accumulation of religious art and ornamentation — good and bad — of all the centuries, things always being added and nothing ever being taken away, which somewhat hampered the devotion which should arise in one's heart at being in the places where the great events in Our Lord's life occurred. The iconoclasm by which we were gripped — revealing, to be sure, an Anglican bias — did make us wish that, in addition to the other technical assistance the United States is sending over, Canon West might be given three months over there to suggest ways of tidying things up.

An inspiring thought did come out of the presence, often in the same buildings, of Eastern Orthodox, Uniates, Roman Catholics, Armenians, and Copts, worshipping in the same place — sometimes at the same time: maybe Heaven will be like that, with, of course, the kind of worship going on at St. George's Cathedral also worked into the scheme.

As we crossed the Mandelbaum Gate (so called both by Jews and Arabs after a Jewish residence there, destroyed during the 1948 war), we noted that the guards on the Israeli side had in the guardhouse a file of current Arab magazines and newspapers. When I asked about them, they said that they trade papers with the Jordanian guards every morning. This little matter fascinated me, so, when we returned through the Gate, I asked them: "When you trade those papers, do you smile at each other?" The answer was, "Of course. Why, we have coffee together." It seems easy for nations to hate each other, but it is really very hard for individual men and women to hate each other, when they deal with each other face to face. In this latter fact lies a ray of hope for the situation there — and elsewhere in the world.

James A. Pike

A Spanish Episcopal League Has Been Formed

ON Monday evening, February 13th, a special conference was held at St. Peter's Church, Chelsea, to explore the setting-up of an avenue through which Christian Leadership Training could be provided to Spanish-speaking people who are carrying responsibility in their parishes. This conference was planned by a committee under the chairmanship of the Suffragan Bishop and was presided over by him, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Donald F. Gowe, of the Church of St. Edward the Martyr, recently arrived from Puerto Rico (and Bishop Donegan's Consultant on Puerto Rican work); and the Rev. E. Reus-Garcia, for twenty five years a priest in our Church in Puerto Rico and now doing Spanish work in Brooklyn.

The matters discussed at the conference explored the response to, and desired nature of, a Spanish Episcopal League; and paid special attention to any willingness in the group that the program of such a league should serve as an educational and leadership program.

The Spanish Episcopal League provides, over and above the training that might be accomplished through the League, an experience of community that will enable Spanish-speaking churchmen to identify themselves in this community and find a greater security in their own parish; and two, develop both a program of training for those who would respond, and a general program of fellowship and education for the overall membership of the group.

The conference began with supper at seven o'clock, with assembly beginning at eight-thirty; opened with prayer by Bishop Boynton, and followed by singing. At eight forty-five the Rev. Dr. Gowe talked on a "Spanish-Speaking League for the Diocese of New York". At nine-fifteen there was a general discussion under Dr. Gowe; and the conference was concluded by a hymn and Bishop Boynton's blessing at ten-thirty.

Parishes in the Convocations of Richmond, Manhattan, Bronx, and lower Westchester were represented at the conference.

Christian Social Relations And The Crisis In The South

THE Department of Christian Social Relations of the Episcopal Diocese of New York at its December meeting adopted a resolution deploring the present reign of terror in the State of Mississippi, and calling upon the Federal Government to act promptly and effectively for the protection of life and the re-establishment of law and order in that state.

The Department released the following statement dated December 22, 1955, in explanation of its stand:

The State of Mississippi today is gripped by a reign of terror. On May 7 the Rev. George W. Lee was killed in Belzoni, Mississippi. No arrests were made. On August 13 Lamar Smith was killed in broad daylight in front of the court house at Brookhaven, Mississippi. The Grand Jury failed to return an indictment. On August 28 Emmett Till, a fourteen year old boy, was kidnapped at Money, Mississippi. His body was found three days later in the Tallahatchie River. The two men who took the lad at gun-point from his uncle's home were acquitted of murder, and were not even indicted for kidnapping. On November 25 Gus Courts was shot in Belzoni, Mississippi, and on December 3 Clinton Melton was killed at Glendora, Mississippi.

To permit such crimes to continue unpunished in the State of Mississippi is to invite lawlessness throughout the South, and indeed throughout the entire country. It is to create needless, senseless and dangerous tension between our white and Negro citizens.

Especially reprehensible is the part played by officers of government in inciting lawlessness. Senator Eastland of Mississippi has been quoted as saying, "On May 17 (the day of the desegregation decision of the United States Supreme Court) the Constitution of the United States was destroyed. — You are not required to obey any court which passes out such a ruling. In fact, you are obliged to defy it." This is subversion just as real, and, because it comes from a United States Senator, far more dangerous than any perpetrated by the Communist Party. It is a challenge not only to the Supreme Court, but to the Federal Government, and to the authority of the 4th, 5th, 6th, 8th and 14th Amendments to the Constitution of the United States, which provide safeguards for all our citizens.

This blatant defiance of government and the reign of terror which stems from it are no longer problems of the State of Mississippi alone. They are problems of all law-abiding people both North and South. They are problems which concern our churches, our schools, our labor unions, our industrialists. They concern all whose security depends upon the just, impartial administration of the law. They concern every American who cherishes the ideals of freedom and fair play set forth in the Declaration of Independence.

There is every reason for believing that this reign of terror does not represent the true attitude of the law-abiding citizens of the State of Mississippi. A service club in Mississippi unanimously passed a resolution calling for justice after the Melton murder. Editorial comments in at least two newspapers in the State speak with shame of the whole tragic business.

The decent people of Mississippi have a right to expect help in this crisis from all their fellow-citizens. Above all, they have a right to expect help from the Federal Government, whose Supreme Court has been defied and whose Constitution has been nullified. Yet, to date no person in authority has spoken out boldly against this reign of terror. The Governor of Illinois, of whose state Till was a citizen, appealed to the Attorney General for action. The Attorney General refused to intervene, without so much as an expression of regret, let alone of indignation and concern. The reason he gave for inaction, that no violation of Federal Statutes was involved, was singularly unconvincing. A conspiracy by private persons or state officials or senatorial or other governmental representatives of a state which has as its objective the nullification of the Supreme Court decision or other provisions in our Constitution for the protection of our citizens, are clear violations of the Federal Law. The Federal Government has the power and the responsibility to investigate such conspiracies and to prevent the conspirators from obtaining their objectives.

No positive action has been taken or proposed to meet a situation that is as explosive as dynamite. Will the conscience of the leaders of America — of the government, of industry, of labor, of the churches — permit them to remain silent until the dynamite explodes? Mr. Walter Reuther, in his address at the

by the Rev. Canon E. N. West

Q. — Why does the Episcopal Church require Confirmation?

A. — Because Confirmation is Ordination to the Lay Ministry of the Church. All confirmed laymen have a share in the royal priesthood which attaches to the whole Church. The layman receiving confirmation makes promises and vows, just as does any candidate for ordination to the higher Ministries of the Church. This actually means renewing promises and vows already made for him at his baptism. The actual confirmation is the bestowal of the strengthening gifts of the Holy Spirit. The word "confirmation" actually means "to add firmness, or to increase in stability."

Q. — Why must confirmation be done by a Bishop?

A. — Because the Bishop is the Apostle (one sent forth) of the Apostolic body (the group sent forth by Christ) and as the one called to this office by both God and man he is commissioned to continue the practice of the first Apostles in the Laying on of Hands. Apostolic succession does not necessarily imply a form of government; it is concerned, rather, with the Apostolic witness and the steadfast continuity in the Apostles' teaching and fellowship. The Bishop is first and foremost a spiritual officer with concern for guarding the faith, guarding the flock and ordaining, sending, or laying-on-hands for the extension of Christ's Kingdom.

Q. — Does God minister through religious bodies which do not have all of the marks we regard as essential — Scriptures, Creeds, Sacraments and Apostolic Orders?

A. — Most obviously, God can and does. St. Mark records that one man was casting out devils in the Lord's name and yet had no part of the Apostolic fellowship. The Lord forbade the Apostles to interfere with him since "he that is not against us is on our part." The Apostolic Church is the "pledge to assure us:" it is the Church within the fullest meaning of the act, and while "we may not bind others with the rules wherewith God hath bound us" we may not act as though these rules did not exist for us. Our task is to be the Church within the fullest meaning of that word.

Q. — Why complicate the beautiful and simple ethical teachings of Jesus with all this dogma about bloody sacrifice, and sacraments, and ceremonies?

A. — In the first place there are no dogmas about ceremonies. Ceremonies exist for the "procuring of reverence, and the exciting of piety and devotion in the worship of God." The Forms of Public Worship may require occasional alterations and amendments; the dogmas of the Church do not change. As to the question itself, in New Testament terms one might as well ask why we should complicate the beautiful and simple teachings of Jesus about himself as the sacrifice which, if lifted up, will draw men until him and the requirement that we commemorate his Passion and death endlessly in his Body and Blood with the impossible ethical requirements of Jesus. Actually it is his sacrifice and the sacraments alone which make it possible to fulfill any of his ethical teachings. We are not able to do these things of ourselves, nor to walk in the Commandments of God, and to serve him, without his special grace. "He came to be the Lamb without spot, who, by sacrifice of himself once made, should take away the sins of the world; and sin was not in him." "We have no power to do good works pleasant and acceptable to God, without the grace of God by Christ preventing us, that we may have a good will and working with us, when we have that good will."

For many years, Episcopalians have contributed on each Good Friday to a special offering for the work of the Church in the Near East. This year, the Good Friday Offering will again be used for this work.

A part of it will be used to strengthen the Eastern Orthodox Church; a portion will be used for the work of the Anglican Diocese of Iran and the Anglican Diocese of Jerusalem and for the support of an American priest in Beirut, Lebanon; another portion will be used for relief work among Arab refugees.

A small percentage of the Offering does not go directly to the Orthodox Churches in the Holy Land, but is sent annually to St. Sergius, the Russian theological institute in Paris.

"Crisis in the South"

National Religion and Labor Luncheon on December 13, pointed out the world-wide implications of this situation. The United States cannot effectively exercise leadership among the nations of the free world, and cannot consistently criticize the brutality of totalitarian regimes as long as the terror in Mississippi is unchecked.

UNDER DATE OF FEBRUARY 18th, THE FOLLOWING LETTER WAS RECEIVED

AN OPEN LETTER

Director, Department of Christian Social Relations
Diocese of New York, Synod House
Amsterdam Avenue and 110th Street
New York 25, N. Y.

Brethren:

We in the South who are struggling with the problem of racial relation tensions have read with great interest your courageous stand on the matter of the "Till Case" and other unfortunate by-products of the racial tension existing in Mississippi.

We rejoice that in one state, at least, (or is it in the Diocese) no murders are committed (or is it just that innocent people are assured that they will not be murdered). We rejoice that in one state, or diocese, absolute and impartial justice is administered in all of the courts of law. We rejoice that you have found a happy solution to all of your racial and social problems. We rejoice that now we can visit New York with our wives and children and walk in the evening in Central Park or in the neighborhood of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and know that we will not be held up, mugged, or otherwise molested.

We know these things because we are servants of the same Lord and get our guidance from the same book. In the Gospel According to St. John, our Lord is quoted, in the instance of the woman taken in adultery, as saying, "He who is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." (8:7) Or if that is not sufficiently supported by the early manuscripts, both St. Matthew and St. Luke quote our Lord as saying, "Why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thy own eye?"

Now that you have so adjusted the social order in New York that it approximates the Kingdom of God and have time to help solve the problems of the rest of the country we should be deeply grateful if you would tell us your methods, plans, and procedures that we might share them with our peoples that we too can get our own affairs in order that we have time to help solve the problems in the rest of the country and of the world.

Thanking you for any help that you can give us, I am,

Faithfully yours,
(signed) Henry I. Louttit
Bishop of South Florida

TO WHICH DR. HENRY MADE THIS REPLY

March 6, 1956

The Rt. Rev. Henry I. Louttit, D.D.
324 North Interlachen Avenue
P.O. Box 597, Winter Park, Florida

AN OPEN LETTER

Dear Bishop Louttit:

Your letter of February 18, 1956, seems to assume (1) that no one who is not perfect has a right to speak to any social and moral problem; and (2) that no resident of New York has the slightest realization of the problems of race relations.

As to the first assumption, it certainly is true that we are very far from having solved the problem of race relations in New York. I might add that no responsible Christian theologian expects to see any problem of human conduct perfectly solved in this world. Utopianism is not Christianity. The Christian Doctrine of Man and the Christian Doctrine of Original Sin ought to keep any instructed Christian from equating the two.

But does this mean that admittedly sinful men may never comment on social issues or seek to improve the conditions under which men seek to live in Christian brotherhood? I think not, for this would rule out the whole prophetic tradition. Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Jeremiah and St. Paul were sinful men. Yet again and again they spoke fearlessly and unequivocally when they saw blatant evil. The history of the painfully slow progress the world has made toward decency and humanity is the history of sinful men grappling relentlessly with evil. The pietist is as far from the center of the Judeo-Christian tradition as the Utopian.

As to the second assumption, – that we in New York live in blissful ignorance of the problems – may I call your attention to the fact that there are 918,000 Negroes in the State of New York and 603,000 in the State of Florida? (World Almanac 1956) There are 800,000 Negroes in New York City alone, more than three times the total population, black and white, of Miami. In addition there are 485,000 Puerto Ricans, where the language difficulty and cultural background create an even more difficult problem.

The last paragraph of your letter says, "We should be deeply grateful if you would tell us your methods, plans, and procedures that we might share them with our people that we too can get our own affairs in order". This I am glad to do.

1. Emplyoyment

The Fair Employment Practices Act forbids discrimination in employment on the basis of religion, race, color or national origin. The law is administered by a State Commission Against Discrimination. The Commission's work is largely educational and conciliatory, though in a few cases it has gone to court and compelled compliance. On the whole, there has been increasing public acceptance of the law. It is no longer an issue.

2. Education

The Fair Education Practices Act forbids even a private school or college to discriminate in admissions on the basis of religion, race, color or national origin. This act was opposed by many schools and colleges, but there has been no overt defiance of the law once it was passed. In practice it seems to be working with a minimum of friction, much to the surprise of many who opposed it.

There is, of course, no discrimination in the public schools from kindergarten through the university. It is true that, due to residential concentration, there are some schools with a disproportionately high number of particular racial groups. This has been brought to the attention of the Mayor and the Board of Education, and plans are being made to redistrict the schools so as to provide for a more even distribution of all ethnic groups.

3. Housing

The laws of the State of New York and the ordinances of New York City now forbid discrimination on the basis of religion, race, color or national origin in any housing development aided by public funds. This is generally accepted and is not an issue.

4. Restaurants and Hotels

The law prohibits discrimination or segregation.

5. Transportation

The law prohibits discrimination or segregation.

6. Recreational Facilities

Public parks, playgrounds, theatres, ballgrounds, museums, and concert halls are open to all. The law prohibits discrimination or segregation.

7. Civil Rights

All are permitted and encouraged to vote in all primary and final elections and are eligible to serve, and do serve, on juries. The President of the Borough of Manhattan is a Negro, and there are Negro judges in the Court of Domestic Relations, the Municipal Court, the Magistrates Court, the City Court, the Court of Special Sessions and the Supreme Court.

8. The Church

Our churches are open to people of all races. We have some 15,000 Negro Communicants in the Diocese. Negroes serve on the Standing Committee, the Board of Trustees of the Cathedral, the Council of the Diocese, the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary, and share in the total life of the Church.

The legislation forbidding racial discrimination or segregation all took place within the last ten years. The issue has never been a matter of partisan contention. Most of the bills went through the State Legislature or the City Council by a wellnigh unanimous, bi-partisan vote. The laws were strongly opposed at the time by many fine Christian people, who thought that they simply would not work. But they have worked. Today they are supported by every segment of the community, by business, labor, and religious groups. The situation is far from perfect. There are still undeniable instances of tension and injustice. To deal with them the City Council has recently created a Commission on Intergroup Relations to cope with the social and emotional factors that lie beyond legal control. The Commission has an adequate budget, and we hope will make a real contribution at this deeper level of personal and group relations. We honestly believe that we are moving slowly but steadily in the right direction.

May I assure you that no comment we have made on the situation in the South has been meant to imply that we are perfect, or that there are not many men of goodwill in the South, who are working valiently for a more Christian social order. We pray that God will grant wisdom, patience and courage both to you and to us.

Faithfully yours,
(signed) Leland B. Henry

CHAPEL OF THE INCARNATION

ON February 12th, at 8 P.M., Bishop Donegan Confirmed a group of young people and adults in the Chapel of The Incarnation. Included in the group were Confirmands from the Church of the Incarnation. After the Service an informal coffee hour was held in the Chapel's Parish Hall.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY CORPORATE COMMUNIONS FOR MEN

THE Annual Corporate Communion of the Men and Boys of the Convocation of Ramapo was held at Grace Church, Nyack, at 9 A.M. Mr. Arthur Atha, an active layman of Manhattan, was the speaker at the breakfast.

THE men and boys of Christ Church, Pelham Manor, were hosts to the men and boys of the Church of The Redeemer, Pelham, for the Annual Corporate Communion and Breakfast. The Reverend George M. Davis, Jr., LL.D. of New Rochelle was the breakfast speaker.

MEN and boys of the following Yonkers parishes participated in the Corporate Communion at St. John's Church, Getty Square:

Chapel of The Redeemer, Christ Church, Grace Church Hastings, St. Andrews Church, St. Augustine's Chapel, St. John's Church, St. Mark's Church, St. Mary's Church, St. Paul's Church.

Archdeacon Brätt was the Celebrant, and afterward made the address at the breakfast which was served in St. John's Parish Hall.

"Rest eternal grant unto them, O Lord and let light perpetual shine upon them."

F. H. Merrill who was long associated with the Committee on the Program of the Episcopal Church, Diocese of New York for over 27 years, died recently at 84 after a long illness.

After serving as Secretary of Program many years Mr. Merrill resigned in 1942, and moved to Baltimore from New York City in 1949.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rt. Rev. Harry Lee Doll, Suffragan Bishop of Maryland and the Rev. George B. Scriven, Rector of The Church of The Nativity, Baltimore.

The Archdeacon

The Venerable George F. Brätt

ON a recent Sunday evening churchmen in Pleasant Valley in the Convocation of Dutchess gathered together to watch the formal induction of their new Vicar, the Rev. Ernest J. Alt. Acting for the Bishop, the Rev. Robert E. Terwilliger, Dean of the Convocation, officiated and preached the sermon. The Archdeacon brought the Bishop's greeting and gave the blessing to the newly inducted priest. Following the service a reception was held in the undercroft of the Church at which the Vicar and Mrs. Alt met informally the members of the congregation.

St. Paul's Church for over 100 years has served Pleasant Valley and the surrounding countryside. Its membership was made up largely of farmers and dairymen and there was little change over the years either in the population of the village or the communicant strength of the congregation. But with the coming of new industry to nearby Poughkeepsie, increasing numbers of people have settled there.

At present the Church School attendance taxes the capacity of the small Church and Undercroft. The Vestry is well aware of the necessity for larger quarters; they have watched children go elsewhere recently because of the over-crowded conditions. One of the most important tasks of the new Vicar will be that of providing direction and leadership to a program of expansion which will necessarily result in the addition of much needed space.

St. Paul's, as a Parish, spreads its influence over an area of about 100 square miles — North to Clinton Corners, West to Rochdale on the Dutchess Turnpike, East to Washington Hollow and South to Freedom Plains. From these quaint names one might be led to believe that Pleasant Valley still remains rural. To be sure there remain many large holdings given to cultivation and grazing, but the problems and opportunities of St. Paul's today are akin to those of any growing suburban area.

Mr. Alt is well qualified for his tasks. He comes to us from the Diocese of Colorado where he served as a missionary under Bishop Minnis who was formerly Vicar of the Chapel of the Intercession in Manhattan. With the new Vicar we look forward to a very active ministry blessed by the Lord we serve.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

The Deaconess On The Park Bench

Child: "What are you?"
Deaconess: "I'm a deaconess."
Child: "What's a deaconess?"
Deaconess: "A woman who has been set apart for her work in the Church."
Child: "Do your feet hurt?"

And so on, ad infinitum, came the child's questions. The Deaconess on the park bench with him smiled inwardly at the variety of queries he presented, and, at the same time, admired the fine mind the boy possessed. This was the first time the woman and child had met; a good friendship already was in the making; and the boy himself asked to come see the deaconess at the church.

The park bench on which the two had met was in the middle of a new housing project, in and out of which young families were moving daily. To do a survey to learn their religious affiliation would be foolish; what was a pattern today would be a novelty tomorrow. The best way to meet families, the deaconess decided, was through the parks and playgrounds. There, in an easy informality, she talked to mothers and children, and told them about the Church. The family of many soon became centered in the parish.

The boy quoted above has been asking questions ever since he came into the Church, some of them profound, some of them amusing, but all demanding an honest, serious answer. The one the deaconess found particularly difficult was "How do you get to be a deaconess?"

Canon 51 of the Episcopal Church's Constitution and Canons suggests an answer, but it is not in the words for a seven-year-old. The Canon reads, in part: "A woman of devout character and proved fitness, unmarried or widowed, may be appointed Deaconess by any Bishop of this Church, subject to the provisions of the Canon."

Woman's Auxiliary Spearheads Every-Member-Canvass In A Parish

HISTORY was made recently in this Diocese when members of the Woman's Auxiliary of Grace Church, Millbrook, visited every family in the Parish during the week before the Every-Member Canvass, to explain the need for supporting the work of the whole church. This is the first time that the Woman's Auxiliary of The Diocese has been privileged to perform this function in a parish.

At the time of his recent Canvass, the Rev. Raymond Cunningham, Jr., Rector of Grace Church, Millbrook, decided to ask the two branches of the Woman's Auxiliary for help in his Every-Member-Canvass. He felt that these parishioners were concerned with the program of the whole Church and would be convincing witnesses to the need to support it.

In a meeting of both the afternoon and evening branches the plan which he outlined was enthusiastically received, and volunteers were immediately forthcoming. Five of the twenty women workers had just completed the Woman's Auxiliary Leaders' Course in Dutchess, which was a great help since the emphasis in this course was on the Program Of The Church.

The Rector had one session of instruction for the group in which directness and simplicity were stressed. The women workers were not to secure pledges, but merely to give information. At each home a pamphlet, "Gifts To God Go Farther" was to be left, and on the back of the pamphlet was printed some of the most frequently asked questions with their answers.

On the Sunday following this session of instruction the Rev. J. Jack Sharkey, Rector of Zion Church, Wappingers Falls, who is renowned for his ability to arouse interest in missionary giving, was invited to exchange pulpits with Mr. Cunningham. His inspiring sermon prepared the way for the women's calls, and his brief service of consecration for the litttle group afterward gave them added confidence.

During the week which followed every home was visited and all the women felt they had been received with politeness, and in many cases with interest. But it was not until the report of regular Every-Member-Canvass appeared in the parish bulletin that the astonishing results of the women's effort were known. Where $400 had been the largest amount the parish had ever pledged for the "Red Side" heretofore, the then incomplete report showed that $1,980.60 had been pledged for 1956! And the pledge for the "Black Side", rather than diminishing as a result of a shift of emphasis, is, on the contrary, larger than ever before!

THE BISHOP'S PASTORAL LETTER

"Grace be unto you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ."

Dear Brethren of the Clergy:

The faith of Christians, as this Church hath received the same, is that "God hath made all nations of one blood to dwell on the face of the earth," and that all are one in Christ. This doctrine has been affirmed by our own Church through its General Conventions, and by the entire Anglican Communion. Indeed the statements of our Church are so strong on this subject that they may with justice be regarded among the tenets of Anglicanism — beliefs which must be accepted if one is to be regarded as a Christian in this Church.

There is in our time much discussion of the so-called problem of relationship between the races which dwell in our land; a discussion which gives endless comfort to the enemies of our democracy.

It is not the problem of a particular race; it is a problem in which all of us are involved, and particularly those who claim to be members of the Body of Christ ministering to this world.

Far too often, it is the non-Christian forces which seem to be in the fore in pleading on behalf of causes which are really the concern of Christians. Actually, it is the Christian Church which has, by its preaching and teaching, inspired all efforts in this area of race relationships. The first Assistant Minister appointed to New York was called for the very purpose of ministering to the religious needs of fellow human beings brought here in the bonds of slavery. My predecessors have spoken and acted upon the whole matter of the equality of all men in the sight of God e.g., Bishop Hobart, Bishop Potter, Bishop Greer, and, in our own day, Bishop Manning and Bishop Gilbert.

It has been implied that such problems are regional, and in many instances we have accepted this implication only too gladly. It is, however, our own problem since it concerns not only our nation, but also the whole world. The sincerity of our nation's statement on the Rights of Man must of necessity be subject to suspicion when our actions belie our words. Our influence for good and our leadership in world affairs suffers to the exact degree to which we fail to practice what we preach.

It is obvious to all that we in this section of our country have been able to do much in the improvement of living conditions, working conditions, and education for many of our brethren who have been denied the rights and privileges which all of us believe to be the inheritance of every child of God. But let us who think we stand "beware lest we fall." We have done those things which are required of us by God and humanity, but has it not been more by legal action rather than by the application and practice of our faith?

On the highest levels of the life of the National Church and of any diocese, no problem exists. But in certain instances, of which we are only too conscious, life on the parochial level has fallen far short of the rules wherewith Christ hath bound us all.

There is but one problem, and that is this: do our parishes maintain a degree of mutual acceptance of human beings as persons, people for whom Christ died, absolutely irrespective of race, class, or ethnic background? No matter what the reply may be, there is only one answer acceptable to God and that is a general and humble acknowledgment of our failure in our bearing personal witness to the love of Christ — that same Christ who charged us that we should love one another as He loved us.

It is evident that all of this is as deeply your concern as it is mine. I ask, therefore, that during the week before Easter, when we stand before the Cross and behold the Passion of the Saviour of the world, that we acknowledge before God our own sins of segregation in our own community, and pray daily that God will reveal to us more clearly "the Biblical truth that all men are made in the image of God, and are of eternal worth in His eyes, and that in Christ all men are one."

Praying God's blessing upon you and your people, I am

Faithfully your Bishop,

Horace W. B. Donegan

Diocesan Convention, May 8

The Reverend Lawrence B. Larsen, Secretary of the Diocesan Convention, discusses plans for the 175th Convention with his secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Brown.

THE 175th CONVENTION of the DIOCESE OF NEW YORK will be held on Tuesday, May 8, 1956, in the Synod Hall, Cathedral Close, 110th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, New York City.

Following a celebration of the Holy Communion in the Cathedral at 8:15 a.m., and breakfast in the Undercroft of the Synod House, the business sessions of the Convention will open at 10:00 a.m.

The Convention is the legislative body of the Diocese consisting of all canonically qualified clergymen together with three lay delegates from each parish in union with the Convention, and one lay delegate from each aided parish and organized mission.

All communications should be addressed to the Secretary at Diocesan House, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York 25, N. Y.

From The Diary Of A Deaconess

FROM the diary of Evelyn Ashcroft, Deaconess, Tadian, Kayan, Mountain Province, The Philippines:

"Jan. Experienced joy and difficulty traveling to distant villages across the Abit River. On Epiphany took part in the first Christian service in Longa.

"Feb. Started first girls' Bible class at Mission of St. Michael and All Angels.

"March. Still longing for a jeep. Walked to Sagada and back.

"April. First vacation church school in Tadian well attended.

"May. Thankful for parcels of sewing materials, clothing, books, candy, toys, medicines from America. Will carefully distribute same to the many needy here.

"June. Beginning of term in government school. Many children must mind babies while parents work in fields. So I must work in the school, and also reach those who can't come.

"July. Joy! First Igorot woman catechist in Pandayan began resident work.

"August. With all the sickness and illness, we are grateful for our mission hospital in Sagada. Have been taking patients there every day, comforting them, and praying with them, along the way.

"September. Igorot catechist ordained. Igorots and members of mission attended the ordination.

"October. Beginning work on a parish house and dispensary.

"November. So gratifying to see gains in native leadership. Filipino clergy work hard and long, reaching out to their own people.

"December. Our Christmas was blessed. We take joy in the outreach we have made, and in the knowledge that with God's help we are furthering his Kingdom."

These words are from the diary of a deaconess whose job-history reads like a travel folder: Hong Kong, Japan, The Philippine Islands, as she carries out her duty: ". . . assist in the work of the parish, mission, or institution to which she may be appointed, under the direction of the rector or priest in charge, . . . to perform such functions as may be directly entrusted to her by the Bishop."

Two Special Days!

THE Department of Christian Education will follow its usual plan of special days for children and young people at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine.

Saturday, April 28th, Cathedral Youth Day will follow a changed schedule from the one established in the past three years. Beginning at 1:00 p.m. in the Convention Hall the afternoon will be dedicated to consideration of the implications of the Gospel on one's life work, concluding with sung Evensong in the Cathedral Church at 4:00 p.m. Miss Virginia Harrington, Professor of Religion at Barnard College and Chairman of the Diocesan Division of College Work, will be delivering the chief address. This will be followed by discussion under the leadership of representatives of various vocations. The special church vocations will be stressed at Evensong. All Junior High and High School young people are invited, and Parishes are urged to organize groups who will attend together.

Saturday, May 19th, the Annual Presentation Service, will bring together thousands of parents and children for the formal presentation of the Missionary Offerings already made by the children during Advent, Lent, and other special emphases, in the Parishes and Missions of the Diocese. The Bishop will conduct a simple service and address the children. At the conclusion of the service the Bishop will also present a special medallion to all children present.

The service will pay special attention to the work of the Episcopal Church in Liberia through dramatic tableaux arranged at the entrance to chapels behind the high altar. As was done last year, all children and adults in the Cathedral will follow the Bishop in procession to view the tableaux. The service and tableaux have been planned by the Children's Division of the Department, under the leadership of the Rev. Robert Spears, Chairman. The procession and service will be under the direction of the Rev. Canon E. N. West. A band will be in attendance, and the Bishop, attended by his Suffragan and Chaplain will review the children's procession as they pass by on their way to the Cathedral.

Only vested choristers and acolytes will march in procession, but special seats will be reserved in the crossing of the Cathedral Church for other children.

A "Reasonable Alternative" In Curriculum

By CLIFFORD P. MOREHOUSE

WHEN the national and diocesan Departments of Christian Education are laying so much stress on the so-called "new curriculum," why is Morehouse-Gorham Co. bringing out a rival series? The question is frequently asked, and it deserves a fair answer.

But first the question should perhaps be rephrased. The Episcopal Church Fellowship Series is also a "new Curriculum," and it is not intended as a rival to any other series, but rather as a reasonable alternative. Moreover, it is not designed as an "interim" series or stop-gap, until other material is available. It is a full-fledged, permanent curriculum, based solidly upon the doctrine, discipline, and worship of the Episcopal Church, and designed to cover the entire program of the Church School.

"Two leading brands of Church School materials are before the Church at the present time," wrote Peter Day in a special issue of the Living Church on Revolution in the Sunday School. "Which should a particular parish — your parish — use?"

Answering his own question, Mr. Day observed: "There is nothing absolute about any Sunday school course . . . Each parish should use the material with which it believes it can get the best results."

Many parishes throughout the Church find that they get the best results from the Episcopal Church Fellowship Series. The fact that during the current Church School year no less than 130,000 boys and girls are using the materials in the seven ECFS courses so far published, and that these courses are found valuable in large, medium, and small schools, and in parishes of every shade of loyal Churchmanship, is ample evidence that they are meeting with enthusiastic response because they fill a genuine need.

Here are some of the reasons why so many Church Schools in the Diocese of New York and throughout the Church are finding the Episcopal Church Fellowship Series the best answer to their educational needs:

1. The courses are neither content-centered nor child-centered; they are God-centered, emphasizing the faith and worship of the Church as contained in the Creed, the Sacraments, the Bible, and the Book of Common Prayer.

2. They begin with the child where he is, on the basis of his own experience; but they add to that the experience of the Church throughout the ages, drawing freely upon the wealth of its treasures, new and old.

3. They guide the child into the practice of his religion now, but they also fill his heart and his mind with the seeds of religious truth that will come to fruition only in his more mature life.

4. They may be taught by relatively inexperienced teachers who are willing to learn as they teach, and they contain many helps for the growth of the teacher's own spiritual life.

5. They contain fine, usable materials with sound Church teaching, clear and easily understood guides for the teachers, and readable and beautifully illustrated books for the children.

6. They are built upon the foundation of the normal life of the parish, with its regular services of Holy Communion,

CONFIRMATION AT FORT SLOCUM

IN what is believed to be the first Episcopal Confirmation service ever held on Fort Slocum, N. Y. the Rt. Rev. Charles F. Boynton, STD Suffragan Bishop, confirmed three young men at the post Chapel of The Transfiguration on the night of February 29th.

The three confirmands were Private Richard J. Ferris, 19, of Berkeley, California, a student at the Army Information School; Charles E. Brown, Jr. and Carey Brown, sons of the post commander, Colonel Charles E. Brown.

The candidates for confirmation were presented to the Suffragan Bishop by Chaplain (Major) Gordon Hutchins, an instructor at The Chaplain School, who had prepared them.

The Dean's Column

SINCE God has blessed our land with prosperity greater than ever before, even more pressing is the claim of our stewardship. His bounty is a challenge to us to rethink our priority scales and dedicate more of our time, talent and means to the direct task of advancing in our society knowledge of and commitment to God as He has revealed His purposes to us through Christ and His Holy Spirit. The paramount medium of His influence in the world is the Church. Yet those most well-equipped to promote the Christian enterprise in the world often give higher priority to objectives and causes — worthwhile in themselves — which are nevertheless earthbound and which are less basic in their capacity to nourish what is best in our heritage and cleanse what is evil. If the laymen of America really put their strength and their "know-how" wholeheartedly behind the Church we would not only provide God with more effective avenues for strengthening and purifying our common life in this land, but — what is ultimately more important to Him and to men — we would be able to bring countless more men and women to the knowledge of Him and fellowship with Him, in wonder and praise, unto their salvation here and hereafter.

Too often church people leave the task of social concern to the national agencies of the Church, their consciences being salved by the fact that the "professionals" issue press statements from time to time on broad issues. This last is of course important; but the real task is on the local level, the level on which it is hardest to act, and on which it is the easiest to get bruised. Here is where the sacrifice of time and energy (and pride) is most called for. Each parish should be a militant group concerned in cooperation with all men of good will, to bring into every aspect of our common life a tangible expression of Christian social ethics. There should be such alertness and realism in the discharge of this responsibility that anyone tempted to act against the public intrest, or timid about proper social action, will know that he will have to face, right in his own community, the Church of God "terrible with banners."

As to how to deal with specific issues the parish can get some good practice by dealing first, in thoroughgoing fashion, with its own unChristian practices. By way of example, the Church is the most segregated institution in America; the employees of the Church are usually underpaid; and, as to the right use of property, our expensive parish houses are often vacant most of the week while educational and other community needs are left unmet. The clergy usually know these things and regret them; but we need scores of socially conscious laymen in each parish to work, first, to put its own house in order, and second, to bring a real and specific impact on political and social conditions in the community where the parish is set. When this is more widely the case, those outside the Church will be able to believe that we mean what we say when Church officials on the national level state Christian social policy.

James A. Pike

A "Reasonable Alternative"

Morning and Evening Prayer, and its occasional offices of Baptism, Confirmation, etc., so that the child grows naturally in his devotional and sacramental life until he becomes a well-informed, mature, practicing Churchman.

7. They constantly stress parent co-operation and religion in the home, with emphasis on such matters as family prayer, grace at meals, and the child's own prayer corner.

For the fall of 1956, the Episcopal Church Fellowship Series will offer one pre-school, one kindergarten, three primary, two junior, and one junior high course, designated as follows:

N. God Loves Me (Nursery)
A. Our Heavenly Father (Kindergarten)
1. We Trust God (Children's Creed and Lord's Prayer)
2. Jesus, Our Friend (Christ's Ways and Teachings)
3. We Obey God (Commandments and Precepts)
5. Living the Christian Year (Church Seasons and Teachings)
6. Preparing for Confirmation (The Faith for Young Churchmen)
7. The Prince of Life (The Life of Christ)

Also in preparation for publication during the year 1956-57 is a handbook for parents, with a guide for use in classes or study groups for teachers and parents. Other courses to round out the series will be published during the next two years. A brochure describing all of these courses is available on request.

The choice of a curriculum for the Church School is a matter of great importance. We need to remember constantly that Christian living is more important than factual knowledge. However, the content of the Christian heritage cannot be ignored, and the well-informed Churchman is generally the one who is most faithful in the practice of his religion, and best able to withstand the challenges to it that are so powerful in our modern secular life.

St. Paul admonishes us to "put on the whole armor of God," and in the First Epistle General of St. Peter we are exhorted to "be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you."

The Episcopal Church Fellowship Series endeavors to equip the Church's children with that spiritual armor, and to fill their hearts and minds with that reasonable hope which is the basis of a living, practicing, sacramental Christian Faith.

Areas Of Decision As A Basis For Adult Christian Education

MAN is confronted by the Gospel message in the areas of life in which he makes his decisions, for the decisions adults make affect their deepest relationships. Every decision in every aspect of life is a decision for or against God, affecting the adult's relationship with God. In turn, each decision strengthens or weakens the adult's relationship with his fellowmen. The area of life in which the adult makes his decision, therefore, is the area where he lives most deeply. It is the place where the relevancy of the Gospel of Christ is most clearly encountered and known.

"Things I Always Thought I Knew"

by the Rev. Canon E. N. West

Q. — I know a man who's a better Christian than anybody else I've met — yet he never goes to church. How will he stack up at the Last Judgment?

A. — This is a confusion in terms. The man referred to may be an infinitely better man than most Christians, but a Christian, as such, is one who is a member of Christ, a child of God, and an inheritor of the Kingdom of Heaven, and it is part of his duty in following Christ to worship God every Sunday in his Church; and to work and pray and give for the spread of Christ's kingdom. So the question must be asked in one of two ways: (a) How will a good man who is not a Christian stand at the Last Judgment? (b) How will a lapsed Christian stand at the Last Judgment?

Q. — Are spiritual values really more important than material?

A. — This question assumes a clear cut distinction between spirit and matter which is alien to the religion of the New Testament in general and of this Church in particular. For us the Lord of Heaven is also the Lord of Creation. There is nothing more material than a human body and it is in and through a human body that God worked during the Incarnation tabernacling himself in flesh as does the ordinary human spirit. Thus the real question is "what is the spiritual value of matter?" and the answer to this is "matter is any portion of the visible creation — a creation formed primarily to be of service to God and the souls of men. So to the question "is there any spiritual value to matter?" the answer of a Christian must be that there isn't any other kind of value.

Q. — Do good Christians ever have doubt?

A. — A good Christian has a few basic certainties on which he pledges his whole life. Apart from these certainties, he could scarcely be regarded as a good Christian did he not have doubt. St. Paul took slavery for granted, but Christians of another age came to have some doubt as to whether slavery was right and, if not right, could it be tolerated. St. Paul did not think it appropriate that women should have voice in the affairs of the Church. He was still too dominated by his Hebrew background to be able to adjust mentally to the implications of his own thinking. Christians since then have doubted the great Saint's assumption on this matter and the result is the magnificent work done by such groups as the Woman's Auxiliary both on the national and on the diocesan level. The voice of the women of the Church is a valuable addition to its counsels. They are there because they are individual Christians whose judgment is to be valued. They are not there either because of or in spite of the fact that they happen to be women. God gave us all the facts we need for our relationships with him but there is a large number of things about which no direction was given and it is only be the continuous application of doubts which are truly Christian that we can, through thought and prayer, approach the will of God in such matters.

Q. — Has the rector a ministry to family quarrels?

A. — Sub-section C of Section III of Cannon 16 says this: "When marital unit is imperilled by dissension, it shall be the duty of either or both parties, before contemplating legal action, to lay the matter before a Minister of this Church; and it shall be the duty of such Minister to labor that the parties may be reconciled." Ideally, of course, a serious family quarrel should have been handled long before it reaches the state mentioned in the Canon. At his ordination each priest is asked this question: "Will you maintain and set forwards, as much as lieth in you, quietness, peace, and love, among all Christian people, and especially among them that are or shall be committed to your charge?" to which the man replies, "I will so do, the Lord being my helper." Part of a good parish priest's basic job is ministering to whole families as units.

Q. — What is the Church's attitude towards mixed marriages?

A. — One of extreme caution. Dean Pike's penetrating analysis in his book titled "If you Marry Outside Your Faith" makes extremely clear the large number of problems posed by mixed marriages. The Church is convinced that the home must be a true unity within itself, but it views with grave alarm either the surrender of or the denial of serious religious convictions in the supposed interests of such a unity.

Areas of Decision

For the twentieth century Christian, there are five major areas of decision which merit consideration. These five, far from being clearly marked off, are complex and to a great degree overlapping areas of relationships and creativity. They are as follows:

1. The Blood Family. This includes those who are closest to the adult by reason of being part of blood relationship; those who are dependent upon the adult and for whom the adult accepts responsibility.

2. The Community. Including the local and worldwide aspects of community, this area involves man's attempt to organize and live together in community. Manifestations of this are seen in simple form in the acceptance of community responsibility in such groupings as Parent-Teacher Associations, service clubs, Red Cross, political parties, National Guard, or expressed about the community in interest in the United Nations, housing issues, racial issues, etc.

3. Work. This area is mainly concerned with man's endeavor to earn a living and provide for those for whom he is responsible. For the male adult, this is his business, his daily toil. For a woman, it may involve a position in the business world, but it is probably her work as housewife and mother.

4. Leisure Time. Leisure is at the free disposal of all. Thus, this area of decision is concerned with the where, the how, and with whom the adult spends his free time. His attitude toward the use of leisure determines to a great degree whether it is creative or not.

5. The Parish Church. In this area of life, the adult has a sense of corporateness involving responsibility for growth and for the deepening of relationships within that portion of the Church which is the Parish.

The underlying basis of the Parish program of Adult Education has been stated in setting forth the areas in which men live and in which they make their decisions. No fixed format for a program can be set by this Division. Programs must arise out of the needs of every parish situation. The grouping of adults by age, interest, marital status, etc. varies greatly from Parish to Parish and at the same time directly determines program needs.

However, whether a person is a Young Adult, who is out-of-school, unmarried, working; or in the Armed Forces; or a young married person; or married with family responsibilities; or aged, the program should relate the Christian Faith to him where he is living as well as speaking to him as a member of these groupings. Thus, the Parish has the primary responsibility for program, i.e. the systematic, formal organization and presentation of the Christian Faith (using all available resources) to those communicants who are by definition adults.

Another Side Of The Coin

IN the March BULLETIN, on page 6, there was a Department of Christian Social Relations story concerning the crisis in the South. There is another side to the coin, so in the following story Christian Social Relations gives a summing up of

INTEGRATION BEGINS IN THE SOUTH

The bitter resistance of many Southern whites to the integration of the public schools inclines us to overlook the progress toward integration that has been achieved. On the day of the Supreme Court decision of May 17, 1954 the schools in 17 states and the District of Columbia were all legally segregated. Today, less than two years later, the schools are completely desegregated in the District of Columbia, and in the cities of Baltimore, St. Louis, Kansas City, Oklahoma City and Tulsa. Impressive progress has been made in Maryland, Missouri, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Texas and Delaware. There are instances of compliance in Kentucky, Arkansas and Tennessee. That leaves just eight states — Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia — where there is still no integrated school district.

What it all adds up to is this: there is no "Solid South" adamantly and unitedly opposed to compliance. There is a highly vocal minority prepared to go to any length, including economic boycott and violence, to prevent the "destruction of the Southern way of life." There is a large number, certainly a majority, in the Deep South and in Virginia, who are determined to resist integration by all lawful means. There is still a third group who regret the change, but recognize its inevitability and its essential justice. They ask patience, restraint, and, above all, time to work out peacefully a change that they realize must come. The size of this group it is impossible to estimate, since most of its members remain silent in an attempt to avoid controversy. And there is a fourth group who welcome the change as "just, right and necessary." Conspicuous among them are many leaders of the Church.

Students of the problem predicted that the intensity of resistance would vary from locality to locality in direct proportion to the percentage of Negroes in the population. This prediction for the most part has been fulfilled. But there is one striking exception to the rule — namely, the District of Columbia. The District has the highest proportion of Negro pupils — 63.9%. (Mississippi is second, with 49.5%). Yet integration began in Washington in September, 1954, and by September, 1955 was completed without serious incident. This would indicate that the determining factor is less the percentage of Negroes than the attitude of the responsible authorities.

At the university level 104, approximately half, of the tax-supported colleges in the South admit Negroes. There are Negro students in colleges in every state except Mississippi, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida. Alabama admitted one under court order and later expelled her. Florida is now under court order to admit one. Throughout the area there are about 1,000 Negro students enrolled in the regular session and about 2,000 enrolled in the summer session.

At the University of North Carolina there are 7 Negro students in the graduate schools, and three in the college. The student paper, The Daily Tar Heel, carried on a vigorous editorial campaign to assure them equal rights in non-curricular activities. The students were far more ready for integration than the University Administration.

The younger generation is less firmly bound by tradition. It is further removed from Reconstruction. It is strongly influenced by integration in the Armed Forces.

The Southern Education Reporting Service of Nashville, Tennessee is an objective research and reporting agency, supported by both anti- and pro-segregationists. It is the source of the following summary of the situation:

| | 1955 Enrollment | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| State | White | Negro | Negro % of Total | Negroes in Integrated Situations |
| Ala. | 485,000 | 225,000 | 34.4 | 0 |
| Ark. | 315,000 | 100,000 | 24.0 | 47 |
| Del. | 49,989 | 10,479 | 17.3 | 1,230 |

| Va. | 544,902 | 180,062 | 24.8 | 0 |
| W. Va. | 433,296 | 24,452 | 5.2 | 16,000 |
| Total | 8,863,127 | 2,714,860 | 23.4 | 256,030 |

In less than two years 9.3% of all Negro pupils in the previously segregated areas have moved from segregated to integrated schools. Wherever integration has been seriously attempted it has succeeded. Where ever it has been half-heartedly attempted there has been only token compliance. Where ever the constituted authorities have opposed it there has been not only no compliance but a dangerous increase of tension between the races.

The Suffragan

THE RT. REV. CHARLES F. BOYNTON, D.D., S.T.D. SUFFRAGAN BISHOP OF NEW YORK

EASTER DAY is, for Christians and their friends, the most awe-inspiring and triumphant day of the year, for it is the showing forth of the victory of God in and through his creation.

Easter, for the Christian, is not a festival of spring, but rather the re-living of the mighty acts which took place at a particular time, in a particular country, and to a particular man.

The same Lord who had saved his ancient people at the Passover and delivered them at the Red Sea had again triumphed gloriously in the Resurrection of Jesus from the dead—a resurrection which came in spite of overwhelming conviction that he should not be seen again until the end of the world. It was not to the hopeful and the believing that the risen Lord appeared, but to timid, frightened and unbelieving persons — people much like us. Yet these same people became the spiritual and moral giants who turned a world upside down.

As long as there was, or is, physical or moral slavery in any part of the world, a disciple of Christ cannot rest until it is ended because of Jesus' resurrection. As long as there is injustice, or human misery, the servant of Christ can know no peace until something be done about it, again, because of Jesus' resurrection.

This is true to a degree which often confuses our good and kindly friends of the outside world. You see, for us Christians, Good Friday and Easter take on their meaning because of just who we believe Jesus to be. For us He is not just a good man whose stern ethic and gentle love provide mankind with an attractive standard of living, but rather the very Word of God incarnate whose stern ethic is the sole standard tolerable and whose gentle love is the one and only way God operates.

The Golden Rule is not good advice; it is the absolute command of the Mind which is at the center of the universe. Jesus is, for us, the only normal man, the one true man made perfectly in the image of God. Therefore, it is in his death and burial and rising again that we see the pattern of God's love — a love which triumphs through the cross, the grave, and the gate of death, not in spite of them.

But Christians don't even stop there. Pressed into a corner, Christians won't settle for anything less than the confession wrung from the most doubting of all the apostles. Jesus, my Lord and my God.

New Woodstock Church To Be Completed This Spring

THE NEW St. Gregory's Church in Woodstock, Ulster County, N. Y., will be completed this Spring. Sponsored by the Department of Missions of the Diocese, it will house the newest mission in the Diocese.

Five years ago, the Rev. Herald C. Swezy, Rector of the Church of the Ascension, West Park, received a call to administer the Holy Communion to an elderly lady in Woodstock whose son was a communicant of the West Park church. Fr. Swezy later repeated his visit and other Episcopalians in Woodstock joined in the services. This led to the holding of regular services in homes until finally a small building on the property of Mrs. Frederica Milne was offered to accommodate the growing congregation. Mrs. Milne also donated a parcel of land as a site for a new building. Before plans for the new church could be completed, however, Mrs. Milne died.

In the meantime, great social and economic changes began taking place in the vicinity. The New York Thruway was completed. The International Business Machines Corporation constructed a new plant, employing thousands of persons, just north of Kingston. This created a demand for new housing unprecedented in this area. Woodstock is seven miles northwest of Kingston and seven miles southwest of Saugerties.

It became immediately evident that this new mission would have a potential congregation much larger than had been anticipated, and that the site given by Mrs. Milne would not suffice for parking facilities and building expansion in later years.

In this crisis another faithful communicant, Miss Alice Wardwell, a member of Trinity Church, Saugerties, came to the rescue. Miss Wardwell donated a four acre parcel of land to the Department of Missions just north of Woodstock on the Woodstock-Saugerties Road.

Mr. William H. van Benschoten, consulting architect for the Department of Missions, and Warden of the Church of the Ascension, West Park, offered his services and designed the striking contemporary edifice pictured. The small congregation raised $5,000 and promised to repay an additional $10,000 of the cost over a period of years. The building will cost about $40,000, and will seat 150 persons and will have a sacristy and Vicar's office. Resting on a broad plateau, its unique design will make it seem to reach above famous Overlook Mountain to the north. While most of the masonry is now completed and the handsome laminated wood trusses are in position to be erected, work has been slowed almost to a standstill by bad weather.

Fair weather and warmer temperatures will see construction resume at a rapid pace and by June 1st, the new St. Gregory's should be ready for its congregation.

Christian Education Suggests

THE ADULT Division of the Diocesan Department of Christian Education suggests:

1. That the parishes and missions of this Diocese give consideration to the establishment of "A Serving Fellowship of (name of parish)". This title is suggested because it states the necessity of the continuous SERVICE to God required of us, denying that we have a TIME LIMIT of service, or that we have a CONTRACTED QUANTITY of service to fulfill; also, because it states the equality in association of persons who share interests in common.

2. That the members of this Fellowship shall seek through worship, study and work to be enabled so to hear the Gospel of Christ, that they shall communicate this Gospel to grown persons who, like themselves, are at the same time both young and mature; and thus by living experience and action show forth the splendor of human life under God.

3. That this Fellowship's program of worship shall be within the framework of the normal worship of the Parish. For example: Corporate Communions, Evening Prayer, Preaching and Teaching Missions.

4. That this Fellowship's first concern in study will be that which will first bring understanding of the Gospel and its relationship to present living. An understanding of the beliefs of others should serve only to strengthen the Fellowship's loyalty.

5. That this Fellowship's first concern in work will be the sacrificial giving of time, effort, and talent to aiding the clergy in the full discharge of their ministry. For example: Calling on the sick, the shut in, the lonely, the strangers; aiding in the Church School, in Released Time classes; aiding in financial drives, Every Member Canvasses and serving on Vestries, Altar Guilds and other organizations.

6. That the need for this Fellowship is great because it deals with an age group which is establishing homes, families, and careers, one to which the Church must minister if it is to fulfill the divine commission it holds from our Lord.

7. The Adult Division hopes to be able to increase help and encouragement to Parishes interested in the young adult field and to establish a means of bringing representatives of such groups together for consultation and exchange of experience. Questions and further information should be addressed to: The Department of Christian Education, 1047 Amsterdam Ave., New York 25, N. Y.

The Bishop's Address At The 175th Annual Diocesan Convention, May 8, 1956

My Brethren in Christ, Grace and Peace be unto you.

WE are met together again in this 175th Convention of our Diocese to review the work of the past year and to plan for the days ahead. May God grant us in this convention the guidance of His Holy Spirit that we may both perceive and know what things we ought to do, and also may have grace and power faithfully to fulfill the same.

At the Holy Communion this morning we remembered before God the Bishops of the Church, and the priests, and laymen of this Diocese who have gone forward into eternal life during the past year. May they rest in peace, through the mercy of God, and may light perpetual shine upon them.

The Bishop's Address

portant office. Regardless of many other demands on his time and talents, he was ever ready to give his wise counsel in regard to the many intricate legal and canonical problems that come to the Bishop of New York. In many departments of our Diocesan life he served the Church with devotion and distinction, as Trustee of the Cathedral Church, Trustee of the Estate and Property of the Diocesan Convention, member of the Standing Committee, and the Diocesan Committee on Canons; he was also Warden of Christ's Church, Rye, and Trustee of the General Theological Seminary, and of Hobart and William Smith Colleges. No layman has been held in higher regard and deeper affection by the clergy and people of our Diocese than Forrest Butterworth. He was in every sense a true Christian gentleman, a faithful churchman, and a most loyal friend.

New Chancellor Appointed

ACTING under the provisions of Canon 7, I have appointed Mr. Ludlow Fowler as Chancellor of the Diocese. As a delegate from St. James' Church, New York, Mr. Fowler has attended 19 Diocesan Conventions. He has served on a number of Diocesan committees, and for 10 years was legal counsel to the Board of Managers. We all know that Mr. Fowler will continue the distinguished record of service rendered by his predecessors in this important office.

The Bishop confers with the new Chancellor.

I would point out for the protection of the Chancellor, and ask you to bear in mind, the fact that the Chancellor is the legal adviser of the Bishop, and not of the parishes except in cases in which the Bishop may specifically request the Chancellor to give such legal counsel as is appropriate.

Confirmations

SINCE our last convention 3620 men, women and children have been added to the communicant strength of the Diocese. Of this number 261 adults have been received from the Roman Communion, and 9 from the Orthodox churches.

In reporting these Confirmations I should like to express my appreciation to Bishop Whittemore, whose valuable assistance makes it possible for Bishop Boynton and me to meet the heavy Confirmation schedule.

Fifteen candidates have been ordained to the Diaconate and 13 deacons ordained to the Priesthood. I am glad to report that there are 86 pre-theological students, postulants, and candidates for Holy Orders. Twenty-one clergymen have become canonically resident; 9 clergy have been instituted as Rectors of parishes.

We extend to all the clergy who have become members of our Diocesan family a sincere and affectionate welcome, and we pray that their ministry may be abundantly blessed in the years ahead.

Retirement of Clergy

I REPORT the retirement from the active ministry of the Rev. Frederick Burgess, Rector of St. Matthew and St. Timothy's Church, New York; and the Rev. Dr. John A. F. Maynard, Rector of the Church of Saint Esprit, New York; the Rev. Dr. Joseph Wilson Sutton, Rector of St. Stephen's Church, New York; and the Rev. Thomas Jay Williams, formerly Rector of the Church of the Holy Comforter, Poughkeepsie. We are grateful for their faithful service to the Church and wish them health and happiness in the years to come.

It might be well at this point to draw your attention to the final action taken by the General Convention in 1955 concerning compulsory retirement of the clergy. I quote from Canon 45, Section 8:

"Upon attaining the age of seventy-two years, every Minister of this Church occupying any remunerative position in this Church shall resign the same and retire from active service, and his resignation shall be accepted. Thereafter, he may accept any position in this Church except the position or positions from which he has resigned."

The Canon goes on to state that after retirement a clergyman may hold a position for a period of not more than one year elsewhere in the Diocese, which period may be renewed from time to time, and service in such position must have the express approval of the Bishop and the Standing Committee. All clergymen will be subject to this legislation of the General Church effective January first, 1957. Compulsory clergy retirement at age 72 is now mandatory.

Statistics

THERE are 496 clergy associated with our Diocese, 418 of whom are canonically resident, and 78 clergy officiating under my license. There are 10 deaconesses canonically resident, and 186 Lay Readers.

As usual, I have had the pleasure of officiating at a number of anniversary services and spoken at numerous special ecclesiastical and civic occasions, all of them marking some significant event in the life of the Church and community. The detailed list of my official acts has been filed with the Secretary of Convention.

During the past year I have attended all the meetings of the National Council on which I serve as Chairman of the Overseas Department, as Chairman of the Committee on Recruiting for the Ministry, and as a member of the Standing Committee, and Committee on Ecumenical Relations.

On the mission to the Pacific last summer I brought your greetings to the many congregations and civic groups I addressed in Australia, the Philippines, Hong Kong, Japan, and Hawaii. In view of my responsibilities for the overseas work of the Church, I was glad to have the opportunity to see the Church's mission in the Far East, and to confer with our Bishops and missionaries. The Far East is an area of tremendous importance, a truly strategic area in the overall program of our Church's missionary enterprise. I have seen the needs in Japan and the Philippines and I can assure you that our money is being spent as wisely and as well as conscientious Christian people know how to use it. Our missionary gifts are contributing to the rehabilitation of countless buildings, the construction of many new ones, the installation of sorely needed equipment, the support of clergy and lay workers, the Christian schooling and training of thousands of children and young people, the feeding of the hungry, and the bringing of the bare necessities of life and a few simple comforts, and a new hope and courage to countless numbers of people. And all the while the Gospel is preached, and it is made clear that everything is done in the name of our Lord Who commands us to go and teach, to baptize, to bear witness to Him, to heal the sick, and to spread the Gospel to the poor.

Missionary Giving

MISSIONARY giving for 1955 resulted in the establishment of four new records for the Diocese. The quota for Builders for Christ assigned to the Diocese by the National Council was paid in full in the amount of $393,548; the total gifts for the work of the Program of the Church at home and throughout the world in the amount of $652,242, exceeded that of any previous year, and the offerings, $18,000, given at the Bishop's visitation for Confirmation more than doubled. I am encouraged by this increased giving for it means that we are learning to understand our obligations to share in the support of the Missionary work of the church.

The Rostrum.

Proportionate Giving

THIS encouraging advance in missionary giving has been brought about through the cooperation and concern of all the people of the Diocese, and in large measure is the result of a better understanding of the missionary opportunities of the Diocese and the national Church. I anticipate that giving will continue to increase now that we have adopted the principle of proportionate giving as the minimum norm for the giving of our people.

You will recall that at the last convention we adopted a resolution that Proportionate Giving shall be the principle of giving from now on in the Diocese. This action of convention was followed up at the Clergy Conference at West Point last fall, which was actually a training school, under the leadership of the Bishop of Michigan, in the whole concept of stewardship. The Department of Promotion has just finished a series of five panel presentations on the subject held in strategic centers in the Diocese at which the clergy and canvass leaders attended in most satisfactory numbers. Bishop Boynton, Mr. Oxholm, Mr. Wallace, and Mr. Yowell composed the panel and I wish to express to them my appreciation for their effective presentation. As Bishop Boynton stressed at the Stewardship Conference:

"How much one gives really and fundamentally has absolutely nothing to do with budgets. It has everything to do with the relationship between the giver and his God. Basically we must first of all ask the question of ourselves and those to whom we are sent: do we really love God? Do we really love Him with all our heart and soul and mind and strength? Do we really believe that all things come of Him and of His own we give back in return? If we really believe these things, if God is really first in our lives then we will put Him first in every manifestation of our living; first in time, first in talent, first in treasure. Our first duty, rather our first privilege, will be to please Him because we love Him. Where your treasure is there will your heart be also. True. And the converse is true. Where your heart is, there will your treasure be also." Herein lies the theological implication of giving.

Resignation of Department Chairman

THE Rev. Albert A. Chambers, who has served as Chairman of the Department of Promotion since its organization, completes his term of service with this convention. I am sure I speak for us all as I extend to him our expression of deep appreciation for the splendid way in which he organized and guided the Department during its infancy. The fact that the Department of Promotion is now one of the strongest in the whole Church is due to his leadership and to the devoted service so sacrificially given him by the members of the Department.

Last May I appointed the Rev. John Mulligan as Chairman of the Department of Christian Social Relations to replace the Rev. John A. Bell, who resigned this important post after three years of faithful and effective service. The present strength of the Department is in large measure due to Mr. Bell's ability to organize and guide it during the first critical years.

At the annual meeting of the Council last May I appointed the Rev. Osborne Budd as Chairman of the Department of Christian Education to succeed the Rev. Dr. John Heuss, who resigned due to illness. As its first Chairman Dr. Heuss provided the leadership which has resulted in New York having one of the outstanding Diocesan Departments of Christian Education in the Church. We rejoice that Dr. Heuss has fully recovered and continues as an active member of the Department.

Department of Missions

BISHOP Boynton will report on the activities of the departments of the Council, but as President of the Department of Missions it is my privilege to report for that department in my address. I would refer briefly to some milestones reached in the missionary field of the Diocese.

Two missions have arrived at full self-support during the past year: St. Luke's, Bronx, which today has been admitted as an incorporated parish into union with the Convention, and Holy Trinity, Pawling, which is in process of incorporation.

A new church site and rectory has been purchased for All Saints', Valley Cottage, where plans for a new church are now being prepared. The new church buildings at Ardsley and Woodstock are near completion. Following contemporary architectural lines, these buildings are admirably suited for the needs in these vital areas.

At Granite Springs the new parish house is completed and the construction of a new rectory is planned.

Title has been taken to land and buildings along Route 9A in the town of Ossining, and contracts have been let by St. Paul's Church, Ossining, for the conversion of several of the buildings for church purposes. Services are expected to be inaugurated this Fall.

A new house and large lot have been purchased adjoining St. Andrew's, Beacon, to provide living accommodations for a second priest and parking and recreational facilities.

With the help of professional town planners, the Department of Missions is developing a master plan for the suburban areas of the Diocese. When completed within the next four months we will have a projection of population growth which will enable us to develop a strategy for the establishment of new places of worship.

In Manhattan and the Bronx three old parishes, seeking to provide a full ministry to their changing neighborhoods and lacking the financial resources to do so, have accepted mission status. St. Mary's Church in Manhattanville as an assisted parish will be ready to minister to the new General Grant houses and the Morningside Gardens development. Great commendation is due the Reverend Charles Breck Ackley, who will soon retire as Rector of this parish, for his effective and devoted service during a long period of neighborhood upheaval.

Last summer we were most fortunate in securing the services of the Reverend Dr. Donald F. Gowe and the Reverend Ralph B. Krueger as Vicar and Assistant at the Church of St. Edward the Martyr, Manhattan, both after years of service in Puerto Rico. I have appointed Dr. Gowe as the Bishop's Consultant for Spanish Work and he has already furnished me with many helpful suggestions for the more effective prosecution of our work with Spanish-speaking people.

The minimum stipend of unmarried missionary clergy without dependents is now $3,000 per annum, with housing, travel allowance, and Group Life insurance. The minimum stipend for married missionary clergy or others with dependents is $3,600 per year, with similar allowances and in addition graduated allowances for children.

Building Fund Campaigns

A NUMBER of parishes are conducting or have completed fund-raising campaigns for construction, repairs and reconstruction: Christ's Church, Rye; St. Stephen's, Pearl River; Trinity, New Rochelle; St. Luke's, Eastchester; Trinity, Mt. Vernon; St. Peter's, Port Chester; St. Andrew's, Staten Island; and Grace Church, Nyack, will launch a campaign at the end of this month. We congratulate these parishes on these achievements, and pray that the campaigns presently under way will meet with success.

Diocesan Agencies

IN this address there is not time unfortunately, to speak at length of the vital service being given by our Diocesan Agencies: the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, the Seamen's Church Institute, the Youth Consultation Service, and the Episcopal Service to the Aged. I commend to your careful study the annual reports of these Diocesan Agencies which are making such an important contribution to the total witness and ministry of our Church.

Delegates to General Convention

THERE is a resolution before you recommending that clerical and lay delegates and their alternates for the 1958 General Convention be elected by the 1957 convention instead of the following year as has been customary in the past. I am in full agreement with the Joint Committee on Structure and Organization of General Convention, which believes this change would be of great value for it would enable the President of the House of Deputies to appoint committees, commissions, etc. a year in advance of General Convention, and give the delegates an opportunity for greater study of the issues and reports to be considered. It would also make it possible to assign responsibilities to many more deputies than have participated in the past.

Woman's Auxiliary

THERE are few areas in the life of the Church in our Diocese that are not in some measure served by the Woman's Auxiliary. Through their worship, program of education, sacrificial giving and devoted service, the day and evening branches of the Auxiliary are making an important contribution to the life of our Church. At the last triennium the women of this Diocese contributed the largest amount to the United Thank Offering, in the sum of $162,000.00. We congratulate Mrs. Pim, the United Thank Offering Chairman, and the parish representatives whose efforts made this achievement possible. Under the leadership of its President, Mrs. Simpson, and her associates, the Woman's Auxiliary is moving forward on the Parochial and Diocesan levels. I wish to express your gratitude and mine to all the women of the Auxiliary for their devotion and zeal and their unfailing support of the program of the Church.

Women on Vestries

AT this Convention the question will again be presented to you in regard to allowing women to serve on vestries and as delegates to Convention. A year ago I expressed my own judgment on this matter and I have not changed my opinion. In the light of the vital contribution to the work of the Church made by the women, and the recognition they receive in all other areas of our social, business, and professional life, I hope there will be no further postponement in passing this legislation for our Diocese.

As you consider this legislation again let me remind you that approval of the amendments to the Canons do not require a parish to have women on the vestry and to send women delegates to this Convention. It is not in any way mandatory. It simply permits parishes to act according to their own best judgment in the selection of their representation on the vestries.

Cathedral

ONE of my responsibilities is that connected with the Cathedral, the Bishop's Church, and I am glad to report another good year. It has been marked principally by a further development of programs already established. There have been a number of week-end parish conferences here to which each time about 25 parish leaders with their clergy, from as far as Akron, Grand Rapids and Pittsburgh, have come for an intensive period of training, fellowship and worship; on two occasions, groups of clergy have come from the Diocese of Pittsburgh for a week of lectures and study.

Two distinguished colloquia have been held, marking the hundredth anniversaries, respectively of the death of Soren Kierkegaard and the birth of Sigmund Freud, and scholars attended from all over the country. A series of lectures on "Preaching the Church Year" was given for the clergy of this and neighboring dioceses by eight eminent lecturers. The fourth School of Worship for the women of the Diocese was more successful than ever; and there was the largest attendance to date at the summer lectures and discussion groups organized principally for teachers attending summer session in the Universities.

Particularly important has been the reorganization and growth in membership in the Friends of the Cathedral, a group of people throughout the nation who are interested in the Cathedral Church's work. In this connection, I wish to express the hope that many more Churchmen in this Diocese will add themselves to the roll of the Friends.

During the last year there has been a remarkable improvement in the music under the direction of our distinguished Choirmaster, Mr. Alec Wyton, who also has been serving ably as Headmaster of the Choir School. I wish to express my gratitude for the unfailing loyalty and support given me by the Dean and Chapter.

Equal Citizenship

ONE of the great issues of our times is the question of equal citizenship for all our people. I have come more and more to the conclusion that we cannot criticize others without taking seriously our own faults in this regard through the Church — and especially in the North, where in fact the situation is less difficult and where it should be easier to live out the Christian principles involved. In my Pastoral Letter I stated the Church's position in this matter. I shall now make it a part of my annual report to you.

"The faith of Christians, as this Church hath received the same, is that 'God hath made all nations of one blood to dwell on the face of the earth,' and that all are one in Christ. This doctrine has been affirmed by our own Church through its General Conventions, and by the entire Anglican Communion. Indeed the statements of our Church are so strong on this subject that they may with justice be regarded among the tenets of Anglicanism—beliefs which must be accepted if one is to be regarded as a Christian in this Church.

"There is in our time much discussion of the so-called problem of relationship between the races which dwell in our land; a discussion which gives endless comfort to the enemies of our democracy.

"It is not the problem of a particular race; it is a problem in which all of us are involved, and particularly those who claim to be members of the Body of Christ ministering to this world.

"Far too often, it is the non-Christian forces which seem to be in the fore in pleading on behalf of causes which are really the concern of Christians. Actually, it is the Christian Church which has, by its preaching and teaching, inspired all efforts in this area of race relationships. The first Assistant Minister appointed to New York was called for the very purpose of ministering to the religious needs of fellow human beings brought here in the bonds of slavery. My predecessors have ever spoken and acted upon the whole matter of the equality of all men in the sight of God; e.g., Bishop Hobart, Bishop Potter, Bishop Greer, and, in our own day, Bishop Manning and Bishop Gilbert.

"It has been implied that such problems are regional, and in many instances we have accepted this implication only too gladly. It is, however, our own problem since it concerns not only our nation, but also the whole world. The sincerity of our nation's statement on the Rights of Man must of necessity be subject to suspicion when our actions belie our words. Our influence for good and our leadership in world affairs suffers to the exact degree to which we fail to practice what we preach.

"It is obvious to all that we in this section of our country have been able to do much in the improvement of living conditions, working conditions, and education for many of our brethren who have been denied the rights and privileges which all of us believe to be the inheritance of every child of God. But let us who think we stand beware lest we fall. We have done those things which are required of us by God and humanity, but has it not been more by legal action rather than by the application and practice of our faith?

"On the highest levels of the life of the National Church and of any diocese, no problem exists. But in certain instances, of which we are only too conscious, life on the parochial level has fallen far short of the rules wherewith Christ hath bound us all.

"There is but one problem, and that is this: do our parishes maintain a degree of mutual acceptance of human beings as persons, people for whom Christ died, absolutely irrespective of race, class, or ethnic background? No matter what the reply may be, there is only one answer acceptable to God, and that is a general and humble acknowledgment of our failure in our bearing personal witness to the love of Christ—that same Christ who charged us that we should love one another as He loved us."

Advance Campaign

THE Diocese of New York has a long history of progress and accomplishment of which we can be justly proud. From the year of its establishment in 1785, with 5 clergy representing as many parishes, our Diocese has grown to its present strength of nearly 500 clergy ministering to 225 congregations and 54 institutions. Hospitals, schools, residences for the aged, homes for children, welfare agencies, religious communities, a Training School for Deaconesses, and many philanthropic institutions ministering to the spiritual needs of the community have been founded and supported and had their work strengthened by Episcopalians. Through the years in this Diocese, and particularly in Manhattan, the Episcopal Church has been a dominant religious force exercising a great spiritual influence in the community.

We are a strong Church today but we shall be a weak Church tomorrow unless we plan now for the future with boldness, vision, imagination and faith. The growth of our beloved Church and its influence in the next generation will depend on whether or not we make an effort at this time to seize the God-given opportunities to go forward.

Due to the changed conditions and vast increase in population, we are faced with opportunities for advance and expansion in every section of our Diocese. Today we have the greatest opportunity in our long Diocesan history—an opportunity, a responsibility and a challenge which will not occur again in our lifetime.

The people of our nation are on the move; the population is increasing, new communities are being developed almost overnight, and that is true in each of the 7 Convocations which comprise the Diocese of New York, covering an area of 4,763 square miles. The fact is that we are not keeping pace with the growing population and changed conditions. We are holding the line. All over this Diocese, in cities and suburbs, in newly established communities, we need new churches, rectories and parish houses, if we are to do the task entrusted by our Lord to our branch of the Holy Catholic and Apostolic Church. The situation in Manhattan and the Bronx presents our Church, and all the churches, with the most challenging task in our country.

In Manhattan there are 40 new public housing projects with a population of 175,000 persons; 27 large-scale projects with a population of 161,000. Three areas are under study for public projects which will include 6 large-scale housing developments with a population of 36,000. These vast housing developments are literally small cities within the great city, housing thousands of individuals, half of them young people and children.

In some of these housing areas we must secure land and erect modest churches, rectories and parish houses, and we must build them soon, for if we do not no land will be available, and there will be no witness of the Episcopal Church in these teeming neighborhoods for generations.

In order to build these new projects the city has razed acres of buildings. As a result of this demolition we shall lose one church in one area, a rectory in another neighborhood, and elsewhere we shall be required to improve the parish houses of several existing churches.

One of the most rapidly developing new housing areas is East Harlem from 96th Street to 125th Street east of Madison Avenue. There are 12 new projects in this area either completed or in process of building. This is the most congested spot in America, and it is no wonder that this neighborhood has the highest delinquency rate in the city.

We have parishes near other housing projects which are valiantly ministering to their neighborhoods with pathetically insufficient facilities. They look to the Diocese for assistance in the provision of adequate plants.

In Manhattan we have the most varied mixture of people in any city of this continent. We have a growing population of non-white and non-North American people who will in 20 years compose 30 per cent of our population and be the dominant group in the life of our city.

Surveys undertaken by the Protestant Council and other groups predict that in another 5 years there will be a half million Puerto Ricans in Manhattan and the Bronx. By 1960 another 200,000 whites will have left the Bronx to be replaced by our Negro brethren and Puerto Rican neighbors. Since 1950 Puerto Ricans have increased 97 per cent; by 1970 they will constitute approximately 14 per cent of the population. It is expected that 30 per cent of our city's population will be non-white and Puerto Rican by 1970. Forty per cent of the child population will be non-white and Puerto Rican in 16 years.

The implications of this challenge to the Church presented by these changing conditions are obvious. We must minister to these our brethren and to our new Puerto Rican neighbors and assimilate them into the life of our congregations if our churches are to be true instruments of God's love and redeeming grace. We must have Spanish-speaking clergy, youth leaders, teachers and church workers. We must develop new programs to meet the changed structures. We need a new strategy to meet the spiritual and social welfare needs of the new population.

We are faced with the greatest evangelistic opportunity ever known in this city, for the religious resurgence in America has not made any notable impression here as yet. Today 60 per cent of the population of the city of New York is unclaimed by any religious institution. This vast unchurched group, the new arrivals in our community, the majority of whom are non-Roman and sympathetic to the Episcopal Church, and the neighborhood changes up and down the island of Manhattan add up to the greatest missionary opportunity and challenge in these United States.

In the northern part of the Bronx Convocation there is the new Eden Wald housing project, which when completed will be the largest low-income public housing project in the world. There are already 2,100 family units completed. We have no church close enough to minister adequately to the people in the vast housing project.

The Bishop and Guest Speaker Canon E. W. Southcott, of Leeds, England.

In the Clason Point area of the Bronx the Sound View houses are already built. Shortly work will be completed on the James Monroe and Cassell Hill houses. Our church at Clason Point is small, inadequate and poorly located to minister effectively to the people of any of these projects.

Both in Manhattan and the Bronx we need, and need desperately, new churches, rectories, parish houses; and we need them not because they are ends in themselves but because they are the means by which we can minister to men and women and to young people and provide for the spiritual nurture of our children. In Manhattan and the Bronx the problem is too vast for any one denomination. The religious bodies must work together to make a spiritual impact on the life of the city. It is interesting to observe that last month the Presbyterian Church began a drive for $5 million to extend its work in Manhattan, the Bronx and Staten Island.

In other parts of the Diocese we are faced with the same challenge. In Westchester and Rockland counties we are experiencing such rapid population growth since the second World War that our existing churches are not even now meeting the needs of their communities, and we have no churches in many localities which will be heavily populated within five to ten years.

On Staten Island construction of the proposed Narrows Bridge can be expected to cause unprecedented population growth and create a need for rehabilitation, improvement and expansion of present parish facilities.

In Orange, Ulster, Putnam and Dutchess counties population growth is accelerating, particularly in areas adjacent to newly established industrial plants along the route of the New York Thruway, and in localities with reasonable access to other parkways.

It will shock you, as it did me, to learn that no new church for a newly gathered congregation has been built in Manhattan for 35 years, in the Bronx for 35 years, on Staten Island for 69 years, in Dutchess County for 56 years, in Putnam County for 73 years, in Orange County for 33 years, and in Rockland County for 36 years.

The first new church to be built in Ulster County in 58 years is now under construction in Woodstock. In Westchester County until 3 years ago no church for a newly established congregation had been built for 17 years. The reason we face this crisis now is that in the past our church built so wisely and abundantly that we were on the ground when people moved into areas which were then sparsely populated. Now people are there in great numbers. But so rapid has been the growth of population that all over the Diocese there are new communities of thousands of homes and families where we have no churches. We have a responsibility to our own people in these new communities, and an opportunity to present the Episcopal Church to those who have no religious affiliation.

As in the past, we must now have vision to build wisely and as abundantly as our means will permit. The time has come to lift our sights and adventure boldly and undertake a program of advance which will enable us better to serve the people of our Diocese. We cannot afford to delay provision for religious needs.

In this time of unparalleled opportunity the Church cannot be laggard in rising to her responsibility to extend her witness. The future strength of the Church depends on our ability to respond to growing needs with a vigorous program of advancement and expansion. We are falling far short in our missionary enterprise in this Diocese.

If we are to go forward we must have funds that are revolving and expendable. We must have funds on a revolving basis in order to purchase land and build modest churches when and where they are needed, and not years later. Such a fund will make possible the establishment of new Missions, acquiring sites for churches and parish houses and rectories in newly developed areas. It will enable us to enlarge and improve facilities of existing Missions to meet present needs. It will make it possible to relocate churches that they might better serve the community.

In the suburban areas new Missions will become self-supporting parishes very quickly and soon be able to repay the Diocese, thereby releasing other funds to be used for similar purposes in other localities, but always for advance work.

The situation in Manhattan and the Bronx, because of the high cost of land, will require large outlays for property and buildings with little possibility of recovery.

I have been discussing these matters with the Council of the Diocese for many months, and at my suggestion a resolution suggesting the action we should take will be offered by the Council.

The opportunities I have outlined will not come again within our lifetime and the opportunity will not last too long. It is now that we must act. With all the conviction at my command I ask for your immediate consideration of this resolution and pray that God will move you to adopt it unanimously.

Conclusion

My final thought in my report to the convention is to express the profound sense of gratitude which I have for the loyal cooperation which has been given me by the clergy and laity of the Diocese.

You will understand when I single out for special mention in this respect Bishop Boynton, whose close and friendly association with me in our Episcopal duties continues to be an unfailing source of helpfulness; Archdeacon Bratt, whose energies are undiminished in carrying out the tasks entrusted to him; and Mr. Theodor Oxholm, who in his conscientious concern for the welfare of the Church gladly and voluntarily accepts many responsibilities beyond his official duties as Treasurer of the Diocese. I wish also to pay my very warm tribute to the fine work of the women of our Diocesan and Cathedral staffs.

I know Bishop Gilbert is thinking of us as we meet today and I am sure you will join me in sending him our affectionate greetings and congratulations on his coming 50th anniversary in the Priesthood, which will occur on June 10 next.

It seems appropriate to end on a note of appreciation as we reflect on the many blessings this Diocese has been vouchsafed by Almighty God throughout its history. Let us face the challenges and opportunities of the future with gratitude for the past and appreciation of the present opportunity to serve our Lord and bear witness to the good news of His redeeming power through the fellowship of His Church.

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ and the love of God and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit be with you all evermore.

Faithfully your Bishop,

Horace W. B. Donegan

Women Who Have Dedicated Their Lives

Eighteen-year-old Dorothy's well-developed body belied the limited intelligence she possessed. But as she read stumblingly, haltingly from a third grade primer, she pulled her shoulders back, tucked the inevitable twisted handkerchief into her pocket, and unwound her feet from the rungs of a chair. Her voice lost its whine and became somewhat resonant.

Dorothy's reading was an act of faith. When a deaconess met the shriveled butt of hundreds of jokes of hundreds of heartless children that Dorothy was several years ago, she was determined that this girl would have a self-respecting dignified life. Not too feeble-minded to be accepted into a special school, but too slow to keep up with children of her own age, Dorothy had drifted from one school to another in the largest city in the world. Her hard-working mother, who kept two jobs to keep a growing fatherless family in shelter, food and clothing, had no time to spend with her daughter. Dorothy never learned a thing.

The first time the deaconess saw Dorothy, the girl was watching other youngsters romp in the church yard. At that meeting, the deaconess discovered not only that Dorothy couldn't read, but, far worse, that she never had known a relationship of trust with another human being.

Through the deaconess's own example, the other children grew to accept Dorothy. And Dorothy, for the first time began to know love, understanding, and realize hope. Her new reading ability prompted incredulity from teachers in her past, gave her a new confidence, and even turned her mind toward a vision of learning a trade. Today, Dorothy has many friends in her parish home.

This is just one example of the work of just one deaconess in just one city parish.

Women who have dedicated their lives to serve God through the Order of Deaconesses are at work throughout the Church. Their thorough training in the Church's teaching and work has prepared them to serve in any area: urban, suburban or rural; in a parish, mission or church institution, and in whatever way their individual talents best can be used.

The Central House for Deaconesses, 718 Somonauk Street, Sycamore, Illinois, is prepared to furnish additional information about the Order of Deaconesses upon request.

Episcopal Churches In Europe Welcome Travelers Abroad This Summer

THE Seven American Episcopal Churches in Europe are ready and eager to welcome churchmen and other Americans travelling abroad this summer, according to the Very Rev. Sturgis Lee Riddle, dean of the Pro-Cathedral Church of the Holy Trinity in Paris, and dean of the European convocation, of which the Rt. Rev. Stephen E. Keeler is Bishop-in-charge. Dean Riddle states that the following churches especially invite American tourists to visit them, attend their services and coffee hours, and call upon their clergy and people for any advice or assistance they can give:

Holy Trinity Pro-Cathedral, 23 Avenue George V, Paris;

Church of the Holy Spirit, 21 Blvd. Victor Hugo, Nice;

Emmanuel Church, 4 rue du Dr. Alfred Vincent, Geneva;

St. James' Church, 15 Via Bernardo Rucellai, Florence;

St. Paul's-within-the-walls, 58 Via Napoli, Rome;

Church of the Ascension, 30 Kaulbach Strasse, Munich;

St. Christopher's Church, Freiherr Vom Stein and Bockenheimer-Landstrasse, Frankfurt

THE Pro-Cathedral in Paris will have as guest preacher July 15 through August 12, the Very Rev. James A. Pike, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York. Also, for other summer Sundays, Chaplain George Bean of the U. S. Military Academy, and the Rev. John Ellis Large, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York. Dean Riddle will be a guest preacher at the New York Cathedral, Trinity Church, Newport, and elsewhere during his summer visit to the States.

The Dean's Column

AT the time of the year when one has one's eye on vacation—no matter how many weeks off—it is natural to reflect back on the year past. A good deal that is fruitful has happened here at the Cathedral during the past year, and I have no hesitancy in speaking about it because it has largely been due to the loyal and imaginative work of my many colleagues at the Cathedral.

The Services. The most obvious feature of the services during the year has been the constant improvement in the Cathedral's music, for which we have to thank the leadership of Mr. Alec Wyton, the Choirmaster, and his associate, Mr. Alastair Cassels-Brown, as well as the hard work of the choir boys and the adult choristers. Fruitful improvements have been made in the "Use" of the Cathedral, notably the addition of Psalms as Introit and Gradual for festival Sundays where a procession replaces Morning Prayer at 11 o'clock; thus Old Testament material is provided for the Eucharist, which would otherwise be lacking when shortened Morning Prayer is omitted. The congregational participation in the psalmody and responses has been better than ever, largely due to the rehearsal from the pulpit ten minutes before the service. A notable event recently was the revival, after many years' lapse, of a Diocesan Choir Festival, in which the choirs of 35 parishes participated along with our own choir. For the first time our Easter Evensong procession and Te Deum (along with a fine meditation by the Bishop) was televised, an addition to the customary telecast of the Christmas midnight Eucharist.

Educational Program. Throughout the year a Forum was held for the clergy before each of the Church seasons, in which a distinguished scholar and preacher lectured on the great themes of the Gospel appropriate to the particular season. Scribner's will publish the entire series under the editorship of the Dean and Chapter, with the title: Preaching the Christian Year. Two colloquia, which drew scholars from all over the country, marked the hundredth anniversary of the death of Soren Kierkegaard and the hundreth anniversary of the birth of Sigmund Freud. With the joint sponsorship of the Urban Priests' League, we arranged a conference with the leader of the "House Church" movement in England, the Rev. Canon Ernest W. Southcott. Groups of laymen, with their clergy, attended week-end conferences at the Cathedral, from St. Paul's, Cleveland Heights, and St. Paul's, Akron, and a group of laywomen from St. Stephen's, Sewickley, Pennsylvania, attended a similar conference; as did a group of students from Pennsylvania State University. Two clergy groups from the Diocese of Pittsburgh each spent a week here studying with an organized program of lectures, study and worship. The Fall School of Worship for the women of the Diocese, held in co-operation with the Woman's Auxiliary, had the largest attendance ever. A new experiment, the evening School of Worship in the spring, got off to a promising start. The Westchester School of Worship, held jointly with the Woman's Auxiliary of the District of Westchester and the Clergy of the Convocation, continues to thrive. Forums for the public were held every Sunday night, followed by separate discussion groups for college students, graduate students and faculty and the young business and professional people.

The Mission to Columbia University. The latter was part of an extensive program directed to the University community, which includes weekday meetings and counseling. The college work staff of five (full- and part-time) had, through calling at the dormitories and small group discussions on the campus and at Cathedral House, an increased impact on Columbia University. Three of our staff have been on the staff of the University as well. Members of our Chapter have given lectures and addresses at universities, colleges and seminaries throughout the country—and at parishes and interchurch gatherings as well.

The Fabric. The window in All Souls' Bay was completed and dedicated. St. Saviour's Chapel, until now the most undistinguished of the chapels, has been finished to represent the Byzantine tradition, parallel with the other traditions represented in the other chapels. As of this year, every inch of space in the Cathedral Close is in usable condition and, more important, is in constant use.

These things, plus warm ties of friendship, are what makes it a joy to be part of the team here on the Close—the Bishop and the Trustees, the Chapter, the administrative and secretarial staff, the musical organization, the assisting clergy and the masters and the workmen.

To all of you who participated in these various activities and have encouraged us by letters or comment, we extend our special thanks.

James A. Pike

Fifth Annual Diocesan School Of Worship

THE Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church, and the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese, announce that their jointly sponsored Fifth Annual Diocesan School of Worship is scheduled for the four Monday mornings of November (1956) from 10:00 AM to 1:00 PM at the Cathedral Church.

Worship in the Great Choir will be followed by lectures on The Episcopal Church And Its Work, as follows:

November 5 — OUR HERITAGE, by the Reverend Professor Powell Mills Dawley, Ph.D. General Theological Seminary

November 12 — OUR LAW AND OUR LIBERTY, by The Reverend John McGill Krumm, Ph.D. Chaplain of Columbia University

November 19 — OUR LIFE IN THE PARISH, by The Reverend Carroll M. Simcox, Ph.D. Assistant, St. Thomas Church, Manhattan

November 26 — OUR REASON FOR BEING, by The Reverend Canon Theodore O. Wedel, Ph.D. Warden of the College of Preachers

A "Coffee Hour" and a period for Discussion Groups and Forums will follow each lecture.

The required preparatory reading for the School is The Episcopal Church and Its Work (Volume VI of "The Church's Teaching") by Powell Mills Dawley (Greenwich: The Seabury Press, 1955. Paper bound, $1.50; cloth bound, $2.50) and for further reading attention is drawn to the annotated bibliography at the back of the required text. The books there recommended, together with the text itself, may be ordered from the publishers or from the Exhibit Hall, Cathedral Heights, New York 25, N. Y.

Annual Report Woman's Auxiliary, 1955-1956

IT is always with mixed feelings that I make the annual report. There are so many things which we have accomplished but on the other hand there is so much we have left undone! This past year has been no exception.

It has been a busy year for all of us, as Triennial years always are. For this Triennial I am happy to say the Parish Branches raised enough money to pay the minimum transportation for all five delegates—a "first" as they say in Television! The delegates went to Triennial feeling that they were really representatives of the whole membership and I think the members felt the same way. As a result, never before have so many talks on Triennial been made by every delegate, starting with the three all day meetings in October where all five delegates gave a panel presentation. Between the talks and the colored slides which we took and have shown, I feel sure that the interest and importance of General Convention has never been so widely understood.

The Diocese of New York was very proud to head the list of all the Dioceses in the United Thank Offering Presentation at Triennial—both in the number sharing and in the amount presented.

As the year went on, the Annual School of Worship, given as before with the co-operation of the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral, was attended by more people, and everyone felt that it was one of the most inspiring that we have had. Although most Districts now have Schools of Worship, the Diocesan School held in the Cathedral still has a large attendance.

Leadership Training Courses have been held in every District with two exceptions, and are now planned and carried out by a District Committee, with advice and assistance from the Diocesan Committee. In the three years since these courses were started, four have been held on the Diocesan level and six on the Districts, and plans are now being made for more next year. The interest in the courses held in the evening is especially encouraging.

Our youngest project, the Mission Craft Exhibition, has completed its first year and survived in spite of some ups and downs which one must expect from a new venture. The interest in and education about the missions has, perhaps, been its greatest accomplishment and the difficulty of manning it by volunteers its biggest headache! However, we are not discouraged and feel that it is very worthwhile.

To go on to a brief word about each part of our work:

Devotional Life. Speaking of the Diocesan Devotional Workshop, the Chairman says: "In making Devotional life part of and basic to all the work and departments of the Auxiliary, the effect has been to break down the hard lines between all departments. Particularly in the Workshop there has been an opportunity to share our work and discuss it in an informal family atmosphere. Attendance this year has doubled." Approximately 10,000 Noon Prayer Thoughts published in November on cards easily carried, have been distributed in the Diocese and small orders sent to individuals in the Diocese of Newark, New Jersey, Rochester, Connecticut, Long Island and as far west as Oregon.

Christian Social Relations. The work of Immigration and Citizenship directed by Miss Alice Palmer is larger than it was when Ellis Island was its headquarters. Interest has grown in all the Diocesan Institutions and personal contacts have been made between the branches and the institutions adjacent to them geographically. Many more parishes have Christian Social Relations Chairmen and the work of this department in all its aspects shows growth. Supply. 202 parishes took part in Supply Work. New supplies for all Missions amounted to $9,742.77 in goods made in these parish work rooms, an increase of $1,000 over last year. $7,154.73 in ready-made goods and Dispensary items total $16,897.50. 89 parishes supplied our Diocesan Institutions with $7,793.01 worth of new goods and many used garments which are practically impossible to compute. The cutting room continues its efficient work with a group of faithful volunteers who give two days a week to the cutting, assembling, packing, and shipping garments for completion in the branches.

Christian Education is growing steadily. More parishes have Education Chairmen though in some districts the number is still very small. The Chairman is on the committee of the Missions Training Institute held in June under the auspices of the Manhattan Church Women. The Education Conference held in February where the speaker was the Rev. Vini Deloria on the topic, "The Indian American" was the highlight of the year, but the attendance was not as large as we would like to have it.

United Thank Offering. $26,772.90 was gathered in from 8,805 women at the first Ingathering of this Triennium which shows an increase in both money and women over the first Ingathering of the last Triennium.

Personnel has been working without a chairman for most of this year, but as it is formed of the Diocesan Committees Leadership Training, School of Worship, College Work and the Mission Crafts Exhibition, the work has gone on in these committees, as I mentioned before. The College Work program has gone through some changes but is now well on its way to be more effective and the coming year, I feel sure, will show real growth.

To highlight the interesting reports from the districts. (I wish I could include a full report from each).

Bronx. Outstanding work has been done in Christian Social Relations. Through several parish branches, Diocesan Institutions have been materially helped. The increase in fellowship not only in parishes but between parishes has been marked. The president gives an annual report to the Convocation which this year was received with great appreciation of the women's work.

Dutchess. Three factors have contributed to the growth and development in this district:

1. The leadership training course, which has already manifested its value in great improvement in the functioning of many branches.

2. The co-operation and better understanding between the Clergy and the Woman's Auxiliary through consultation, and a Clergy round table held at the officers' conference.

3. Great emphasis placed on the personal contact between district officers and their opposite branch officers which has led to a clearer understanding and friendlier relationship.

Manhattan shows far greater unity and fellowship between the day and evening branches, now that the District Chairman heads up all the branches. Many meetings have been held at a time when both day and evening branches could participate.

The first Evening School of Worship was held in April at the Cathedral. The Dean and Chapter were most cooperative in planning it, and it was very well attended — showing how much evening events are needed.

Two Leadership Training Courses were held and proved so successful that next year four are being planned.

Richmond shows growth in Christian Social Relations work, especially among Institutions on Staten Island. An increase in Supply work, regular prayer groups, and the deepening of devotional life is also shown.

The biggest project is raising money to send 3 boys to Elko Lake Camp for two weeks each.

Westchester has concentrated on re-organizing this year but has found time to do some worthwhile things such as four Schools of Worship and two Leadership Training Courses. An excellent book committee has worked out a comprehensive list of useful books under the heading of (1) Books about the Woman's Auxiliary, (2) Recommended books for Parish Libraries, and (3) Children's Books. New branches have been formed in the Church of the Divine Love, Montrose, Grace Church, White Plains, and St. Paul's Chapel, Ossining.

Hudson-Ramapo. The district has been growing in fellowship and a feeling of unity with the other districts. The transportation improvements such as the Thruway and the Nyack Bridge have brought the district much nearer to the rest of the Diocese. At the April Diocesan Meeting held in Poughkeepsie, 55 members attended from this district.

There is a marked increase in the number of devotional parish chairmen and in the work of Christian Social Relations.

Church Periodical Club has now become a regular department of the Woman's Auxiliary in this Diocese, and the interest and material returns show a marked increase.

The Girls' Friendly Society has increased its contacts with the Woman's Auxiliary — Woman's Auxiliary members are on most branch advisory Committees. The Woman's Auxiliary members have contributed to the Summer Camp Scholarship funds. Members of the Girls' Friendly have supplied sandwiches and beverages at several Auxiliary meetings and branches of the Girls' Friendly have kept the cookie jar filled for the Older People's Club in Synod House.

In conclusion, I would like to mention that attendance at Diocesan meetings has averaged 210, and that the two held in the evening brought together all the membership.

There has been an increase in the number of Forecast distributed each month from 1600 to 2000 with more in demand for the future.

A word of appreciation should go to the Bishops, the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral who have co-operated so well and have been a source of inspiration to us.

There is, as I said at the beginning, much which we have left unfinished. Much that we hoped would be finished this year has not been accomplished, but it means that we have a goal toward which to work and with the spirit which has animated so many of our members, no goal is impossible of achievement if we do not depend too much upon our own frail power but learn to depend more on the Grace of God, which is always ready to help those who ask it.

Let us therefore go on to another year with gratitude and humility, kindness and understanding so that we may increase our service to God, and in His Name, to our fellow men.

Respectfully submitted
Dorothy M. Simpson

Annual Meeting Of Cathedral Guild

THE 1956 Annual Meeting of the Cathedral Guild of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine was held on Wednesday, April 18th, at Cathedral House. Bishop Donegan, Dean Pike and Canon West made addresses. The meeting was followed by a reception and tea which was well attended.

Several parishes were represented by delegates who brought contributions. $500 was given to the Bishop toward the Building Fund of the Cathedral, and $1500 for music at the Cathedral during the summer. The Cathedral Guild contributes two scholarships at the Cathedral Choir School. Vestments and other gifts have been presented to the Cathedral by the Guild in the past year. The Cathedral Guild is also responsible for the floral decorations at the Cathedral for Christmas and Easter. The Guild provides and cares for the linen for the Altars, as well as vestments for the Clergy and Choir.

It is hoped that each parish, through its members, will help to support this work which is necessary for the carrying on of the services at the Cathedral. The annual dues are $1.00; Associate Membership, $5.00; and Life Membership, $10.00. Checks may be sent to Miss Emie S. Day, Treasurer, c/o City Bank Farmers Trust Company, 22 William St., New York 15, N. Y.

"DEAN PIKE" Program Gets Citation

AT the 26th Annual Institute for Education by Television and Radio, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, on April 16th The American Broadcasting Company and the "DEAN PIKE" television Program jointly received the following citation:

"For courage in allowing a spirited, scholarly clergyman to speak directly to his viewers on subjects of contemporary life, without the need of pomp and circumstance: for this clergyman's ability dynamically and logically to link religion with daily life, science and culture."

"Things I Always Thought I Knew"

by the Rev. Canon E. N. West

Q. — What is the Episcopal Church?

A. — It is, to use some of the words of the Lambeth Conference of 1930, a particular or national Church, promoting a national expression of Christian faith, life, and worship, which upholds and propagates the Catholic and Apostolic faith and order as generally set forth in its own authorized Book of Common Prayer; and which is bound by loyalty, rather than by a central or executive authority, to the other Churches of the Anglican Communion.

Q. — What is the Anglican Communion?

A. — Bishop Wand describes it as "a group of national churches and their missions which trace their Catholic heritage through the Christianity of the British Isles and their form of worship through the Book of Common Prayer, and are in communion with the See of Canterbury."

Q. — Does this mean that wherever I go I will hear the Service in English?

A. — It most certainly does not. You will hear it in the language of the people, whatever that language may be.

Q. — But certainly all of your bishops are Anglo-Saxon aren't they?

A. — The names of two of the greatest Bishops in our Communion should answer this: The Most Reverend Arabindo Nath Mukerjee, Metropolitan of India; The Most Reverend Michael Hinsuke Yashiro, Presiding Bishop of Japan.

Q. — Do I understand that everywhere outside the United States, all I have to do is ask for an Anglican Church and I'll find one of your churches?

A. — By no means. I list the names of the National Churches within our Communion: The Church of England; The Church in Wales; The Church of Ireland; The Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America; The Episcopal Church in Scotland; The Anglican Church of Canada; The Church of India, Pakistan, Burma, and Ceylon; The Holy Catholic Church in Japan; The Holy Catholic Church in China.

Q. — But doesn't this mean that the local and national differences are so great that there can be no real unity of thinking?

A. — Again I quote Bishop Wand, ". . . in spite of all these varieties, there is a remarkable identity of ethos throughout the whole Anglican Communion and it should be an agreeable task through the perusal of these pages to try to distinguish it and describe it precisely. It will be found for instance that characteristic differences of theological colour cut across national boundaries and reproduce themselves in almost every part of our Communion. Whatever names they go by, high, low or broad churchmen can be found practically everywhere. Their mutual differences help to keep thought alive and fresh.

Q. — Doesn't the word Anglican really mean High Church?

A. — If you mean "high Church" in the old-fashioned sense of "thinking highly of the Church," the answer is yes. If you mean "High-church" in the modern sense of thinking highly of ceremonial the answer is No. The Church of Ireland is probably the best informed and most orthodox portion of the entire Anglican Communion, yet by rubric and canon law it is bound to a form of Service austere beyond anything most members of the Episcopal Church have ever seen.

Report Of The Council Of The Diocese Of New York

by THE SUFFRAGAN BISHOP

It is once again my privilege to present to Convention the report of the Council of the Diocese of New York. The Council is the creature of Convention with authorization to exercise all of the powers of the Convention committed to it between Convention meetings. The annual report, therefore, is the accounting to Convention of how the Council has exercised this authority during the past year.

I.

The annual meeting of the Council of the Diocese of New York was held on May 19th, 1955. The Bishop announced his appointments of Chairmen and members of the departments, and the Council confirmed additional members as requested by the department chairmen.

The fall meeting of the Council was held in October. The Bishop announced his appointment of the Rev. Edwin J. Rooney as Associate Director for Leadership Training in the Department of Christian Education.

Excellent reports were presented to the Council by the President of the Woman's Auxiliary, the Chairmen of the departments and by the Rev. Messrs. Mallary, Gausby and Gowe for the Department of Missions representing rural, suburban and urban work respectively.

The January meeting of the Council was held at Seabury House, Greenwich, Connecticut. The Council agreed that beginning in 1956 it will be the responsibility of the Diocese to promote the Church School Advent Offering for the cause of Missions in the Diocese, the offering to be credited to quotas.

The Council received the following report on actual receipts for 1955.

1955 RECEIPTS

Missionary giving for 1955 resulted in the establishment of three new records for the Diocese. The quota for Builders for Christ assigned to the Diocese by the National Council was paid in full; the total of gifts for the work of the Program of the Church at home and abroad exceeded that of any previous year, and the offerings made at the Bishop's Visitations for Confirmation more than doubled.

That only about $30,000 was contributed through the Builders for Christ Campaign for the establishment of a Diocesan Revolving Fund was a deep disappointment to the Council, as was the fact that the Diocese again did not meet its full share of the National Council apportionment. In this latter connection, however, it should be stated that the Diocese of New York gave the largest amount of any diocese to the General Church Program and a higher percentage of its apportionment than in any year in the last decade.

ADJUSTMENT OF 1956 COUNCIL BUDGET

The Council then accepted the Treasurer's estimate, from reports made by the parishes and missions of the Diocese, that $750,000 would be given in the year 1956 toward the quota of $947,648. As the canonical share of the National Council of the total given would then be $412,500, only $337,500 would be available for the Council departments and agencies from this source. Adding to this sum the amount of $3,200 unappropriated in 1955, the total available for the Council was expected to be $340,700 as against the budget of $426,034. After careful study, the Council Budget for 1956 was reduced to the following:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Council Departments: | | |
| Missions | $200,900 | |
| Christian Education | 48,000 | |
| Christian Social Relations | 13,000 | |
| Finance | 4,800 | |
| Promotion | 32,000 | $298,700 |
| Affiliated Agencies: | | |
| Episcopal Service to the Aged | 2,500 | |
| N.Y.P.E. City Mission Society | 17,500 | |
| Seamen's Church Institute | 16,000 | |
| Youth Consultation Service | 6,000 | 42,000 |
| | | $340,700 |

An additional appropriation of $6,500 from lapsed balances in the Council Operating Account was appropriated for the Episcopal Service to the Aged. The Bishop announced to the Council that he expected to be able to distribute at least $10,000 additional to the affiliated agencies from The Bishop's Fund for Diocesan Needs.

1957 COUNCIL BUDGET

The Council Budget for 1957, approved at this meeting, appears in the Calendar of Business and will be submitted for your consideration by the Committee on Diocesan Finances. In total — $427,465 — it represents an increase of only $1,431 over the 1956 budget adopted by the Convention. The 1957 apportionment to the Diocese as its share in the work of the National Council is $512,408. The sum of this amount and the Council Budget — $939,873 — therefore represents the total quota of the Diocese for 1957. This objective is $7,775 lower than the objective for 1956.

The principal increases in the Council Budget are in the Departments of Missions, Christian Education and Christian Social Relations. In the Department of Missions the increase is confined for the greater part to clergy salaries, pension premiums and travel allowances. In Christian Education the higher asking is principally for the Division of College Work and is sought to enable the Division to utilize the services of seminarians to assist in the work on six college campuses and to contribute a portion of the cost of providing a center for activities of the Canterbury Club at New York University. The increase in the budget of the Department of Christian Social Relations is intended to provide this department with the services of a full-time Associate Director in order to furnish adequate assistance to the Director of this department, who will continue to serve on a part-time basis and as a member of the City Commission on Intergroup Relations.

Your Council is confident that the Convention will adopt this budget as representative of its missionary needs. The Council prays that with the emphasis being placed upon proportionate giving throughout the Diocese, our goal may be fully attained.

CAPITAL FUNDS DRIVE

At the initiation of the Bishop, an enlightening and encouraging discussion ensued concerning the great and urgent need for capital funds. The Executive Committee was empowered to explore the needs and ways and means of meeting them and to prepare a resolution to be presented to the Convention in May.

II.

DEPARTMENT OF MISSIONS

The Bishop, as President of the Department of Missions of the Council, presented the report of this department as a part of his address to Convention this morning.

DEPARTMENT OF PROMOTION

During the past year there has been a marked interest in the missionary work of the Church and Diocese, resulting in a truly encouraging increase over the previous year in missionary giving. While no one single factor has made this possible, certainly proportionate giving has contributed greatly to the advance. The two booklets on the subject, written and published by the department, reached a total circulation of almost 50,000 copies each. The splendid pamphlet on Stewardship, written by the Bishop of Michigan, has already had wide distribution among the clergy and laity of the Diocese and is available for use in the Every Member Canvass next fall.

It is also encouraging to note that whereas in previous years only a few churches availed themselves of the services of the Director of the department and the Field Officers Corps of 16 trained men to help in the organizing of their canvasses, 52 parishes and missions requested the assistance of this service last year. A special survey, made after the canvasses in these churches had been completed, showed that there had been increases in giving up to 328%, and that all but two churches had had splendid increases. A real debt of gratitude is owed to the members of the Corps.

The Diocesan Informational Booklet, describing the organization and work of the Diocese, is in great demand. More than 5,000 copies have been ordered this year in contrast to 1,500 copies in 1953.

It was with deep regret that the department received the resignation of Mr. Edwin J. Yowell, effective April 23rd last.

Mr. Yowell, having rendered loyal and effective service as the Director of the department since September, 1953, has now returned to private business. We wish him God speed in his new work and thank him for his contribution to the work of promotion in the Diocese.

DEPARTMENT OF CHRISTIAN SOCIAL RELATIONS

The Department of Christian Social Relations is charged with responsibility in the two major fields of social service and Christian citizenship.

The department has two standing committees: (1) Health and Welfare Services and (2) Christian Citizenship, and special committees on Alcoholism, Refugees and Social Service Study.

The major activity of the standing committee on Health and Welfare Services has been the initiation of a study of the relationship to the Diocese and the Church of the church-related social agencies in the Diocese. A strong committee, chaired by Mrs. James A. Pike, is cooperating with the National Council Division of Health and Welfare Services in the study. This committee also took an active part in the negotiations leading to the reorganization of the Welfare and Health Council into the new Community Council of the City of New York.

The Christian Citizenship Committee, in cooperation with St. Thomas Church, Manhattan, sponsored a service in recognition of the 10th anniversary of the United Nations. This committee also took active part in efforts to assure the appointment of competent judges to the New York City Courts and opposed the present practice of the Children's Court of assigning cases to probation officers strictly on the basis of religious affiliation. This committee's stand on the issue of Segregation is well known to all. The department, through this committee, continues to communicate its position to members of the State Legislature on proposed legislation effecting Christian Citizenship.

The special committee on Refugees, chaired by the Rev. Walter E. Chater, has arranged for the reception and settlement in housing and employment of 9 families, composed of 15 individuals admitted on assurances signed by the Bishop and other members of the Diocese. Congratulations are in order for this splendid record of mercy.

In December, with the approval of the Bishop and the department, the Director, the Rev. Dr. Leland B. Henry, accepted appointment by the Mayor to the New York City Commission on Intergroup Relations and is a member of the Policy and Planning Committee of the Commission. This appointment marks a real recognition on the part of the City Administration of the place of the Episcopal Church in the life of the community. It could not be refused without putting the Church in a wholly untenable position. Yet acceptance involved a demand on the Executive Director which caused a real emergency for the department. Accordingly, with the Bishop's approval, funds were made available by the Council of the Diocese for the appointment of a part-time Associate Director. The Bishop subsequently appointed the Rev. David Weden to this post.

The Department of Christian Social Relations urges this Convention to consider seriously the several resolutions to come before it in the name of this department.

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

The Department of Finance, in accordance with its prescribed duties, has given general supervision to the financial affairs of the Council and after a detailed study of the stated requirements of each department, submitted a budget to the January meeting of the Council for its action.

At one of its meetings during the year the department had the honor of the Bishop's presence and counsel in a discussion of ways and means by which the department might increase its services to him and to the Council.

DEPARTMENT OF CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

In September the Bishop appointed the Rev. E. J. Rooney as Associate Director for Leadership Training. With headquarters at Katonah, the Rev. Mr. Rooney has moved quickly into the work of establishing his office and picking up the administration of the Parish Life Conference Program throughout the Diocese.

New developments in the department's program during the past year have been:

1) The formulation of a Diocesan Policy on Released Time Education. This Policy is unique in that it brings into the Released Time consideration the opportunities which have always been open to the Church on the special Holy Days.

2) Teacher Workshops, for those beginning to use the Seabury Materials, held in 5 strategic areas of the Diocese. As a result of the effectiveness of these Workshops, the department will conduct more of the same, but broadened in scope to include all teachers desiring workshop training regardless of the curriculum material being used.

3) Increased attention to the work being done and planned among young adults, including the further development of a Diocesan Young Adult Program.

4) The provision of seminarians as assistants to the local Chaplains appointed by the Bishop to be responsible for the work on nearby campuses. This aspect of the College Work program will be expanded during the next academic year.

The work of the six divisions of the department has gone on apace during the past year.

The College Work Division, of which Professor Virginia Harrington is Chairman and Dr. Allen Reddick, Associate Director, now sponsors work on 18 campuses, with 19 local Chaplains and 11 seminarians involved in this ever-expanding program. The Division also sponsors faculty groups in 3 of the 18 institutions.

The program of the Leadership Training Division, now operating under the full-time supervision of the Rev. Mr. Rooney, has reached a little more than half of the active clergy of the Diocese, but still only a small fraction of the eligible laity. This program will be greatly intensified in the future, for this phase of the total work can be said to be the "proof" of the Parish Life Conference "pudding".

Real interest in the relationship of theology and ethics was stimulated among many in the Diocese during the year through the six Convocation Adult Forums and the Ash Wednesday Conference for the Diocesan and Cathedral Staff conducted by the Rev. Canon Edward N. West, Chairman of the Adult Division, and the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, Director of the Department.

The Department is wrestling with two yet unsolved problems. The first is that of interpretation to the clergy regarding a total program of Christian Education for their parishes. The clergy are the key to any real progress the Church might make in its educational program, and the only avenue through which the department can hope to receive lay response. How the department can receive a hearing by clergy who cannot, or who do not wish to, attend sessions which might be considered opportunities for interpretation is a major problem at present.

The second problem arises out of the extensive use of conferences. A search is on for an adequate procedure which can interpret philosophy and program without continued recourse to conferences. While the printed word is powerful, there is danger of negative reaction to too much of this also.

The search for solutions to these problems will continue so that ultimately the best method or combination of methods can be found in order that the department can fulfill its pledge to bring to the clergy and laity the help they need for their own understanding of the Church's teaching task and for the guidance they should bring to others who share this task with them.

New Chancellor

BISHOP Donegan announced May 1st the appointment of Ludlow S. Fowler, Esquire, as Chancellor of the Diocese of New York (Vice G. Forrest Butterworth who recently died).

Mission At Mid-Century

THE National Council at 281 Fourth Avenue has issued 13 missionary films of our Church, entitled "Missions at Mid-Century", which include the familiar and popular stories, "Light of the North", "Window on the Sky", etc.

This complete series of 13, it is hoped, will be broadcast by many TV stations. The films have been produced with the highest professional skill and they represent stories of our Church's outreach in such an interesting way as to attract the interest of even the casual TV viewer.

These are your films. They are of value only if they are shown in your communities and related by your clergy and laity at the point of contact in the extension of the work in your parish.

Therefore, we suggest you write a letter to any of the New York TV stations and ask them to show the films. These stations will be interested in direct relation to your own interest.

This is the first major venture of our National Church through the medium of television and we trust and pray that you will find it an exciting and worthwhile extension of our Church and its faith in your community.

For further information concerning the films please write to the Rev. Dana Kennedy, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

New St. Barnabas Recreation Center Opened

BISHOP Donegan, President of the Episcopal City Mission Society, announced on April 30th the formal opening on May 3 at 3:30 of a new Recreation Area for the children of Saint Barnabas House, a temporary shelter for children of all races and creeds of metropolitan New York. The new addition, which also houses a small apartment including a real kitchen and a dining room where the children will learn to cook and serve meals, is part of a new psychological program launched on behalf of the growing number of critically disturbed children who through neglect, cruelty, or family crisis are being sent to Saint Barnabas House.

The 1956 Finger Lakes Conference

THE 1956 Finger Lakes Conference to be held at Hobart and William Smith Colleges, June 24th through June 30th, will have as its theme this year "The World Challenges the Church." The general lecturer will be the Rev. R. S. K. Seeley, Provost of Trinity College, Toronto. The Chaplain will be the Rev. Paul Moore, Grace Church, Jersey City.

The courses will be as follows:

"Labor Challenges the Church"—
The Rev. William Van Meter, Schenectady

"Mass Communication Challenges the Church"—
The Rev. Dana S. Kennedy of the National Council

"Education Challenges the Church"—
Prof. T. S. K. Scott-Craig of Dartmouth College

"Delinquency Challenges the Church"—
Mrs. Marty Mann of the National Committee on Alcoholism

"Politics Challenges the Church"—

The conference is for lay people of the parishes of all of the Dioceses in New York State. The lectures will be given in the morning and the whole conference will re-assemble each afternoon with the lecturer and course leaders serving as a panel, to discuss subjects and personal applications which result from the several classes in the morning session. In this way, individuals who attend the conference will have a more thorough understanding of the thinking and discussion of the whole conference.

Bishops Donegan and Boynton Presented with Cross of St. Joanike

On Monday, May 7th, at noon, His Grace, Bishop Dionisije, Bishop of the Serbian Eastern Orthodox Diocese for the United States of America and Canada presented to the Bishop of New York, and to the Suffragan Bishop of New York, the Cross of St. Joanikie, the first Serbian Patriarch. The presentation took place in Bishop Donegan's office on the Cathedral Close.

The Cross was established in commemoration of the 600th Anniversary of the Foundation of the Serbian Patriarchate, and the Order is the highest decoration the Serbian Church can give. The Archbishop of Cantebury and the Presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States have it. The first Episcopal Bishop to whom it was awarded was the late Bishop Manning.

Bishop Dionisije was accompanied by the principal members of the Serbian Community.

Bishop Donegan has made it possible for a number of Serbian children to receive their education. He is a member of the General Convention's Joint Commission on Assistance to the Orthodox Churches. The Patriarch of Constantinople, the Greek Orthodox Archbishop of North and South America, was present at his Consecration.

Bishop Boynton has given material assistance to the Serbian Community in New York. His interest in Orthodox affairs dates back to his youth, when he accompanied his father, a Grand Officer of the Order of the Holy Sepulchre, on a journey through the Near East.

An Appeal for Nurses

We have a letter from Miss Gladys Fluckhart, Superintendent of Nurses, St. Barnabas Hospital for Chronic Diseases, telling us that the hospital is short of all types of nurses but is particularly short of Episcopal girls.

Miss Fluckhart hopes that many good Christian girls who would fit so well into this type of hospital will apply to her for training as professional nurses, licensed practical nurses, and nurses' aids.

You can get in touch with her at the Hospital which is located at Third Avenue between 181st and 183rd Streets, New York 57, N. Y.

Two of our Choir Boys Will Sing in Westminster Abbey This Summer

At the invitation of Sir William McKie, M.V.O. Organist and Master of the Choristers of Westminster Abbey, London, acting on behalf of the Dean of Westminster, two Choristers from the Cathedral Choir School will travel to England on June 20th to sing for six weeks in the Choir of Westminster Abbey.

The boys are Michael P. Atkin, 1410 York Avenue, N.Y.C. 21 and Stuart H. Chamberlain, Jr. 213 West Mitchell Ave., State College, Pa. They will sail on the Queen Mary and return on the Coronia.

During their stay in England, they will live at the Abbey Choir School and take part in all the Services and rehearsals of the Abbey Choir, and join in the normal scholastic program of the Westminster Abbey boys.

After the end of the school term, which is August 13th, the boys will spend two weeks visiting places of special interest in England.

The boys were chosen competitively on the basis of their musical ability, their high scholastic standing in the school, and the quality of their character and citizenship which, it is felt, represents the best traditions of the Cathedral Choir School.

An invitation has been sent for two boys from Westminster Abbey Choir to come to the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine as guests of the Cathedral Choir School, and the Cathedral is now awaiting the decision of the Abbey authorities.

Bishop Donegan Appoints New Canon Precentor

BISHOP Donegan recently announced the election of the Reverend John Winter Turnbull as Canon Precentor of The Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine. Mr. Turnbull was elected by the Trustees of The Cathedral Church on the nomination of the Bishop.

The duties of his canonry include the liaison with The Cathedral Church's music organization, direction of The Cathedral Church's community relations, oversight of the Exhibit Hall, and promotion of the "Friends", an international organization of those interested in The Cathedral Church.

Mr. Turnbull is a graduate of the University of Illinois and the Yale Divinity School and received the Master of Sacred Theology degree from Virginia Theological Seminary this June, having also completed his residence for the Ph.D. at Yale. He served on active duty in the Navy in the last war. He has served in New York as Executive Secretary of Christian Action and in Geneva as study Secretary for the World Council of Churches.

★ ADDRESS CHANGE

IN MAKING AN ADDRESS CHANGE, PLEASE SEND BOTH THE OLD AND THE NEW ADDRESS

The Bishop's Message

My dear People:

FOR me, as for Bishop Gilbert and Bishop Manning, the most thrilling service each year is the Children's Presentation Service at the Cathedral. This year it was more impressive than ever. The weather was ideal for the colorful procession in the Cathedral Close. There was a tremendous attendance, and there was a spirit of participation greater than any I have known in my 27 years in the Diocese. To everyone's satisfaction the Children's Offering produced the sum of over $40,000 for missionary work at home and abroad.

THE Urban Priests and Laymen's League of New York held a moving service of witness to our Oneness in Christ, at the Cathedral on May 26. The procession formed at All Soul's Church, St. Nicholas Avenue, and marched several thousand strong to the Cathedral where I had the pleasure of reviewing it, and afterwards presiding at the service of Holy Communion. The Rev. Dr. Shelton Hale Bishop, Rector of St. Philip's Church, was the preacher at this celebration.

IN addition to our own great services held last month, the Cathedral was made available for a special service of thanksgiving sponsored by the Protestant Council of New York, marking the second anniversary of the Supreme Court's decision on segregation.

CONGRATULATIONS to the Rector and Vestry of Trinity Parish on the completion of the new buildings for St. Luke's Chapel Day School, which I had the honor of dedicating on May 29th. This handsome structure, with excellent and attractive facilities and equipment, is one of the finest school buildings in the city. The new school building is a symbol of the concern of the Rector and Vestry of Trinity Parish for the nurture of our children. Under Father Weed's leadership the enrollment of St. Luke's School has increased, and now it will be possible to give a Christian education to a greater number of boys and girls.

ON my visitation to St. Andrew's Church, Staten Island, where I confirmed a large class, I was glad to see that excavation has begun in preparation for the new Parish House, which it is hoped may be completed before the year is out.

THE Diocese, through the Bishop, received a notable honor recently when Sir Francis Rundall, Her Britannic Majesty's Consul General at New York, acting by direction of the Queen, presented me with the Cross of the Most Venerable Order of St. John of Jerusalem, with the rank of Sub-Prelate. I recognize that apart from my personal pleasure as Bishop of New York designated to be so honored by the Sovereign Head of the Order, my appointment is in reality an honor which comes to the clergy and people of the Diocese of New York. In the last century the Order has admitted three Bishops of the American Church: Bishop Quintard of Tennessee for his work in the University of the South; my distinguished predecessor Bishop Manning for a lifetime's devotion to the cause of justice and human welfare; and now most recently, me, I am sure, because of the generosity and loyalty of the people of our Church to the causes which must ever be of prime concern to Christians nurtured in the Anglican Communion. In the parish of St. James', which I had the privilege of serving as Rector, this concern was manifest in many ways, and particularly in the last war when the parishioners gave generous aid to the people of Britain in their hour of need. I cite this only for it was the parish I was serving at the time. The same pattern of proportionate scale was true of every congregation in the Diocese.

Founded at the time of the Crusades, the Order of St. John through the years has spent itself in the service of the stranger, the pilgrim, and the sufferer — a work praised by the very words of Christ Himself. It means a great deal to me to be associated with this ancient brotherhood of chivalry, which has as its first object and purpose, the encouragement of all that makes for the spiritual and moral strengthening of mankind.

SINCE this is the last opportunity to write you until Fall, I wish you a happy, enjoyable and religious summer. God bless you all.

Faithfully your friend and Bishop,

Horace W. B. Donegan

Bishop Donegan and Sir Francis Rundall.

An Appeal Concerning Refugees

AFTER more than two years of waiting, due to circumstances entirely beyond our control, and after repeated publicity through the Diocesan Bulletin and the Woman's Auxiliary, the Refugee Committee of the Department of Christian Social Relations is now engaged in the actual placement of people and families arriving in this country. Eleven family units have already been resettled in this Diocese, and others are awaiting final arrangements.

Please turn to Page 4

We know that you want to help us in this act of Christian mercy.

We ask now if you, your parish, or a parish committee will engage to find work and housing for one refugee unit, either (1) at short notice (which is easier), or (2) within the next six months, at your convenience.

The responsibility is a moral one. This means, in effect, that you will treat your refugee unit just as you would any one of the families on your parish roll, should need arise. We can say this in truth to churchmen and to no one else, because as churchmen we recognize our wonderful calling.

The Rev. E. Walter Chater, Rector, All Saints' Church, Harrison, Chairman of the Diocese Refugee Committee, speaking from his own experience, a purely voluntary one, can assure you that this program is entirely possible; it lies within the means of every parish; it is a most rewarding experience; and it opens up surprising avenues of God's grace.

College Work

"Big Wheels And Little Wheels"

WHO are the big wheels and who are the little wheels in this business of College Work? Where does the Provincial Secretary fit in the structure of the Episcopal Church?

In short, here in the Second Province, what is this thing called college work?

Let's begin at the beginning, about nine years ago in 1947. In this year the Provincial Woman's Auxiliary chose the colleges as a field in which to concentrate its work. This was a major change of policy for them. The idea of concentrating every year on one special department of the Church, instead of scattering their interests in every field, was new. They dug up some interesting facts: 70% of our Episcopal students were lost to the Church during their college years. Yet the Church had connections with only one third of the colleges in the Province. Veterans were returning from World War II and swelling college enrollments. It was a challenge for real missionary work.

The women of the Province took action: they agreed to pay one half of the salary and expenses of a Secretary for College Work; the National Division of College Work to pay the other half. A Committee of representatives from each of the 8 Dioceses of The Second Province, clergy and lay people who were interested in college work, was formed. The Provincial Secretary is actually an executive secretary for this committee, the Committee for College Work in the Second Province. Serving now on the Committee, from the Diocese of New York, are Dr. Virginia D. Harrington, of Barnard College, Dr. John M. Krumm, Chaplain of Columbia University, and Mrs. Charles S. Reid, formerly College Work Chairman of the Provincial Woman's Auxiliary.

In 1949 the Province (Synod) assumed the Woman's Auxiliary's share of the Provincial Secretary's salary and expenses. This is the current financial arrangement. During all these years, the Church as a whole was becoming more and more concerned in its ministry to colleges and universities. The academic communities were demanding attention: 50,000 students are currently attending classes of higher education in New Jersey; over 290,000 in New York State.

The Dean's Column

SUMMER is a busy time at the Cathedral. It brings to Morningside Heights thousands of students at the Columbia University summer session as well as tourists from parishes and communities all over the country. Through its various services and educational programs, the Cathedral seeks to minister effectively to these people and thereby realize on a great educational and evangelistic opportunity.

The annual series of Cathedral summer forums for teachers and students, under the direction of Canon Pyle, will be held on Sunday afternoons at 5:00 p.m. in the Cathedral Choir School, beginning July 8. The forum lecturer will be the Rev. Albert T. Mollegen, S,T.M., D.D., Professor of New Testament Language and Literature at Virginia Theological Seminary. Professor Mollegen's topic will be A Theology for Contemporary Living, in which he will deal with the following topics:

July 8: The Signs of God in Creation
July 15: The Word of God in Christ
July 22: The Power of God for Salvation
July 29: The Spirit of God in Community
Aug. 5: The Victory of God in and beyond History.

Immediately following the lecture there will be supper discussion groups in which those present will have an opportunity to meet each other and exchange ideas on the application of the lecture to their own thinking and vocational concerns. Leaders of the discussion groups will be: the Rev. John Turnbull, S.T.M., Canon Precentor, Cathedral; the Rev. Richard Reid, M.A., B.D., Assistant Minister, Cathedral; the Rev. Vadakkan V. Alexander, Th.M., Foreign Student Worker, Cathedral; the Rev. Prof. Lowell Beveridge, Ph.D., Virginia Theological Seminary; the Rev. William Turner Levy, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of English Literature, College of the City of New York; the Rev. Donald Herb, B.D., Advisor to Lutheran Students and Associate Counsellor to Protestant Students, Columbia University; Mr. Robert Newton, Acting Protestant Counsellor, Columbia University; Mr. Peter Pardue, Graduate Student in Philosophy of Religion; the Rev. Louis Hallgring, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of History, Hunter College.

At the regular 4:00 Evensong, from July 8 through August 5, there will be dialogue sermons given by Canon West and Canon Pyle on the topic What Authority Has Religion Today? The various sermons in this series of dialogues will consider the place of Bible, tradition, church, personal religious experience, and conversion in the experience of modern people looking for something to believe.

The regular schedule of Sunday morning services will be maintained: Holy Communion at 7:00, 8:00, 9:00 and 10:00; Morning Prayer, Holy Communion and Sermon at 11:00. The weekday services in the summer: Morning Prayer, 7:45; Holy Communion, 8:00 (and 10:00 on Wednesday); and Evening Prayer, 5:00.

The Bishop Ordains Ten To The Diaconate

a. Scene in The Chapel, while taking Oath of Conformity

b. Signing, after verbally repeating, the Oath

c. The Litany of Ordination

On June 3rd, the First Sunday After Trinity, at the 11 o'clock service at the Cathedral Church, Bishop Donegan admitted ten recently graduated seminarians to the Diaconate.

Just before the Ordination Service, the Ordinands met with the Bishop in one of the Ambulatory Chapels and took their Oath of Conformity—a most important pre-ordination requirement.

The Ordination preacher was the Reverend P. M. Dawley, Ph.D. (Cantab) Sub-Dean and Professor of Ecclesiastical History, General Theological Seminary, New York City.

The Men ordained were:

John Clinton Beaven, of St. James' Church, Manhattan, presented by the Very Rev. Lawrence Rose, S.T.D.; will be Vicar of St. Paul's Church, Fort Benton, Montana.

Edward Joseph Berey, of Christ Church, Riverdale, presented by the Rev. Gerald V. Barry; will be Vicar of St. Francis' Church, Sloatsburg, N. Y.

Cyril Francis Coverly, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, presented by the Rev. Dr. John E. Large; will, after his advancement to the Priesthood, take up his work in the Chaplaincy of the Armed Forces.

Robert Warren Cromey, of St. Thomas Chapel, Manhattan, presented by the Rev. E. Warren Cromey; will then be Assistant Minister at Christ Church, Bronxville.

William Frederick Fahsing, of St. Martha's Church, North White Plains, presented by the Rev. Langford Baldwin, will then be Vicar of the Church of St. Jahn the Divine, Tomkins Cove and St. Mark's Church, Fort Montgomery.

Theodore Ricardo Gracia, of St. Peter's Church, Peekskill, presented by the Rev. William E. Ridgeway; will then be Assistant Minister of the Church of the Holy Comforter, Kenilworth, Illinois.

David Paul Kern, of Trinity Parish, Manhattan, presented by the Rev. C. Kilmer Myers; will then be Assistant Minister at St. Andrew's Church Beacon.

Clarke Kimberly Oler, of St. George's Church, Manhattan, presented by the Rev. Edward O. Miller; will be Assistant Minister at St. John's Church, Youngstown, Ohio.

William Joseph Turner, Jr., of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Manhattan, presented by the Rev. James J. English; will be Curate of St. Simon's Church, Buffalo, N.Y.

d. The Ordination—the Laying On of Hands by the Bishop

Has all this concern and effort changed the picture any? Today, out of 120 odd campuses in New York and New Jersey where the Episcopal Church logically might have church work established, we have a campus ministry to over 85. The total figure does not include Roman Catholic or Jewish colleges, although it is interesting to note that our Church, outside the Province, does have its own work on at least one Roman Catholic campus, Notre Dame. Of the 85 campuses in the Province where we have Episcopal work, only three are ministered to by full-time Chaplains: Syracuse University, Cornell and Princeton. The Episcopal Chaplain at West Point is an employee of the government and the Chaplain at Columbia University, also an Episcopalian, is a staff member of the University. The great bulk of college work is done by Rectors of Episcopal churches near a college campus, by priests near an academic community who have as part of the responsibility of their parish, that academic community.

So this brings us to the question of who does all this college work and who are the people involved in Dioceses and states and in the Province. Who are the big and little wheels? One of the peculiarities of this area of work is that the "big wheels" are really the largest number of people. The bottom of the hierarchy is really the top. Unlike big business where you have local offices, then a territory, and finally on up to one single President at the apex, here the creators, initiators and planners are in the local situation: The Rectors who carry on their own ministry to a campus in the way which each works out as best for the community. The apex becomes the base and at the top is the broad line of Episcopal priests who are chaplains to an academic community. It is they who carry on the work. The Provincial Secretary simply becomes a channel through which these many situations flow and by which one campus may get a helpful suggestion from another. One of the chief responsibilities of the Provincial Secretary is the absorbing and redistributing of this news of what is going on in this highly individual field of college work. Towards this end the Provincial office now publishes a newssheet for college work clergy in the Province.

The Woman's Auxiliary plays a strong and sustaining part in the college work of the country and therefore of the Province. They support our women workers "from the cradle to the grave"—from deciding our church vocation and training for it to pension plans for our retirement. The W.A. has built chapels and student centers here, and overseas, in the amount of $300,000 in recent years.

The Provincial Secretary is guided in her work with campus clergy by the Bishops of each diocese. The Secretary cooperates with and assists the Bishop in forwarding college work in his diocese. Sometimes she is able to bring to his attention a new chaplaincy which a campus anticipates creating; sometimes she can suggest names of clergy who are interested in college work to fill a vacancy arising in an academic situation.

These are the church people involved in college work in our Province. Now just what is college work? In the words of the National Commission on College Work, "Our task is the proclamation of the Gospel and the manifestation of the power of the sacraments to, in and through the whole academic community. Ours . . . is College Work not student work. Our ministry is to the University in its totality—students, faculty and administration." More specifically we try to reach every Episcopalian on a campus, to carry on a ministry to the unchurched, to play our full part as Anglicans in the Ecumenical movement.

Because these are our aims, the Provincial Secretary calls on faculty members and meets with members of the college administration as well as students when she visits a campus, sometimes sharing a common concern with a fellow Episcopalian or other churchmen, sometimes expressing more formally to the unchurched the concern of the Church for its ministry to the academic community. These visits find all kinds of areas of friendship. Recently a Dean who said that she wished to state "right at the beginning" that she was completely non-religious, found the Provincial Secretary not such an oddity after all when she discovered that they had many mutual friends and shared rather closely past business experiences before entering their current respective fields of Education and Religion. The Provincial Secretary speaks to faculty and student groups wherever possible; to local Woman's Auxiliaries as she visits campuses.

Across the Province students, faculty and administration members attend their local Episcopal Church; they meet together for corporate Communion; sing in the Church choir; teach in the Church School; serve on Vestrys and Altar Guilds. Together, or separately, they meet in discussion groups on campus. Students gather in Canterbury meetings; faculty read and discuss the "Faculty Papers," a series written by Christian faculty members from the point of view of their own fields. Bible study is the basis for both student and faculty groups. The student group may be a chartered chapter of the National Canterbury Association, the National Episcopal Student organization. Or they may be a more informal group who simply meet together to learn more about their Church and Christianity.

The Provincial Secretary also acts as a channel from the National Division of College Work to the local situation and from the local situation to the National one. Very often students are interested in learning more about national student conferences, summer service plans made available through the National Council, national student Lenten projects, etc.

Another area of the work of the Provincial Secretary is in the planning and support of conferences for students, faculty and clergy. The Provincial Committee holds an annual College Work Clergy Conference, to which come clergy from all over the Province who are involved in college work, to attend lectures and to meet in a college work workshop. An annual conference is held for faculty memmers of New England, the Second Province and the Third Province (Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland and D.C.) This meets at Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut. The first conference is entirely paid for by the Committee for College Work so that the only expense for clergy attending is their transportation; the second is largely underwritten by various agencies of the Church concerned with college work, so that faculty members pay a nominal sum. Student vocational conferences, often sponsored by the W.A., are held on diocesan and interdiocesan levels with two aims: to help students realize what it means to be a Christian in whatever vocation they choose, and to help them to know of the many opportunities within the Church where they may choose a vocation. Smaller diocesan and interdiocesan faculty conferences where faculty consider such topics as "The Christian Teacher and His Work," and diocesan Canterbury Conferences where the Canterbury groups of the several colleges and universities within a diocese meet together, are also part of the conference picture.

If you would like to see college work in action you may obtain the new film on our Church's college work from the National Council. It is titled, "The Time and the Place," and shows the Church at work on Penn State campus in State College, Pennsylvania. This film is available at the Audio Visual Department of the National Council offices at 281 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

With college enrollments due at the least to double, and at the most quadruple, by 1970 to 1975, this is certainly one of the most challenging fields of the Church's work, and a very vital concern. In the years ahead, as now, we pray that the Church be guided as she ministers to "all who teach and all who learn" in the growing academic communities of the world, and especially of our Province and your Diocese.

Christian Citizenship In An Election Year

Some suggestions from the Department of Christian Social Relations.

1. Register

If you do not register, you cannot vote.

In New York City personal registration is required. The registration days are October 8 through 13, inclusive. If you will be out of the city during this period you can register at your Borough Hall any time between May 1 and September 1.

In the up-state counties the situation is complex:

a. Personal Registration is required in all communities with a population of 5,000 or over.

Registration days in Westchester are October 8 through 13, inclusive. Registration days in other up-state counties are October 5, 6, 12 and 13.

If you are to be out-of-town on registration days you can register at the Board of Election of your county from May 1 to September 20.

b. Permanent Registration

In communities under 5,000 population there is permanent registration. A new-comer can register on October 6 and 13. If you are not sure your name is on the list, check and find out.

2. Enroll

If you do not enroll in the party of your choice you cannot vote in primary elections. Only the enrolled voter can help control the party machinery and the choice of candidates.

Enroll at the time of registration.

3. Be informed

The league of Women Voters throughout the country, and the Citizens Union in New York City are reliable, non-partisan sources of information.

4. Vote

Election Day is November 6.

If you know you are to be out of town that day, you can apply for an absentee ballot at the time you register.

5. Join the district club of the party of your choice

If you are inclined to be cynical about politics — to think it is a dirty business — ask yourself what you are doing to make it cleaner. It is perfectly true that parties are run by the people who work in them. How can it be otherwise? Perhaps nothing would do as much to raise the level of political life in the United States as the decision of thousands of Christians to choose political activity as a form of Christian service. Do not sit on the sidelines and complain. Get into the game.

The Church of St. Mary The Virgin Chappaqua, Celebrates The 50th Anniversary of Its Consecration

On June 21st the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Chappaqua, will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its consecration. The church was built by the Rev. Frank Montrose Clendenin, D.D., who married the daughter of Horace Greeley.

One of the charms of the Chappaqua church is that it is modeled on the Church of St. Mary the Virgin in Monken Hadley, Middlesex, England. A small window from the ancient church in England was sent over and installed in the church at Chappaqua. An inscription on the window reads "The light has fallen through this window for nearly five hundred years upon the children of the Catholic Church of England and now falls through the same glass upon the daughter church in America, witnessing to us the unbroken life through the ages of the Catholic Church of the English speaking people".

The Chappaqua church has been celebrating the Golden Anniversary throughout this year, but the actual date of the anniversary, June 21st, will be the occasion for Services of Thanksgiving, On the following Sunday the Dedication Festival will be observed and five stained glass windows will be blessed. The windows are the Parish's thank offering for the many blessings received through their church. The windows depict five scenes from the life of the Virgin Mary as they relate to our Lord.

"Things I Always Thought I Knew"

by the Rev. Canon E. N. West

Q. — What is the point of addressing God in such flowery language? Does he have to be flattered to get him to do anything?

A. — God doesn't need the language, but we do. He knows our every need before our asking, and wills us better things than we can either desire or deserve. The real problem is to make ourselves the willing channels of his grace. Think of the picture of God presented by the titles in just one section of the Prayer Book: Most gracious God, the fountain of wisdom, who sittest in the throne judging right, who hast given us this good land for our heritage, who hast made of one blood all nations of men, whose compassions fail not, the giver of all good gifts, who hast blessed the earth that it should be fruitful, whose gift it is that the rain doth fall, whose power no creature is able to resist, merciful and compassionate, who alone spreadest out the heavens and rulest the raging of the sea, in whose hands are the living and the dead, who hast created man in thine own image, our only help in time of need, who . . . dost not willingly afflict or grieve the children of men, who sparest when we deserve punishment, who art giver of life, of health, and of safety.

This is so an exalted picture of the nature of our Creator that it is tolerant of nothing less than that thoughtful and humble outpouring of our hearts which is the very essence of prayer.

Q. — Does this mean that prayer is really some kind of auto-suggestion?

A. — Far from it! The real problem is to pray aright, and more often than not this means finding out if we are truly willing to pay the full price of serious prayer. If, for example, I wish to pray for a sick person. I must be willing to have my sub-conscious fixed on that person's need; I must be willing to take on a portion of that person's pain; I must be willing to share any portion of my own good health God may need as the earthly matter out of which to fashion a new health for that person; I must be willing not only to pray but to visit that person and, in so far as God gives me strength, to surround that person with health and love. All of this is considerably different from wishing somebody well. If, for example, I pray for the hungry and needy, I must want their welfare so thoroughly that my mind and my purse become burdened with God's concern for them. Prayer is not only mystical union with God, but it is also practical union with his compassionate love.

Q. — Does an unanswered prayer just mean that I didn't pray hard enough?

A. — By no means. St. Paul, who may be reckoned to have had considerable power in prayer, prayed three times for deliverance from some personal affliction, only to be assured that God would give him strength to make the affliction useful. No amount of praying is going to keep a Christian from being called upon to lay down his body; prayer just delivers the Christian from the fear of death.

The Rev. Dr. Newell Celebrates The 60th Anniversary Of His Ordination

ON June 13th at 8:15 in the evening, at St. John's Church, Getty Square, Yonkers, the Reverend Oliver Shaw Newell joined in a Service of Thanksgiving on the 60th Anniversary of his Ordination. Retired in 1948, he is now Rector Emeritus of St. John's.

Church and civic leaders from Yonkers, and other parts of the Diocese, attended the service.

Bishop Donegan, in his sermon, spoke of the great pastoral work of Dr. Newell and predicted that he would be long remembered as one of the great pastors of the Church.

One year during his active Rectorship at St. John's, Dr. Newell made thirty thousand calls, which was all the more remarkable inasmuch as he had the total responsibility of his Parish work and services.

Since his retirement Dr. Newell has retained his Chaplaincy of six institutions in Yonkers. In 1954 he made 12,241 calls and in 1955 he made 13,-447 calls.

Oliver Shaw Newell was born in Monroe, Michigan, the son of the Rev. William Whiting Newell and Helen Pert. He graduated from L'Ecole Alsacienne, Paris in 1893; from General Theological Seminary (from which he has the S.T.D.) in 1896; was ordained Deacon in June 1896, and Priest in May 1897.

He began his ministry as Curate of Eglise du S. Esprit, N. Y. C. where he served from 1896 to 1900. He then became Rector of St. Luke's Church, Mechanicsville, N. Y. and served from 1900 to 1909. He became Rector of the Church of The Messiah, Glens Falls, N. Y. from 1909 to 1925. He came to St. John's, Getty Square, Yonkers, and served as Rector from 1925 until he retired in 1948 — still serving as Rector Emeritus of that Church.

New Minister-In-Charge At St. Mary's, Manhattanville

ON December 1st the Rev. Charles Breck Ackley, S.T.D. Rector of St. Mary's Church, Manhattanville, will retire. Bishop Donegan has appointed the Rev. Richard F. Gary as Assistant Minister, to continue as such until the Rector retires on December 1st, after which he will be Minister-In-Charge under the Bishop.

Mr. Gary will arrive, with his wife, to take up his duties at St. Mary's in June.

WOMEN!
Serve In A Challenging Ministry!

THE CHURCH NEEDS MORE DEACONESSES

The Deaconess is set apart to minister in the Church of God. The Deaconess is authorized by canon law to serve under the direction of Bishop or Rector. The Deaconess is authorized to teach, care for the needy, and generally work among women and children. THE CHURCH needs more Deaconesses. Will you respond to this need? Offer your talents and education to this authorized ministry of love and service in the Episcopal Church.

Delegation Goes to South India

THE delegation, authorized by General Convention, consisting of the Rt. Rev. Norman S. Binsted, Bishop of the Philippines, chairman; Rt. Rev. Arthur C. Lichtenberger, Bishop of Missouri, vice-chairman; Canon John V. Butler of Princeton, N. J.; Rev. Gardiner M. Day of Cambridge, Mass.; and Mr. Clifford Morehouse as secretary, will visit the Church of South India this late summer. The purpose is to carry the fraternal greetings of the Episcopal Church to the Church of South India, and also to make a study of that Church on the spot for report to General Convention through the Joint Commission on Ecumenical Relations.

The delegation plans to leave Idlewild at 5 p.m., Friday, August 10th, by Pan American Airways, and will fly to Delhi with stops for a day or two in Rome and Beirut en route. At Delhi, they will consult members of the American Embassy staff, and of the Indian government, in regard to religious affairs in that country, and will also be guests of the Bishop of Delhi. They will spend about a week in Northern India and will fly from there to Bombay on August 23rd.

Plans are to leave Madras for Calcutta September 18th and remain there three days, after which the delegation will proceed to Manila arriving there September 22nd. Report of the trip will be written while in Manila and then the delegation will break up and return to this country separately. Some intend to visit Okinawa and Japan before returning home about October 12th.

Bishop Lichtenberger will report informally on the trip at the October meeting of the National Council. However, the formal report will go to the Commission on Ecumenical Relations and will be considered at its meeting in Washington in January, 1957.

Eucharistic Vestments Made By St. Mary's Guild, St. Mary The Virgin, Manhattan

ST. Mary's Guild of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Manhattan, completed its year's work with a luncheon and display of vestments made for St. Andrew's Seminary, Manila, on June 5th. These vestments consist of a High Mass set in gold cloth, including cope and mitre, and three Low Mass sets, three albs, and various small linens. This is the largest project undertaken by the Guild, of which Mrs. William C. Dickey is chairman, and represents many hours of devoted labor on the part of the women of the Guild.

Founded to take care of the parish vestments, St. Mary's Guild has that as its primary object, and from there branches out to serve needy missions.

This year the Guild has made, in addition to the vestments for the Philippines: 4 sets of Eucharistic vestments for Barbados, B.W.I., and 1 alb for the same Mission; 1 set for an aided parish in New York City; 1 set for a Korean Mission in Honolulu; and 1 set for a Mission in Galveston, Texas.

From materials furnished by the New York Altar Guild: 1 Eucharistic set for St. Luke's Hospital, New York City, together with two preaching stoles; 1 set for St. Luke's Convalescent Home, Greenwich; 1 set for the Redeemer Mission, Pineville, N. C.; 1 set for Manhattan State Hospital; and 6 cassocks for the Barbados Mission.

Although the Guild has suspended its work for the summer, two of its members are engaged in a special project of interest—the making of two preaching stoles which will be taken to India by the delegation authorized by General Convention, for presentation to the Anglican Metropolitan of India and the Moderator of the Church of South India.

The Archdeacon

WITH the retirement of the Rev. Walter W. Reid from the active ministry this summer, attention will be focused on both the man and his churches.

1. The Man: A native of New York City, Mr. Reid has spent most of his Priesthood serving his own Diocese. There were short tenures elsewhere and a period of four years as a Master at St. Paul's School, Concord, New Hampshire, but his affection for the Diocese of New York brought him "home" to stay in 1930. A man of great ability, he had served large parishes, among them Christ Church, Tarrytown, prior to his determination to give his life in our Mission field. For the past twenty-six years he has built up a record of service which will stand alone for a long time to come for he has served in not one but three churches over this period. Only a man of boundless energy and excellent health could have done this. But with all the burdens his work has laid upon him he has discharged his duties faithfully in the spirit of promise and if years have passed he has had little time to note them or to let them affect the gracefulness of his bearing. This summer he and Mrs. Reid will take up residence in Riverside, Conn. They will have with them the affection of their many friends, and happy remembrances of good days.

2. His Churches: St. John's Church, Tomkins Cove, stands guardian over the upper reaches of Haverstraw Bay. Driving North on route 9W you are near the parish when you see the ships of the Hudson River Reserve Fleet. The church is well known for the leadership its Priest and people have given to community betterment.

St. Mark's, Fort Montgomery, is half way between Bear Mountain Bridge and West Point. It serves an area where the population has remained relatively static over the years. While the communicant listing is rather small, one is greatly impressed by the loyalty and devotion of the membership. The building and grounds are kept in immaculate condition and warm indeed is the welcome afforded visitors.

The House of Prayer at Jones Point holds the distinction of being the smallest church building in the Diocese. It is hard to believe that twenty-five years ago this church served a bustling community, sharing its responsibility with a Methodist Church and a public school. Today few of the houses and business establishments remain. The Methodist Church is abandoned and in ruins and the school is closed. But our Church, through the years of change and discouragement, has ministered regularly and faithfully under Mr. Reid's unfailing guidance.

Ed. Note:—The Rev. William Fahsing, a recent graduate of the Virginia Theological Seminary, has been appointed to succeed Mr. Reid and will take up his work as of July 1, 1956.

The Fifth Annual Diocesan School Of Worship

THE Fifth Annual Diocesan School of Worship sponsored by the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church and The Woman's Auxiliary, Diocese of New York, will be held on four Monday mornings in November from 10:30 to 1:00 at the Cathedral Church.

The worship service will be held in the Great Choir and will be followed by lectures on The Episcopal Church and Its Work. The lectures will be as follows:

November 5—"Our Heritage" by the Reverend Professor Powel Mills Dawley, Ph.D., General Theological Seminary.

November 12—"Our Law and Our Liberty" by the Reverend John McGill Krumm, Ph.D., Chaplain of Columbia University.

November 19—"Our Life in The Parish" by the Reverend Carroll M. Simcox, Ph.D., Assistant to the Rector, St. Thomas Church.

November 26—"Our Reason for Being" by the Reverend Canon Theodore O. Wedel, Ph.D., Warden of the College of Preachers.

A "Coffee Hour" and a period for Discussion Groups and Forums will follow each lecture.

The required preparatory reading: The Episcopal Church and Its Work (Volume VI of "The Church's Teachings"), by Powel Mills Dawley (Greenwich: The Seabury Press, 1955. Paper bound, $1.50; cloth bound $2.50). For further reading, attention is drawn to the annotated bibliography at the back of the required text. The books there recommended, together with the text itself, may be ordered from the publishers or from The Exhibit Hall, Cathedral Heights, New York 25, N. Y.

Plans Progress For Capital Funds Campaign

ACTING under authority of the Convention, the Council of the Diocese has engaged the well known firm of Marts & Lundy to conduct a survey of the capital needs and resources of the Diocese. Their work is expected to be completed by the end of the year, at which time a report, including recommendations, will be submitted to the Council of the Diocese.

While it is common knowledge that our population is growing more rapidly than during any previous period of recent history, the meaning of this growth in terms of the need for new church facilities or expansion of existing ones must be determined. In addition to population growth there is the great urban problem of shifting population and the wiping out and rebuilding of great city areas.

Appointed New Director Of Department Of Promotion

BISHOP Donegan announces the appointment of Harrison Fiddesof as Executive Director of The Department of Promotion of the Diocese. The appointment was effective August 1st.

Mr. Fiddesof comes to the Diocese from the Wells Organizations, Inc., a church fund raising counsel. He began with Wells as a canvass director, became Regional Manager in the Middle West with offices in St. Louis, Mo., later transferring to Regional Offices in Buffalo, N. Y. Just prior to coming with the Diocese he was Vice-President and Area Manager for the North East Area — which covered the Atlantic Seaboard from Washington to Canada.

Before going with Wells he was Treasurer at St. John's College, Annapolis, and also a member of the faculty at the school which has become so well known as "The Great Books School". He was executive officer of the fund raising committee of this institution. He also taught a course in Management in the School of Business Administration at the Universtiy of Baltimore.

After service as an officer in the Naval Reserve during the Second World War, he became a member of the Staff of the Virginia Theological Seminary. In addition to his duties as executive officer during the fund raising campaign, he was Bursar and Business Manager.

The Bishop's Message

My dear People:

It is good to be back after an interesting trip of duty and vacation and to resume our service together in the promotion of the Lord's work in our great Diocese.

In London I represented the Presiding Bishop at the meetings of the Consultative Body of the Lambeth Conference and of the Anglican Advisory Council on Missionary Strategy held at Lambeth Palace. The purpose of the meetings was to make preparations for the Lambeth Conference of 1958. There was a review of theological and practical subjects which would arise under the general heading of the Unity of the Church and of the Anglican Communion. In addition, advice was given to the Archbishop of Canterbury as President of the Conference on other topics which might be included in the agenda relating to the Church's task in the modern world, and to the problems, international and social, which particularly engage the Christian conscience.

Turning to Diocesan affairs, you will be interested to hear that services are now being held at the Chapel of St. Paul-on-the-Hill, Torbank, Ossining, and that the people of St. Barnabas Church, Ardsley, are worshipping in their magnificent new church which was completed in August. We rejoice that both these congregations are now in a position to make the impact in their respective communities which the Episcopal Church is so uniquely able to do with its adherence to apostolic order and evangelical truth.

We congratulate the Rector and congregation of All Souls', Manhattan, on the burning of the mortgage and the blessing of the chapel at the Children's Camp, located at Parksville, New York.

During the summer the Diocese has suffered a great loss in the deaths of the Rev. Melford L. Brown, Rector of the Church of the Ascension, Mount Vernon, who served the parish for forty years, one of the longest Rectorships in the Diocese; the Rev. Dr. Frederic S. Fleming, for 18 years Rector of Trinity Church, New York; the Hon. Douglas M. Moffat, Ambassador to Australia, Junior Warden of St. James', New York, and former President of the Church Club; Dr. Stephen F. Bayne, late Senior Warden of Trinity Church, New York, and Trustee of the Cathedral; Marsden Candler, Junior Warden of the Church of the Transfiguration, New York, and Trustee of the Cathedral. May they rest in peace and may light perpetual shine upon them.

A Service of Witness will be held at the County Center, White Plains, on Sunday afternoon, October 14th, at 4 p.m., under the sponsorship of the Convocation of Westchester. The Presiding Bishop of the Church, the Rt. Rev. Henry K. Sherrill, D.D., will be the preacher. The West Point Cadets' Choir of 100 voices will sing together with choirs from the churches in the Convocation. I hope that every Episcopalian in the area will be present to welcome our Presiding Bishop, and to help make this service a great demonstration of the faith and power of our Church.

The Suez Canal situation is a source of anxiety to our country as it is to the whole world, and I ask you to be constant in your prayers for understanding, justice and peace, and for the guidance of the Holy Spirit to those who are seeking to find a solution to this very grave international problem.

On St. Simon and St. Jude's Day, October 28th, I commence my tenth year as Bishop in this Diocese. As I reflect on the years that have passed since my consecration the one thought in my mind is that of deep gratitude to God for the privilege which is mine to serve in this office — for the loyalty and cooperation of our clergy who are striving earnestly to be in truth "Watchmen, Messengers and Stewards of the Lord"; thanksgiving for our laity whose devotion and self-sacrifice are contributing so much in helping to forward the spiritual work of our Church. I rejoice in our comradeship in Christ and I pray that the Diocese of New York will move from strength to strength in the years ahead as we work and live together in understanding and unity, and in the Faith of all the ages.

Faithfully your Bishop,

Horace W.B. Donegan

The Next Twelve Months In Christian Education

Beginning in September the Diocesan Department of Christian Education, under the leadership of the Rev. Osborne Budd, Rector of St. John's, Tuckahoe, as Chairman, will further expand its work and continue the major items in its program.

Six major changes in leadership have taken place. The Rev. Allen Reddick has resigned as Associate Director for College Work to head up the Department of Religion at Wabash College. Until a successor has been arranged, leadership in college work will be provided by the Department's Director, the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore. The Rev. E. N. West, Canon Sacrist of the Cathedral has resigned as Chairman of the Division of Adult Education and has been succeeded by the Rev. Dr. Wendell Phillips, Rector of Christ's Church, Rye. The Rev. L. J. Winterbottom, Rector of St. John's Church, Yonkers, has resigned as Chairman of the Division of Youth. The Rev. E. Otis Charles, Rector of St. Andrew's, Beacon, has been chosen to succeed him. The Rev. G. Clare Backhurst, Rector of Calvary Church, Manhattan, has resigned as Chairman of the Division of Leadership Training and has been succeeded by the Rev. Herbert Barrall, Rector of Grace Church, Middletown. The Rev. Howard O. Bingley, Vicar of the Chapel of Incarnation has become Chairman of the Summer Camps and Conference Committee. Membership in the Department will now include a representative from the Girls' Friendly Society, Mrs. David Cassatt.

Other new members of the Diocesan Department are: The Rev. Dr. Robert E. Terwilliger, Rector of Christ

It is the function of the Department of Missions of the Council of the Diocese to gather the data needed for long range planning and this material is now in preparation. Mr. C. Earl Morrow, well known planning consultant, has been engaged by the Department to assist in the preparation of a master plan for the portion of the Diocese west of the Hudson and for the eastern part of the Diocese north of White Plains.

The urban situation is under the constant study of the Department of Church Planning and Research of the Protestant Council of the City of New York which is largely supported by the major non-Roman Christian communions working in the City of New York. The Department of Missions is a contributor to and a participant in this important work.

Westchester and Rockland Counties are the fastest growing suburban areas, taxing the facilities of existing parishes and pointing out the need for gathering new congregations. Industrialization in the Poughkeepsie, Kingston and Newburgh areas of Dutchess, Ulster and Orange Counties is resulting in the building of many new homes on land formerly used for farming enterprises.

The greatest single challenge to the Church in the Bronx and Manhattan is the ministry to the occupants of mammoth new public and private housing developments. In some areas existing churches are well situated, but will require rehabilitation and improvement to enable them to function efficiently. In others there are no Episcopal Churches in effective proximity to the housing.

The Bishop in his Convention Address made this statement:

"It will shock you, as it did me, to learn that no new church for a newly gathered congregation has been built in Manhattan for 35 years, in the Bronx for 35 years, on Staten Island for 69 years, in Dutchess County for 56 years, in Putnam County for 73 years, in Orange County for 33 years, and in Rockland County for 36 years.

"The first new church to be built in Ulster County in 58 years is now under construction in Woodstock. In Westchester County until 3 years ago no church for a newly established congregation had been built for 17 years. The reason we face this crisis now is that in the past our church built so wisely and abundantly that we were on the ground when people moved into areas which were then sparsely populated. Now people are there in great numbers. But so rapid has been the growth of population that all over the Diocese there are new communities of thousands of homes and families where we have no churches. We have a responsibility to our own people in these new communities, and an opportunity to present the Episcopal Church to those who have no religious affiliation.

"As in the past, we must now have vision to build wisely and as abundantly as our means will permit. The time has come to lift our sights and adventure boldly and undertake a program of advance which will enable us better to serve the people of our Diocese. We cannot afford to delay provision for religious needs."

Mr. Fiddesof served two terms, six years, as a member of the Presiding Bishop's Committee on Laymen's Work and was, at the same time, Chairman of Men's Work in the 3rd Province. He served as a Vestryman at St. John's, Colonial Circle, in Buffalo and on various committees in the Church.

Mr. Fiddesof was born in Alexandria, Virginia, December 19, 1910. He is married to an active worker in The Woman's Auxiliary, and has one daughter, Margaret, 14 years old, who is active in young peoples work, and as a choir member. At present the Fiddesofs are living in Larchmont, N. Y.

Program of Christian Social Relations

The Church and Freedom is the theme suggested by the Division of Christian Citizenship of the National Council for emphasis by Diocesan Departments of Christian Social Relations. The purpose is to bring to as many people as possible an understanding of the theological foundations of freedom, and the application of Christian doctrine to current issues. The Christian Doctrines of Creation, of Man, of the Incarnation and of Redemption are basic to the program. There is no desire to present a humanistic or Utopian message, but rather to relate the great teachings of the Church to the contemporary scene.

In the Diocese of New York the program of the Department of Christian Social Relations, with the active cooperation of the Woman's Auxiliary, begins with two conferences in the northern Convocations. One, for Hudson and Ramapo Convocations, will be held from 4:30 to 9 P.M., Sunday, October 14 at St. George's Church, Newburgh. The other, for Dutchess Convocation will be held at the same hours, Sunday, November 4, at St. James Church, Hyde Park. The speakers at both conferences will be the Rev. John Krumm, Chaplain of Columbia University, and the Rev. John Turnbull, Canon Precentor of the Cathedral. Mr. Krumm will speak on The Theology of Freedom. Canon Turnbull will speak on Freedom to be a Creative Person — an Application of Christian Doctrine to Current Issues. Following the addresses there will be a panel discussion which will touch upon such problems as freedom of religion, freedom of the mind, civil liberties, and the media of mass communication.

In the Convocation of Westchester and the metropolitan Convocations it is planned to have a conference of Christian Social Relations chairmen and others interested to introduce the book, Christian Living, by the Rt. Rev. Stephen Bayne, which is due for publication December first. One conference will be held in Westchester and one in New York City for the Convocations of the Bronx, Manhattan and Richmond. The dates and places will be announced later.

The program comes to its conclusion with a great Service in the Cathedral at 4 P.M., Sunday, May 5, 1957. This Service will follow the pattern of the conferences in the northern Convocations. It will bring to the Diocese two speakers of outstanding competence and leadership in the field, and panel participants who are specialists in particular aspects of the subject.

As is often the case, the Diocese of New York is conducting a pilot project for the whole Church. The Division of Christian Citizenship of the National Council has already obtained the cooperation of eight Cathedrals for similar Services in the fall of 1957, with a great concluding Service at the Washington Cathedral in early 1958. The Division is planning for a travelling exhibit on the history of the Church and freedom to be shown in each of the cooperating Cathedrals for a week before and after the Service.

THE CHURCH AND THE HEALTH AND WELFARE AGENCIES

The Department of Christian Social Relations, at the request of the Diocesan Council, and with the cooperation of the Division of Health and Welfare Services of the National Council, is engaged in a study of the relationship to the Church of the fifteen Church-related health and welfare agencies located in the Diocese of New York. Conferences have already been held with the Presidents of the Boards of seven agencies, and will be held in the fall with

The Dean's Column

THE Cathedral program for Columbia University students, faculty and young business and professional people will resume in October. The following events will occur in the fall:

On Thursday evening, October 4, the Bishop of New York and the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral will entertain Union Theological Seminary Episcopalians for dinner in the Cathedral House.

On Friday, October 5, the Canon Pastor (who is Episcopal Advisor to students at Columbia University) and the Columbia-Barnard Canterbury Association will welcome new and old students at an open house. I will address the group informally.

On Sunday evening, October 7, at 5:00 p.m., the first of the Cathedral forums — open to all — will be held. I will talk on the topic, Christianity and the Life of Learning. Following the lecture there will be special supper discussion groups for undergraduates in the Columbia-Barnard Canterbury Association, for graduates and faculty people in the Graduate Faculty Forum, and for young business and professional people.

On succeeding Sundays in October, the Canon Theologian will present a series of lectures in the Cathedral Forum Series on The Trinity in Christian Thought.

On November 4, the forum speaker will be Professor John Baillie, Harry Emerson Fosdick Visiting Professor, Union Theological Seminary, speaking on How to Know God.

November 11 will bring the Reverend John Krumm, Columbia University Chaplain, on Religious Revival on the Campus: Fact or Fiction?

November 18 will feature a special program honoring overseas students, and the Rev. W. James Hughes, Bishop of Matabeleland, So. Rhodesia, will speak on Christianity in the African Ferment. Mr. George Varghese, Cathedral Foreign Student Worker, will be in charge of arrangements.

In December the Cathedral forums will be devoted to the topic, Religion and Art. On December 2, the speaker will be the distinguished Professor Paul Tillich, of Harvard University, lecturing on Christianity and Art. On successive Sundays Canon West will lecture on Byzantine Religious Art; and the Reverend Marvin T. Halverson, of the Department of Worship and the Arts, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., will lecture on Contemporary Religious Art.

THE Columbia-Barnard Canterbury Association, sponsored by Canon Pyle as advisor, will carry on a varied weekday program on the Columbia University campus. This will include Wednesday morning Corporate Communions in St. Paul's Chapel, student and faculty led discussions on Wednesday afternoons in Earl Hall, and service and evangelization projects in the neighborhood. Canon Pyle will have personal interviews with all entering Episcopalians, and a team of Seminarians and graduate students will engage in pastoral calling in the various dormitories and rooming houses.

THERE will be a special conference for faculty Episcopalians of the Diocese of New York on Saturday, December 1, between 5:00 and 9:00 p.m. Professor Paul Tillich will address the group and be their guest for dinner.

Canon Pyle will entertain Columbia University faculty members at a series of luncheon discussion meetings at the Men's Faculty Club at Columbia University through the fall.

THE Cathedral Forum on Religion and Psychology will meet on the second Monday of each month. This group of psychiatrists, psychologists, and clergy with training in responsibilities of the field of counseling will continue an intensive study of vocation from theological and psychological perspectives.

AN EVENING School of Worship, inaugurated last spring to match the morning School (elsewhere described in the Bulletin), will enter its second year next May. This newer but already promising School owes its existence to the joint sponsorship of the Dean and Chapter and the Woman's Auxiliary, District of Manhattan, Evening Branches. It is open both to women and men. This coming year the "owls" like the "larks", will devote themselves to a study of The Episcopal Church and Its Work.

THE accent this autumn will fall on a series of special conferences individually "tailored" to meet the needs of various parishes. At the end of September, we had a group of parishioners from the Church of the Divine Love, Montrose. In November, we await twenty-five laymen from a parish in Baltimore, and they will be followed another week-end by twenty-five more from Sewickley, Pennsylvania. And so it goes, right on through the year. Although the Cathedral tries to be "given to hospitality," it happens that within and without the Diocese, more parishes are asking to come than we can possibly receive.

These week-end conferences — during which laymen, twenty-five at a time, visit the Cathedral to attend the services, hear lectures, participate in discussion, and generally enter into the life of the Close — were initiated here about two years ago, most tentatively, as one part of our whole experiment to see what really is the function of a cathedral in this day and age. The tone of each conference, the letters of appreciation they evoke from the participants, and the tonic effect a conference seems usually to have on the home parish, have given us reason to believe that maybe here we have hit upon something which is at least a part of a cathedral's true function.

the others. The conferences have been beneficial in exploring the present relationship of the agencies to the Church, and the possibilities of increasingly helpful cooperation. For example, an early number of the Department bulletin will be devoted to St. Luke's Hospital.

These conferences will form the background of a Service on the theme of The Church and the Social Agencies which will be held at St. Thomas Church, New York, at 4 P.M., Sunday, March 3, 1957. Board members of all our agencies, executives and staff, Episcopal social workers in non-church-related agencies, Christian Social Relations chairmen and all others interested are invited to attend the Service. The Choir of St. Thomas will sing Evensong.

SOCIAL ACTION

The Department will continue its customary activities in the field of social action. The Executive Director is one of the fifteen Commissioners appointed by the Mayor to the City Commission on Intergroup Relations, and serves on the key Steering Committee of the Commission. He is a member of the Division of Christian Citizenship of the National Council; of the Department of Foreign Relations of the National Council of the Churches of Christ; of the Board of the Citizens Committee for Children of New York City; of the Citizens Housing and Planning Council; of the New York State Committee Against Discrimination in Housing; and of the New York City Youth Board of the City Planning Unit of the Committee on Changing Neighborhoods. The Department is represented in the Department of Christian Citizenship of the Protestant Council, and takes an active interest in municipal, State and Federal legislation of interest to the Church.

IV

PUBLICATION

The Department will continue the publication of its bulletin, Christian Social Relations.

PROPOSED PROGRAM, 1956-1957

THE CHURCH AND FREEDOM

This is the theme suggested by National Council Division of Christian Citizenship. The Division is planning an exhibit with the first showing in the New York Cathedral in the Spring of 1957, followed by showings in other cities in the Fall of 1957 and the winter of 1958.

The Department, in cooperation with the Woman's Auxiliary, is planning a series of four preparatory conferences:

1. Hudson-Ramapo ..... Sunday, October 14, 1956
2. Manhattan ..... Sunday, October 21, 1956
3. Westchester ..... Sunday, October 28, 1956
4. Dutchess ..... Sunday, November 4, 1956

Following these conferences study groups will be promoted in parishes, through the Woman's Auxiliary and parish Christian Social Relations Committees.

The Very Reverend the Dean has approved the date of May 5, 1957, for a Conference and Exhibit at the Cathedral, bringing in at least one and possibly two speakers of national reputation. This will, hopefully, involve both the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary and the Division of College Work.

Cathedral Choir School, Full House - Full Schedule

THE Cathedral Choir School is opening this Fall with a capacity enrollment of boarding students and ten day boys which includes a group of choristers from the Church of the Transfiguration who are being educated at the Cathedral Choir School under a joint arrangement. The boys, whose ages range from nine to thirteen years, will embark upon an intensive course of study which includes — in addition to basic subjects — Latin, French, Religious Subjects and Science. All of this, with the addition of eleven rehearsals and some thirteen choral services which they will sing per week, will keep them well occupied and they will seldom feel that the days drag.

Of special interest at this time is the return of the two boys who spent part of the summer in the choir at Westminster Abbey. After singing with this great choir for six weeks and living the life of English schoolboys in the Westminster Abbey Choir School, they set out upon an intensive tour of England which included visits to Warwick Castle, the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon

Church Fire Insurance Corp. Increases Rate Reduction

Effective July 1 The Church Fire Insurance Corporation has increased its rate reduction of Episcopal property in the State of New York from 10% below current published rates to 20% below such rates. This deviation is particularly advantageous, a company spokesman said, because it takes into account the fact that a five year policy is written at four times the annual cost and allows for the quarterly payment of premium without extra charge. It will also be helpful in assisting churches to maintain adequate coverage.

Continuous renewal policies are being reviewed and the increased deviation will be applied from the end of the first quarterly period following July 1.

Trinity Parish, Mt. Vernon, New York, will celebrate its 100th Anniversary of its incorporation on Sunday, October 21, beginning with an eight o'clock Communion Service followed by an eleven o'clock service at which the Rector, the Reverend Ernest D. Vanderburgh, will preach a special anniversary sermon. At four o'clock the same day, the Right Reverend Charles Francis Boynton, D.D., S.T.D., Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of New York, will be the guest speaker at a reception. Refreshments, in the Parish House, will follow the reception.

Church, Poughkeepsie, and Mrs. George Barratt, wife of the Rector of Christ Church, Bronxville. Both of these have been named by the Bishop as representatives from the Diocesan Council. Mrs. William Leidt, a representative from the Council last year, has been named to represent the Diocesan Board of the Woman's Auxiliary. Mr. Phillip Robbins, Superintendent of the Sunday School at Brewster has been named as a member at large.

Continuing from last year, the Rev. Robert Spears, Vicar of the Chapel of the Intercession, will serve as Chairman of the Children's Division and Vice-Chairman of the Department. Dr. Virginia Harrington, Professor of History at Barnard College, will continue as Chairman of the Division of College Work, and Mr. E. Allison Grant, Principal of Grace Church School, will carry forward the leadership of the Boarding & Day School Division. The Rev. Thomas Brown, Assistant at St. Peter's, Bronx, will continue as a member-at-large.

New developments in the program of the Department will include the following:

. . . Observance of Christian Education Week, Sept. 30th to Oct. 7th, will include a dinner to honor Sunday School Superintendents on Thursday, Oct. 4th to be held at a place to be announced, in Manhattan. Other denominations cooperating with the Protestant Council of the City of New York will be holding gatherings on the same day, and all are to come together in a Dedication Service for Church School Teachers at St. Bartholomew's Church at which the preacher will be the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, President of the National Council of Churches.

Publication, about November 1st, of the new Guild of the Christ Child material. This material has been re-written by a committee working under the Director for the past year and a half made up of: The Rev. Charles J. Buck, Rector of the Church of the Holy Nativity, Bronx; the Rev. Basil G. Law, Rector of St. Andrew's, Brewster; Mrs. Egon Roggenkamp, St. Edward the Martyr, Manhattan; Miss Marie Jilek, St. Peter's, Bronx; and Mr. & Mrs. Dexter Stephens of the Episcopal Center, West Cornwall, Connecticut. Mr. Stephens will also serve as publisher of the material.

. . . A new approach toward teacher training and interpretation to parishes in the form of an all day session with the morning and early afternoon devoted to a Quiet Day, followed by discussion in the late afternoon and evening. Three such days are already planned, and will be led by the Director of Zion Church, Dobbs Ferry; St. Mark's, Mt. Kisco; and St. James, Scarsdale.

. . . More help for leaders of youth groups is available through WAYS, a publication prepared by the clergy and young people of the Diocesan Youth Council. This is available from the Departmental Office at the cost of one dollar.

. . . The Youth program will be greatly strengthened through the cooperation of the Rev. Fred Gutekunst and the members of the congregation at St. John's-in-the-Wilderness, Bear Mountain: The former school building attached to the Church there is being made available as a Youth Center, and the Diocesan Division of Youth, if given permission by the Diocesan Executive Council, will sponsor a plan of weekend work parties and youth rallies under specially prepared clergy when the accommodation has been made ready.

. . . During the visit of the National Department Leadership Training Team in November two conferences will be held for Leaders of Parent Classes.

. . . Last Year's program of Teacher Workshops will be continued and expanded to meet increasing demand.

. . . For the first time in the Diocese of New York, the Division of College work conducted a training conference for local chaplains, faculty advisors, and members of the College Division. This was held at Holiday Hills, Pawling, on September 13th & 14th under the leadership of Dr. Virginia Harrington, the Very Rev. John Coburn, Dean of Newark, and Dr. Thomas Govan of the National College Work Commission. This conference, and other training conferences to follow, have been made possible through the generosity of St. James' Church, Manhattan.

. . . Plans are already under way for 1957 Summer Conferences at Trinity-Pawling School.

. . . Forums for Adult Leaders will again be conducted in Epiphany by the Adult Division.

. . . Curriculum Conferences poorly attended last June, will either be considerably revised or dropped.

. . . The Director's Forum, an association of professional workers in Christian Education, will meet four times during the year.

. . . Parish Life Conferences for both Clergy and Laity will be continued, and the Rev. E. J. Rooney, Associate Director for Leadership Training, will place still further emphasis on follow-up.

. . . Greater emphasis will be placed on Young Adult Groups in the parishes.

. . . The Division of Boarding & Day Schools will probably complete its work in the development of a statement of Standards for Church Schools in the Diocese, and will move to the implementing of these standards.

The six divisions have been reconstituted and each will press forward its own special concern under the overall direction of the Department.

where they saw a performance of "Love's Labors Lost", a ride through Sherwood Forest of Robin Hood fame, and visits to the Cathedrals at Lincoln, Southwell and the recently begun new Coventry Cathedral. They spent a whole day touring the University buildings at Oxford and finally sailed home on the R.M.S. Caronia arriving in time to spend ten days with their families before the opening of school. Next year two choirboys from Westminster Abbey will pay a return visit to the Cathedral Choir School.

The Suffragan

THE RT. REV. CHARLES F. BOYNTON, D.D., S.T.D. SUFFRAGAN BISHOP OF NEW YORK

I WORKED almost every day during my vacation this summer in the garden. It was back-breaking at times but always fascinating. As I weeded, I uncovered a world one all too rarely sees, a world of tiny animals and a world of little plants.

During the pauses that refresh, I had the opportunity of watching the ants and bugs steadily doing their appointed tasks, laboring truly to get their own living and doing their duty in that state of life unto which it had pleased God to call them, as the Catechism puts it. My weeding constantly disrupted their plans and accomplishments. But if I waited long enough, I would see them begin to bring order out of chaos, and by the next day I would find, from their point of view at least, everything decent and in order.

According to a much slower time schedule, but none the less persistent, the little plants followed the same pattern. The growing end of a shrub branch, snipped for the sake of design, or that of an intruder, for the purpose of destruction, would carefully divide and start growing again even sturdier than before as the result of its temporary frustration.

All in all, it was I who suffered more from frustration than did the little animals and the little plants until I finally accepted the lesson nature was teaching me. What was the lesson? It was the very same lesson all students of nature are bound to learn whether it be through the microscope, the naked eye or the telescope, namely that the Creator of it all is One of infinite patience His wonders to perform.

We appreciate God's wonders. There is no question about that. And we are driven by the Holy Spirit of God to perform at least little wonders of our own. But what we often do not appreciate is the patience, the infinite patience, God has exercised, and is forever exercising, in the performance of His wonders, and that we, created in His image, must exercise too.

My little bugs and plants of this summer have all too clearly reminded me of this lesson, and I am going to save myself a lot of frustration and heartache this winter as a result.

Join me in the attempt to practice the infinite patience of God through the months to come, won't you?

Men of Saint James The Less, Scarsdale, Start a New Project

LAST Spring The Men Of Saint James The Less, of the Parish of Saint James the Less, Scarsdale, started a project worth of emulation in other parishes and missions in the Diocese — and in the whole country.

Starting with the idea of a RED BOX, and in the spirit of the BLUE BOX of the Women's United Thank Offering, the men of the organization, and the Parish, devoted their offerings of thanks to Theological Education. At the Spring ingathering a tidy sum was realized. Of this first offering half the sum went to St. Andrew's Seminary in Manila, P. I., to which school the Rev. William G. Weinhauer — assistant minister at St. James the Less — had recently gone to teach. The other half was given seminaries in this country.

It would seem to us that here is a worthy project, worthy the attention, consideration, and action by the men of our Church all over America.

★ ADDRESS CHANGE
IN MAKING AN ADDRESS CHANGE, PLEASE SEND BOTH THE OLD AND THE NEW ADDRESS

This frame chapel, built in 1806 on a hill overlooking a stream, was the first of the three buildings which housed the congregation of St. Michael's Church.

Today St. Michael's rises above the debris of slum-clearance. Built in 1891, when the congregation was at its largest, the limestone church with its nine-story campanile will soon be facing a new housing project.

St. Michael's—Witness To Change

ST. MICHAEL'S, one of the oldest Episcopal parishes in New York City, is celebrating this year the 150th anniversary of its founding. Sesquicentennial festivities are scheduled for Sunday, October 7, when the children's choir from St. Michael's Church School will join the regular adult choir in an afternoon service of music in the church, 225 West 99th Street.

Built in 1806 as a summer chapel in the wealthy but rural resort area of Bloomingdale on the west side of Manhattan Island, St. Michael's is one of the very few urban churches to remain in its original location throughout such a long history. During the last century and a half it has witnessed the parish change from rural to suburban and then to wealthy residential, followed by a period of decline in the early years of the present century, when the crowded tenement areas of the West Side encroached on the parish and began to surround the church on three sides.

Today, as a result of the program of slum clearance, Bloomingdale is on the eve of a new renaissance. A subsidized, medium income housing development is due to rise in the near future across Amsterdam Avenue from St. Michael's, and the church is looking forward to this new opportunity for further service.

St. Michael's has found itself in recent years in the unique position of lying at the tangential point of Negro, Anglo-Saxon, Puerto Rican, and German neighborhoods, and as a result has been able to serve as a witness to the truly interracial and inter-class nature of the Church. All these groups are represented in the congregation, and the nine-man vestry includes a Negro, a Chinese, a Mexican, a Puerto Rican — and a man whose family has resided in the neighborhood since the days when Bloomingdale was a wealthy suburb.

Under the leadership of the Reverend William F. Corker, eighth and current rector, St. Michael's has been constantly seeking for new ways of service. An active man in whom a wide range of interests is coupled with an inspiring devotional sincerity, Mr. Corker was born in Northern Ireland and graduated from Union Theological Seminary. He became rector of St. Michael's in 1948.

Today several worthwhile activities are installed in St. Michael's parish house and closely related to the life of the parish. Offices are provided for a well-baby clinic, run by the New York Diet Kitchen Association and providing care for 2700 children in the neighborhood; for the New York Shut-In Society, which distributes wheel chairs and hospital beds to the infirm; and a community Scout Troop of 30 boys.

In the upper floors of the parish house a congregation of Russian refugees has established St. Seraphim's Russian Orthodox Chapel, while the cultural side of community life is recognized in the existence of two choral groups, the Cantata Singers and the Interracial Music Council, which maintain offices in the parish house and make use of the church for their concerts.

During the past century, too, St. Michael's was active in serving the needs of the community. In the early years a charity school was established for the education of poor children, and of the missions established by the rectors of St. Michael's throughout the northern part of Manhattan, seven grew to be parish churches in their own right and are active today. St. Michael's was also instrumental in the founding of many charitable institutions, including the House of Mercy, for the rehabilitation of wayward women, the Home of the Homeless, which later became St. Barnabas' House, the New York Infant Asylum, and the Sheltering Arms, a home for handicapped children.

Lend A Helping Hand To Refugees

WHEN last Christmas Bishop Donegan welcomed a little family of four refugees coming to this country under his sponsorship, he started the ball rolling for a Diocesan program of mercy which will continue until March or April of 1957.

Very soon the fiftieth refugee will arrive in our Diocese. He may be a thirty-year old Dutch piano tuner, or a member of a young Chinese family, or Jan de Wit with his new bride, or a Greek farmer and family. Or she may be a Yugoslav woman with her mother and her fourteen-year old boy for whom she seeks a good home in America, the land of opportunity. Or else it may be someone entirely unexpected, because the Refugee Committee never knows. Due to the uncertainty of the whole program the committee's policy is to try to care for each individual or family as it comes, finding a suitable job and a place to live when the refugee boat comes in.

The clergy of Trinity Church, New York, made it possible for the committee to house Charles Wagner, his wife and daughter at Chelsea Hotel for two weeks until Mr. Wagner found his own permanent placement. The Rector and Curates of St. James' Church, New York, did the same for the Leis family of four, now living in a near-by Lutheran parish house where Mr. Leis is sexton. The Rector of St. Thomas Church, New York, financed Helmut Popp and his wife and grandchild for the first few weeks. Mr. Popp was found a job and already has bettered himself. The chairman of a men's club committee at St. Bartholomew's, White Plains, has had a unique experience: After being brought into the midst of his parish family, Mr. and Mrs. Friedrich Geurtsen named after him their third child, born in White Plains since their arrival. And so it goes.

At this moment our Diocese is in the lead, and probably will continue to be, in the actual reception and placement of refugees. The Chairman of the Committee is continuously being asked to help the National Committee at 281 because, after all, New York is the port of entry and therefore the key to the whole situation.

To meet this responsibility which we as a Diocese have had thrust upon us and are glad to accept, the active help of every parish, priest, and congregation is necessary. Some parishes can only give money. The Committee can house a family temporarily for about $150. This is a blessed first step.

But most of all we need a small group, or even an individual, in each parish who will take a gigantic step of faith and say, "I will place a couple or a small family. Give me two weeks' notice!"

The refugee program has become an emergency relief activity of our Diocesan Christian Social Relations program. Our objective now is to meet each situation as it arrives and to help a few of God's unfortunates to become self-sufficient. Where there is a will there is a way by the grace of God.

In faith we can accomplish far more than we can ever imagine. Won't you now write to the Rev. E. Walter Chater, Diocesan Refugee Committee, Harrison, New York. Don't just express your interest. The time is too late. Just say, "We will undertake the impossible. Tell us when the boat arrives and a few details about our refugee family. We will place them." Thank you.

Guild Of The Christ Child Revision

THE Diocesan Department of Christian Education announces the publication, about November 15th, of a complete revision of its Guild of the Christ Child material. For more than a decade material prepared by the New York Board of Religious Education, following the lead of the Diocese of Newark, has been broadly used throughout the Episcopal Church. In a normal year parishes have purchased approximately five thousand sets of the material, to be used in contacting parents of newly baptized children during the three years immediately following.

The changes made in the material provide a three year interpretation of the Church's theology of Baptism addressed to parents with a newly developed emphasis on the Anniversary of the child's Baptism. Interpretation of the significance of Easter, Christmas and Whitsunday for parents and child are also included. Three copies of a valuable

My dear People:

THIS is Every Member Canvass time when we are asked to give to the Church for the spread of God's Kingdom. In the building of the Christian fellowship at home and throughout the world, the Diocese of New York has an obligation to assume its share of the responsibility for the work of the whole Church, which is the rightful concern of us all. The National Church has asked us to give next year $512,408 for the maintenance of its program at home, and throughout the world. Our Council asks us to contribute $427,465 for missionary needs in our own Diocese during the coming year. I would remind you that the Council budget through the Department of Missions helps to pay the stipends of 48 Diocesan missionary clergy. Each mission congregation takes care of as much of the salary as it can, and the remainder of the stipend is paid by the Diocese. The Department of Missions also aids in the programs and maintenance of 58 missions and assisted parishes. These congregations located in strategic areas and depressed neighborhoods are unable to carry on the required program of activities without Diocesan assistance.

THE Council budget is also responsible for the Departments of Christian Education, Promotion, Christian Social Relations, and Finance; and from this budget appropriations are made to the Episcopal Service to the Aged, the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, the Seamen's Church Institute, and the Youth Consultation Service. As you see, this budget represents the ongoing missionary program in our Diocese.

THE National Council quota, together with the Council budget, gives New York a total missionary objective for 1957 in the amount of $939,873.00. If we are to come anywhere near the goal every member of the Church must know of the needs and have an opportunity to contribute to the program. I urge every Rector and Vestry, every Vicar and Advisory Board, to see to it that the program of the Church is presented and explained to every member of the congregation. Many of our people are unaware of the Church's activities in the Diocese and beyond, and some have never been asked to contribute to the life and work of the Church. Let us have a thorough, carefully organized Every Member Canvass in every congregation this year.

THE contributions to Builders for Christ Campaign and the increase in missionary giving indicate a deepened sense of responsibility on the part of our people, and for this we rejoice. But the plain fact is that in spite of the gains in giving, we are not able, through lack of adequate resources, to meet the opportunities to extend the ministry of the Church. There are a number of areas into which pepole are moving rapidly where at present there is no witness for our Church. Unless we build soon in these communities, it will be too late. When you consider what you should give to the Church, I cannot emphasize too strongly that your gift should be in terms of gratitude to God for His goodness to you, and not merely in terms of meeting an assigned quota.

I AM glad to announce the organization of a Diocesan laymen's movement, to be known as "The Bishop's Men." I have appointed Mr. Alexander Saunders of Garrison as Diocesan Chairman, Mr. Harrison Fiddesof, Executive Director of the Department of Promotion as Vice-Chairman, and Bishop Boynton as Episcopal Advisor. I bespeak the cooperation of the clergy in this effort to strengthen the manpower of the Diocese. The purpose of laymen's work is "to deepen the spiritual life of the men of the Church—to extend the impact of Christianity in our time—to support the kind of program the Church should have—to enlist the special skills and talents of the men in the service of the Church."

CONGRATULATIONS to all the clergy and laity who were responsible for the great Service of Witness held at the County Center in White Plains. The congregation of nearly 5,000 people was a thrilling demonstration of the strength of our Church in Westchester.

BISHOP Boynton and I will be at Pocono Manor, Pennsylvania, during the week of November 11, attending the interim meeting of the House of Bishops. There are many matters of importance to be considered by the Bishops and I ask your prayers that God will grant us the guidance of His Holy Spirit as we meet together.

The Lord be with you.

Faithfully your Bishop,

new pamphlet on the responsibility of Godparents will be included in the first unit of material going to the home. It is hoped that this will be sent by the parents to those who are chosen to serve as godparents.

The material is being published by Dexter Stephens, West Cornwall, Conn., who has been serving as distributor of the Guild material for the past two years. He will continue to distribute the new material. The price will be $1.00 per set, marketed to the parish in a storage envelope. It is suggested that parishes appoint one person to be in charge of the program and provide sufficient workers to allow the material to be taken to the home on eight different occasions during the three or four years of a young child's life. If home visits are not possible, it is suggested that the materials be mailed.

Units should be received between birth and Baptism, at the time of Baptism, on the first anniversary of Baptism, on the second anniversary of Baptism, on the Christmas following the second anniversary of Baptism, on the third anniversary of Baptism, on the Easter following the third anniversary, on the Whitsunday immediately following.

Orders for the material should be placed with

Cathedral Counselling Service Has Increased Facilities

With the return of the Reverend Dr. Kenneth Mann to its staff, the Cathedral Counseling Service is offering increased opportunities for pastoral counseling and psychotherapy. Persons in need of this kind of help can be referred by parish clergy to the Cathedral Counseling Service through the Reverend John W. Pyle, Canon Pastor. When necessary, referrals for more intensive psychiatric help can be made with the assistance of the members of the Cathedral Forum on Religion and Psychology. Social service counseling is also available from the Reverend Richard Reid, Assistant Pastor.

On June 16th, Dr. Mann was granted the Ph.D. degree in clinical psychology at the University of Michigan. In addition to his work as psychotherapist on the staff of the Cathedral Counseling Service, he will devote part of his time to diagnostic work with the Department of Psychiatry at St. Luke's Hospital. Dr. Mann's extensive work in the field of clinical psychology has been prompted by his deep interest in the relationship between religion and psychotherapy. This interest has been expressed through his membership in the Cathedral Forum on Religion and Psychology, the National Academy of Religion and Mental Health, of which he is Treasurer, and the National Committee on Religion and Psychology of the American Psychological Association, of which he is Chairman.

The Cathedral Counseling Service is made possible because of the Emma Wade Scott Memorial Fund.

Parish Life Conferences

Since March, 1954, the Department of Christian Education has held 21 Parish Life Conferences for the laity and 10 for the clergy, plus one Special Conference for clergy and professional church workers. Between now and the Fall of 1957, 12 more are currently planned. It should be noted at the outset that these conferences have been scheduled according to parochial demands which the Department has done its best to meet. It should also be noted that these figures are independent of those for Trinity Parish, which has had its own PLC program.

Very little publicity has been given the conferences because originally only a limited number could be scheduled. Since suitable Conference Centers are still not always available when wanted most, and leadership is always scarce for obvious reasons, the number scheduled is still limited. The Department has always felt that the Follow Up of these conferences is of prime importance, and partly for this reason an Associate Director for Leadership Training was added to the Department.

It is also true that a certain amount of mystery has surrounded these conferences. This has not been deliberately planned so much as it has been found natural to the character of the conference experience itself. For many who have attended, the Parish Life Conference has meant personal growth in the things of the Spirit. Such an experience generates enthusiasm in people which is often accompanied by a certain amount of reticence—thank heavens—to speak about what has happened to them. This reticence in the case of the Parish Life Conference experience is compounded not only of reluctance to speak personally, but also a genuine inability to describe the essence of what did happen. Mostly for this reason, the delegates who have returned from Parish Life Conferences have replied "Go and see for yourself" when they have tried to explain their enthusiasm and answer queries about what happened at the Conference.

Still other reasons for the scarcity of publicity in connection with these conferences are traceable to the structure of the conferences themselves. The basic design remains the same. It provides a lot of freedom within which the delegates and the leader can move, but it doesn't determine their movements. The leader's task—among others—is to encourage the maximum development of which the Conference Group is capable. This is frequently more marked in the case of individuals than with the group as a whole, but the leader has to begin where the group is, and proceed from there. Obviously there are many variables effecting the growth that occur at any given conference; the particular people present, the leader himself, the tasks assigned by the leader, and the interplay between one and all. No wonder the result is never the same!

Further reason for "official" reluctance to describe these conferences is due to the fact that the effectiveness and integrity of them depend largely on a fresh approach to the questions presented (which vary slightly) and the discus-

The Dean's Column

Ed. Note: This is the substance of the address given by Dean Pike at Trinity Church, Manhattan, at a special service for Members of the Bench, and Bar, at 4 PM on October 4th.

THE widespread uneasiness among lay people about lawyers is in part due to the fact that the attorney generally enters the layman's life at tension points, where the latter is likely to already be in a mood of fear, resentment, frustration and confusion as to his own motives. Thus suspicion is easily engendered. But this uneasiness in "the public image" of the profession is also a response to what is a widespread defect in the attitude of lawyers toward their professional responsibilities. So-called "legal ethics", intended as minimal ground rules, have tended to become the maximum measure of the lawyer's duty to his client, to the judicial process and to society.

The answer is not to elaborate the rules of legal ethics, but to engender in each lawyer a higher sense of dedication to the fullest service of mankind with his particular gifts of talent and training (and each within, of course, his particular limitations).

In dealing with other professionals such as physicians and clergy, laymen are accustomed to expect a maximum effort to advance their best interests and at the same time to safeguard the interests of others and to bring to society at large those things conceived of as beneficial to a given individual. This too should be more characteristic than it is of our profession as lawyers. And the peculiar fact of the adversary nature of legal practice should not be allowed to vitiate what above all else could enhance the confidence of the public in the legal profession.

How can there be an increase in a sense of maximum service for above the level of minimum legal ethics? It is something about which you can't make rules. It must come from the inside. To the word "profession" (meaning, what a man holds himself forth to be) we need to add the word "vocation" (meaning, what a man is called to do). What we need is a recognition that every man is under the call of His Creator to serve with his whole heart, mind, soul and strength; in other words, to use his peculiar gifts — fully and all the time — in the way which will most fully aid the achievement of the will of God in society. This is, in short, to make his daily work—whether it be teaching, social work, brick-laying, or the law—a ministry, and it can be as high a ministry as what we generally call by that name. Thus a lawyer accepting such a claim will view every decision, every service to — and influence upon — his client, the way he distributes his time among various claims upon him, what he is willing to take on and not willing to take on — as under judgment, recognizing that there is a higher claim upon him than legal requirements or the rules of a bar association.

Such a sense of vocation can provide a positive and imaginative ethic that will far surpass the quite necessary but inadequate negative restrictions of typical codes of legal ethics. Such a dynamic will also provide a greater social consciousness and push the members of the bar more conspicuously — as of yore — into the realm of political and social reform. Too often the lawyer seems concerned to operate successfully within the given framework of things without dedicating himself to a task for which he is especially qualified — to protect the framework from assault insofar as it is good, and insofar as it is bad to change it so that thereby men may better be served.

It was disturbing, for example, that at the recent convention of the American Bar Association, the guardians of the law there assembled were unwilling to adopt a resolution on the burning question of our day — the question of compliance with the decision of the Supreme Court on integration in the public schools. If the lawyers are unwilling to defend the Constitution as interpreted by our highest adjudication, to whom may we look for sound leadership in its defense?

The national Church bodies have stood by the Supreme Court, as have many other representative groups. Are the lawyers to remain silent?

By raising these problems, I am not implying that by and large lawyers have been persons of low quality. Quite the reverse has generally been the case. The real problem is that a lawyer who has sound religious beliefs and high ethical standards in his family life and interpersonal relations generally often fails to make any connection between his religio-ethical system and his daily functioning as a craftsman.

Parish Life Conferences

sions which ensue (which vary a great deal). It isn't too different from the kind of vitality and spontaneity which enliven an unrehearsed Radio or TV Program. Each conference is designed to "start from scratch" with all the variables common to any conference. Obviously much of the force of the interplay between the participants would be lost if some were to come prepared in advance for what to expect. It can't be overemphasized that what develops among the people present does so only when it happens naturally. In view of this, the less said about the details of the conference design the better, and when the results are never the same, the delegates naturally find it hard to agree on what the essence of the experience was.

It has been stated above that the development of these conferences is in the hands of the leader and the delegates themselves. The interplay between one and all is important; the atmosphere needs to be free and one which encourages participation on the part of as many as possible. Along with this, the delegates learn the crucial importance of listening to one another as the discussion develops. This matter of participation is an all too familiar problem in Parish Life. Either the same people do all the work, or not enough people offer to do what has to be done — or both — or the work is of such a kind that it isn't worth doing. Sometimes it is done in such a way that it is difficult to achieve cooperation among those doing it, much less attract the support of others. Consequently, insight into this problem is of real importance to the Parishes represented and is a discovery which each group has to make for itself in the course of the conference.

One facet of participation is its effect on each individual. Each of us is alike in enjoying the feeling that our words are being considered attentively by those to whom we speak them; we like our contributions appreciated by others. Gradually each group discovers the key to creative discussion, one part of which is the awareness that more often than not the important thing is not what was said so much as their response to the person who said it. Just by the way they handle one another's contributions they can know what it is to involve everyone in the task at hand. As Canon Fison said at The Cathedral, "a reciprocal speaking relationship" is an important feature of Christian community.

Finally, one of the oft-mentioned fruits of each conference is best expressed in the word "belonging". It is more than togetherness, although that is a feature, too, of these unusual conferences. The delegates spend a great deal of time with one another — as the schedule of 15 hours work would indicate. They spend more time with one another — eating, discusssing, working, and relaxing — than they have time to do in months of normal parish life. It is more than fellowship — Oh blessed word! Belonging, as the participants discover, is an answer to every man's loneliness. Somehow they feel wanted and valued as persons, the persons they are and have been at the conference, and they rediscover the importance of people, even the people back home, over the things of this world. Although it is only a temporary thing, it is worthwhile even for a short time, and makes sense to those who bother to go, to participate, to listen, and share in the give and take of the conference. So much the better when it arouses a longing for more of the same when they return home.

Below are the dates and places of the Lay Conferences currently scheduled. Any Parish through its Rector can send 5-6 delegates to one or more of these conferences. All inquiries and reservations should be made as far in advance of each conference as possible, and should be addressed to: The Reverend E. J. Rooney, Box 92, Katonah, New York.

The Cathedral Library

FOR two years now, readers of the BULLETIN have known that a Cathedral Library has been trying to burgeon. Originally, the plans called for a grand opening in November of this year — and we almost made it. But now the opening must be postponed until Eastertide of 1957 at the earliest. The reason? A happy one: The Trustees of the New York Training School for Deaconesses have decided that the books which formerly constituted the Library of St. Faith's House — books which have been in storage since 1948 — should come back to the William Reed Huntington Memorial Room in Diocesan House where properly they are at home, to be incorporated into the collection already owned by the Cathedral.

"The Bishop's Men"

A movement of great importance is developing throughout the Christian Church. The power of the Christian layman is being put to work. The Church began as a small body of laymen: the Disciples themselves. Today men are rediscovering and entering into this ancient lay ministry.

Over the past decade, Episcopalian men have been eagerly finding more and more ways to contribute their time and skills to the purposes for which God put his Church in the world. This upsurge of lay interest and action is the most important, probably the most exciting fact of church life today.

Men of the Church have always found projects for their time and attention. They have made calls; they have taken charge of ushering; they have helped to raise funds; and they have done many mechanical and manual jobs upon the parish properties which, of course, must always be manned. But beyond these projects, there is a ministry of the layman and this ministry is not the same as the ministry of the clergyman. The layman has a particular ministry — the task assigned by Almighty God to every member of His Church to be the Church at all times and in all places.

Men throughout the Convocations of the Diocese of New York are becoming active in this special ministry in a movement which is starting in the grass roots and growing to the top.

The purpose of this growing activity on the part of Episcopal men is to:

- Deepen the spiritual life of the men of the Church.
- Extend the impact of Christianity in our time.
- Support the kind of program the Church should have.
- Enlist the special skills and talents of the men in the service of the Church.

To accomplish these objectives, the Right Reverend Horace W. B. Donegan, S.T.D., D.C.L., The Bishop of New York, has organized a laymen's group to be known as "The Bishop's Men" and he has appointed the Right Reverend Charles F. Boynton, D.D., S.T.D., Suffragan Bishop of New York, as his Episcopal Advisor to the group. Bishop Boynton appointed Mr. Alexander Saunders of Garrison, New York, as General Chairman of "The Bishop's Men" and Mr. Harrison Fiddesof of Larchmont as Vice-Chairman. He also appointed the following Convocation Chairmen:

Mr. Eugene E. Badger of Newburgh, New York, Chairman, Convocation of Hudson.

Mr. F. Pepper Birchard of Staten Island, as Chairman of the Convocation of Richmond.

Mr. William F. Gilroy of Bedford Village, Chairman of the Convocation of Westchester.

Mr. George Oakes of the Bronx, New York, Chairman of the Convocation of the Bronx.

Mr. Frank Schley of North Arlington, New Jersey, Chairman of the Convocation of Manhattan.

Mr. Edward Van Buren of Middletown, New York, Chairman of the Convocation of Ramapo.

The Chairman for the Convocation of Dutchess is yet to be appointed.

Each of these chairmen will appoint a key man in every congregation in the Diocese of New York, the key man to be the coordinator and expediter of what the laymen in his congregation want done in the areas mentioned above.

It is hoped that the men will concern themselves in the Deepening of Spiritual Life of the men of the Church, in Corporate Communions, Retreats, Quiet Days, Bible Study Groups, Doctrine Study Groups, and Discussion Groups on vocations.

In the area of the extension of the impact of Christianity in our times, they would concern themselves with evangelism, establishing missions, starting neighborhood Church Schools, mission study groups, lay reading, and sick calling.

In the area of support of the kind of program the Church should have, they would concern themselves with developing stewardship, canvassing, installing good business methods in parish affairs, enlarging the program (and vision) of the parish.

And in the area of laymen's special skills and talents in the service of the Church, they will work within the framework of the manual and mechanical functions which a good many men are already performing today.

For the man in the pulpit

Man in the Middle
By JAMES A. PIKE and HOWARD A. JOHNSON
The Seabury Advent Book

IN THESE famous trialogues — presented over the ABC network — an ordinary man of today debates the Seven Deadly Sins with representatives of God and Satan. As he faces anger, pride, envy, self-indulgence, hypocrisy — he is caught in a rapid crossfire of conflicting advice. Written in a lively, colloquial style with frequent flashes of wit. $2.25

The Pulpit Rediscovers Theology
By THEODORE O. WEDEL

A CHALLENGING book that bridges the gap between the preacher and the religious revival of our time. How can the man in the pulpit dramatize the new insights of theology and the rich heritage of our Christian past for the man in the pew? An inspired book that shows how to fill the needs moral idealism alone has failed to satisfy. $3.50

Go Preach!
Edited by THEODORE O. WEDEL and GEORGE W. R. MacCRAY
Foreword by the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill

THIRTY outstanding sermons ranging in subject from the Church seasons to great religious themes. The authors are such well-known clergymen as James A. Pike, John Heuss, and W. Russell Bowie. Each sermon is introduced by its biblical text and a brief biography of the preacher. $3.50

Cathedral Library

Accordingly, one hundred and twenty-two large cartons of books were deposited in our stock room late this past summer. There are perhaps five thousand volumes. With the "homecoming" of these books, we have the nucleus of a useful working library, specializing in all things Anglican.

Now begins the slow, patient labor of integrating the two collections. That is why no gala opening can take place this year. But what delay could have been more advantageous and more auspicious for the future!

All of this is gain. But now to report a loss: At the end of two years of distinguished service in creating this Library, Miss Polly Telford, M.A., the first Cathedral Librarian, has left us to become Director of Christian Education of Christ Church, Greenville, Delaware. She goes to our great regret, but also with our best wishes and our best thanks. Her final service to us was that of preparing an article on "The Architectural Library of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine" which appeared in the September issue of "Special Libraries," the official journal of Special Libraries Association.

Her successor is Miss Carol Joy. To the task of Cathedral Librarian she brings great devotion to scholarship and much knowledge of books. At her side will stand Mrs. David Edman, who bears the title of Cataloguer, a title she won during the summer months when, alone and unassisted, she caused this aspect of the work to proceed with lightning speed.

It is respectfully suggested to the Clergy and Laity of the Diocese that persons planning to dispose of books of a religious nature consider the possibility of giving them to their own Cathedral Library. It goes without saying that since this is a highly specialized collection, all books offered must be passed on by the Library Committee to see whether or not they fall within certain categories agreed upon by the Chapter. For information, kindly apply to The Librarian, Cathedral Heights, New York 25, N. Y.

Conferences For Organists

Many organists have written, expressing a desire to spend a few days on the Cathedral Close attending the services and studying the methods of choir training, service accompaniment, and other musical matters.

Because it would have been impractical to have each one of these organists come one at a time, it was decided to devote a week-end, twice a year, to a group of not more than twenty such organists. The first week-end was held last March, and the second was held the week-end of October 13th.

The core of the week-end is attendance at Morning and Evening Prayer on Saturday; and Morning Prayer Sung Eucharists, and Evensong on Sunday; and all of the rehearsals preceding these services. In addition, there are lectures on the nature and status of music in the Church, the training of boys' voices, choral conducting, liturgics, and lively discussions in small and large groups of the problems arising out of the music in parish churches.

About fifteen states have been represented at the two conferences, and the organists and choirmasters have included musicians of great stature in the American Church as well as those of humble missions. They have all of them found a common meeting ground at the Cathedral.

Womans Auxiliary
Diocesan Devotional Life Workshop

Meets, fourth Tuesday of the month throughout the year, except on legal holidays when schools are closed and the month of December.

Time 10:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. At St. Thomas' Guild Hall, 1 W. 53rd St., New York.

NEGLECTED ASPECTS OF CHRISTIANITY — Theme for the year. It will be divided into the following subjects:

1. Relationships And Responsibilities To Others
2. Proper Use Of Time
3. A Christian's Use Of Money
4. Our Responsibility To The Education Of Children

The purpose is to examine our attitudes and practices and provide material for Parish programs and discussion groups. It would be helpful if the same Parish representative could attend meetings regularly; however, anyone is welcome even if she can attend but one session.

Some programs will be carried over into two or more sessions in order to properly cover the subject. All will be clergy led and each session will begin with a thoughtful consideration of a passage of Scripture appropriate to the subject.

Books from the Workshop Lending Library may be taken out for one month, free of charge.

A Family Service of Witness

Thousands of members of the 60 Episcopal parishes and missions in Westchester County participated in the first "Family Service of Witness," sponsored by the Convocation of Westchester of the Diocese of New York, at the Westchester County Center, White Plains, Sunday, October 14, starting at 4 p.m.

The Right Reverend Horace W. B. Donegan, S.T.D., D.C.L., The Bishop of New York, presided and spoke; the Right Reverend Charles F. Boynton, D.D., S.T.D., Suffragan Bishop of New York, was the officiant; and the Most Reverend Henry Knox Sherrill, D.D., the Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church was the preacher.

At this service the West Point Cadet Choir sang under the direction of John A. Davis, Jr., organist and choirmaster of the Cadet Chapel. In addition to the West Point Cadet Choir, the choir of St. Peter's Boys School, Peekskill sang. These two choirs were joined by the choirs of all the parishes and missions, some 750 in number. With the choirs were the acolytes of the churches represented and also there were present the members of the vestries, advisory boards, Woman's Auxiliaries and all other parish groups, including young people.

The Bishop's Message

ONCE again we are to celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace, and join with the angelic chorus "peace on earth to men of good will." Christmas speaks of peace on earth—not of peace as a vivid dream, or as a wistful hope, but of peace actual, realized, and reigning on earth.

When we contemplate the tragic facts of the world situation today we might possibly wonder whether God really intends to answer our prayers for peace, at least for this earth, and in our time. The angels' song seems to state a prophecy which has not been fulfilled. Where is the promised peace? Is the vision of the angels not a failure and a fond delusion? Such questions are the result of believing a promise which was never made.

It is well to remember, when we are tempted to believe that the angels' announcement is hopeless of fulfillment, that the message and the promise is not peace to all men. It is not a proclamation of unconditional peace; the promise of the angels was to men of good will. Is not this an answer to the difficulty which is sometimes felt even by those who believe devoutly? The announcement is that if the condition is fulfilled then shall come peace.

The way of peace has been opened to us. It is the way our Lord took—the way of good will, of uncompromising love and forgiveness. The tragedy of the world is not the failure of God but the failure of man to walk in the way which leads to peace. The reason we have not yet been able to create a world of settled and secure peace is that our efforts have lacked just this spirit of good will. There can be no peace now, or ever, without human cooperation, and that cooperation must be the expression of good will in human hearts.

If we surrender ourselves to the guidance and influence of the Prince of Peace, then and then only, will he develop in us the good will without which we cannot cease to be at war, at war with each other and with ourselves.

When we ask whether the bitter racial jealousies and the national rivalries will ever be submerged in the interest of the larger good in the welfare of all; when we wonder if mankind is ready, or ever will be ready, to think genuinely in world terms, the answer lies in the heart of the Christmas message, in the angels' song on that memorable night while the shepherds watched their flocks.

Wherever there is good will, there is peace. The Ambassadors of God were telling the truth, there is always peace on earth among men of good will.

If we welcome into our hearts the Saviour whose birth the angels hailed, he will banish the demons of hatred and revenge, of jealousy and greed. He will fill our poor human hearts with that spirit of mercy, of love and truth, which is the only way by which the will becomes good.

What can I give him, poor as I am?
If I were a shepherd, I would bring a lamb:
If I were a wise man, I would do my part:
Yet what can I give him —
Give my heart.

Horace W.B. Donegan

On Thanksgiving Day, November 22, at the 10:30 service in The Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, fifteen Choristers were admitted to the Choir of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine by Bishop Donegan.

The Choristers, who, in the tradition of the Choir, have been serving an apprenticeship, were presented by the Very Reverend James A. Pike, J.S.D., D.D., Dean of The Cathedral Church.

At the ceremony, which took place at the steps of the Great Choir, each Chorister promised to be attentive and reverent, and to conduct himself in all things as becometh those who are in the House of God; to exercise the spirit of brotherly love towards all those who are associated with him in this service of praise; to be obedient to those to whom the direction of this Choir has been given. After which the Choristers put on surplices, and each in turn came and kneeled before The Bishop, who gave each boy a Psalter saying: "See that what thou singest with thy mouth, thou believe in thy heart, and show forth by thy works."

THE CATHEDRAL COUNSELING SERVICE

THROUGH the Cathedral Counseling Service we hope to make available to the clergy of the Diocese of New York and their parishioners the healing resources of comprehensive Christian counseling.

It has been our long-standing conviction that counseling is most effective when it integrates Christian theology, the pastoral ministry, social service, and psychotherapy. The Cathedral Forum on Religion and Psychology has met regularly to consider ways in which these resources can be brought into a fruitful relationship.

This interest has been implemented in a practical way by bringing the Reverend Dr. Kenneth W. Mann to the Cathedral staff. In addition to his training in theology leading to the S.T.B. from General Theological Seminary and several years of general pastoral experience, Dr. Mann has engaged in intensive study and internship over a number of years in the field of clinical psychology. He has the Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan in this discipline. Dr. Mann devotes part of his time to diagnostic work with the Department of Psychiatry at St. Luke's Hospital. He is Chairman of the Committee on Religion and Psychology of the American Psychological Association and an officer of the National Academy of Religion and Mental Health.

Gerald J. Taylor, M.D. is serving as medical-Psychiatric Consultant for the service. And the St. Luke's Psychiatric Division, under the direction of John Cotton, M.D. is collaborating with the program in terms of consultation and referrals.

MANNER OF REFERRAL

The Cathedral Counseling Service is available to parishes of the Diocese of New York. Persons seeking help from this Service should be referred by a priest of this Diocese. Referrals may also be made by other professional consultants whose work lies within Diocesan boundaries. Initial requests for all counseling appointments should be made through the office of the Canon Pastor (UNiversity 5-3600).

MANNER OF SUPPORT

No person will be denied the assistance of the Cathedral Counseling Service for financial reasons alone. In offering its facilities to the Diocese, however, the Service will be pleased to receive reciprocal support in the form of contributions by persons being assisted. All contributions will be deposited to the special Cathedral fund which supports the Counseling Service and will be applied solely to the maintenance and expansion of this work. It is commonly held in therapeutic practice that some investment by the person being helped promotes responsible participation in the counseling relationship.

The Cathedral Counseling Service is supported in part by the Emma Wade Scott Memorial Fund.

The staff of the Service is as follows:
The Rev. John W. Pyle, M.A., B.D., Canon Pastor
The Rev. Kenneth W. Mann, S.T.B., Ph. D., Psychotherapist
Gerald J. Taylor, M.D., Psychiatric Consultant
The Rev. Richard Reid, A.M., B.D., Social Service Counselor
Mrs. David Edman, Secretary

We are glad to be able to offer to the Diocese this Christian ministry of healing.

James A. Pike

At the recent annual Convocation of the Faculté de Théologie Protestante de Paris, the Reverend Dr. Pierre Lestringant, Dean of the Seminary conferred the Doctorate honoris causa to the Reverend Rene Vaillant, Rector of the French Episcopal Church du Saint Esprit, New York, and honorary Canon of the Cathedral of the Holy Trinity, Port-au-Prince, in consideration of his many years of devoted service to the cause of the Church and to the diffusion of French culture in America as a professor and a priest. The Very Reverend Sturgis L. Riddle, Dean of the American Pro-Cathedral of the Holy Trinity in Paris represented Dr. Vaillant and accepted the degree on Sunday, November 18. The Reverend Dr. J. Maynard conferred the degree by delegation on Dr. R. Vaillant, in the historical surroundings of the French church which was founded in 1624 by Huguenot families seeking refuge in America against religious persecution.

An Out-of-the-ordinary Operation

"AN unusual opportunity to serve foreign seamen ashore in New York was given us when the Andrea Doria went down off Nantucket last July. The 75 crew members who came here had lost their belongings, their ship and their jobs, but they had also lost something more important than any of these. Corralled like cattle on the end of a pier, they watched rampaging television crews and newsmen record indictments from over-wrought survivors of the tragedy, charging them with cowardice and neglect of duty. Italian Line lawyers blocked any reply.

"When these men were brought to 25 South Street they were bristling with hostility and resentment. They saw policemen who were on hand to record their arrival in order to notify next of kin, and they surmised that they were being placed under guard. Some left the buses only after a good deal of persuasion and explanation and came in to register.

"We are very proud to report that five days later this same group of men staged a near-riot when ordered to move from the Institute to the Governor Clinton Hotel to join other members of the crew in awaiting repatriation to Italy.

"During the intervening days these Italian sailors — Roman Catholic to a man — had found a deep expression of Christian brotherhood in our building, among people of other faiths. They had been treated with friendship, respect, understanding, and an effort had been made to help each individual man adjust to the trying circumstances of the unexpected stay in New York. Those who had relatives in the ctiy were put in touch with them; others were taken to hospitals to visit injured shipmates; some were helped in replacing eyeglasses and false teeth; all were taken to Macy's and assisted with the problem of buying a new $60 wardrobe authorized by the Italian Line. A special recreation program was worked out for them. They were taken to a Sunday ball game at Ebbets Field; they went sightseeing; they visited the U. N.; they were given the experience of an Automat lunch and the familiar joy of Italian food and wine as the guests of two generous Italian restaurants in Greenwich Village.

"When it came time for these men to leave, language was no block to expression. Mr. Thomas Taggard, who as assistant to the Director took special charge of this project, was soundly kissed on both cheeks by every departing sailor. Back in Italy, the crew is still writing letters of thanks to the Institute."

Church School Advent Offering

For many years the N. Y. Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society has promoted an Advent offering in the Church Schools of the Diocese and the proceeds of the offering were credited to parish missionary quotas and considered as part of the appropriation of the Convention to the Society.

By action of the Council of the Diocese, it has now been decided that this offering should be devoted to all of the missionary work within the Diocese rather than to any one phase or organization of it.

The Department of Promotion has prepared a leaflet and a pence box and has sent supplies of both to all churches in the Diocese which have Church Schools and it is hoped that there will be 100% participation in the offering.

The proceeds will be credited to parish quotas as usual. Some parishes have indicated that they do not wish to use children's offerings to meet what might be considered a parish obligation and they are allowing the offering to represent an over-payment of the missionary quota. This, of course, is entirely acceptable and is encouraged.

The proceeds of the offering are to be sent to the Treasurer of the Diocese.

THE SPANISH EPISCOPAL LEAGUE

When is failure not a failure? The members of the recently formed Spanish Episcopal League of the Diocese of New York are pondering the answer to this question.

The League's first social venture on an inter-parish level, held in the auditorium of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Manhattan, on Friday night, October 26th, failed in its primary objective. The members of the League had hoped in this way to gather together Spanish-speaking and English-speaking Episcopalians so that the two groups might begin to get to know one another better. It was an excellent program composed of Spanish dances, piano and string quintet music, and choral singing, rendered by professionals and highly trained amateurs under the direction of Dr. Bartolome Bover. Nearly one hundred and fifty Episcopalians were enchanted with the performance and the opportunity to visit with one another, but almost all of them were Spanish-speaking members of the League. Only a handful of English-speaking fellow-Episcopalians were on hand to share in the opportunities of the evening.

The League will try again, but probably for a while, at least, on the parochial level because intercommunication and increasing mutual understanding between the Latin American and North American Churchmen of the Diocese of New York is one of the major objectives of the organization. When such an opportunity comes your way, may I urge you to take advantage of it. You will be well rewarded. Meanwhile, each of us can practice the above objective on the individual level, being sure to make each and every Episcopalian in our respective congregations feel completely at home and wanted regardless of race, color or language.

The Spanish Episcopal League was officially organized last Spring with the approval of The Bishop and held its first general meeting at the Chapel of the Intercession, Trinity Parish, on June 2nd. Mr. Juan Matteu, a most active and consecrated layman, is the President and is being ably assisted by an Executive Committee of seven, plus the Rev. Donald F. Gowe, Advisor to The Bishop on Spanish Work, and three other clergy as consultants. Some four hundred Spanish-speaking persons form the mailing list of the League to date.

The aims of the League are:

(1) The development of mutual understanding between the Latin Americans and the North Americans in our churches.

(2) The evangelization of the countless unchurched Latin Americans in the Diocese.

(3) The education of its members concerning the Doctrine, Discipline and Worship of the Church.

(4) The training of Spanish-speaking lay leadership.

(5) The fulfillment by League members of their civic responsibilities as citizens of city, state and country.

(6) The keeping alive of the culture and life of the Hispanic Community.

ENTHUSIASTIC audiences of clergy and lay delegates listened to the Reverend M. Moran Weston and the Reverend Richard E. Gary at the recent fall Convocation Meetings. The programs, set up by the Deans in consultation with the Department of Promotion, also featured a roll call of the churches during which representatives reported the amount each congregation expected to give toward the Missionary Quota for 1957.

Dr. Weston stressed the task of the Church today in the field of Evangelism. "While we do not choose the conditions under which we work in our generation," he said, "we could not wish for greater opportunities than those which face the Church today."

Mr. Gary told of the questions uppermost in the minds of clergy who feel especially called to Urban work, listing them and answering them in the light of his work at St. Mary's, Manhattanville:—(1) 'Is there need for the Church in the area?' (St. Mary's is one of four non-Roman churches in a section of Manhattan housing some 90,000 people). (2) 'Is the Parish ready to accept and effectively carry out a program aimed at reaching the people?' (Conferences with the Rector, the Rev. Charles B. Ackley, the Vestry and members of the congregation assured him that the Parish was ready.) (3) 'Is the Bishop and the Diocese behind the program?' (He told of assurances given him by the Bishop and urged like cooperation from the Convocations).

The attendance at the meetings was excellent. Including those attending the Witness Service at the County Center in Westchester, the total for the Diocese exceeded 7,000. While no one was turned away, overflow crowds were reported in several places. Indicative of the spirit engendered by the meetings was the comment overheard at the close of one session,—"I am proud to be an Episcopalian."

Indeed the Convocation Meetings were marked by a vibrant spirit of aggressiveness and an all-out determination to meet the God-given opportunities before us.

Taken at the November 15th meeting of the Director's Forum the above picture records the ceremony in which the publisher of the newly written Guild of the Christ Child Material, Dexter Stephens, presented the first copy to the Chairman of the Diocesan Department of Christian Education, the Rev. Osborne Budd, Rector of St. John's Church, Tuckahoe. Mr. Stephens was also a member of the Revision Committee which prepared the material. Pictured also are other members of the Revision Committee, left to right, The Rev. J. S. Wetmore, Chairman; the Rev. Charles J. Buck, Rector of the Church of the Holy Nativity; Mrs. Egon Roggenkamp; the Rev. Basil G. Law, Rector of St. Andrew's Church, Brewster; Mrs. Dexter Stephens. Orders for copies of the material should be placed with Guild of the Christ Child, West Cornwall, Connecticut.

The Night Before Christmas

ALL of us remember Clement Clarke Moore, the poet of Christmas, and the words, " 'T was the night before Christmas, when all through the house . . ."

When those magic words were spoken for the first time, to their first wide-eyed, enraptured listeners, New York was a city of about 124,000 people, extending only as far north as Greenwich Avenue (then Greenwich Lane) and Eighth Street. Clement Clarke Moore recited his verses to his six children before the fireside of his home in what was then the rural Chelsea, little dreaming that throughout the coming generations, long after the geometric city blocks and rising towers of New York City had obliterated most of the landmarks in the Chelsea that he knew, his "Visit from St. Nicholas" would continue to be read and loved by ever-increasing millions of people, an integral and custom-honored part of Christmas observances throughout the world.

But who was the man behind these magical verses? What was his character, his family background? Out of what sort of world came the inspiration that enabled him to capture for all time childhood's Christmas-Eve wonder and expectation? Samuel White Patterson, himself a resident of Chelsea and born on Christmas Day across the street from the church, St. Peter's, which Moore helped to establish, has written a new book (Morehouse-Gorham) which gives a complete picture of its creator, within the framework of the background and the times that helped mold his personality.

Samuel White Patterson, at present Professor Emeritus at Hunter College, New York City, was Director of the Department of Christian Education for many years in the Diocese of New York.

Volunteer Work In The Woman's Auxiliary

THE Woman's Auxiliary offers many opportunities to its members for volunteer work in Diocesan Institutions. At this pre-Christmas season perhaps the most heart-warming and rewarding is to be found in the Christmas Room at Seamen's Church Institute, at 28 South Street. There the work of wrapping gifts and filling about 7000 boxes for seamen far from home at Christmas, at sea, in the Marine Hospitals or at the Institute awaiting the sailing of their ships, begins in October. By November many boxes are already on ships that will not be home again before Christmas.

From mid October the Christmas Room is piled high with knit garments, which are knit throughout the year by over 1000 volunteers from every state in the Union, an assortment of gifts, bright Christmas wrappings; and groups of volunteer women work five days and two evenings a week.

Last year over thirty parish auxiliaries were represented by women who gave one, two or three days a week at this rewarding service of sending out almost 70,000 gayly wrapped Christmas boxes packed with nine individually wrapped gifts. This year there may be more, each box containing a hand-knit garment (either a pull-over, two pair of socks or a scarf and cap); slippers; note-paper and pen; shaving mirror; pocket-size book; a game; sewing kit; first aid kit; address book and box of hard candy.

These boxes are placed on the ships in New York docks on their last sailing before Christmas by the Ship Service Department and are kept there by the Captain until delivered on Christmas Day.

The reward comes to the worker, not only in the joyous companionship of others who are giving their time to bring joy to others, but by the reading of hundreds of letters of appreciation, not only of the gifts but of the thought behind them, from the seamen far from home, where no Christmas mail can reach them.

Anyone who has once awakened Christmas morning with the knowledge that she has helped lessen the loneliness of 7000 souls on this Day of Days can never again refuse the call to work in the Christmas Room, where as she enters the room she is greeted by a poster — "May the spirit of the Christ Child be in every box you pack."

Adult Forums On Our Apostolate

"OUR APOSTOLATE — God and Every Man's Work" will be the theme of the third series of Adult Forums to be sponsored by the Adult Division of the Department of Christian Education. Under the Chairmanship of the Rev. Dr. Wendell Phillips, Rector of Christ's Church, Rye, the Adult Division is gathering together teams of leaders for six forums to be conducted as follows:

Saturday, January 12th, St. Mark's Church, Fort Montgomery, for the Convocation of Ramapo.

Sunday, January 13th, at St. James Church, Fordham, for the Convocation of the Bronx.

Saturday, January 19th, at the Church of the Ascension, Staten Island, for the Convocation of Richmond.

Sunday, January 20th, at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, for the Convocation of Manhattan.

Sunday, January 27th, at St. John's Church, Pleasantville, for the Convocation of Westchester.

Sunday, February 3rd, at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Newburg, for the Convocation of Dutchess and Hudson.

Each conference will begin at 4 p.m. and conclude at 8:45. An opening address on the theme "The Bible Speaks to My Life" will be followed by Evening Prayer at 5:00 p.m. in which there will be a sermon dealing with the topic "Worship Speaks to My Life". Following a Box Supper, with coffee provided by the host parish, the evening session will be devoted to an address and subsequent discussion on the question "What does My Life Speak to the World?"

The conferences intend to bring help primarily to those who are already faced with the problems involved in leading adult groups in parishes. While no limit has been placed on the number each parish can send it should be kept in mind that the conferences are addressed to leaders or potential leaders. Promotion literature and registration forms will go to the parishes in mid December.

Clergy Conferences

The clergy of the Diocese will be invited to attend a conference, on February 26, from 10:00 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., under the joint auspices of the Diocesan Committee on Ecumenical Relations and the Dean and Chapter of The Cathedral Church with regard to the Church of South India. The three speakers — all of them members of the Special Committee sent out by General Convention to India last summer — will be: The Right Reverend Arthur C. Lichtenberger, D.D., the Reverend Gardiner M. Day, and Dr. Clifford P. Morehouse.

More details concerning this conference will be sent out before February 26th.

Still Active

Although the Rev. Thomas J. Williams is now retired, he still continues to act as Chaplain of the House of the Redeemer at 7 East 95th Street, New York 28.

The Bishop Dedicates The New St. Barnabas, Ardsley

On Sunday, November 4, at 10:30 a.m., Bishop Donegan dedicated the new church building of St. Barnabas at Ardsley. The Bishop said, in part, "It is a joy to the whole Diocese that at long last the new Church of St. Barnabas is a reality. Under the diligent and faithful leadership of the Vicar, with the devotion of the parishioners, we are confident that the Church will be an increasing pioneer for righteousness in the days ahead."

After more than two years of negotiation for a site, and developing building plans, the new St. Barnabas Church in Ardsley is now completed. Unique in design, and located on the brow of the hill at the intersection of Heatherdell and Revolutionary Roads, it can be seen readily from the New York Thruway and the Saw Mill River Parkway. It will serve the people who, during the past three years, have moved into several large developments of single family houses just east of the Church site.

St. Barnabas is a mission of the Department of Missions of The Diocese. Missionary funds to the extent of approximately $65,000, and $25,000 raised by the mission, financed the construction.

The architect is Mr. William H. Van Benschoten. The Church seats 200 and beneath it is a parish hall for Church School and other activities. The building is so arranged that a separate Church School building can be added later.

In the words of the Vicar, the Reverend Donald A. Gausby, the new Church "will open a completely new chapter in our village life. In it we can offer to God worship sincere, beautiful and devout; a sacrifice pleasing and acceptable to Him. Our Episcopal tradition, like our new church, contains a happy blend of the old with the new and this is, in fact, the reason why our building was so designed."

The Bishop Dedicates a New Chapel at Holy Trinity

On Sunday morning, October 28, at the eleven o'clock service of Morning Prayer, Bishop Donegan dedicated the Memorial Chapel of the Church of the Holy Trinity, 316 East 88th Street. The Chapel was dedicated to the glory of God and in loving memory of Alice Hoyt Dominick. The donor wishes to remain anonymous.

This chapel is a center of worship and a shrine of prayer, where people may come to meditate and offer their petitions, intercessions, and thanksgiving to God in the beauty of holiness.

The reredos of carved walnut was designed in New York and executed in Italy. The three panels, depicting scenes from the Life of Christ, are impressively appropriate for a chapel set aside especially for prayer, and the pictures are also suggestive of the distinct Christian concerns of the one whose memory is hallowed in this place. Alice Hoyt Dominick had a firm unwavering faith in God and an understanding of prayer as a direct relationship with the Eternal Lord, our Heavenly Father, not for obtaining favors from Him, but essentially as a means of discovering His will amid the strange contradictions of our earthly experience, and finding His empowering grace to meet the crushing disappointments and illogical disasters of life, with courage and good cheer. Her lifelong interest in the blind is reflected in the panel showing Jesus healing the sightless Bartimeus, and her concern for those handicapped by the lack of material resources is indicated by Jesus providing food for the tired, hungry multitude by the Galilean Lake. In the large central panel of the reredos is the picture of Jesus praying in the Garden of Gethsemane.

Hungarian Refugees

APPROXIMATELY 130,000 Hungarians have fled across the border into Austria since the Soviet attack on the free Hungarian Government on November 4. The United States is pledged to admit 21,500 of them—6,500 on visas issued under the Refugee Relief Act of 1954, and 16,000 by Presidential order, on temporary parole. It seems probable that the Vice-President will recommend that the total be raised to at least 40,000, since the 21,500 figure was set at a time when only about 60,000 had entered Austria. As the size of the problem increases, the responsibility of the United States increased proportionately.

This situation obviously calls for fresh legislation as soon as Congress meets. It is true that many of the Hungarian refugees are young men from 20 to 30 years of age, who fled to escape deportation or because they had been involved in armed resistance. Many of them wish to return to Hungary as soon as it is safe for them to do so. But who can tell when that day may come? In the meantime, their status, plus the status of the thousands who do not desire to return, ought to be regularized by legislation granting permanent visas rather than temporary parole permits.

AND OTHERS

The Hungarians are only a part of the problem. The tragic events in Hungary, the spectacular flight of 130,000 naturally stir the emotions of people and of governments. Having failed to stop the butchery and the deportations, we are eager to do all we can to help those who have escaped. It is one answer to our sense of frustration, not to say of guilt, at the ineffectiveness of the UN and the United States.

But we ought to remember that before the Hungarian revolt began there were thousands of refugees from Communist tyranny living in displaced persons camps in Germany. Many of them have been in these camps for five years, some for as many as ten. They are East Germans, Poles, Lithuanians, Estonians, Latvians, Ukranians. They realized the true nature of the Communist tyranny years ago, and leaving all their possessions behind, at the risk of their lives crossed the border into West Germany, seeking freedom. There they have been waiting year after year, frustrated by the rigid terms of the U.S. immigration laws and by the slowly moving wheels of a bureaucracy that at times seemed determined to make the laws unworkable. It does not require great powers of clairvoyance to tell us what their feelings must be, as they see the airlift "leap-frogging" thousands of Hungarians over their heads.

Here is a problem requiring a basic change in U.S. immigration policy. Such a change was promised in the platforms of both parties in 1952 and 1956. It was recommended by President Eisenhower. It is supported by the National Council, the Jewish agencies, and (in striking contrast to their traditional situation), by the AFL-CIO. Yet, judged by the refusal of the last two Congresses, no basic change can be anticipated apart from an aroused and vocal public opinion.

The Bishop's Message

My dear people:

THANK you for your many warm and friendly greetings which came to the Bishop's House during the holiday season. It means a great deal to receive them and this brief word is an acknowledgment of my appreciation of your thoughtful remembrance.

IT is perfectly obvious, as we turn to another year, that we continue to live in a time of crisis. One of the reassuring facts to all of us concerned about the Christian relevance to the problems of our age is the way the American people have responded to the appeal for help which came from the tragic situation in Hungary. Gifts of money, food, and clothing have been given through our parish churches to relieve the distress. This is truly Christian service.

As you know, our Church is endeavoring to provide $85,000 for Hungarian Relief through The Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief. I trust it will be oversubscribed. Anyone wishing to make a gift for this purpose should send it direct to The Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York 10.

THE inauguration of the President will take place on January 21, and as he begins his second term of office I know you will share with me in supporting his firm policy with regard to the Middle East crisis.

It would appear that some of our people mistakenly suppose that the action we took regarding the intervention of our allies in the Suez conflict meant a policy of timid neutrality on the part of our country. The President has made it very clear that we mean to take action if the Soviet powers sponsor aggression in that area.

Either this country and her allies are to be responsible for maintaining order in the world, or the Soviet Union will step in to maintain its own kind of order. For any freedom-loving person there can be no question as to which it must be.

I urge you not only to pray for the President, but also to give him the benefit and influence of your support.

MAY the New Year bring to the whole world a new awareness of the Lordship of Christ and his gospel of peace and good will to all mankind.

Faithfully your Bishop,

Horace W. B. Donegan

The Bishop Institutes The New Rector At The Church Of The Ascension, Mt. Vernon

ON Sunday, December 2nd, at 11 a.m., Bishop Donegan instituted the Reverend Kenneth Edgar Mackenzie as Rector of the Church of The Ascension, in Mt. Vernon. Mr. Mackenzie had been assistant minister at Trinity Church, New Rochelle.

The upper picture shows the Bishop receiving the Incumbent within the rails of the Altar, and presenting him with the Bible, Book of Common Prayer, and Books of Canons of the General and Diocesan Convention.

Theological Education

WHEN a bishop lays his hands on the head of a churchman and says, "Receive the Holy Ghost for the Office and Work of a priest in the Church of God," he does so in keeping with a pattern established by Christ long ago. Like Peter the fisherman, Matthew the tax-collector, and the other apostles, men still hear the call of Jesus, "Follow me." But before the Risen Christ finally commissioned His apostles to go forth in His name with the words, "Receive ye the Holy Ghost," they spent many months of learning and testing at the side of their Master. So, too, theological students today must also spend many months of learning and testing before they are ready to take on the high calling of the Christian Ministry. The responsibility for preparing men for ordination is in the hands of our Church seminaries.

The largest of these seminaries and the first to be founded is the General Theological Seminary in New York City. It was created by the General Convention of 1817 to serve the whole Church in the United States. Its hallowed buildings and fresh green spaces offer an oasis of faith and peace in the now impersonal rush of crowded Manhattan; but more significantly, they provide a home for over 200 young men who worship and study in the community there. These men have been called to the ministry, and most of them will go on to be ordained to it. The period of intense preparation in between is their present personal concern, but it is also the personal concern of every single member of the Church. The General Seminary, as does each of the other seminaries of the Church, depends upon the prayers, interest, and financial support of Church people to carry out successfully its task of teaching and testing.

As the General Seminary continues to grow, it must provide adequate classroom space for new courses and more students. At much expense, some of the larger rooms have already been subdivided. Most others stand in need of renovation after many decades of constant use. A growing body of young clergy desiring to raise even higher the Church's standard of learning are returning to G.T.S. for postgraduate study; room must be made for them.

The General Seminary possesses one of the finest theological libraries in the country. This library, which steadily grows in size and usefulness to the Church and community at large, now contains over 120,000 volumes, including many rare specialized collections, as well as the most recently published books in the theological, historical, and biblical fields. It constitutes a valuable research center for students, teachers, clergy, laymen; in fact, for all scholars who wish to gain intimate understanding of our Anglican heritage. But for some time now, the library has been forced into a space that is but one third of what it actually needed to contain it. High on the list of critical needs at the General Seminary is that of a major expansion of present library facilities.

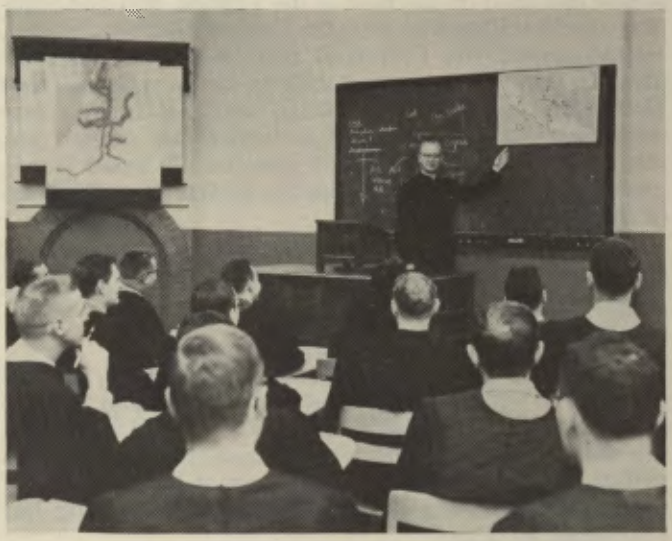
The men who study at G.T.S. live in dormitories built seventy or more years ago. Even to the casual eye, they are now in great need of modernization and renovation. Similarly, the seminary administrative offices are scattered and inadequate; other needs too numerous to mention are now confronting the trustees and staff.

The academic standards of the General Seminary equal those of any other first-rate graduate school. Yet, with physical and financial handicaps that would never be tolerated in schools of medicine, law, engineering, or business, it has trained over one seventh of the active clergy of the Episcopal Church, nearly one quarter of its overseas missionaries, and continues to bring spiritual and intellectual vitality to the whole Anglican Communion.

Because the General Seminary is the seminary of the whole Church, it brings together men from over sixty American dioceses and, indeed, from many other parts of the world. There are representatives from New England and the deep south, from the plains country and the far west. Overseas students come from such distant places as Panama and Brazil, Greece and Turkey, India and Japan. Such a cosmopolitan student body as this cannot help but expand the outlook of each and increase the unity of all. Nearly all these men have one thing in common: after the expense of four years of college, they find it impossible to pay more than a third of the $2000 a year which it costs the seminary to give each one a theological education. Some of these ordinary running expenses of the seminary are met by endowments; but the balance must be provided by the generous Theological Education Sunday offerings and other gifts that come in from parishes and missions throughout the country.

Theological education, the testing and teaching of those who are called to the ministry of Christ's Church, is the concern of every single churchman. Every communicant who looks to his rector for wise pastoral care and spiritual leadership has a stake in the quality of training which the seminaries seek to provide. The General Theological Seminary by its original intent and present character belongs to the Church "in general," with all the other seminaries it relies confidently on the interest and support of the Church's members.



5. NOT ONLY SCHOLARS, BUT MISSIONARIES.
A G.T.S. alumnus, Bishop Voegeli, lectures on the Church's work in Haiti to the class in Missions. Many of the Seminary's thirty-three alumni now in missionary work overseas found their special vocation in these years of training.

4. THE TUTORIAL SYSTEM ROUNDS OUT CLASSROOM WORK.
Each week students meet individually or in pairs with their tutor for discussion and guidance. The resources for graduate work at the General Seminary attract many young clergy to tutorial posts.

6. A PLAY WITH A PURPOSE.
Each year a play given by the G.T.S. student body helps raise the Seminary's $10,000 budget for missionary work. Here is a dramatic scene from Bernard Shaw's The Devil's Disciple.

The Dean's Column

THE Dean has asked me to take his space this month to give you a brief report on the Friends of the Cathedral, an organization by which we maintain contact with people all over the country, indeed all over the world, who are interested in the Cathedral Church and its work.

In a sense, the Friends as an "organization" is really less than a year old — although the Cathedral has always had many friends! For many years a large number of people had been on the rolls of the Friends, and had regularly received literature from the Cathedral. They, in turn, had supported the Cathedral with their prayers, their financial contributions, and their presence with us. Last March, it was decided to establish the Friends on a somewhat more formal basis, and a membership system was introduced, involving classes of membership based on annual contributions ranging from five dollars to one hundred or more per year.

The Bishop of New York is Honorary Chairman of the Friends, Mr. Walter Baker of New York City is Chairman, and the Canon Precentor of the Cathedral Church is Executive Secretary.

At this writing, the Friends of the Cathedral are 536 strong. You will find Friends of this Cathedral in fifty-six of the dioceses and missionary districts of PECUSA, and in a number of foreign countries. (Incidentally, nearly one-half of our Friends live in the Diocese of New York—and we are glad that our membership is not only far-flung, but also strong at home!)

One of the most important activities of the Friends is their sponsorship of the coffee hour held in Cathedral House following the eleven o'clock service each Sunday morning. This occasion gives the Cathedral clergy an opportunity to chat with the many visitors and strangers who come to our services every week. The visitors often comment on their pleasure in this hospitality—and incidentally, many of them decide that they would like to become Friends too!

The Friends receive a newsletter called "To Our Friends," which keeps them posted on doings around the Cathedral, and which also contains many pictures of lasting value. They also receive occasional mailings of sermons and other writings of particular interest. For example, this month each of the Friends is receiving a copy of the Dean's much-discussed sermon on the film "Baby Doll."

By no means least important, we remember our Friends, and ask them to remember the Cathedral and its work, in our prayers each Wednesday, and especially each year on the Feast of St. John.

In uncounted and often unknown ways, the Cathedral's Friends are a source of great strength to the work to which the Cathedral is dedicated. It is our hope and conviction that their membership in the Friends enables them, too, to feel themselves a part of the life of this great "House of Prayer for All People."

Holy Days And Public Education

THE comparatively recent opportunity for Released Time Christian Education has, of late, drawn so much attention from all faiths that many are inclined to forget the importance of the Holy Days. Released Time is a special privilege, granted by act of legislature; permission to excuse children from school on Holy Days is of long standing tradition — one of the chief remnants of the time when there was a much more direct relationship between religion and education than there is at present.

Released Time provides one brief hour per week, and much of that precious time becomes lost in the machinery of transporting pupils, getting started, etc. Permission for excuse from school on a Holy Day, can, and usually does, cover the whole day, and an increasing number of our parishes are making use of the opportunity.

Stress on use of the Holy Days has developed in two areas of Diocesan program during the past year. The newly pronounced Policy of Released Time sees the Holy Day opportunity as the primary time available. It suggests that those parishes which are unable to participate in the usual released time program (i.e. every week) can accomplish much by the use of the Holy Days; it also suggests that a parish might begin with the Holy Days and move toward the development of a regular released time program.

Taking its cue from the Released Time Policy statement our Diocesan Youth Council has set out in its program book for this year (WAYS) definite program suggestions for use on certain of the Holy Days.

As a result of this double emphasis, parishes and districts have begun to take up the opportunity so readily available. To quote a few examples:

(1). For Epiphany, Ascension and All Saints Day the staff of the Chapel of the Intercession, under the leadership of the Rev. Robert Spears, has developed extensive plans for an observance of the feasts beginning at 9 a.m. and concluding at 3:30. High School pupils have been trained in advance to work with the parish staff in the conducting of a full day of instruction. In this parish a regular released time program is not feasible, but the staff feels that, even if one could be initiated, the Holy Day emphasis would be retained as an important part of the total program.

(2). Last All Saints Day parishes in south-eastern Westchester cooperated in a special all day program for High School Students at All Saint's Church, Harrison. Leadership was provided by members of the National Department Staff at Greenwich.

(3). Also on All Saints Day, under the leadership of the Rev. David T. Bradley, Youth Advisor for Westchester Convocation, parishes of Yonkers cooperated in a program for High School students.

Several other such programs were conducted throughout the Diocese.

The Released Time Policy suggests that Parishes should only ask for release of children on those Holy Days for which an Octave is provided in the Prayer Book, when they fall on a school day, and for the major fast days of Ash Wednesday, Maundy Thursday, and Good Friday. The Prayer Book provides an octave for the following Festivals which usually or always fall on a week-day: Epiphany, Ascension and All Saints Day.

In the State of New York the attendance registry provided in the day school classroom contains a list of days on which pupils can be excused at the request of their parents. It is provided that, in reckoning attendance totals for the receiving of State aid, the attendance figure for the day preceeding or following a Holy Day may be used so that children might be excused without penalty to school or teachers.

While permission is granted for excuse for the whole day, the Diocesan Released Time Policy urges that the whole day should be requested only if a major part of the day is to be taken up with religious observance and/or instruction. If children are urged to attend a morning service only, it seems better that they go on from the service to school rather than be at loose ends in the community the rest of the school day.

It is hoped that more of our parishes and missions will see the advantage to a growing use of the Holy Day opportunity. Clergy or laity wishing further information about the policy or the programs conducted in various areas should write the Department of Christian Education, 1047 Amsterdam Ave., New York 25, N. Y.

REFUGEES IN NEW YORK

The Diocese of New York, through the skillful and devoted efforts of the Rev. Walter Chater, Chairman of the Refugee Committee, has already settled 107 individuals coming in under the Refugee Relief Act of 1954. Families are now coming in at the rate of about one a week, and will continue to arrive until the last visas expire, six months after the expiration of the Act on December 31.

There are two immediate needs: (1) assurances for refugees, now coming in under blanket assurances given by the National Council; and (2) gifts of money from individuals or parishes to cover the expenses of temporary care between the day the refugees land and the day they are placed in permanent homes and jobs. This has amounted so far to about $1,000—an average of $10 per person. If you cannot sponsor a refugee you can help by sending a gift, earmarked "for refugee relief," to the Treasurer of the Diocese.

REFUGEE PLACEMENT PROCEDURE

Step One

1. On notification of future arrival of refugee unit, begin to plan ahead for placement details. Always realize that arrival dates are subject to weather, etc., and that many factors involved make nothing certain, even at the last moment. Check with Church World Service a week in advance if possible and also on the day before arrival. Tell them how far to go under Step Two. Notify New York City Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society (see Step Two) if their help is needed. Keep in touch with the Refugee Committee Chairman by phone.

Step Two

1. (a) Meet refugee at boat (1-3 hours after boat docks). Arrange with Church World Service. See refugee through customs, if necessary.
   (b) Take refugee to sponsor, put on train or take to Hotel Chelsea, 222 W. 23rd Street—Tel. CH 3-3700.

   or

   Arrange with New York City Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society to do this. Miss Palmer or Mr. Shaef. (WOrth 6-2960.)

   or

   Arrange with Church World Service (Mrs. Albats), SPring 7-6300. CWS will also give refugee small amount of cash if necessary.

Step Three

Where parish, individual, or group has assumed responsibility:

1. Meet refugee on pier or at train destination.
2. Take to shelter, whether temporary or permanent.
3. If unfurnishd apartment, arrange for immediate necessities and subsequent furnishing. Also toys for children.
4. Analyze employment capabilities and openings. Arrange interviews. Get the man placed in a job. Help him get Social Security card.
5. Follow up to see that the family is happily settled, children at school if possible; someone at hand who can speak their language.

Step Three* (Alternative)

Where city committee takes over at Chelsea:

1. Determine whether funds are available for underwriting.
2. Welcome family next morning. See that they are able to care for themselves temporarily (elementary cooking utensils if called for). Money for food, etc. Show them the Automat, also A & P near hotel.
3. Securing employment. Take man to Mr. Hendrickson (YMCA, LE 2-8615) or to German Society (147 Fourth Avenue, Mr. Rutgers) or other leads. If out-of-town employment is desirable, contact Mr. Chater. If necessary, take to the Rev. Alex. Jurisson, 281 Fourth Avenue (National Council).
4. Securing place to live. Try for superintendent's job, or cold-water flat, or other vacancy. Mr. Hendrickson will help here, too.
5. If furnishings are needed, Good Will Industries is a good place. Other low-price stores may be known.
6. Follow up. See No. 5 of Step Two.

Church Army Training for Laity

Do you want some real help in fulfilling your calling as a Christian? This is possible because the Church Army offers you a new and unique training opportunity. This training will provide you with a sound Biblical and Theological background, will give you a vital and living experience of the reality of the fellowship of the Church, and teach you the nature and basic approach of your witness in confronting others with the truth and power of the Gospel.

DAILY WORK AND WITNESS

Our daily work provides the normal framework in which your love of God and your ministry should find its regular expression. To witness to the Gospel in this situation by word and life is your primary calling. If you feel the need for some real help to fulfill this ministry then YOU will be interested in this training program.

CHURCH WORK AND WITNESS

Perhaps, you are a lay person already engaged in a full time work for the Church in a parish or Church institution. You may want to bring to your job more than your present skills and professional training. If you want the capacity to witness effectively in your chosen work, then YOU will be interested in this training program.

THE MINISTRY OF THE LAITY

The calling of the Gospel requires you to enter fully into the duties of everyday life and work. Every job or profession by its nature sets the person who follows it in a particular relationship to the society in which he lives. But the everyday business or profession is the forgotten meeting place of Christ, His Church and the world. The Gospel confronts the world in you and through you. This is the primary area of your lay ministry and the great evangelistic frontier of the Church.

THE TRAINING PROGRAM

The Episcopal Church is offering you help and training to fulfill this calling. Short term training sessions are available at the Church Army Training School at the Parishfield Community, in the Diocese of Michigan. If you can take only a month for such training, a short term session is offered during July. Ten week sessions are available beginning in February and October. The cost is minimal. For further information write: The Church Army in the U.S.A., 27 West 25th Street, New York 10, N. Y.

Woman's Hospital Needs Volunteers

THE Woman's Hospital Division of St. Luke's Hospital can use volunteers in a wide variety of positions. Some actually participate in direct patient care — straightening beds, checking diet trays, feeding patients. Others take the book cart through the wards, fix flowers, and transport patients to X-ray. Others work in the children's playroom, in the Record Room, and library, in Sterile Supply or in the Clinic. And still others are "wings"— on call to help out wherever help is needed.

Call Mrs. Margaret Meeker, Director of Volunteers, at Monument 6-3000, Extension 36.

A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION

(Based on the Gospel for the Fourth Sunday after the Epiphany.)

THE encounter of our Lord with the Roman centurion must have been an exciting event, to say the least. We know that to be a fact because we are told that Jesus marveled as a result and turned to his followers and said, "I have not found so great faith, no not in Israel".

The centurion was probably very surprised indeed at that remark of our Lord. For as far as he was concerned he had not shown great faith. Rather, he had asked a simple request which he knew perfectly well Jesus could answer if he would. In fact, the centurion was surprised that Jesus even said, "I will come and heal your servant," for he quickly replied, "Lord, I am not worthy that you should come under my roof. Just speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed."

Why did the centurion act surprised and say what he did? Because as a military officer, under authority himself and with full authority over a complement of 100 men, he knew the way things got done. A legitimate request would be made. An appropriate order would be given. And a host of obedient soldiers would carry out the order to the letter. He made that crystal clear when he said, "I say to this man, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it".

The centurion saw in Jesus the Centurion of God and assumed as a matter of course that He had legions of spiritual troops at His command. If Jesus considered the request to heal the servant legitimate, He didn't have to go all the way to the house to accomplish the cure. No. All Jesus had to do, as the Divine Centurion, was to say to the legions under His authority, Go, and they would go. Or Come, and they would come. Or, Do this, and they would immediately do it.

And, as far as the historical event is concerned, that is exactly the way it happened. For we are told, "Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way; and as thou has believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour."

The concept of the Christian as a soldier of God has been in the Church's thinking from the beginning. St. Paul is constantly using the image of the soldier to describe the followers of Christ. "Put on the whole armor of God," he said over and over again. And then he would vividly clothe the Christian soldier with celestial military equipment.

"Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with the girdle of truth and having on the breastplate of righteousness; and your feet shod with the sandals of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith . . . and the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit. . . ."

When we were baptized, we were signed with the sign of the Cross to the end that we might manfully fight under Christ's banner against sin, the world, and the devil, and continue Christ's faithful soldier and servant unto our life's end.

Christ is our Centurion and we are His soldiers. To us He is constantly saying, Go, Come, Do this. And as faithful soldiers and servants, when He says, Go, we should go at once. When He says, Come, we should execute His command immediately. When He says, Do this, we should do it without delay.

Hear, O Christian soldiers, your Divine Centurion as He commands you to do the Father's will.

"Go and do thou likewise." Show mercy to all in need as did the Samaritan of old.

"Go with him twain." Do twice as much as is required of thee.

"Go show yourself to the priest as a testimony" of a blessing received.

"Go to the lost sheep of Israel." Yes,

"Go and make disciples of all nations."

"Go sell that thou hast and give to the poor."

"Go sit down at the lowest place." Be meek and lowly in heart as was your Centurion before you.

"Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will refresh you."

"Come apart and rest awhile." Then,

"Come, take up thy cross."

"Come, and follow me."

"Come, offer thy gift at the altar."

"Come, for all things are ready."

"Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

Often He is saying Go. As often must you go.

Often He is saying Come. Again as often must you come.

Ah, but above all, hear, O Christian soldiers, your Centurion command:

"DO THIS IN REMEMBRANCE OF ME." And be sure that you do it. "TAKE, EAT, THIS IS MY BODY. DRINK YE ALL OF THIS, FOR THIS IS MY BLOOD. For except ye eat my flesh and drink my blood, ye have no life in you. Whoso eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood hath eternal life; and I shall raise him up at the last day."

May Christ the Centurion say of each of you to His Father, "I say to this man, Go, and he goeth; Come, and he cometh; Do this, and he doeth it."

On newly acquired property there is McFadden Hall — 25 rooms — used as Administration building and Headmaster's residence. A large Elizabethan barn has been converted into a dormitory to house 44 boys and three masters (shown in the picture above) and also a dining hall (shown in picture at the end of this article) kitchen and pantries, and common room. The former Headmaster's house has been converted into an eight bed infirmary and nurse's residence.

School enrollment is now 110 boys and filled to capacity. There were 24 boys at the opening of the school in 1938.

The Bishop With The Children At St. Luke's

BISHOP Donegan followed his usual custom of the past several years and visited with the youthful patients in the Children's Solarium of St. Luke's Hospital, at 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday, December 19th — at the annual Christmas Party given by the Employee's Club of the Seamen's Bank for Savings.

Each Christmas for over twenty years employees of this bank have dressed hundreds of dolls and donated toys for sick and underprivileged children, and every child in the hospital received toys and dolls donated by the bank.

The Bishop, who has a tender touch with little children, is shown ably assisted by Santa Claus.

The United Thank Offering

THE Day Branches of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of New York held their Advent meeting on Tuesday, December 4, at The Cathedral Church. At 10:30 a.m. there was a Celebration of The Holy Communion and the presentation of the United Thank Offering. The Bishop was the celebrant, and the Suffragan Bishop the preacher.

A box lunch was served in the Undercroft of Synod Hall, followed by the regular Diocesan meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary. The speaker was Miss Elizabeth Beath, Secretary in charge of the United Thank Offering for the National Council.

It is to be remembered that the United Thank Offering is an offering by women who day by day have offered some coin, large or small, for a particular item in their lives or their family's life for which they are especially thankful. Each six months — once in the fall and once in the spring — this offering is presented by the women of all parishes in the Diocese, and every three years it is taken to General Convention and presented as an offering to cover women's work in the missionary field both at home and abroad.

Hungarian Refugees

APPROXIMATELY 130,000 Hungarians have fled across the border into Austria since the Soviet attack on the free Hungarian Government on November 4. The United States is pledged to admit 21,500 of them—6,500 on visas issued under the Refugee Relief Act of 1954, and 16,000 by Presidential order, on temporary parole. It seems probable that the Vice-President will recommend that the total be raised to at least 40,000, since the 21,500 figure was set at a time when only about 60,000 had entered Austria. As the size of the problem increases, the responsibility of the United States increased proportionately.

This situation obviously calls for fresh legislation as soon as Congress meets. It is true that many of the Hungarian refugees are young men from 20 to 30 years of age, who fled to escape deportation or because they had been involved in armed resistance. Many of them wish to return to Hungary as soon as it is safe for them to do so. But who can tell when that day may come? In the meantime, their status, plus the status of the thousands who do not desire to return, ought to be regularized by legislation granting permanent visas rather than temporary parole permits.

AND OTHERS

The Hungarians are only a part of the problem. The tragic events in Hungary, the spectacular flight of 130,000 naturally stir the emotions of people and of governments. Having failed to stop the butchery and the deportations, we are eager to do all we can to help those who have escaped. It is one answer to our sense of frustration, not to say of guilt, at the ineffectiveness of the UN and the United States.

But we ought to remember that before the Hungarian revolt began there were thousands of refugees from Communist tyranny living in displaced persons camps in Germany. Many of them have been in these camps for five years, some for as many as ten. They are East Germans, Poles, Lithuanians, Estonians, Latvians, Ukranians. They realized the true nature of the Communist tyranny years ago, and leaving all their possessions behind, at the risk of their lives crossed the border into West Germany, seeking freedom. There they have been waiting year after year, frustrated by the rigid terms of the U.S. immigration laws and by the slowly moving wheels of a bureaucracy that at times seemed determined to make the laws unworkable. It does not require great powers of clairvoyance to tell us what their feelings must be, as they see the airlift "leap-frogging" thousands of Hungarians over their heads.

Here is a problem requiring a basic change in U.S. immigration policy. Such a change was promised in the platforms of both parties in 1952 and 1956. It was recommended by President Eisenhower. It is supported by the National Council, the Jewish agencies, and (in striking contrast to their traditional situation), by the AFL-CIO. Yet, judged by the refusal of the last two Congresses, no basic change can be anticipated apart from an aroused and vocal public opinion.

Take Thou Authority To Preach The Word Of God

ON Monday, December 17th, at 10:30 a.m. in the Cathedral Church, Bishop Donegan advanced eleven Deacons to the Priesthood.

The ordination sermon was preached by the Reverend George W. Barrett, D.D., Rector of Christ Church, Bronxville.

The following gives the names of the Deacons advanced, together with their Presentors and the parishes or missions where the newly-made Priests are following their vocations:

Edward Joseph Berey, presented by the Reverend Gerald V. Barry, Rector of Christ Church, Riverdale. Mr. Berey is Vicar at St. Francis' Church, Sloatsburg.

Kenneth Willie Costin, presented by the Reverend John O. Patterson, D.D., Rector and Headmaster of Kent School, Kent, Connecticut. Mr. Costin is now a master at Kent School.

Cyril Francis Coverley, presented by the Reverend Kenneth M. Sowers, U.S.A. Mr. Coverly is an Army Chaplain.

Robert Warren Cromey, presented by the Reverend Paul C. Armstrong, Vicar, Saint Thomas Chapel, N.Y.C. Mr. Cromey is Assistant Minister at Christ Church, Bronxville.

William Frederick Fahsing, presented by the Reverend Fessenden A. Nichols, Rector of Christ Church, Suffern. Mr. Fahsing is Vicar of the Church of St. John the Divine, Tomkins Cove; St. Mark's Church, Ft. Montgomery; and House of Prayer, Jones Point.

Theodore Ricardo Gracia, presented by the Reverend William O. Hanner, Rector of St. Stephen's Church (Coconut Grove), Miami, Florida. Mr. Gracia is Assistant Minister at the Church of the Holy Comforter, Kenilworth, Illinois.

Richard Golder Shepherd, presented by the Reverend Grieg Taber, D.D., Rector of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, N.Y.C. Mr. Shepherd is Assistant Minister at St. Paul's Church, Woodbury, Connecticut.

William Joseph Turner, Jr., presented by the Reverend Charles Eldon Davis, Librarian at Berkeley Divinity School, New Haven, Connecticut. Mr. Turner is Assistant Minister at St. Simon's Church, Buffalo, N. Y.

James Curtis Walworth, presented by the Reverend Wendell W. Phillips, D.D., Rector of Christ's Church, Rye. Mr. Walworth is Assistant Minister at Christ's Church, Rye.

The Bishop's Message

My dear people:

THANK you for your many warm and friendly greetings which came to the Bishop's House during the holiday season. It means a great deal to receive them and this brief word is an acknowledgment of my appreciation of your thoughtful remembrance.

IT is perfectly obvious, as we turn to another year, that we continue to live in a time of crisis. One of the reassuring facts to all of us concerned about the Christian relevance to the problems of our age is the way the American people have responded to the appeal for help which came from the tragic situation in Hungary. Gifts of money, food, and clothing have been given through our parish churches to relieve the distress. This is truly Christian service.

As you know, our Church is endeavoring to provide $85,000 for Hungarian Relief through The Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief. I trust it will be oversubscribed. Anyone wishing to make a gift for this purpose should send it direct to The Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York 10.

THE inauguration of the President will take place on January 21, and as he begins his second term of office I know you will share with me in supporting his firm policy with regard to the Middle East crisis.

It would appear that some of our people mistakenly suppose that the action we took regarding the intervention of our allies in the Suez conflict meant a policy of timid neutrality on the part of our country. The President has made it very clear that we mean to take action if the Soviet powers sponsor aggression in that area.

Either this country and her allies are to be responsible for maintaining order in the world, or the Soviet Union will step in to maintain its own kind of order. For any freedom-loving person there can be no question as to which it must be.

I urge you not only to pray for the President, but also to give him the benefit and influence of your support.

MAY the New Year bring to the whole world a new awareness of the Lordship of Christ and his gospel of peace and good will to all mankind.

Faithfully your Bishop,

Horace W. B. Donegan

The Bishop Institutes The New Rector At The Church Of The Ascension, Mt. Vernon

ON Sunday, December 2nd, at 11 a.m., Bishop Donegan instituted the Reverend Kenneth Edgar Mackenzie as Rector of the Church of The Ascension, in Mt. Vernon. Mr. Mackenzie had been assistant minister at Trinity Church, New Rochelle.

The upper picture shows the Bishop receiving the Incumbent within the rails of the Altar, and presenting him with the Bible, Book of Common Prayer, and Books of Canons of the General and Diocesan Convention.

Theological Education

When a bishop lays his hands on the head of a churchman and says, "Receive the Holy Ghost for the Office and Work of a priest in the Church of God," he does so in keeping with a pattern established by Christ long ago. Like Peter the fisherman, Matthew the tax-collector, and the other apostles, men still hear the call of Jesus, "Follow me." But before the Risen Christ finally commissioned His apostles to go forth in His name with the words, "Receive ye the Holy Ghost," they spent many months of learning and testing at the side of their Master. So, too, theological students today must also spend many months of learning and testing before they are ready to take on the high calling of the Christian Ministry. The responsibility for preparing men for ordination is in the hands of our Church seminaries.

The largest of these seminaries and the first to be founded is the General Theological Seminary in New York City. It was created by the General Convention of 1817 to serve the whole Church in the United States. Its hallowed buildings and fresh green spaces offer an oasis of faith and peace in the now impersonal rush of crowded Manhattan; but more significantly, they provide a home for over 200 young men who worship and study in the community there. These men have been called to the ministry, and most of them will go on to be ordained to it. The period of intense preparation in between is their present personal concern, but it is also the personal concern of every single member of the Church. The General Seminary, as does each of the other seminaries of the Church, depends upon the prayers, interest, and financial support of Church people to carry out successfully its task of teaching and testing.

As the General Seminary continues to grow, it must provide adequate classroom space for new courses and more students. At much expense, some of the larger rooms have already been subdivided. Most others stand in need of renovation after many decades of constant use. A growing body of young clergy desiring to raise even higher the Church's standard of learning are returning to G.T.S. for postgraduate study; room must be made for them.

The General Seminary possesses one of the finest theological libraries in the country. This library, which steadily grows in size and usefulness to the Church and community at large, now contains over 120,000 volumes, including many rare specialized collections, as well as the most recently published books in the theological, historical, and biblical fields. It constitutes a valuable research center for students, teachers, clergy, laymen; in fact, for all scholars who wish to gain intimate understanding of our Anglican heritage. But for some time now, the library has been forced into a space that is but one third of what it actually needed to contain it. High on the list of critical needs at the General Seminary is that of a major expansion of present library facilities.

The men who study at G.T.S. live in dormitories built seventy or more years ago. Even to the casual eye, they are now in great need of modernization and renovation. Similarly, the seminary administrative offices are scattered and inadequate; other needs too numerous to mention are now confronting the trustees and staff.

The academic standards of the General Seminary equal those of any other first-rate graduate school. Yet, with physical and financial handicaps that would never be tolerated in schools of medicine, law, engineering, or business, it has trained over one seventh of the active clergy of the Episcopal Church, nearly one quarter of its overseas missionaries, and continues to bring spiritual and intellectual vitality to the whole Anglican Communion.

Because the General Seminary is the seminary of the whole Church, it brings together men from over sixty American dioceses and, indeed, from many other parts of the world. There are representatives from New England and the deep south, from the plains country and the far west. Overseas students come from such distant places as Panama and Brazil, Greece and Turkey, India and Japan. Such a cosmopolitan student body as this cannot help but expand the outlook of each and increase the unity of all. Nearly all these men have one thing in common: after the expense of four years of college, they find it impossible to pay more than a third of the $2000 a year which it costs the seminary to give each one a theological education. Some of these ordinary running expenses of the seminary are met by endowments; but the balance must be provided by the generous Theological Education Sunday offerings and other gifts that come in from parishes and missions throughout the country.

Theological education, the testing and teaching of those who are called to the ministry of Christ's Church, is the concern of every single churchman. Every communicant who looks to his rector for wise pastoral care and spiritual leadership has a stake in the quality of training which the seminaries seek to provide. The General Theological Seminary by its original intent and present character belongs to the Church "in general," with all the other seminaries it relies confidently on the interest and support of the Church's members.

5. NOT ONLY SCHOLARS, BUT MISSIONARIES.
A G.T.S. alumnus, Bishop Voegeli, lectures on the Church's work in Haiti to the class in Missions. Many of the Seminary's thirty-three alumni now in missionary work overseas found their special vocation in these years of training.

4. THE TUTORIAL SYSTEM ROUNDS OUT CLASSROOM WORK.
Each week students meet individually or in pairs with their tutor for discussion and guidance. The resources for graduate work at the General Seminary attract many young clergy to tutorial posts.

6. A PLAY WITH A PURPOSE.
Each year a play given by the G.T.S. student body helps raise the Seminary's $10,000 budget for missionary work. Here is a dramatic scene from Bernard Shaw's The Devil's Disciple.

The Dean's Column

THE Dean has asked me to take his space this month to give you a brief report on the Friends of the Cathedral, an organization by which we maintain contact with people all over the country, indeed all over the world, who are interested in the Cathedral Church and its work.

In a sense, the Friends as an "organization" is really less than a year old — although the Cathedral has always had many friends! For many years a large number of people had been on the rolls of the Friends, and had regularly received literature from the Cathedral. They, in turn, had supported the Cathedral with their prayers, their financial contributions, and their presence with us. Last March, it was decided to establish the Friends on a somewhat more formal basis, and a membership system was introduced, involving classes of membership based on annual contributions ranging from five dollars to one hundred or more per year.

The Bishop of New York is Honorary Chairman of the Friends, Mr. Walter Baker of New York City is Chairman, and the Canon Precentor of the Cathedral Church is Executive Secretary.

At this writing, the Friends of the Cathedral are 536 strong. You will find Friends of this Cathedral in fifty-six of the dioceses and missionary districts of PECUSA, and in a number of foreign countries. (Incidentally, nearly one-half of our Friends live in the Diocese of New York--and we are glad that our membership is not only far-flung, but also strong at home!)

One of the most important activities of the Friends is their sponsorship of the coffee hour held in Cathedral House following the eleven o'clock service each Sunday morning. This occasion gives the Cathedral clergy an opportunity to chat with the many visitors and strangers who come to our services every week. The visitors often comment on their pleasure in this hospitality--and incidentally, many of them decide that they would like to become Friends too!

The Friends receive a newsletter called "To Our Friends," which keeps them posted on doings around the Cathedral, and which also contains many pictures of lasting value. They also receive occasional mailings of sermons and other writings of particular interest. For example, this month each of the Friends is receiving a copy of the Dean's much-discussed sermon on the film "Baby Doll."

By no means least important, we remember our Friends, and ask them to remember the Cathedral and its work, in our prayers each Wednesday, and especially each year on the Feast of St. John.

In uncounted and often unknown ways, the Cathedral's Friends are a source of great strength to the work to which the Cathedral is dedicated. It is our hope and conviction that their membership in the Friends enables them, too, to feel themselves a part of the life of this great "House of Prayer for All People."

Holy Days And Public Education

THE comparatively recent opportunity for Released Time Christian Education has, of late, drawn so much attention from all faiths that many are inclined to forget the importance of the Holy Days. Released Time is a special privilege, granted by act of legislature; permission to excuse children from school on Holy Days is of long standing tradition — one of the chief remnants of the time when there was a much more direct relationship between religion and education than there is at present.

Released Time provides one brief hour per week, and much of that precious time becomes lost in the machinery of transporting pupils, getting started, etc. Permission for excuse from school on a Holy Day, can, and usually does, cover the whole day, and an increasing number of our parishes are making use of the opportunity.

Stress on use of the Holy Days has developed in two areas of Diocesan program during the past year. The newly pronounced Policy of Released Time sees the Holy Day opportunity as the primary time available. It suggests that those parishes which are unable to participate in the usual released time program (i.e. every week) can accomplish much by the use of the Holy Days; it also suggests that a parish might begin with the Holy Days and move toward the development of a regular released time program.

Taking its cue from the Released Time Policy statement our Diocesan Youth Council has set out in its program book for this year (WAYS) definite program suggestions for use on certain of the Holy Days.

As a result of this double emphasis, parishes and districts have begun to take up the opportunity so readily available. To quote a few examples:

(1). For Epiphany, Ascension and All Saints Day the staff of the Chapel of the Intercession, under the leadership of the Rev. Robert Spears, has developed extensive plans for an observance of the feasts beginning at 9 a.m. and concluding at 3:30. High School pupils have been trained in advance to work with the parish staff in the conducting of a full day of instruction. In this parish a regular released time program is not feasible, but the staff feels that, even if one could be initiated, the Holy Day emphasis would be retained as an important part of the total program.

(2). Last All Saints Day parishes in south-eastern Westchester cooperated in a special all day program for High School Students at All Saint's Church, Harrison. Leadership was provided by members of the National Department Staff at Greenwich.

(3). Also on All Saints Day, under the leadership of the Rev. David T. Bradley, Youth Advisor for Westchester Convocation, parishes of Yonkers cooperated in a program for High School students.

Several other such programs were conducted throughout the Diocese.

The Released Time Policy suggests that Parishes should only ask for release of children on those Holy Days for which an Octave is provided in the Prayer Book, when they fall on a school day, and for the major fast days of Ash Wednesday, Maundy Thursday, and Good Friday. The Prayer Book provides an octave for the following Festivals which usually or always fall on a week-day: Epiphany, Ascension and All Saints Day.

In the State of New York the attendance registry provided in the day school classroom contains a list of days on which pupils can be excused at the request of their parents. It is provided that, in reckoning attendance totals for the receiving of State aid, the attendance figure for the day preceeding or following a Holy Day may be used so that children might be excused without penalty to school or teachers.

While permission is granted for excuse for the whole day, the Diocesan Released Time Policy urges that the whole day should be requested only if a major part of the day is to be taken up with religious observance and/or instruction. If children are urged to attend a morning service only, it seems better that they go on from the service to school rather than be at loose ends in the community the rest of the school day.

It is hoped that more of our parishes and missions will see the advantage to a growing use of the Holy Day opportunity. Clergy or laity wishing further information about the policy or the programs conducted in various areas should write the Department of Christian Education, 1047 Amsterdam Ave., New York 25, N. Y.

The author of "Receive This Child" here draws on his experience, as priest of a courageous pioneer parish to suggest ways in which the Church can best fulfill its vocation in the modern community.

The Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan says:

"I trust THE PARISH COMES ALIVE will reach many people in America, as it has in Britain, and create a new vitality in the Church's life."

The Rev. Randolph Crump Miller says:

"'The Parish Comes Alive' is well named. It points to certain fundamental principles which if properly used could help us to bring about, by God's grace, the renewal of American parish life." Price.....$2.75

REFUGEES IN NEW YORK

The Diocese of New York, through the skillful and devoted efforts of the Rev. Walter Chater, Chairman of the Refugee Committee, has already settled 107 individuals coming in under the Refugee Relief Act of 1954. Families are now coming in at the rate of about one a week, and will continue to arrive until the last visas expire, six months after the expiration of the Act on December 31.

There are two immediate needs: (1) assurances for refugees, now coming in under blanket assurances given by the National Council; and (2) gifts of money from individuals or parishes to cover the expenses of temporary care between the day the refugees land and the day they are placed in permanent homes and jobs. This has amounted so far to about $1,000—an average of $10 per person. If you cannot sponsor a refugee you can help by sending a gift, earmarked "for refugee relief," to the Treasurer of the Diocese.

REFUGEE PLACEMENT PROCEDURE

Step One

1. On notification of future arrival of refugee unit, begin to plan ahead for placement details. Always realize that arrival dates are subject to weather, etc., and that many factors involved make nothing certain, even at the last moment. Check with Church World Service a week in advance if possible and also on the day before arrival. Tell them how far to go under Step Two. Notify New York City Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society (see Step Two) if their help is needed. Keep in touch with the Refugee Committee Chairman by phone.

Step Two

1. (a) Meet refugee at boat (1-3 hours after boat docks). Arrange with Church World Service. See refugee through customs, if necessary.
   (b) Take refugee to sponsor, put on train or take to Hotel Chelsea, 222 W. 23rd Street—Tel. CH 3-3700.

   or

   Arrange with New York City Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society to do this. Miss Palmer or Mr. Shaef. (WOrth 6-2960.)

   or

   Arrange with Church World Service (Mrs. Albats), SPring 7-6300. CWS will also give refugee small amount of cash if necessary.

Step Three

Where parish, individual, or group has assumed responsibility:

1. Meet refugee on pier or at train destination.
2. Take to shelter, whether temporary or permanent.
3. If unfurnishd apartment, arrange for immediate necessities and subsequent furnishing. Also toys for children.
4. Analyze employment capabilities and openings. Arrange interviews. Get the man placed in a job. Help him get Social Security card.
5. Follow up to see that the family is happily settled, children at school if possible; someone at hand who can speak their language.

Step Three* (Alternative)

Where city committee takes over at Chelsea:

1. Determine whether funds are available for underwriting.
2. Welcome family next morning. See that they are able to care for themselves temporarily (elementary cooking utensils if called for). Money for food, etc. Show them the Automat, also A & P near hotel.
3. Securing employment. Take man to Mr. Hendrickson (YMCA, LE 2-8615) or to German Society (147 Fourth Avenue, Mr. Rutgers) or other leads. If out-of-town employment is desirable, contact Mr. Chater. If necessary, take to the Rev. Alex. Jurisson, 281 Fourth Avenue (National Council).
4. Securing place to live. Try for superintendent's job, or cold-water flat, or other vacancy. Mr. Hendrickson will help here, too.
5. If furnishings are needed, Good Will Industries is a good place. Other low-price stores may be known.
6. Follow up. See No. 5 of Step Two.

Church Army Training for Laity

Do you want some real help in fulfilling your calling as a Christian? This is possible because the Church Army offers you a new and unique training opportunity. This training will provide you with a sound Biblical and Theological background, will give you a vital and living experience of the reality of the fellowship of the Church, and teach you the nature and basic approach of your witness in confronting others with the truth and power of the Gospel.

DAILY WORK AND WITNESS

Our daily work provides the normal framework in which your love of God and your ministry should find its regular expression. To witness to the Gospel in this situation by word and life is your primary calling. If you feel the need for some real help to fulfill this ministry then YOU will be interested in this training program.

CHURCH WORK AND WITNESS

Perhaps, you are a lay person already engaged in a full time work for the Church in a parish or Church institution. You may want to bring to your job more than your present skills and professional training. If you want the capacity to witness effectively in your chosen work, then YOU will be interested in this training program.

THE MINISTRY OF THE LAITY

The calling of the Gospel requires you to enter fully into the duties of everyday life and work. Every job or profession by its nature sets the person who follows it in a particular relationship to the society in which he lives. But the everyday business or profession is the forgotten meeting place of Christ, His Church and the world. The Gospel confronts the world in you and through you. This is the primary area of your lay ministry and the great evangelistic frontier of the Church.

THE TRAINING PROGRAM

The Episcopal Church is offering you help and training to fulfill this calling. Short term training sessions are available at the Church Army Training School at the Parishfield Community, in the Diocese of Michigan. If you can take only a month for such training, a short term session is offered during July. Ten week sessions are available beginning in February and October. The cost is minimal. For further information write: The Church Army in the U.S.A., 27 West 25th Street, New York 10, N. Y.

Woman's Hospital Needs Volunteers

The Woman's Hospital Division of St. Luke's Hospital can use volunteers in a wide variety of positions. Some actually participate in direct patient care — straightening beds, checking diet trays, feeding patients. Others take the book cart through the wards, fix flowers, and transport patients to X-ray. Others work in the children's playroom, in the Record Room, and library, in Sterile Supply or in the Clinic. And still others are "wings"— on call to help out wherever help is needed.

Call Mrs. Margaret Meeker, Director of Volunteers, at Monument 6-3000, Extension 36.

A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION

(Based on the Gospel for the Fourth Sunday after the Epiphany.)

THE encounter of our Lord with the Roman centurion must have been an exciting event, to say the least. We know that to be a fact because we are told that Jesus marveled as a result and turned to his followers and said, "I have not found so great faith, no not in Israel".

The centurion was probably very surprised indeed at that remark of our Lord. For as far as he was concerned he had not shown great faith. Rather, he had asked a simple request which he knew perfectly well Jesus could answer if he would. In fact, the centurion was surprised that Jesus even said, "I will come and heal your servant," for he quickly replied, "Lord, I am not worthy that you should come under my roof. Just speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed."

Why did the centurion act surprised and say what he did? Because as a military officer, under authority himself and with full authority over a complement of 100 men, he knew the way things got done. A legitimate request would be made. An appropriate order would be given. And a host of obedient soldiers would carry out the order to the letter. He made that crystal clear when he said, "I say to this man, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it".

The centurion saw in Jesus the Centurion of God and assumed as a matter of course that He had legions of spiritual troops at His command. If Jesus considered the request to heal the servant legitimate, He didn't have to go all the way to the house to accomplish the cure. No. All Jesus had to do, as the Divine Centurion, was to say to the legions under His authority, Go, and they would go. Or Come, and they would come. Or, Do this, and they would immediately do it.

And, as far as the historical event is concerned, that is exactly the way it happened. For we are told, "Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way; and as thou has believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour."

The concept of the Christian as a soldier of God has been in the Church's thinking from the beginning. St. Paul is constantly using the image of the soldier to describe the followers of Christ. "Put on the whole armor of God," he said over and over again. And then he would vividly clothe the Christian soldier with celestial military equipment.

"Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with the girdle of truth and having on the breastplate of righteousness; and your feet shod with the sandals of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith . . . and the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit. . . ."

When we were baptized, we were signed with the sign of the Cross to the end that we might manfully fight under Christ's banner against sin, the world, and the devil, and continue Christ's faithful soldier and servant unto our life's end.

Christ is our Centurion and we are His soldiers. To us He is constantly saying, Go, Come, Do this. And as faithful soldiers and servants, when He says, Go, we should go at once. When He says, Come, we should execute His command immediately. When He says, Do this, we should do it without delay.

Hear, O Christian soldiers, your Divine Centurion as He commands you to do the Father's will.

"Go and do thou likewise." Show mercy to all in need as did the Samaritan of old.

"Go with him twain." Do twice as much as is required of thee.

"Go show yourself to the priest as a testimony" of a blessing received.

"Go to the lost sheep of Israel." Yes,

"Go and make disciples of all nations."

"Go sell that thou hast and give to the poor."

"Go sit down at the lowest place." Be meek and lowly in heart as was your Centurion before you.

"Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will refresh you."

"Come apart and rest awhile." Then,

"Come, take up thy cross."

"Come, and follow me."

"Come, offer thy gift at the altar."

"Come, for all things are ready."

"Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

Often He is saying Go. As often must you go.

Often He is saying Come. Again as often must you come.

Ah, but above all, hear, O Christian soldiers, your Centurion command:

"DO THIS IN REMEMBRANCE OF ME." And be sure that you do it. "TAKE, EAT, THIS IS MY BODY. DRINK YE ALL OF THIS, FOR THIS IS MY BLOOD. For except ye eat my flesh and drink my blood, ye have no life in you. Whoso eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood hath eternal life; and I shall raise him up at the last day."

May Christ the Centurion say of each of you to His Father, "I say to this man, Go, and he goeth; Come, and he cometh; Do this, and he doeth it."

On newly acquired property there is McFadden Hall — 25 rooms — used as Administration building and Headmaster's residence. A large Elizabethan barn has been converted into a dormitory to house 44 boys and three masters (shown in the picture above) and also a dining hall (shown in picture at the end of this article) kitchen and pantries, and common room. The former Headmaster's house has been converted into an eight bed infirmary and nurse's residence.

School enrollment is now 110 boys and filled to capacity. There were 24 boys at the opening of the school in 1938.

The Bishop With The Children At St. Luke's

BISHOP Donegan followed his usual custom of the past several years and visited with the youthful patients in the Children's Solarium of St. Luke's Hospital, at 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday, December 19th — at the annual Christmas Party given by the Employee's Club of the Seamen's Bank for Savings.

Each Christmas for over twenty years employees of this bank have dressed hundreds of dolls and donated toys for sick and underprivileged children, and every child in the hospital received toys and dolls donated by the bank.

The Bishop, who has a tender touch with little children, is shown ably assisted by Santa Claus.

The United Thank Offering

THE Day Branches of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of New York held their Advent meeting on Tuesday, December 4, at The Cathedral Church. At 10:30 a.m. there was a Celebration of The Holy Communion and the presentation of the United Thank Offering. The Bishop was the celebrant, and the Suffragan Bishop the preacher.

A box lunch was served in the Undercroft of Synod Hall, followed by the regular Diocesan meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary. The speaker was Miss Elizabeth Beath, Secretary in charge of the United Thank Offering for the National Council.

It is to be remembered that the United Thank Offering is an offering by women who day by day have offered some coin, large or small, for a particular item in their lives or their family's life for which they are especially thankful. Each six months — once in the fall and once in the spring — this offering is presented by the women of all parishes in the Diocese, and every three years it is taken to General Convention and presented as an offering to cover women's work in the missionary field both at home and abroad.

THE CHURCH AND FREEDOM

BISHOP Donegan has announced that The Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine will hold a special service of worship on the vital subject of the Church and Freedom at 4:00 p.m., Sunday, May 5. This is a part of a year-long project sponsored by the Division of Christian Citizenship of The National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church to emphasize the continuing importance and religious origins of our basic freedoms.

Bishop Donegan stated he was delighted that the first service in the program will take place in The Cathedral Church under the leadership of Dean Pike. The Bishop also expressed pleasure in announcing that an outstanding layman, Judge Harold R. Medina, has accepted the chairmanship of the Sponsoring Committee for the Diocese of New York. The service will be followed by audience-participation discussions to be held on various aspects of the subject of the Church and Freedom.

Bishop Donegan said that the Service of Celebration on May 5th had a threefold purpose:

1—To interpret the religious roots of freedom as grounded in the great doctrines of the Christian Faith.

2—To consider the application of the Christian Faith to current problems and issues.

3—To consider what the Church and churchmen can do to further freedom in specific fields.

The Bishop said further, "The Episcopal Church in New York has always borne its witness to God's concern for man's freedom, the dignity of his personality, and the equality of all in His sight. It is, therefore, most appropriate that the service to inaugurate this nation-wide program is to be held in The Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine."

The Church and Freedom Celebration, consisting of services devoted to the project and study conferences conducted by eminent laymen, will be held throughout the year in some 15 Cathedrals across the country. Cooperating on the Church and Freedom project with the Division of Christian Citizenship of The National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church are the Deans of each participating Cathedral, including: The Very Rev. James A. Pike — NEW YORK; The Very Rev. Allen W. Brown—ALBANY; The Very Rev. Percy F. Rex — CLEVELAND; The Very Rev. John P. Craine — INDIANAPOLIS; The Very Rev. Charles H. Buck, Jr. — BOSTON; The Very Rev. Philip F. McNairy — BUFFALO; The Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre, Jr.—WASHINGTON; The Very Rev. C. Julian Bartlett—SAN FRANCISCO; The Very Rev. Clarence R. Haden, Jr. — KANSAS CITY, MO.; The Very Rev. Paul Roberts — DENVER; The Rev. Morris F. Arnold — CINCINNATI; The Very Rev. Ned Cole, Jr. — ST. LOUIS; The Very Rev. John C. Leffler — SEATTLE; The Very Rev. J. Milton Richardson — HOUSTON; and The Very Rev. Alfred Hardman — ATLANTA.

Displays illustrating important aspects of some of our freedoms will be on view for about one week at each of the Cathedrals. The displays and collateral materials have been financed by an unrestricted grant from the Fund for the Republic.

Bishop Donegan Eulogizes Alexander Hamilton

BISHOP Donegan delivered an eloquent address on "Alexander Hamilton the Churchman" at a special midday service in Trinity Church on January 11th, conducted by the Rev. Dr. John Heuss and Canon Bernard C. Newman. The day marked the observance of the Alexander Hamilton Bicentennial, and commemorated his birth on January 11, 1757.

After the service Bishop Donegan went with the Trinity clergy to the grave of Hamilton, marked with a monument erected by the Vestry of Trinity Church shortly after his death, on the south side of Trinity churchyard. The Bishop offered prayers and memorial wreaths were laid at the grave by Albert C. Simmonds, Jr., president of the Bank of New York — of which Hamilton was the founder and director —, and by Commander Max H. Roder, Alexander Hamilton Post, American Legion.

The Bishop's Message

My dear people:

You will be glad to learn that the Diocesan contribution to the National Council for 1956 amounted to $420,656.25. This is the largest annual contribution to missions ever made by our Diocese, and represents an increase of $61,956.25 over the previous year. The total receipts from the Diocese for the National Council and our own needs were $764,829.55.

The fact that we exceeded our expectation and reached a new high in our giving for the work of the Church in the Diocese and throughout the world is encouraging, but we must not forget that we do not yet meet our quota. Let us make a greater effort to reach our objective this year.

This spring Billy Graham will lead a great Evangelistic Crusade to make the Christian faith more real in the life of the people of New York. We wish Billy Graham and the many responsible for the Crusade every blessing. There are a great many unchurched people, and there are many people in the churches of our city whose faith and practice are nominal, who may be reached by the Billy Graham approach.

We recognize that some people are reached by one approach, some by another — "many men, many minds." It is therefore only natural that some of our parishes will feel the Crusade merits support and will work wholeheartedly for it, while others will conscientiously be unable to do so and will center their energies on other ways of presenting the claims of the Christian faith.

Whatever way may be taken the goal is the same; namely, to bring all mankind into oneness with Christ through His Church, whereby they may so walk in the light of His truth, and at length attain to life everlasting.

As one who believes that Anglo-American friendship and understanding are essential to world peace and order, I am deeply moved by my appointment by the Queen as an Honorary Commander of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire. You will understand, as I do, that this honor comes not only to me as Bishop but also to you, the clergy and laity of our Diocese.

The report of the survey in regard to the proposed Capital Funds Campaign has been completed. The interviews held by our consultant evidenced genuine interest and strong approval of the general idea of a campaign for funds for advance work in this Diocese. After studying the report the Council will make recommendations to the Diocesan Convention. There is no question as to the reality of the needs and opportunities facing us. We have the resources of faith, ability and finance to meet the challenge, but many of our people are not yet serving the Church with their full talents. The campaign will not only produce funds for the program of the Diocese, but also it will result in more zealous and more generous participation in the program of every congregation.

Faithfully your Bishop,

Horace W.B. Donegan

Queen Elizabeth Honors Bishop Donegan

Queen Elizabeth has been pleased to appoint Bishop Donegan an Honorary Commander of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire in recognition of his "outstanding services to the cause of Anglo-American friendship and understanding." The decoration will be presented to the Bishop by the British Ambassador at a later date.

Bishop Donegan Consecrates New Chapel At St. Michael's Church

A new Wayside Chapel at St. Michael's Church, Amsterdam Avenue and 99th Street, was dedicated on Sunday, January 6th, by Bishop Donegan.

To be open round the clock, the chapel is of Romanesque architecture, with cut limestone walls, six arches, and an altar of white Italian marble. Its wrought iron enclosure fronts on Amsterdam Avenue, overlooking six blocks of rubble that soon will give rise to the Manhattantown housing project.

The Bishop stressed in his sermon the missionary challenge that the influx of the project's 2,720 families (an estimated 8,840 persons) would bring to St. Michael's.

The Bishop also conducted confirmation ceremonies, and dedicated the baptistry, organ console, chapel, altar, narthex, and a large electric sign spelling out the name of the church above the church door.

PARISH MISSIONARY GIVING GAINS

SEVEN hundred and sixty-four thousand, eight hundred and twenty-nine dollars is the total contributed by the people of the parishes and missions of the Diocese to the missionary Program of the Church in 1956, according to a statement of the Treasurer of the Convention released on January 14th. Four hundred and twenty thousand, six hundred and fifty-six dollars was used to implement the program of the National Council and $344,173 to finance the programs of the Departments of Missions, Christian Education, Christian Social Relations, Finance, and Promotion, of the Council of the Diocese, and to assist the work of four Agencies, The New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, the Seamen's Church Institute, The Episcopal Service to the Aged, and the Youth Consultation Service.

Each year there has been an increase in the percentage of quota paid. This year the Diocese as a whole contributed 80.7%. Percentage of Convocation Quota paid is as follows:

|---|---|
| Richmond | 100.7% |
| Bronx | 94.5% |
| Ramapo | 92.6% |
| Westchester | 90.9% |
| Dutchess | 89.7% |
| Manhattan | 75.6% |

Although this is the highest level of giving to the Program of the Church, the fact that we fell short of our goal probably indicates only a partial realization of the potential in our Diocese. Failure to meet the full quota means that the planned work of the National Council was cut back to allow for a deficit of $100,550 and the proposed expenditure for new work of the Departments of the Council of the Diocese was reduced by $82,269.

The Dean's Column

This month I have asked the Headmaster of our Choir School to tell you something of the program of instruction there. He is Mr. Alec Wyton, M.A. (Oxon), F.R.C.O., F.A.G.O., Organist and Choirmaster of the Cathedral Church. — J. A. P.

I think there can be no doubt in the minds of those who hear the Cathedral Choir with some degree of frequency that the boys receive considerable musical training; their achievement in this activity is sufficiently "open to inspection" as it were that comment from me is unnecessary. What is perhaps not so well known is the fact that the boys receive an intensive formal education, the cost of which is largely covered by Cathedral endowment and represents a considerable scholarship grant in return for a boy's services to the Choir.

These are days when emphasis is placed more and more upon proficiency in the fields of Science and Mathematics and College entrance examinations lay more and more stress here rather than upon the Humanities (which is perhaps not entirely a good thing). This emphasis is reflected back to the Preparatory Schools and, ultimately, to the Elementary Schools. We are proud (and not a little relieved) of the fact that this year every one of the boys in our graduating class has been accepted by an outstanding Private Preparatory School for the year 1957-58. Great credit for this goes to Mr. Christopher Crowley, M.A., who, having undertaken the teaching of Mathematics in the upper classes now has the 8th Grade working at 9th Grade Algebra and is bringing the whole program into line with more advanced thinking.

But the Choir School does not neglect the Humanities: the study of Latin and French is begun in the 5th Grade under the imaginative direction of Mrs. Eugenie Radu and all our graduates will soon have had four years of "gentle" language study rather than a year or two of more intensive cramming. Mr. Alastair Cassels Brown, M.A. (Oxon), with English and Mr. John Ratti with History and Geography have brought an ever widening influence of thoughtful good taste into the studies of the boys and the Reverend Richard Reid, M.A., B.D., and Miss Margaret Smith, M.A., have evolved a course of religious study which makes relevant the many services in which the boys take part and brings the Christian point of view to bear on the total life of the School.

Last, and perhaps most important, is the work of the 4th Grade — The Choir School's fledglings. Miss Smith has the entire responsibility for the work of these boys in giving them a secure basis upon which all of their future studies are built. The quality of her teaching is evident as her former 4th Graders work side by side with boys who joined the School in the 5th Grade. Prospective parents should bear this well in mind and make application for their sons when they are quite young. Incidentally we have a one-year old and several three-year olds on our register for the future!

Church Of The Resurrection Consecrated

At the 11 o'clock service on Sunday, February 3rd, Bishop Donegan consecrated the Church of The Resurrection, 115 East 74th Street, after he had met with the Wardens and Vestry and been given proof of the paying off of the mortgage. In as much as the Altars, Font, and the sacred furniture were all consecrated when installed, the service was essentially that of blessing the main Church structure itself.

The Consecration Service was followed by a Solemn Eucharist of Thanksgiving on the 25th Anniversary of the Ordination to the Priesthood of the Reverend Albert A. Chambers, Rector of the Church. The Bishop preached the sermon. The Rector celebrated the Eucharist.

In his sermon, commenting on the contribution of this Parish to the many problems that confront the urban parish, the Bishop said, in part: "Vast numbers of people are simply confused and baffled by the modern yet ancient problems. Who is to help them if not their religious leaders and teachers? In every parish there should be groups of people thinking hard upon these subjects, and preparing to give concrete help and advice to their fellow churchmen. For the ultimate aim of the Christian religion is not simply the saving of individual souls plucked as brands from a hopeless and decadent universe, but the bringing in of a new order wherein dwelleth righteousness, a new and better civilization here in this world".

We Welcome You

The Cathedral extends a cordial welcome to visiting groups from churches, schools, or other organizations. Do plan to visit us! If you will let us know in advance about the visit of your group, we will try to arrange for a special tour of the Cathedral. Address The Canon Sacrist, Cathedral Heights, New York 25, New York. Plan if possible to be present, too, for one of our weekday or Sunday services.

BYZANTINE RELIGIOUS ART

Canon Edward West, D.Th., Litt.D.

The Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, New York

Lecture delivered at the Cathedral Forum Series on Christianity and Art.

BYZANTINE religious art is contemplative, graphic portrayal in the service of Orthodox theology. In the broad sense, all religious art is involved in iconography, but an icon to an Orthodox Christian, means much more than a picture.

In considering icons, it is important that at the very start we remember what the word means. The word icon means image, but image in the sense of that which goes on in a photographic plate, rather than in the popular sense of that word. It is not only the reflection of something which exists, but, in its own way, it conveys something which actually exists and conveys it really. So, for example, in the New Testament, St. Paul speaks of Christ as the Icon of God; that is what the phrase would be in Greek. Christ is the Icon of God, and the whole New Testament is written on the basis that if you want to know what the Eternal God is like, you look at Jesus and see. So, the icon in Byzantine religious art turns out to have that same context. You look at a particular picture and the picture conveys to you, not only what the Saint, or person involved, is like, but something of the very person himself.

You cannot hope to understand Byzantine religious art unless you realize that it is concerned with conveying truth, witnessing to the truth, and, indeed, making it possible for the sensitive and aware Christian to have some part in that truth as he moves through the church building. Our great mistake is to assume that these magnificent craftsmen set out to decorate churches. Decoration was not remotely involved in anything to do with Byzantine art. The Hebrew background of our religion was such that the early Church was extraordinarily sensitive about any form of visual portrayal. You can understand that. The orthodox Hebrew, then and even now, is extremely sensitive on the subject of pictures. It is only within very recent years that any orthodox Jewish family would consent to have photographs around, because a photograph was an icon, and, therefore, it had some quality which implied something religiously. The Hebrew often saw through it when the rest of us did not. In the last analysis, a picture does convey something of the person involved and therefore is always near to some violation of the Commandment, if misused.

Religious portrayal, the use of art to portray and express religion is, of course, pre-Christian, and its effect on the type of art which we are considering comes primarily from Egypt. There, the great priestly paintings, or the hieroglyphs, were such that they conveyed to the worshipper a sense not only of what had happened, but of what was happening at that very moment. The Hebrew had as his form of icon a written word. It is the inconsistency of a very great people. The Hebrew objected enormously to any kind of picture, never realizing that a combination of letters conveying an idea was just as much an icon as any other form of portrayal, and so the Scripture was treated, and is treated, by Israel as an icon. If you go to an orthodox Synagogue, at any one of the high festivals, you will note the extraordinary care with which the scrolls of the Torah are produced. The question will be asked as to whether a Cohen (priest) is present in the congregation and, if so, he will come and carry the scrolls of the Law. This icon is reverence-worthy. It partakes of some of the very nature of the God whom it describes, and this is always true in terms of any devout work done for religion. In Egypt it was done in graphic form. In Greece very largely by idea, so that ideas — thought forms — were embodied in persons or personalities, and a particular person became symbolic of an attitude. You find, over and over again, in reading Plato, that somebody involved — it does not really matter who — is not really an individual, but rather the personification of a whole problem, or an approach to that problem, philosophically or religiously.

The idea that edification was the first reason for art in religion is only partially true, and true only for a very short period of time. The early Church had an affection for the sacred monogram which was quite consistent with its Hebrew background. Any Hebrew had had the sacred letter 'yod' (the first letter of Yahweh—Lord, in Hebrew) formed on his right hand when the phylactery was bound on him, and he became a man in Israel; thus the sacred monogram 'Chi-Rho' (XP — the first letters of Christ, in Greek) was quite consistent. A man could be loyal to the most literal version of the Ten Commandments and still use the Chi-Rho, because it had solid Hebrew background. However, it was not adequate to convey ideas to a picture-minded people.

We have learned in the course of a great number of years of Christian history that people take in concepts or express them in different ways. I always note with pleasure the Collect for the Second Sunday in Advent—some hear, some read, and then they mark, learn, and inwardly digest. We know, even further, that some see, and that some acquire the whole religious atmosphere necessary to the expression of their religion by movement, so that processions, or, actually, the endless prostrations that one finds in certain forms of ancient religion may express this. These things express, or make it possible for a person to participate in, what is going on religiously.

Edification was, of course, necessary in the beginning. A large number of pagan Greeks coming in had never heard of Moses. They knew nothing about the hand of God in history. St. Paul had tried, and the great Alexandrian Fathers had tried, to show them that their own poets and their own great philosophers had been instruments of the Word of God in conveying truth. But the important thing was that they did not know anything of the tremendous moral content of the law. They knew nothing about the great patriarchs and the prophets. And they had to know this or they could not hope to be religious, within a Christian context. Part of the portrayal would have been, of course, for purposes of edification. This was to teach people who did not know. But, once having got by the point of teaching people who did not know, they had to go on to do something else; edification was no longer the entire answer. One moves from there to devotion.

It is to be noted that the Byzantine peoples (and I am referring particularly to the great Empire, with its center at Constantinople, which flourished between the 4th and the 16th Centuries) were not interested in pilgrimages. It always comes to us as a shock that the Byzantine Empire was not remotely interested in the Crusades. Crusades, and Pilgrimages, and things like that, are necessary only for people who have a limited religious life. They are not at all necessary for people who have the fullness of a religious life within their own context. Our Lord remarked that no longer would one have to go to Jerusalem to worship. Worship could be done in spirit and in truth anywhere, and that was what the Father was looking for. So the Byzantine religious genius went to work to make each church a complete expression of the whole cosmos. Jerusalem was where? Right in the parish church. Where was Mount Tabor? Right in the parish church. Where was the Garden of Eden? Right in the parish church; the Mount of Olives — right in the parish church. Thus to a man going through his own parish church, all these were present realities—not just facts in the past.

One must realize that the Orthodox theory of Tradition is always concerned with present realities. Too often, you and I think of Tradition and Scripture as separated things. We tend to think of Scripture as that which is written down, and of Tradition as something which has been passed down orally. (The Anglo-Saxon suspects that if you suddenly find yourself in a complicated theological position, you can just produce some portion of the hidden, secret oral Tradition, and then you get out of that particular theological problem.) The Orthodox brain does not work that way at all; it regards Scripture as the very first portion of Tradition. It does not recognize any dichotemy. Icons and iconography are part of the Tradition. These things come from the past (their coming from the past may be described as a horizontal movement)—but they only make their sense when the Spirit of all Truth, the Holy Ghost, reveals himself (though of as a vertical thrust). That and only that gives them their effect. Anything else is of no importance. Thus, with an icon—with religious art—with the very Book of the Gospels—what makes it important? Not that it comes from the past; that is important, of course, but the more important thing is that this is a meeting point of this continuum from the past with the vertical thrust of the Spirit of God right at this moment— in terms which the individual Christian can understand. It is essential that we remember this attitude about Tradition. The Byzantines were concerned in witnessing to the Truth, and, because of their concern for this Truth, they set up their church buildings in such wise that the whole theology of the Orthodox Church could be conveyed within a single church building.

Byzantine churches were, very largely, square — known, technically, as churches of the cross-in-square variety. If one starts by thinking of a square and then of taking out a small square from each corner of the large square, the result is a cross. There would always be a dome over the center. The very highest portion was regarded as representing the first zone, which was Heaven; the portion next down, the second zone, was Paradise, and the very lowest portion — that down near the ordinary worshipper — the ordinary terrestrial regions.

Theologically, (and they were concerned only with theology) a man going from the west end of the church to the east end would, in the course of getting there, be confronted with every major theological scene. Theological scenes were, however, always rooted in some kind of fact! Each single scene met the man, but never gave him a resting place. Byzantine art does not have resting places. Western art is always concerned with resting places. One can take any great Western religious picture and find the exact point of the center of interest. That will not be true of great Byzantine religious art; it is always in motion.

The spatial problem was the great one. Western people think of space in terms of human bodies, and human dimensions. If, for example, I were going to be shown standing twelve feet up from a floor, just curled up against the ceiling, one could expect to see all the top portion of me get smaller so that my height from the floor might be conveyed. That is normal for us, and that is exactly what the Byzantine did not want at all. The great figure of the All-Ruler, Christ, placed at the top of the dome, at the center of the church, (the highest point) is so figured out that every portion seems so near to the observer in terms of his vision as to be immediate, not twelve feet off the ground—much less sixty-five feet off the ground—or whatever the height might be. It is all to be immediate to you! The figure of a great patriarch, for example, as we gaze up, will be so foreshortened in the lower portion and lengthened in the upper portion as to make it seem all equally near to us. Even the tiny little tesserae of the mosaic will be shifted to a 90 degree angle to the person beholding it from down below. It will not be any of the things we are used to. A figure does not get smaller when it is raised in height; that is not the intention. The intention is to take us and raise us up to the very height of the whole cosmos which is under God's control.

It is Demus, I think, who suggests that you can only understand a Byzantine church if you realize that it is completely an icon—if you remember that the entire interior of the church is an ikonostasis. It is not only all for an icon, but it, itself, becomes one. It goes on beyond that, however. These icons are sanctified, and the Orthodox theory of sanctification is such that anything offered to God receives God's blessing, and becomes more than just a thing, far more. Many of you probably have some form of austere background in your family. If you have, you know that curiously enough one of the things you simply don't do is put an ash tray on top of a Bible. You don't on the whole tend to use a crucifix as a tackhammer, although it is perfectly balanced. You don't do it, because the thing symbolized has already witnessed to part of its nature, and it has done it in such a way that you and this thing have some kind of relationship back and forth. In Orthodox thinking, this is essential. You cannot approach an icon, unless you realize that it is a "two-way" thing, and that all the art is thought through in terms both of your relationship to it and of its relationship to you. You speak to it; it speaks to you. And all space is thought out in those terms.

Ideally, of course, a flat wall is not the best setting for Orthodox Byzantine art. The curved surface, however, provided everything wanted, since the Byzantine brain could not understand anything other than what is technically known as frontality. If I were talking to you, obviously I am going to face you. Were I to keep right on talking and turn my back to you, then, from a Byzantine point of view, I am not talking to you at all. As a matter of fact, I am scarcely even present, because I have ignored your presence. It is psychologically a sound point. Thus the icons must have a face-on quality. They are, however, also involved in scenes in which the figures are dealing with each other. What, for example, about the Annunciation? Here the great angel is announcing God's will to the Blessed Virgin. One figure is concerned with the other; yet both of them also have to be concerned with you. Were both of them to be looking squarely out at you, then it would seem that there were no relationship back and forth between them. If, however, they are placed on a curved surface, actually the angel is facing the Blessed Virgin, and still, at the same time, frontal to you as you stand and look in either direction. Thus the very focus of attention is three-sided in this type of thing. This is all done and all thought through in terms of moving man up to his native estate, which is Heaven.

Byzantine architecture was not thought through in terms of a mighty foundation going up by, technically, architectonic devices to achieve the lofty and lacier pattern so characteristic of Western architecture. When one meditates on what a Byzantine mystic, or a theologian, or an architect, thought he was doing, it becomes clear that he thought of building a great dome and then attaching it to the earth by columns. It is just the reverse of our thinking. For them, the columns are only there to keep the dome from flying away. That is the basic brain and, of course, it accounts for the extraordinary quality of the art when one sees it.

The actual portrayal of our Lord in religious art produced, ultimately, the iconoclastic controversy. The early Church, of course, would not think of attempting to show him. When the first attempts are made in the West, there is no effort to show the Lord himself, but rather to show what he is like. Therefore, they would portray the shepherd Artemis, because our Lord was like that. That is how we find beardless figures in the West. Under no circumstances would there have been any attempt to show him. This is understandable; our ancient mother, Israel, was still too much in the mind of the early Church. In dealing with Greek peoples—dealing with Egyptians and with Latins, it was necessary, ultimately, to get the idea of Christ embodied. It had already been embodied in the written word. It had actually been embodied in song. Now it had to be embodied in picture for another kind of brain. The brain that took it in by feeling. They were not remotely interested in what he looked like at all. That would be just confusing. You must always remember that. It has been remarked that the three Synoptic Gospels tell what our Lord seemed like, and John tells us what he really was like. Three of them are like candid camera shots, and the other is a portrait. A portrait ought to convey more than a candid camera, and John's does. In religious art the total emphasis must be on theological truth. When we look at the great figure of Christ in the dome of the Catholicon at Daphni, we are reminded that the Church's first steps in the portrayal of Christ were dictated by both a profound knowledge of the Servant Poems in the Old Testament, and a shrewd knowledge of the people with whom it had to deal. The figure in the great dome is modeled strictly after the Prophecy in Isaiah. The whole figure is unspeakably stern and the face is terribly severe, one might even say ugly. It is the harrowed face of a man nearly fifty years of age (this age is drawn from St. John's Gospel; the notion that our Lord died at the age of thirty-three is medieval) who was despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief. The Church knew the pagan brain so well that it was not willing to have a Lord who was to be loved for his beauty. The modern prettifications to which all of us are exposed at Christmas and Easter would have shocked the ancient Church, and, if our religion is very sound, they should shock us. The ancient Church was concerned with showing what the Lord was like, and not what he looked like. They had not the slightest interest in the historical details of his costume in Palestine. Their ultimate conclusion was one we all know well. They took the very finest and most reserved of all things — the Greek philosophic form — the philosopher's dress, put that on him, put the beard and the hair in stylized form, and so arranged the drapery and the clothing that there should be no sensual quality whatever. It is absolutely essential to understand that in this type of painting, or this type of mosaic, there can be no sensual quality. If there is any sensual quality, then it is of this world and not the other world, and a man has been taken into church under false pretenses. (You took him in to put him in the middle of a spiritual cosmos, and you ended up by putting him in something which was no different from the world on the outside. And that would never do; that would not be religion.) Ultimately, as for example in Cefalu or Korfu, you find the majestic figure of our Lord, totally serene, grave, magnificent, splendid, other-worldly, the hands out, and the hands, of course, showing the wounds—that is how one knows it is God. The Byzantines never missed the point. They were concerned that the person seeing this should then move from the Source to all the other things which were around—the great Feasts, the theological Feasts of the Church. There were not many of them and they were of great importance, and were so completely stylized as to convey just what was wanted. Any wicked character, of course, would not be looking out at you, because that would mean communication with him and that would not suit.

The portrayals would be of something which actually happened or which, in some way or other, was connected with an historic fact; but it is of no importance historically compared to what it stands for religiously. I cite as an example the well-known icon of the Emperor Constantine and the Empress Helena with the True Cross. The important thing involved there is not the finding of a thing which could not have been known of save for the great Fathers; what was important to them was the triumph of Orthodoxy as over against Arianism. That is why the word true is in the title as over against just the finding of the cross—the True Cross is Orthodoxy. Another famous icon is the scene of the Dormition, that is the falling asleep of the Blessed Virgin. In the front of it one finds a strange little pagan character who tries to upset our Lady's bier, and an angel coming to smite him. The point involved there is the argument, decided at the Council of Ephesus, about the Theotokos, and the attempt at that time to upset the full validity of the Church's Faith. It took a long time to argue through Orthodoxy as over against all the subtle varieties of Arianism as the latter went on, and changed, and took new names, and developed. The icon's prime concern is to show the triumph of Orthodoxy, and all this is shown by this one, little, silly figure trying to upset the hearse on which the Virgin's body rests. The icon also illustrates the ancient theory of the Dormition; one sees that up in our Lord's arms, right up against his breast, is a tiny little figure, and that is the Blessed Virgin's soul—just gone home. This will convey all that which the Church wished to convey.

The Dormition of the Virgin. P. M. Sofronov.

The Byzantine religious mind was also profoundly Scriptural in the fullest sense—it was an eschatological mind. The Greek Fathers were concerned with the last great things. (We generally manage to get around to them in three out of four Sundays of Advent, but we disguise them from our people, and from everybody else, by saying that Advent is some kind of preparation for Christmas—and of course, it is not. Advent has to do with the last great things—the final wrapping-up of everything we know—the sort of thing we read about in one magnificent Lesson of the Burial Office—the 15th Chapter of First Corinthians.) The Byzantine Church was fully conscious of this last great note which was coming. It was so conscious of it that there was no special Season for Advent, but rather a constant awareness of it. This was expressed in the zone divisions—Heaven, where all things were set, that was one thing; then Paradise—and who was in Paradise? All the great that we know—the Forerunner, the Blessed Theotokos (the Godbearer herself.), the Patriarchs, and the greatest saints. Why? Because the Church still believed, as the Scripture dictated, that, ultimately, there was something more to happen before even Paradise could move into the completion of Heaven. This was part of the teaching the church was trying to get across.

The only figures which would be seated in this type of art would be our Lord, or the blessed Virgin. That is all, basically, although in the scene of Pentecost, the Apostles themselves would be seated, and, while writing the Gospels, the Evangelists would also be shown this way. At the lowest level of the three, all the figures are standing. They are standing because that is our level—where we stand. All of us, therefore, stand in the great Church, and as we look around we see all these great men standing by us. One could see the humblest, simplest, greatly-loved parish priest there, along with everybody else. One might see some saintly local shoemaker portrayed, because he and all these are part of the permanent picture of the cosmos as God has created it for us.

Spiritual relationship ruled out any form of naturalism. It must be remembered that naturalism is completely alien to any form of symbolic representation. It is not quite right to say that icons are two-dimensional, because we also are involved in the dimension. It is not correct to say that they ignored ordinary perspective. They did not ignore it, actually; they reversed it, and reversed it intentionally. Instead of the lines of perspective getting smaller to show things moving away from the observer, the things nearer the observer would be smaller because the icon is looking at the observer—he is at the small end of this thing. The icon is not under judgment—man is. The matter shown by the icon has already been decided—it is not subject to popular vote or approval. God set it up, and this thing is here as a relationship, an extension of the very person, the very idea, the very thought form which it represents.

Therefore, style is of paramount importance. As I say, a thing has to be non-sensual. There can be no attempt to reproduce depth; there is no interest in depth. The interest is in just this single thing which gets across to you when you get across to it. The sanctification of the painting had made it possible, under Byzantine theology, to have the very painting or the mosaic itself speak to you with the same authority with which Holy Scripture speaks. If one once gets the idea clearly in mind that in the Byzantine Church—in the Orthodox Church—the Holy Icons are venerated in exactly the same way as the Scripture is venerated, he will understand. Once I raised a point with one of my great Orthodox friends as to why the stylization had become so complete that there would be no change in one particular famous icon of which I was speaking. He said, "Change? You could have a new translation of the prologue to St. John's Gospel, but should it change it?" That conveys the exact point. If an icon is true, a witness to the Truth, then the artist's ingenuity lies in using whatever he can, pictorially, to convey an abiding truth. Lossky, the great Russian Orthodox scholar, in speaking of this whole thing says that Tradition means that things can grow. Of course, the Spirit always causes growth—but truth won't change in that growth. You may have a refinement, but it is not going to be a denial. It is not going to be a reversal of what was true, because one can't have two kinds of truth. All one can have is an expansion of truth. He says that the Pharisee in the church is always distrustful of the slightest improvement, and that he is, therefore, a heretic. Any man who is distrustful of interpretation is a heretic, and any man who can not face growth is a heretic. Any man, on the other hand, who thinks that one may get new truth which makes ancient truth untrue is a heretic. This is entirely the pattern of the Orthodox mind.

The actual handling of the art in its strictest term — not decoration — is the setting forth of the entire theology of the Byzantine Church in its most completely hierarchical form right from the All-Ruler himself down to us, and in such a way that the person going through will gradually, by the sheer movement of the building not be able to miss the point. The Byzantine church does not have a front and a back as would a great Western cathedral. Rather it revolves right around the family of Christ centered under him so that by revolving, you, yourself, have been everywhere; you are everywhere; you have seen everything. You gradually become part of the icons, and then of that icon which is the whole church.

The Spiritual Cosmos — what an Eastern Orthodox Christian sees as he gazes up into the Dome of his Parish Church. P. M. Sofronov.

It has been said that this type of iconography is an attempt so to combine theology and art as to make contemplation real (in the modern popular sense) — to make contemplation visible. The early Fathers were terribly scared of this. We must always be honest about that. They were afraid of making anything visual. One of the most austere and certainly one of the greatest of the Fathers, St. Anthony, (whom most people know for the wrong reasons) was a very tough old man and a very saintly one and in advice to his monks, he tells them that if, after prolonged fasting and prayer, they were vouchsafed the vision of God, then to pray with great intensity and it would probably go away. That is the early Fathers' fear of anything which would come in — which would violate pure spirituality. Iconography at its greatest, and I think it probably is at its greatest in strict theological terms in Byzantine religious art—is so completely spiritualized, so other-worldly that the sensual quality is gone. If you consider an icon of the Lord's crucifixion, you will see strange little beings which seem to be the top halves of angels. Of course! How else is one going to make it clear that these are spiritual beings? If one did a whole being, it would be worldly, and reliant on a mundane judgment.

There must, however, be space between terrestrial beings and beings celestial. Thus, in the curved area of some Byzantine niche (in the apex of this niche) the very handling of the tesserae reproduces light — light right in the middle of the icon, and this light will separate the figures involved. If one side is spiritual and the other side is terrestrial, and they must be separated, then the light reflected in the thing itself can serve for its own form of separation. This is, of necessity, a complicated idea, but don't ever approach Byzantine art on the theory that you look at it as you do at Western painting. Byzantine art always has movement, and you must always move with it. If you follow it, as your eye shifts from thing to thing, remember that this is what it should be doing. You could only see the whole pattern were you to go in some great place like the Kahrie Djami in Constantinople (Istanbul). There you have all of these great icons in their ancient splendour—some of the finest things in the world. There you can see the movement where all of the Church's theology—all of its sense of being, catches you up to your true status as a child of God. (The ancient title of that church is the most perfect title in the world, The Space of the Spaceless One.) There you will understand what all this is about. It is profoundly religious. Its only concern is to witness to the Truth. The Orthodox Church is so sacramental in its thinking that it regards these visible portrayals of Truth and of Persons to be both as authentic and as venerable (in the strict sense) as the very Scripture itself.

Before his Consecration, an Orthodox Bishop, in the course of the Second Confession of Faith, must make this statement, I reverence, relatively, but not in the way of worship, the icons divine and reverence-worthy of Christ himself, and of the all-pure Theotokos, and of all the Saints, addressing to their originals the honour shown to them. I reject as ill-advised those who think otherwise. This careful statement should commend itself to all people who are accustomed to bow to the altar or to the cross, and it should make particular sense to people who address the Theotokos — the God-bearer — in the words of a most popular hymn:

O higher than the cherubim,
More glorious than the seraphim,
Lead their praises, Alleluia!
Thou bearer of the eternal Word,
Most gracious, magnify the Lord,
Alleluia, Alleluia, Alleluia, Alleluia, Alleluia!

EPISCOPALIANS will play a leading part in the English speaking world's tribute to America's beginning at the Jamestown Festival in 1957.

The Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church, and The Most Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury and Primate of all England, will travel together to Virginia in April for the celebration of the 350th anniversary of the founding of the first successful English colony in America, and the simultaneous transfer of the Anglican faith to the new World.

It is also expected that a member of the British royal family will be present for some part of the festival.

The Bishop of London has been invited to conduct a service in Old Jamestown Church June 16, commemorating the first recorded celebration, in 1607, of the Holy Communion on American shores. The House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church, at their November meeting, designated June 16 "Jamestown Sunday."

The festivities will also celebrate the flowering of colonial culture in 18th century Williamsburg and the final winning of American independence at Yorktown in 1781. The state expects an attendance of about two and a half million visitors during the festival year.

The Rt. Rev. George P. Gunn, Bishop of Southern Virginia, is chairman of the interdenominational committee on religious functions and observations. He has issued a special invitation to all Episcopalians to visit the diocese in 1957. Other members of the committee are representatives of all the faiths present in Virginia prior to the Revolution. They include Methodists, Jews, Roman Catholics, Lutherans, Baptists and Presbyterians.

Members of a special Episcopal committee are: for the House of Bishops — the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, the Rt. Rev. Willian Henry Marmion, Bishop of Southwest Virginia, and Bishop Gunn; for the House of Deputies — the Rev. Francis H. Craighill, Williamsburg; the Rev. Canon Walter H. Stowe, New Brunswick, N. J.; the Rev. Canon Theodore H. Wedel, Washington; and the following laymen: B. Powell Harrison, Jr., Leesburg, Thomas B. K. Ringe, Philadelphia; and Thomas H. Willcox, Norfolk.

Bishop Sherrill and the Archbishop of Canterbury will arrive at Cape Henry on the Virginia shore April 26 for the restaging of the English landing in 1607. On April 28, the Anglican prelate will conduct a service commemorating the first act of the English, the raising of the cross on the beach at Cape Henry.

On April 29, the two have been invited to the Jamestown area, where the English settled on May 13, 1607 after sailing up the James River from Cape Henry. The Archbishop will be asked to conduct a service in Old Jamestown Church, which was built in 1639 and is the only 17th century structure still standing above ground on the Jamestown site.

Throughout the festival, the state of Virginia is emphasizing the historic roots of the Anglican faith in America.

Missionary Offering Supports Three Areas

CLERGY have already received literature in support of the Children's Missionary Offering for 1957. Major emphasis is on the work in Haiti, with special emphasis on Church-centered Schools. Study material for both children and youth will focus on Haiti with excellent study guide material prepared by the National Department.

The program known as "Church on Wheels" and special areas of work among Negro schools and mission parishes will also receive support. "Church on Wheels" is a program which provides trailer-chapels which can be moved into areas as a temporary expedient — temporary either because the people are there only temporarily (e.g. migrant workers) or temporary because a permanent church will soon be built to replace the trailer.

Work among the Negro ordinarily receives no special appeal other than that made on behalf of the Church as a whole. There are, however, certain special instances of work which have always needed special support and at this particular time this support is especially necessary.

Children of the Diocese of New York have contributed through their missionary boxes between $40,000 and $45,000 in each of the past few years. This amounts to approximately 10% of the total children's offering by the Church as a whole. Last year was the first in which these offerings were not credited on Parish apportionment but it was interesting to note that, in this Diocese, there was no appreciable difference in the amount of offering received.

The Annual Presentation Service for this special offering will be held at the Cathedral on Saturday, May 18th, beginning at 2 p.m. The service, being planned by the Children's Division of the Department of Christian Education, will be conducted by the Bishop and will present tableaux interpreting our work in Haiti. Clergy, Teachers and other parish leaders are urged (1) to interpret and support the special offering, (2) to make use of the special study material already sent to the clergy, (3) to plan early to bring a large group of children to the Presentation Service on May 18th.

Youth Workcamp

THE Diocesan Youth Workcamp will devote its fifth season to the same locale as proved so satisfactory for its fourth — St. Paul's on the Hill, Ossining. Under the leadership of the Rev. David Bradley and his wife (Christ Church, Yonkers) specially selected young people will devote two weeks in manual labor, door to door visiting, and conducting a vacation school for children. They will pay their own way for the privilege of working hard.

Also assisting in the workcamp will be the Rev. Donald Chilton and Mrs. Chilton, Ellenville, N. Y. and the Rector of St. Paul's, Ossining, the Rev. Benson Fisher, and Mrs. Fisher. Since the workcamp is small, applicants are carefully screened to assure their ability to participate in such an intensive program. In recent workcamps young people have been enrolled from several other Dioceses. Clergy and adult youth advisors should draw this special opportunity to the attention of their more mature young people. A promotion poster has already been sent to the clergy. Those seeking further information should contact the Rev. David Bradley, 103 Elm St., Yonkers, N. Y.

The Rev. Frank Voelcker To Report On Seabury Changes

ON Feb. 28th the Rev. Frank Voelcker, Associate Director of the Curriculum Development Division of the National Department of Christian Education will report to the Director's Forum on expected changes in the Seabury Series course materials.

The Rev. Mr. Voelcker, in charge of Evaluation and Research on the Seabury materials, has been conducting conferences and receiving reports from all parts of the country on the use of the Seabury materials and how these need to be changed to serve the needs of the Church. The courses which became available in May, 1955 (1, 4, 7) are already being rewritten in the light of this research.

Though the Director's Forum is a group of professional workers in Christian education, the address of Feb. 28th will be open to the general public and a special invitation is hereby issued to clergy and interested lay leaders. The meeting will take place at Cathedral House, with the address beginning at 1:30 p.m. The session will adjourn at 3 p.m.

Youth At Bear Mountain

IMMEDIATE plans have been made by the Diocesan Youth Division for small conferences at the new Diocesan Youth Center (St. John's in the Wilderness, Bear Mountain).

Present plans include the following schedule of conferences:

May 17th — 19th, Youth Weekend.
May 24th — 26th, Diocesan Youth Council.
June 14th — 16th, Youth Weekend.
July 19th — 21st, Youth Weekend.
August 16th — 18th, Youth Weekend.

Conferences identified as Youth Weekends will be open for registration from individuals or groups from parishes, and will meet under the leadership of a member of the Youth Division.

The week of June 30th — July 6th has been set aside for the Diocesan Youth Council to conduct a training conference for officers of local youth groups. As the Youth Center becomes established and equipped it will be available to parochial youth groups and other youth programs. For further information on the above conferences contact the Rev. E. Otis Charles, Beacon, N. Y. or the Diocesan Department of Christian Education.

Diocesan Student Conference

THE Diocesan Canterbury Association will sponsor a student conference on the theme "Avenues of Worship" at the Episcopal Center, West Cornwall, Feb. 22nd to Feb. 24th. Leadership will be provided by Frere Laurent, a member of the Taize Community and a 1957 Fellow in the Program for Advanced Religious Studies at Union Seminary.

Frere Laurent, a native of Holland, graduated in law from Leiden University and practiced law in Leiden until becoming professed in the Taize Community in 1952. The Community was formed in 1945 and has members of many reformed Churches, both ordained and lay, serving in many parts of the world. Frere Laurent served his Novi-

Vicar of St. Wilfrid's Church, Halton, Leeds, England
The Bishop of New York selection for 1957

The author of "Receive This Child" here draws on his experience, as priest of a courageous pioneer parish to suggest ways in which the Church can best fulfill its vocation in the modern community.

The Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan says:
"I trust THE PARISH COMES ALIVE will reach many people in America, as it has in Britain, and create a new vitality in the Church's life."

The Rev. Randolph Crump Miller says:
"'The Parish Comes Alive' is well named. It points to certain fundamental principles which if properly used could help us to bring about, by God's grace, the renewal of American parish life." Price.....$2.75

Bishop Donegan Visits Fort Slocum

ON January 28th Bishop Donegan conducted Confirmation Services at Fort Slocum, New York.

For Clergy Only

BISHOP Donegan will preside at a conference for the clergy (only) of the Diocese to be held, under the joint auspices of the Diocesan Committee on Ecumenical Relations and the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church, in CATHEDRAL HOUSE from 10 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. The subject will concern the Church of South India. The three speakers — all members of the Special Committee sent by General Convention to South India last summer — will be: The Rt. Rev. Arthur C. Lichtenberger, D.D., Bishop of Missouri, the Rev. Gardiner M. Day, and Dr. Clifford P. Morehouse.

Conference At Fort Slocum

ON March 6th — Ash Wednesday — the Sound Group District of the Westchester Convocation is having a conference at Fort Slocum, home of the U.S. Army Chaplain School.

The program will begin at 9:45 am with Morning Prayer and Communion, and will end at 3:45 pm with Evening Prayer and Litany.

Young people will board the 9:20 ferry and return on the 4:15 ferry in the afternoon. Fort Slocum is an island out in the Sound, opposite the shores of New Rochelle and very close to the Glen Island Casino.

For further information and directions on how to reach the Base, please contact PFC Carl Loges, Post Chaplain's Office, Fort Slocum, N. Y., or by 'phone NE 6-0900, Ext. 19, between the hours of 8 and 5 through the week. All who wish to come will be very welcome, but please bring a box lunch.

A Treasurer's Ingenuity

THE Parish of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue and Ninetieth Street, is trying to set a new record in its missionary giving this year. And, of course, where there's really a will, ways and means beyond normal channels can always be found.

On Sunday, February 3, — when a strike of deliverers had cut off newsstand sales of newspapers in many areas in New York City, Joel Ellis Fisher, treasurer of the parish, picked up 50 copies of The New York Times at the Times office on west Forty-third Street, and brought them to the church.

At the close of the service the Rector, the Rev. Dr. John Ellis Large, announced that the coffee hour would be held as usual in the church auditorium. But he cautioned the congregation not to dally in too much small talk on their way because "There's a whole stack of The New York Times waiting for purchasers". He added that "the world's best newspaper" could be had for contributions of not less than $1 nor more than $5 a copy. All the money taken in would be donated to overseas missionary work.

The result was that the foreign missions enterprises of our National Church grossed a profit of $68.85 through the sale of the New York Times.

Our orchid-of-the-month goes to Mr. Fisher.

Advent-Christmas-Epiphany Pageant

THE first annual Advent-Christmas-Epiphany Pageant of the Hudson Convocation was held at Holy Cross Church, Kingston, N. Y. on Epiphany night, January 6th, and was attended by over 275 lay people, choir members, acolytes, and young people. A 60 voice combined choir was under the direction of the Rev. David W. Arnold, Priest-in-Charge of St. Peter's, Stone Ridge, and St. John's, High Falls. Mr. Walter Kidd, organist at Holy Cross, was at the organ.

The Rev. Gordon A. Taylor was in charge of the Pageant, assisted by Mrs. Helen Paul of the Vestry of Holy Cross.

Other priests of the Convocation present and participating included the Rev. George Detor, St. Andrew's, New Paltz: the Rev. Robert Shellenberger, St. John's, Kingston; the Rev. Herald Swezy, Rector of Ascension Church, West Park. and Priest-in-Charge of St. Gregory's, Woodstock; the Rev. Peter W. O. Hill, Rector of Trinity Church, Saugerties; and the Rev. Donald O. Chilton, Priest-in-Charge of St. John's, Ellenville.

The Rev. G. Melbourne Jones, Dean of the Convocation and Rector of the Church of The Good Shepherd, Newburgh, presided and pronounced the Blessing. A special offering was taken up for the Presiding Bishop's Fund for Hungarian Relief.

"Mission At Mid-Century" WOR-TV

THE first of a new series of documentary films, produced for television by the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church was shown over WOR-TV (Channel 9 in this Diocese), on Saturday, January 26th, from 10 to 10:30 AM.

The series consists of thirteen films, which will be shown in as many consecutive weeks at the same time, made on location in various parts of the world. They describe the work of the Episcopal Church abroad, in countries like Haiti, the Philippines, and Japan; in urban, industrial and rural areas of the United States; and among special groups, like American Indians, college students, and construction workers. The films have won a total of nine awards from the Cleveland, Boston, Edinburgh, and Columbus Film Festivals, and from the Golden Reel Festival.

Titles and subjects in the series are: Hope of the East (Japan); Vision of Victory (the Philippines); In Fertile Soil (rural areas); Challenge in the Sun (Panama Canal Zone); Strength of the Hills (South Dakota Indians); The Light of the North (Alaska); Window on the Sky (Navajo Indians); Song of the Pacific (Hawaii and Okinawa); Life on Wheels (Construction Workers); For the Whole Child (Medicine); The World Within (Urban Work); The Time and the Place (College Work); and Heartbeat of Haiti.

"Mankind Is Their Business"

YOUTH Consultation Service honored Charles A. Dana, prominent industrialist and William T. Grant, founder of the W. T. Grant Stores, at the first Annual Jacob Marley Award Luncheon. The luncheon was held in the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Plaza and Walter L. (Red) Barber, Chairman of the Board of YCS was the toastmaster.

In the picture above, reading from left to right, are the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherril, D.D., Presiding Bishop: Charles A. Dana, whose Foundation made possible the purchase of Dana House, headquarters of YCS; Bishop Donegan; William T. Grant; and Walter L. (Red) Barber.

Youth Consultation Service of the Diocese of New York, Inc., approaches the close of its first half century of work. It could look back with pride on the long road it has traveled, but prefers to look forward with courage to the road ahead.

'Village' Church Marks 100 Years By Burning Mortgage

BISHOP Donegan burned the mortgage of the Church of St. John's In The Village, at the church's 100th anniversary on Sunday, December 31st. For the first time in its history the church is free of debt. The total mortgage and other debts in 1942 amounted to $320,000, of which $220,000 has been paid off in the last 14 years, the balance of $100,000 remains on the 12 apartment houses which the church operates. Despite this heavy debt, the Parish — for the last six years — has paid, or overpaid, its missionary quota.

It's Caring That Counts

"IT'S Caring that Counts" is the theme of the Girl's Friendly Society's 80th Anniversary year which began with the observance of GFS Week, January 27 to February 3.

During February, each branch has been asked to inaugurate a new branch. In Lent, the girls will study their mission project, the Philippines, and will raise more than $2,000 for a revolving school fund for the children of Philippine clergy and another $1,000 for an additional project in that mission field. March activities will revolve around plans for the GFS Summer Opportunities Program for its Senior members.

Highlight of the 80th Anniversary year will come with the triennial meeting of the GFS National Assembly, to be attended by some four hundred members and leaders, and the annual meeting of the GFS World Council, at which there will be representatives of GFS branches in twenty-five countries. Both meetings will take place June 26 — July 1, at Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, N. Y.

Climax of the National Assembly meeting will be a Thanksgiving Service, to be held on Sunday, June 30, at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, at which the Very Rev. James A. Pike, Dean, will deliver the sermon.

the Bulletin of the Diocese of New York

VOLUME XXXIII NO. 3 MARCH, 1957 25 CENTS A COPY

THE BISHOP DESCRIBES CAMPAIGN SURVEY REPORT

THE Episcopal Church in New York has the numbers and financial strength for one of the greatest missionary accomplishments in this city" is an expression of the feeling of leaders outside our Church, according to the campaign survey report just made to the Diocesan Council. These leaders also say that "Episcopalians are more likely than most to face up to the realities of the task, both its difficulties and its immense possibilities".

Last month I told you that the survey authorized by the 1956 convention to determine the scope of the requirements of the Church facilities for ministering to the areas of most rapid change and growth in the Diocese has been completed and was being studied.

Part of the study was undertaken by the long established and highly regarded firm of Marts and Lundy, Inc., which completed its work in January, and I should like to share with you some of the most significant facts of this firm's report. A resume of this report and the findings and recommendations of our own study will be distributed in April to the clerical and lay delegates to our Convention.

"To those who have given sufficient study to the facts to absorb their full meaning", says the Marts and Lundy report, "the 'Need and Opportunity' do not present a question to be argued; they present the greatest challenge which the Diocese of New York has found, perhaps in its entire history. Those who have sufficiently investigated the need and opportunity have a vision of what a great advance by the Church could mean to the welfare of a vast population and to the character of the world's largest and richest city".

Perhaps the most encouraging statement contained in the study was that all of the clergy and nearly one hundred per cent of the Laymen interviewed by our consultants, approved of an effort by the Diocese to meet its needs and opportunities and signified a willingness to contribute.

Our task, says the report, "is to interpret the challenge so that the present vision of a few will fire the imaginations of the entire membership of the Church".

There is a warning also in the survey, but it concerns a problem to which the Council has given much consideration. It reads in part:

"Decision to purchase a site and erect the necessary buildings involves an immense amount of study and planning. Population trends, housing developments, (present, under construction, approved and in the planning stage) must be considered. Existing churches and social services in the area must be noted. In many areas the missionary need and opportunity are so overwhelming that the united efforts of all the Protestant forces will be needed to make a real impact on the life and character of the population. Attention must be given to the responsibility for particular areas which other denominations are ready to assume. In the total strategy of advance, consideration must also be given to existing churches which are serving or might serve, the changing needs, but which require new buildings and facilities if they are to be adequately equipped for the task which confronts them."

Representatives of the Council of the Diocese have spent nearly a year studying material and evaluating research studies made by the Department of Church Planning and Research of the Protestant Council of the City of New York. This work is financed almost entirely by the major non-Roman church bodies represented in the life of this city. They are directed toward keeping the Church alert to the constant changes in physical and sociological characteristics of our city. Material now available to us is dramatic in its revelations, and it will be our purpose to see that these are interpreted to our people.

We have also had a study made, of all of the upper reaches of this Diocese, which reveals population changes, movements of people into hitherto unpopulated areas, and inroads of industry into residential communities. This strengthens my conviction that we must quickly provide a revolving fund to enable us to seize opportunities for new sites and new churches.

All the data made available to us seems to bear out what I said in my address to the 1956 Convention: "Today we have the greatest opportunity in our long Diocesan history, an opportunity which will not occur again in our lifetime. While there are many evidences of advance, the fact remains that our Church is not keeping pace with the growing population and changed conditions." The growth of our Church today and its influence tomorrow will depend on our efforts at this time. May we act now with boldness, vision, and faith!

Affectionately your Bishop,

REPORT ON THE CHURCH IN SOUTH INDIA

THE Anglican Congress, meeting in Minneapolis in 1954, urged "that an early evaluation be made by an officially appointed body in each member Church of the Anglican Communion of the situation as it is developing in the Church of South India," to enable it to formulate its own attitude toward that Church. It is in accordance with that recommendation that the General Convention authorized and the Presiding Bishop appointed this delegation.

Following are the summaries of the addresses of three of the five delegates sent by General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church on a special survey of the Church of South India last summer. The addresses were made at a special conference for the clergy of the Diocese of New York, held under the auspices of the Diocesan Committee on Ecumenical Relations and the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church in Synod House on Tuesday, February 26, at which Bishop Donegan presided.

THE ENVIRONMENT OF THE CHURCH OF SOUTH INDIA

By The Reverend Gardiner M. Day

IT is impossible to appreciate the Church of South India if one imagines it set down in the environment of New York or some other part of the United States. It is hard to conceive of two countries so different in so many ways as the U.S.A. and India. Therefore, I should like to speak briefly of the environment of the Church of South India, in order that you may have greater appreciation of the tremendous difficulties which the C.S.I. or any Christian Church faces in witnessing to our Lord in India. These difficulties are so many and so devastating that I can only speak of a few.

"First on the list must be hunger. The food supply is insufficient. Consequently, most of the people in South India have little reserve strength.

"Second on the list is poverty. One could not attend a service in an Indian village and see the generosity of these people who scarcely know where the next meal will come from without realizing that whatever we may give individually, relatively speaking we give out of our abundance while these Indians give, like the widow Jesus saw offering her mite, out of their poverty.

"Thirdly, it is hard to make vivid the seriousness of overpopulation. India is a country four and one-half times the size of Texas with fifty times as many people. Add to these the enervating heat, the fact that 80 per cent of the population are illiterate, and the 20 per cent that are literate are divided by numerous languages and dialects. The divisions caused by caste is hard to portray. The textbooks say there are four major castes, but we found there are some 3,000 subcastes.

"In recent years, Hindu nationalism has become steadily stronger and more vocal in its opposition to Christian missions. This was made evident by the issuing of the Niyogi Report of a committee appointed by the government of Madhya Pradesh to investigate missions. These nationalistic Hindus would have the Government expel Christian missionaries from India and take over all the educational and medical institutions conducted by the missionary movement. They see all missions as symbols of Western Imperialism and as tools of the Western nations for combating Communism.

"There are a number of reasons for the Niyogi investigations at this time. One of them apparently was the increase in the number of foreign (including American) missionaries since India achieved her independence. This was amazing to us as the older churches, such as those represented in the C.S.I., long ago adopted the policy of decreasing the number of foreign missionaries and of stepping up the training of native leaders.

"We found, however, that this increase of foreign missionaries was largely among the Pentecostal and other sects, who apparently have entered India in large numbers since 1948. This creates a special problem inasmuch as the missionaries of these sects rarely convert non-Christians but rather prey upon members of the established Christian congregations and strive to wean them by telling them that they have not been taught the true interpretation of the Bible or of Christian doctrines. Everywhere we went, we were asked what can be done about these sects. To this question we had to confess we had no answer. We could only express sympathy in that we are similarly troubled by them at home!

"Fortunately, Prime Minister Nehru, professedly an unbeliever, appreciates the contribution which Christianity has made to India and has steadily resisted all the pressures put upon him to obstruct the missionary movement. In the brief interview which we were privileged to have with him in Delhi last August, he went out of his way to observe that Christianity was indigenous in India and had been in India centuries before it reached many countries of the West. Nehru's policy has been to have the government treat all religions on the basis of equality but with fairness. The missionaries whom we met were unanimous in their praise of Nehru's attitude toward the Church and in their admiration for him as a leader. They repeatedly told us that no one else could possibly hold India together as Nehru has done and is doing. At the same time the missionaries know that no one can tell when some political shakeup may occur which will give the nationalistic Hindus control and easily result in the foreign missionaries being summarily expelled.

IN THE FUTURE

"In India some 8,000,000 Christians, about half of whom are Roman Catholic and about half of whom are non-Roman, are set down in the midst of 309,000,000 Hindus out of a population of approximately 377,000,000. If the Church is to move into the future with any strength—indeed if it is to survive—these things are essential.

"It must make an even greater effort to develop native Indian leadership in every phase of the Church's life, and it must hand over more rapidly than it has in the past the administration and control of the Church to Indians.

"I am particularly glad to report that the transfer of leadership from foreign hands to Indians has been moving forward rapidly in the Church of South India. At the present time there are only 90 foreign presbyters and deacons in the Church of South India in contrast to 812 native presbyters and deacons. There are only 65 foreign lay evangelistic workers in the C.S.I. as against over 3,500 native evangelistic workers. The bishops are now evenly divided, there being 7 native and 7 foreign bishops, but it seems likely that only native bishops will be elected in the future.

"The Church throughout India must strive to achieve a united church even more rapidly than it is doing. Present negotiations in North India seem to be moving very slowly although Ceylon apparently is making greater progress. One of the recommendations of the Niyogi Report was that an independent Christian church be established in India which would cut itself off completely from any foreign support or from any foreign influence or control.

"The foreign missionary boards must be at pains to send only missionaries of first-rate caliber, and they must be men and women with special skills that will be sent to work in the indigenous church, be it the C.S.I. or some other, rather than to head up the work of the church, be it parish, school, hospital, etc.

"Above all, the primary emphasis of every missionary going out in whatever capacity must be SERVICE. What apparently converts the Hindu is not so much preaching, teaching or even medical work as it is seeing the Christian way of life lived in terms of unselfish, sacrificial service that exemplifies the saying in Jesus' parable, 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.' This is the greatest and most convincing contribution that the Christian Church can make to India today. I am happy to say that I returned from India convinced that the C.S.I. is making just this contribution in a truly remarkable way."

THE CHURCH OF SOUTH INDIA

By Clifford P. Morehouse

Among those in the delegation visiting South India last Summer, it was my particular task to visit villages of low-caste Christians remote from the cities. In these, living conditions are very primitive. Often the Christian village lies outside the higher caste Hindu village, and the Christians are not allowed to associate with the people in the main village or to use their village well and other facilities. The Christians in these areas are peons who work in the rice and sugar fields owned by the Hindus, and who are often unemployed.

"I turn now to consideration of some parts of the delegation's report, particularly those dealing with worship, theological education, and the training of lay leaders. As the only lay member of the delegation, I was particularly interested in the question of lay leadership which I would describe as tremendously important in a Church of one million members with only about nine hundred ordained clergy. There are more than ten thousand catechists and lay workers in the Church of South India. These are taught to conduct fellowship classes with such a variety of themes as Bible study, social problems, our duty to the community, and the answers to the teachings of Communism. On the pastoral side, attention is given to such practical matters as pastoral calls, visitation of the sick, encouragement of family prayers, advice on family matters, conduct of the Sunday School, preparation of children for confirmation and preparation for Christian marriage.

"Young women are given similar instruction, plus homemaking and principles of village sanitation and hygiene. They are trained to be Bible women or the wives of village catechists.

"Since the pastor often has twenty to thirty villages under his supervision, he can visit them only occasionally to take them the sacraments. Between these meetings, the burden of carrying on the Christian life is laid upon the lay leaders who thus have a tremendous responsibility.

"Summing up my impressions, I would say:

"Nature is hard on India. In the north we saw floods that destroyed crops. In the south we saw unbelievable drought —no crops, baking sun on dried-out desert, village wells from which not more than a pint could be drawn at a time. Both conditions cause famines and indescribable suffering. Yet we were greeted with garlands, limes and plantains. The latter we gave back to the children, who grabbed them so eagerly that they almost snatched our hands off. But always the people were docile, resigned, and basically friendly.

"The Church of South India is hard to assess. It is heavy on institutional work—schools, hospitals, etc. With the departure of the British, it is increasingly hard to staff these. Many foreign missionaries remain, but they no longer remain in key positions and they know their days are limited. Yet the Indians are sadly lacking in leadership, and few of them have any financial ability. It is a sad commentary on 150 years of intensive missionary work, that so little native leadership has been developed. As to unity, there has been more difficulty in uniting the two Anglican factions—CMS (Low Church, no crosses, etc.), and SPG (old-fashioned High Church)—than in assimilating the Congregationalists, Methodists, Basel Mission Germans. It is overwhelmingly Protestant, Puritan, and fundamentalist, though with a surprisingly Catholic liturgy and, among the leaders, a real ecumenical outlook. But in the villages the union has made little change; they are about as one might imagine first-century slave communities in the remoter parts of the Roman empire.

"Along with other members of the delegation, I felt that the Christians of this country, and particularly members of the Episcopal Church, should extend the fullest amount of fellowship to the Church of South India, consistent with the faith and order of their own Church. The difference between them should not be minimized, but I do express the hope that ultimately the problems of the Church of South India would be resolved in such a way that full intercommunion between the Episcopal Church and the Church of South India might be possible. This, I feel, can not be done until the Church of South India develops its own Prayer Book and becomes more unified, with an episcopally ordained ministry, and a commonly accepted form of Baptism, Confirmation, and Holy Communion. I hope that this might be accomplished by 1977, the end of the 'trial period' of thirty years from the establishment of the Church of South India, during which time various differences and irregularities might be ironed out.

"In the years that lie ahead, India is the key to the situation in Asia, and Asia is very largely the key to the problem of the future of the world. It is of vital importance that Christianity should play an increasingly large part in the Indian scene, and American Christians ought to do everything in their power to help strengthen the hands of the Christians in India. So far as the Episcopal Church is concerned, this can best be done through the Anglican Church in the North of India and through the Church of South India. I hope very much that this will be in the hearts and minds and prayers of all of us."

HOW IS THE UNION IN SOUTH INDIA UNDERSTOOD BY THE AVERAGE LAYMAN?

By The Right Reverend Arthur C. Lichtenberger

ONE of the questions which was in our minds when we came to South India was this: How well is the Union understood by the average layman? We see now that this question would not have occurred to us if we had had any familiarity with the Church of South India or with the people who are its members. About 85% of the members of the C.S.I. live in villages or rural areas. Only 35% can read and write; they have little understanding of the theological issues involved. What we should have asked is this: How does the Union touch the lives of the ordinary member of the C.S.I.? In some ways, not all, but certainly walls of partition have been broken down; there is a deep and growing fellowship.

"Two great unifying factors (among others) are having their effect. One is the Liturgy, little used in some places still, it is true; infrequently used in the villages, because there are not enough Presbyters; but nevertheless the Liturgy of the C.S.I. It is their common worship, it is not Presbyterian or Methodist or Angelican, it has come out of the liturgies of Christendom and found expression in Indian form. It seems quite evident that this act of worship will strengthen and deepen the Union that was inaugurated in Madras in 1947.

"The other unifying power is the bishop. Power is perhaps the wrong word to use. The bishop in the C.S.I., as the Moderator has said, has 'an authority which is spiritual rather than financial or administrative. Being relieved of administrative authority, C.S.I. bishops are able to be real shepherds of the flock of Christ. Wherever the bishop goes he is the symbol of union and a representative of the Catholic Church.' This was evident wherever we went. The presence of the bishop says to the people in the most remote congregations 'You are not an isolated gathering of Christians, self-contained; you are part of the one holy, catholic, and apostolic church.' It is my own observation that the bishops of the C.S.I. are not only symbols of union to their people and effective instruments in strengthening that union, they may very well, quite unintentionally, teach us in the older churches in the West what a bishop in the Church of God is really meant to be."

THE REPORT OF THE DELEGATION TO THE C.S.I.

AFTER returning to America, the Delegation to the C.S.I. made its report and recommendations to the Ecumenical Commission of our National Church, which report and recommendations will be considered and acted upon at General Convention in 1958. Here is the report, in part:

"The Church of South India is a fact, not a theory. It is the primary medium through which we can express our interest in the Christians in that area and our fellowship with them. Together with the Church of India, Pakistan, Burma, and Ceylon, it is the best medium through which we can aid and assist our brethren in India to bear witness to the faith of the One Holy Catholic Apostolic Church which is our common heritage.

"Our goal should be nothing less than full intercommunion with our brethren of the C.S.I. At the present time the C.S.I. is in process of formulating its Faith and Order, developing its Prayer Book, and unifying its ministry. Therefore, we do not now recommend full intercommunion. Nevertheless, we believe that we ought to enter into the fullest possible fellowship with the C.S.I., consistent with our Angelican principles and the Faith and Order of the universal Church as received and practiced in our Communion.

"To this end we recommend to the Joint Commission on Ecumenical Relations that it include in its report to the General Convention of 1958, a resolution setting forth the following regulations governing the relations of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the U.S.A. and the Church of South India:

"1. That the bishops, presbyters, and deacons, consecrated or episcopally ordained before, at, or after the inauguration of the Church of South India be acknowledged as true bishops, priests, and deacons in the Church of God, and that

"(a) such bishops and espiscopally ordained presbyters when temporarily within dioceses or districts of the Protestant Episcopal Church, may, with the permission of the bishop of the diocese, celebrate the Holy Communion in our churches in accordance with the Form for the Administration of the Holy Communion in the Prayer Book of this Church; and that

"(b) such episcopally ordained deacons, when temporarily within dioceses or districts of the Protestant Episcopal Church, may, with the permission of the bishop of the diocese, assist at services of the Holy Communion in our churches.

"2. The bishop of a diocese may at his discretion authorize the use of a church in his diocese from time to time for the celebration of the Liturgy of the C.S.I. by a bishop or episcopally ordained presbyter of that Church.

"3. Bishops, presbyters, and deacons of the C. S. I. may be invited to preach in churches of the Protestant Episcopal Church with the permission of the bishop of the diocese.

"4. Bishops and priests of the Protestant Episcopal Church who visit the territory of the C. S. I. may accept the hospitality of that Church for celebrating the Holy Communion within it.

"5. Communicant members of the C. S. I. when temporarily within dioceses or districts of the Protestant Episcopal Church, may be permitted to receive Holy Communion in our churches provided, however, that those who desire to become communicant members of the Protestant Episcopal Church shall be required to conform to the regular discipline of this Church.

"6. Communicant members of the Protestant Episcopal Church who visit the territory of the C.S.I. may accept the hospitality of that Church for receiving the Holy Communion within it.

Cathedral Community Club Has Sale

THE Cathedral Community Club had a sale of handmade articles and white elephants in the undercroft of the Synod House Wednesday, March 27, from 2 to 5. Tea was served from 3 to 5, and the Singing Seniors presented a program of songs at 4 P.M.

The Cathedral Community Club is under the auspices of the Episcopal Srevice to the Aged. It offers recreation and companionship to older people. During the three years of its operation it has been supported by contributions, and this was the first effort made by the members to be self-supporting. The Singing Seniors are chosen from the various Golden Age Clubs throughout the City, and three of the group are members of the Cathedral Community Club.

The Dean's Column

The annual meeting of the Deans of The Cathedrals of The Episcopal Church was held this year at our Cathedral Church on February 11, 12, and 13. Forty-one Deans came from all over the United States at the joint invitation of Dean Sayre, of the Washington Cathedral, and myself inasmuch as the previous annual meetings have been held alternately in the New York and Washington Cathedrals.

The purpose of these annual meetings is the sharing of information and ideas as to the functions, opportunities and problems of cathedral churches in their service to the Church and their communities. There were discussions as to the way in which cathedrals are providing, and can better provide, Christian leadership and education.

The Deans joined in the regular Offices of the day in the Cathedral, and on Wednesday morning joined in a choral Service of Morning Prayer and Holy Communion according to this Cathedral Church's use for Sundays.

Those attending the meeting were:

*Dean Hammond, St. Paul's Cathedral, OKLAHOMA CITY; Dean Scovil, St. Paul's Cathedral, LOS ANGELES; Dean Richardson, Christ Church Cathedral, HOUSTON; Dean Adams, Trinity Cathedral, TRENTON; Dean Gressle, Cathedral Church of St. John, WILMINGTON; Dean Hardman, St. Mark's Cathedral, GRAND RAPIDS; Dean Rex, Trinity Cathedral, CLEVELAND; Dean Cole, Jr., Christ Church Cathedral, ST. ## U.T.O. of Haitian Women

HAITIAN women of the Episcopal Church, undaunted by government unrest and general strikes and despite their republic's deep poverty (according to The New York Times, the average cash income per capita in Haiti is $25), recently gathered in Port-au-Prince for their first semi-annual service of presentation of the United Thank Offering of the Women of the Church.

The Missionary District of Haiti, which has often in the past been on the receiving end of funds from the UTO for missionary work, is this year for the first time taking part in the UTO program on a diocese-wide basis. "We have received much. Now we do our part to help others," was the sentiment of one of the women making her parish's contribution at the "ingathering", held Sunday, January 27, 1957.

According to the district's UTO Treasurer's report to Miss Elizabeth C. Beath, Associate Secretary of the UTO, 28 of Haiti's 78 parishes and missions have contributed a total of $145.72 at the end of the first six months following general distribution of the UTO's blue boxes to the women of the Church.

Many of the Woman's Auxiliary members (called Dames Auxiliaries in Haiti) travelled to the presentation service in Holy Trinity Cathedral, Port-au-Prince, in spite of adverse travel conditions. The UTO District Treasurer reported, "One W. A. member from each of four mountain missions travelled by the famous Haitian bus, called a camion, on a route which goes through (not over) the same river twenty times. There is not one bridge. Should rain swell the river the passengers simply wait sometimes days on one side or the other. Others came from regions where transportation is only possible by foot or beast."

Seven hundred and eighty-three choristers from eleven choir, day, and boarding schools of the Diocese of New York held a Service of Witness at St. Thomas Church, 53rd St. and 5th Ave., on Sunday, February 10th. The event was sponsored by the Division of Day, and Boarding Schools of the Diocesan Department of Christian Education to spur interest in Church-Sponsored schools. The division has been active in the formation of a proposed National Episcopal School Association for the accreditation of new schools.

Five musical units, representing a portion of the schools, offered special music, namely: The Cathedral Choir, St. Mary's Glee Club, St. Peter's Glee Club, Trinity School Glee Club and the St. Thomas Choir School.

The participating schools were: Church of The Heavenly Rest School, Grace Church School, St. Hilda's School, St. Luke's School, Trinity School, and Cathedral Choir School, all of New York City. Also, Ascension Day School, Staten Island; Greer School, Millbrook; The Malcolm Gordon School, Garrison-on-Hudson; St. Mary's School, Peekskill; St. Peter's School, Peekskill; Trinity-Pawling School, Pawling, and the St. Thomas Choir School.

Presentation Service Tableaux

UNDER the chairmanship of the Rev. Robert Spears, Vicar of the Chapel of the Intercession and Chairman of the Diocesan Division of Children's Work, plans are going forward for the Annual Presentation Service, to be held at the Cathedral on Saturday, May 18th, at 2 p.m.

As in former years the service will be conducted by Bishop Donegan and will be followed by the viewing of the various tableaux arranged in the entrance to Chapels within the Cathedral. These living displays will be centered on the Church's work in Haiti and will be provided this year by the Church of St. James the Less, Scarsdale; Holy Trinity Church, Manhattan; St. Luke's Chapel, Manhattan; Christ's Church, Rye and St. James' Church, Madison Avenue.

Parishes are urged to begin now organizing groups of children to attend the Presentation Service. As in former years those who are members of choirs are asked to bring their vestments and march in the choir procession.

Pawling Youth Conferences

THE Diocesan Department of Christian Education announces the holding of two Youth Conferences at Trinity-Pawling School during the coming summer, following the theme "Christian Horizons".

Each conference will begin on Friday evening and conclude at Wednesday noon. The first conference, for Junior High School students, will begin on Friday, August 23rd and conclude on Wednesday, August 28th. This will be followed by the conference for High School students, beginning on Friday, August 30th and concluding at noon on September 4th.

The conferences have been planned by the Department's Committee on Camps and Conferences under the Chairmanship of the Rev. H. O. Bingley, Vicar of the Chapel of the Incarnation. Both conferences will be under the direction of the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, Director of the Diocesan Department.

Sufficient subsidy is being sought to allow the conference fee to be kept down to $18.00 per person. Promotional literature will be available in late March and will be sent in quantity to the parishes.

Through the kind cooperation of Dr. Matthew E. Dann, Headmaster, Trinity-Pawling School is being made available to the Diocese without charge. Arrangements have been completed with Treadway Inns, Inc. to provide for catering at the conferences. Each conference day will be centered around an address by a keynote speaker, the address being preceeded by a bible study, and followed with discussion in small groups. A well organized recreational program will be carried out each afternoon.

"Adolescents In A Troubled City"

UNDER the sponsorship of the youth workers in Manhattan the Diocesan Division of Youth is sponsoring a series of Youth Workers' Seminars under the title "Adolescents in a Troubled City" designed to assist full time youth workers, both clergy and lay, in understanding the problems of the young people in city parishes.

The seminars are being held at the Chapel of the Intercession, 155th Street and Broadway, Manhattan, on Monday evenings March 11th, 18th, 25th and April 1st, 8th and 29th, beginning at 7:30 until 10 p.m.

Enrollment is being limited to 50 and a registration fee of $2.00 per session is being levied.

The seminars are designed to speak to those who are involved professionally in the Church's work and will be given capable professional leadership. All interested in attending sessions should register with the Department of Christian Education, 1047 Amsterdam Ave., New York 25, N. Y.

Diocesan Youth Day

DIOCESAN Youth Day, formerly called Cathedral Youth Day, will be conducted at the New York Cathedral, sponsored by the Diocesan Youth Division, on Saturday, April 27th. This is an effort to bring together the general membership of youth groups from parishes throughout the Diocese for a program which will begin with a celebration in the Cathedral, Saturday morning, and continue with tours of the Cathedral and films into early Saturday afternoon.

Diocesan Youth Day is being planned by a committee of the Youth Council under the chairmanship of the Rev. Robert Orpen, Rector of St. George's Church, Bronx. Further announcement and registration forms will be sent to the parishes during March.

Dedicated Women

MANY people who want to devote their lives to God's service have never given any particular thought to the Religious Life; and even those who have considered it are often uncertain as to just what that life really is. It is for this reason that the Order of St. Helena, in conjunction with several other communities of women, is holding, for the third time, a conference on vocation to the Religious Life, at its convent in Newburgh, N. Y., during the Labor Day weekend.

There will be talks on the nature of the Life, and opportunity to meet members of different orders and learn about them and their work. The conferees will share the routine of the convent, eat in the refectory with the Sisters, attend the daily chapel services, and in general have an opportunity to observe the everyday business of convent life.

Any young woman betwen the ages of eighteen and thirty-five is eligible to attend, but only about a dozen can be accommodated, so applications should be mailed early. If you are interested, write to The Sister-in-Charge, Convent of St. Helena, Box 397, R.D. 4, Newburgh, N. Y.

Nearby Summer Conferences for Adults

Two Summer Conferences in the New York area will be of special interest to adult members of our congregations, especially those who are expected to provide leadership to parish groups. Both are planned for the last full week in June and further information on both conferences can be obtained from our Diocesan Department of Christian Education.

The Princeton Conference (formerly held at Madison, New Jersey) is planned and sponsored by the Dioceses of Newark and New Jersey and will be held at Princeton Theological Seminary, beginning Monday, June 24th and concluding Friday, June 28th. The keynote speaker will be Dr. A. T. Mollegen of Virginia Theological Seminary.

The Finger Lakes Conference will be held at Hobart College, Geneva, New York and is sponsored by a Board of Governors made up of representatives from the Dioceses of Western New York, Rochester, and Central New York and Long Island. This conference will begin on June 23rd and conclude June 29th. The main lecturer this year will be the Rev. Dr. John Krumm, Chaplain of Columbia University.

The Suffragan

THE RT. REV. CHARLES F. BOYNTON, D.D., S.T.D. SUFFRAGAN BISHOP OF NEW YORK

MOST of us can well remember when the late President Roosevelt pronounced these words to the American people at a most critical period of our nation's history.

With these words Mr. Roosevelt was placing himself in the stream of the great religious tradition of all ages which has always stated that the only thing really to fear is fear itself.

But this was an incomplete summary of the great tradition, for his predecessors in the same tradition had always gone one step further, naming not only fear as the thing to be feared, but naming also the remedy.

The Psalmist long before the Christian era, himself in mid-stream of the great tradition, said: "Thou shalt not be afraid for any terror by night, nor for the arrow that flieth by day; for the pestilence that walketh in darkness, nor for the sickness that destroyeth in the noon-day. . . . There shall no evil happen unto thee, neither shall any plague come high thy dwelling, for [God] shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways."

Later on, the greatest of all the prophets, Isaiah, comforted his people by declaring the same great tradition. "Fear thou not, for I am with thee; be not dismayed, for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness."

If the Psalmist caught the flavor of the great tradition, and the prophets, how much more would the Son of Man, of whom the Psalmist sang and the prophets prophecied! "Fear not, only believe." "Fear not, ye are of much more value (to God) than they." And above all, "Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom."

With our Lord, the great tradition had burned itself into the very heart of the religious interpretation of life. The only thing to fear is fear itself, and the only remedy of fear is in utter trust in God.

For God is love, and there is no fear in love. Perfect love casteth out fear. So fear not, for God is with thee. Be not dismayed, for he is thy God. He will strengthen thee; yea, he will help thee; yea, he will uphold thee with the right hand of his righteousness.

Good Friday At Heavenly Rest

THE Passion According to St. Matthew, by Johann Sebastian Bach, will be sung by the Canterbury Choral Society on Good Friday, April 19th, from noon to 3 o'clock, in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue at 90th Street. The chorus of over 100 voices, conducted by its founder, Charles Dodsley Walker, will be divided into two separate choruses for this work, as specified by the composer, whose original orchestration, calling for two complete orchestras, will also be used. Blake Stern, tenor, will sing the part of the Evangelist, and Mack Harrell, baritone, will portray Jesus. Other soloists will include Phyllis Curtin, soprano, Milded Miller, mezzo-soprano, Ray de Voll, tenor, and Lee Cass, bass. Admission will be free, as is customary at all Services of Music given by the Canterbury Choral Society.

The performance of the St. Matthew Passion will mark the climax of the Canterbury Choral Society's five seasons of existence. Starting as a small group of enthusiastic volunteer singers in the fall of 1952, the chorus has grown gradually to its present size, and has succeeded in attracting enough financial support from its friends so that it is now possible to present important sacred choral works with the orchestration envisaged by their composers, and with the finest soloists. Works performed recently, with original instrumentation, have included Honegger's King David, Mozart's Requiem and also his Great Mass in C minor, Langlais' Missa Salve Regina (first New York performance), Haydn's Nelson Mass and many others.

Judge Harold R. Medina Is Chairman of New York "Church and Freedom" Committee

PLANS for "The Church and Freedom" Celebration to take place on Sunday, May 5, at 4:00 p.m. in The Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, are rapidly being completed.

This Service of Celebration has a threefold purpose:

1—To interpret the religious roots of freedom as grounded in the great doctrines of the Christian Faith.

2—To consider the application of the Christian Faith to current problems and issues.

3—To consider what the Church and churchmen can do to further freedom in specific fields.

This same Service of Celebration will be held throughout the year and into 1958 in fifteen or more Cathedrals across the country. Cooperating in the project are the Dean and Chapter of The Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, the Diocesan Department of Christian Social Relations, and the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary. Involved in the same type of Celebration are Cathedrals in the following cities: Albany, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Boston, Buffalo, Washington, San Francisco, Kansas City, Mo., Denver, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Seattle, Houston, and Atlanta.

Following the service on Sunday, May 5, and as part of the Celebration, there will be project and study conferences conducted by eminent laymen. There will be exhibits prepared by the Division of Christian Citizenship of the National Council of the Episcopal Church on view in The Cathedral Church from about May 1 to May 11, and similarly on view at the other Cathedrals as they have their Service of Celebration.

The five conference panels following the service will be held in Synod House and on the general theme "What Can the Church and Churchmen Do to Further Freedom?"

Panel I, "Man and His Law", Sunday, May 5, at 6:00 p.m. Chairman: the Very Reverend James A. Pike.

Panel II, "Man and His Faith", Monday, May 6, 4:00 p.m. Chairman: the Reverend Leland B. Henry, D.D.

Panel III, "Man and His Labor", Monday, May 6, 8:00 p.m. Chairman: the Reverend John M. Mulligan.

Panel IV, "Man and His Mind", Tuesday, May 7, 8:00 p.m. Chairman: the Reverend John M. Krumm, Ph.D.

Panel V, "Man and His News", Wednesday, May 8, 8:00 p.m. Chairman: the Reverend Canon John W. Turnbull.

The Bishop of New York has appointed his New York Committee for the New York Celebration. The Sponsoring Committee consists of: The Right Reverend Horace W. B. Donegan, D.D., D.C.L., Honorary Chairman; The Right Reverend Charles F. Boynton, D.D., S.T.D., Honorary Vice-Chairman; the Very Reverend James A. # CHURCH AND FREEDOM SERVICE -- MAY 5 IN THE CATHEDRAL CHURCH

Bishop Moseley of Delaware - Thurgood Marshall, NAACP, To Speak

BISHOP Donegan announces that the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine will hold a special service of worship on the vital subject of "The Church and Freedom" at 4:00 p.m., Sunday, May 5. This service is the first of a year-long project sponsored by the Division of Christian Citizenship of The National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church to emphasize the continuing importance and religious origins of our basic freedoms.

The same Service of Celebration will be held throughout the year and into 1958 in fifteen or more Cathedrals across the country. Cooperating in the project here in New York are the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, the Diocesan Department of Christian Social Relations, and the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary.

Bishop Donegan stated he was delighted that the first service in the program will take place in the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine. He said that the Service of Celebration on May 5th had a threefold purpose:

1—To interpret the religious roots of freedom as grounded in the great doctrines of the Christian Faith.

2—To consider the application of the Christian Faith to current problems and issues.

3—To consider what the Church and churchmen can do to further freedom in specific fields.

The Bishop said further, "The Episcopal Church in New York has always borne its witness to God's concern for man's freedom, the dignity of his personality, and the equality of all in His sight. It is, therefore, most appropriate that the service to inaugurate this nation-wide program is to be held in the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine."

The Bishop also expressed pleasure in announcing that an outstanding layman, Judge Harold R. Medina, has accepted the chairmanship of the Sponsoring Committee for the Diocese of New York. The service will be followed by audience-participation discussions to be held on the general theme "What Can The Church and Churchman Do To Further Freedom?"

The Service of Celebration in The Cathedral Church on Sunday, May 5, will consist of a procession of the Cathedral Choir, the attending clergymen, the Executive Committee of the Service of Celebration, the Dean and Chapter of The Cathedral Church, and the Bishop of New York. The Bishop will give the Bidding Prayer. This will be followed by the Lord's Prayer and then a hymn—"Thy Kingdom Come, O God." The Lesson will be from St. John 8:25-32. Then a hymn—"O God of Bethel, by Whose Hand." There will be an address on "The Faith of the Church and the Freedom of Man" by the Right Reverend J. Brooke Mosley, D.D., S.T.D., the Bishop of Delaware. Then a hymn—"Not Alone for Mighty Empire," and an address, "The Application of Christian Faith—Current Issues" by Thurgood Marshall, Esquire, Director-Counsel, NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc.

THE MEANING OF EASTER

THE primary message of Easter is not the guarantee of the immortality of the human soul; it is rather the vindication of Jesus' trust in his Father. Of course the Resurrection of Jesus means the triumph of good over evil,—the victory of God over Satan. Easter is both of these truths and that is the reason for the universal rejoicing on this great Christian festival day.

It is natural and inevitable that one should ask Job's timeless question, "If a man die shall he live again?" There is sufficient evidence in human thought and in religion to give an affirmative answer, but that for which we long is the assurance that we shall know and be known of those we love in the life hereafter. We want to know what life is like in the world to come. We want greatly to know what happens to the human soul after the experience of death.

There are many hints in scripture and in religious experience, but Easter itself gives no certain answers to our questionings. It does not tell us that man is by nature immortal and inevitably so, nor does it give us a blueprint of the world to come.

Easter tells of One who trusted God in life and death; and of a God so strong, so faithful, and so loving, that he can lead them who love him through every single thing which can possibly happen to them—even through that awesome mystery which we call death.

Easter is neither a demonstration of immortality, nor a preview of existence in the future life. Easter calls us to trust our heavenly Father even as a seemingly forsaken, seemingly defeated and actually dying Jesus trusted him.

In the hands of God we and our loved ones are safe. Nothing can hurt us beyond God's powers of restoration, and nothing can destroy the souls whose hope is stayed on him. We can with confidence trust to his care and love, ourselves and those dear to us. We can trust the God of love to make it possible for all of us to recognize those whom we love in the realm of the spirit "where they walk who being born to the new life serve God with a clearer vision and greater joy."

And he who raised up Jesus from the dead, will lead us in his own way, and in his own good time, unto those good things which he has prepared for those who love him.

We trust God, and only because we trust him can we go through life and through death undefeated and unafraid.

Oxholm's Survey Committee Featured In New York Times

Survey work undertaken by a committee headed by our Diocesan Treasurer, Theodor Oxholm, was the subject of a feature article in the New York Times of March 16, 1957. Mr. Oxholm has just completed two years as the Chairman of the Department of Church Planning and Research of the Protestant Council of New York.

The Times article indicated that as much as twenty million dollars will be spent in the next five years in what the Council's report terms, "ten critical areas in Metropolitan New York." Maps have been prepared for all of Manhattan and the Bronx, showing present locations of Churches, housing projects, and whether these projects are occupied, partially occupied, under construction, or development, approved but not yet started. Type of housing, industrial areas, main thoroughfares and proposed road changes are also shown.

Attached to each map is a commentary, skillfully done to give the pertinent facts needed by any group planning new churches, relocations of old plants, or aid to existing churches. Population figure is given for each community, as well as recent shifts in population, and further changes that may be expected. Religious institutions of all kinds are pin-pointed, as well as industrial sites and plans for new industry.

According to the article, which was written by Stanley Rowland, Jr., commitments have already been made "to build several churches . . . though the denominations are not yet ready to make public announcements."

Mr. Rowland writes, "The expansion program is a massive response to changing neighborhoods and 'decaying' churches, a situation faced by Protestantism in many large cities. It is therefore being watched closely as a 'master program' by many city and national church leaders."

Mr. Oxholm's close association with this survey is of great assistance in the planning now being done by our own Department of Missions. All of the material assembled by the survey group has been made available to the department. It has been used, along with other studies made by planning consultants covering the whole Diocese, as background for the report now being circulated among the delegates to the 1957 Diocesan Convention.

The Dean's Column

Since in the past two years parish conferences (weekends for groups from a distance, Saturdays for groups nearer by) have formed an important part of our work. I have invited the Rector of one of the parishes which have visited us to take over the Column this month. He is the Rev. C. Kenneth Ackerman, D.D., of Christ Church, Tarrytown, and a Trustee of the Cathedral.
—J. A. P.

ON Saturday, March 9th, some forty-six members of the Parish and I had the privilege of spending a day at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine at a conference under the auspices of the Dean and Chapter.

This pilgrimage, from the parochial point of view, turned out to be one of the finest things we have ever done. Those who made the trip had their horizons greatly widened. They were so impressed with their experience that they have already awakened the interest of an equally large number who are petitioning me to arrange another expedition.

The day began promptly at 9:30 a.m. with a preparation by Canon West for the service of Morning Prayer and Holy Communion at 10:00 a.m. We sat in the Great Choir and practiced the chants which were to be used and later joined the choir in lustily singing them. This was followed by a coffee break and social hour in the Cathedral House.

The events of the day moved along in rapid sequence demonstrating excellent planning. There was a lecture by the Dean on Christian Ethics, then luncheon. This was followed by a talk on Theology by Canon Johnson, at the conclusion of which the Dean and the Chapter formed a panel and a lively round table discussion took place.

Space does not permit too detailed an account of each moment of the day but we remember the inspiring talk by the Master of Choristers, Mr. Alec Wyton. Another highlight was a lecture-tour of the Cathedral by Canon West. The day ended with a beautiful service of Evensong.

Saturday is theoretically the "day off" for the Cathedral Staff and the fact that they very willingly devote it to such splendid projects as this makes us very grateful.

I doubt if it would be possible for them to have such pilgrimages every week, but I personally feel that it is something which should be done by every parish in the Diocese.

Exhibition of Haitian Popular Art at St. James' Church

AN exhibition and sale of outstanding excellent "primitive" paintings from the island republic of Haiti will be held in the parish house of St. James' Protestant Episcopal Church, Madison Avenue at 71st Street from May 13 through May 29th.

Paintings to be displayed are chiefly from the permanent collection of the government-subsidized Centre d'Art in Port-au-Prince; from the personal collection of Mr. DeWitt C. Peters, founder and director of the Center; from the collection of the Rt. Rev. C. Alfred Voegeli, Episcopal Bishop of Haiti; and includes as well paintings loaned by the Museum of Modern Art of New York, and private collectors.

The Collection to be displayed is unique in that it represents the choices of the Centre d'Art's director, and the Haitian primitive painting movement's chief patron: the Episcopal Bishop of Haiti, and the active collaboration of sculptor Jason Seley—currently the Art Center's representative in America and formerly instructor in sculpture and ceramics on the Art Center's staff. Most of these paintings have never before been shown in New York, and never before in America has so representative a showing been assembled.

Great additional interest has been expressed in that about one third of the paintings to be shown will be offered for sale—for the benefit of the Episcopal Church in this Negro republic. Contemporary examples of Haitian art can be purchased in Haiti's capital city Port-au-Prince; this show includes as well examples of popular or "Primi-

Diocesan Convention May 14

THE 176th CONVENTION of the DIOCESE OF NEW YORK will be held on Tuesday, May 14, 1957, in the Synod Hall, Cathedral Close, 110th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, New York City.

Following a celebration of the Holy Communion in the Cathedral at 8:15 a.m., and breakfast in the Undercroft of the Synod House, the business sessions of the Convention will open at 10:00 a.m.

The Convention is the legislative body of the Diocese consisting of all canonically qualified clergymen together with three lay delegates from each parish in union with the Convention, and one lay delegate from each aided parish and organized mission.

This year, in addition to the regular elections of members and delegates to The Standing Committee, The Provincial Synod, The Council of the Diocese and The Trustees of the Cathedral, four clergymen and four laymen will be elected as delegates, and four clergymen and four laymen as provisional delegates from this Diocese to the 59th General Convention, scheduled to convene in October 1958 at Miami Beach, Florida. This is to comply with an amendment to Sec. 1 of Canon 11, passed by our Diocesan Convention last May, changing the time for the election of these delegates and provisionals.

Teacher Training in Neighborhoods

THE Department of Christian Education's training program for teachers has, this year, been concentrating on the opportunities available in parishes which can be broadened to include the other parishes in the immediate area. This plan is in contrast to the usual development of a program addressed to a whole convocation.

When a parish has sought help in training its teachers the Department has afforded full cooperation and has made the strong suggestion that an invitation to the meetings should be extended to parishes within a certain specified radius. In some instances a whole series of sessions has been outlined from the beginning; in others one session has been planned at a time. In most instances a single session has been continued into a series; in others one session only has been held.

For example, a request for help in teacher training received from St. Mark's, Mt. Kisco resulted in an invitation being sent by the Rector of St. Mark's to the clergy and superintendents in the general neighborhood of Eastern Westchester. Six Parishes sent representatives and in a two hour discussion it came clear that, though all felt the need of help there was very little similarity in the kind of help each parish considered it most needed. Out of that discussion the Rev. Hugh Morton, Katonah, has been responsible for the planning of Teacher Institutes which are continuing at broad intervals throughout the year. The third in this series was held at St. Andrew's Church, Brewster on Sunday, April 7th.

Though the process has been different in each case a similar program has been running for the teachers of (1) Staten Island, (2) Northern Westchester and Putnam (Peekskill area), (3) Rockland County (centered at New City.) Two shorter series were conducted in Southern Westchester, one at Bronxville in October, and another for Mt. Vernon in January and February. Two attempts failed from lack of support, one in the Sound area of Lower Westchester and one for Manhattan and the Bronx within the School of Religion conducted by the Manhattan Division of the Protestant Council (two people turned up!). At present writing a series is being planned around the teachers at Walden, New York with invitations extended to parishes in a large portion of Hudson Convocation.

By the end of February this had resulted in twenty-two various sessions attended by approximately 300 teachers (about 10% of the total in the Diocese). Further sessions in most of these areas will continue during the spring.

All sessions have been conducted either by, or with the help of, the Diocesan Department staff, either the Rev. E. J. Rooney or the Rev. J. S. Wetmore.

Local leadership is used as much as possible both in the organizing of the sessions and in the conducting of them.

The foregoing plan is based on the premise that the Diocesan Department cannot and should not try to carry the main thrust in teacher training. The primary training job can only be done in and by the Parish. Occasional area gatherings can bring in outside help and provide a general stimulus to a local training program but it must beware of interference with the job that only the parish can do.

The Apostles

The intimate story of the Twelve who sat with Jesus

MANY magazines will carry Easter features this year. But perhaps none will be more inspiring and instructive or as beautifully illustrated as the intimate, ten page story of the twelve men who sat with Jesus, which will appear in the April 16th issue of LOOK Magazine.

The story presents—for the first time in an American magazine—a collection of El Greco's famous paintings in color of the Apostles. And the portrait of each Apostle is accompanied by a short biography written by Dr. Frederick C. Grant, the renowned biblical scholar. He examines each Apostle not only as a spiritual leader of the Christian movement, but also as a human being.

Dr. Grant, you will remember is a Priest of our Church. He is professor of Biblical Theology as Union Theological Seminary, and one of the most distinguished Biblical scholars in America.

Chaplain Ferris Receives "Crossroads" Award

BISHOP Donegan presented the "Crossroads" Award to the Rev. Everley S. Ferris, Protestant Chaplain in charge at Bellevue Hospital. The presentation was made on March 22nd in the Bishop's Office in Synod House.

The award is made for "ministry of service to God and his fellow men" on behalf of the religious consultants of the "Crossroads" television series, which each Friday at 8:30-9 on ABC-TV, presents true dramas drawn from the experiences of clergyman of all faiths. An incident in the life of Chaplain Ferris when he saved the life of a disconsolate young actress who believed she had been rejected by her fiance, was the basis of the drama in "The Last Stand".

Two Episcopal Chaplains Graduate From U. S. Army Chaplain School, Fort Slocum

ON Tuesday, March 12 Chaplain (Captain) Cyril F. Coverley and Chaplain (Captain) James F. Reaves were graduated from the U. S. Army Chaplain School, Fort Slocum, N. Y.

Chaplain Coverley is canonically resident in the Diocese of New York. He has had ten years previous service in the Army and Air Forces. He is a graduate of Virginia Theological Seminary. Prior to entering on active duty Chaplain Coverley served Monumental Episcopal Church, Richmond, Virginia. He is to be assigned to Fort Ord, California.

Chaplain Reeves has had previous military service in the Navy. He is a graduate of Virginia Theological Seminary. Prior to attending the Chaplain School he was Rector of St. Marks Church, St. Albans, West Virginia. Chaplain Reeves is presently en route to Ford Leonard Wood, Missouri.

...IN YIDDISH

TWO MILLION JEWS live in New York City. New York Bible Society workers meet them on streetcorners, in parks, in shops and schools, in homes — taking to them the good news of their Messiah-Savior, more often than not in their own language — Yiddish.

JEWISH EVANGELISM is just one phase of the many-sided gospel ministry of The New York Bible Society in the world's greatest — and neediest — city.

MORE AND MORE Christians are having a personal part in this work through the purchase of New York Bible Society ANNUITY AGREEMENTS. These agreements also bring the purchasers a dependable yearly income for life.

The Archdeacon

WHEN a new Rector or Vicar comes to take up residence in the community of his new parishioners, a reception is usually planned to welcome him and his family. This is always a heart-warming event, an assurance of oneness in the determination of the people to cooperate with the new incumbent in furthering God's work. Surely this is the thought entertained by most of the clergy who are entering upon new duties, and it should be the thought uppermost in the minds of the people.

Prior to the appointment of the Rev. George A. Detor to St. Andrew's, New Paltz, representatives of the Advisory Board met with the Bishop and the Executive Committee of the Department of Missions. At a time when the total effort of the Mission produced a little over three thousand dollars a year toward the budget, their confidence was such that they wanted the Department to guide them in the steps necessary to self-support. This thought was aired when they first interviewed the new Vicar and it is doubtful whether anything expressed prior to, at, or following the reception gave him cause for greater rejoicing.

New Paltz is a lovely village on the edge of the Catskills reminding one of Goldsmith's "Sweet Auburn". It is the temporary home of hundreds of young men and women attending New York State Teacher's College. Our Church ministers not only to the residents of this and neighboring villages but to the students as well. Both the Diocese and the communicants of St. Andrew's feel a sense of deep responsibility for the college work and over the years have cooperated to make this ministry effective. Judging from the letters received from grateful parents, and from former students now engaged as teachers in schools throughout the State, our work has been highly successful.

From the outset the Rev. Mr. Detor faced the possibility of a duel ministry at St. Andrew's—one to the residents of the village and the other to the faculty and students. The first would entail the usual parish program—the Auxiliary and the Guild, the Youth Program and the Church School, the Pastoral visitations and, of course, the Advisory Board. The other, calling and counselling, Canterbury Club meetings and discussion groups and above all providing a warm welcome to those far away from home. Such a divided ministry, the new Vicar reasoned, should be avoided if possible. Special treatment for one group, he felt, would tend to segregate that part of his congregation. In accepting the appointment he expressed the hope that he could bring townspeople, faculty and students together in a real family relationship, that the comforting sense of "belonging" might be known to all alike. And to this end he has labored, and yet does labor, with considerable success.

Oh yes,—the dream of the Advisory Board and self-support! A thoroughly integrated parish program has brought nearer the day of fulfillment. Then, too, the community and the surrounding area is beginning to expand and this growth, so our planning consultants tell us, will continue steadily. The new people, you may be assured, will receive a hearty welcome at St. Andrew's.

Christian Education Notes

As a development of this thinking the Department is aware that much more should be done to help the "Trainers of Teachers" in the parishes. In most cases this is the Rector; where there is a Director of Christian Education he or she is responsible, occasionally a Sunday School Superintendent does the training or another lay volunteer. It is hoped that more can be done to help these "Teacher Trainers" during the autumn of 1957.

Parish Life Conference "Takes To The Hills"

IT all started in a fog but ended in the bright clear air, and gorgeous view surrounding Lake Mohonk Mountain House. Parish Life Conferences have been held in hotels before, but few if any have been surrounded by the glory of a Catskill Lodge in the off season.

The P.L.C's conducted by the Department of Education have up to now used the four conference centers at Greenwich, Rye, West Cornwall and Yorktown Heights. All of these, however, are in the same general area and none are west of the Hudson. The Lake Mohonk Conference was an experiment and a happy one. Delegations were enrolled from Grace Church, Middletown; St. James, Goshen; Christ Church, Warwick; St. Andrew's, Poughkeepsie, and Trinity Church, Pawling. In spite of wet snow and icy roads all the lay people and the two leaders (The Rev. Raymond Cunningham of Millbrook, and the Rev. J. S. Wetmore, Director of the Diocesan Department) made the steep ascent and were glad of the necessity of surrendering the car to a pilot for the final two mile climb.

The Mountain House usually accomodates 450 patrons in the height of the season and has 300 staff people on hand to help them relax. Only a small section of the vast and varied edifice remains open in winter, primarily to house a small boy's school. Lake Mohonk is world famous for the great international conferences on World Peace sponsored by the Smiley family who have owned and operated the Mountain House through five generations. An attempt to demonstrate the deep convictions of the Quakers in the business world, the Mountain House property now covers seven and a half thousand acres of beautiful mountain scenery.

It may have been the scenery or it may have been the abundant food but these and other factors combining brought to pass one of the most successful parish life conferences held anywhere.

Curriculum Displays In Convocations

THE Department will not conduct Curriculum Conferences in the Convocations in 1957 as has happened in each of the last three years. Instead Curriculum Displays will be set up, and opportunity made available for curriculum consultation. These displays will precede, but not be part of, the Spring Convocation Meetings. The displays will be ready for viewing, and the Director of the Department available for consultation, at 2 p.m. on the following schedule:

THINGS I ALWAYS THOUGHT I KNEW

By EDWARD N. WEST

Canon of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York

In booklet form, here are several of the most interesting selections from Canon West's popular question and answer department, so familiar to the readers of this magazine. Here are the answers to many of those difficult questions asked by members of other faiths about the Episcopal Church. Episcopalians will find some surprising bits of information, too.

tive" art produced years ago and subsequently preserved by the selection of these works for a travelling show, long in this country in storage or on tour to various museums outside the New York area.

The exhibition coincides with St. James' annual Spring Festival. The parish's Rector, the Rev. Dr. Arthur L. Kinsolving, has explained this unusual project in these terms: "The entire Episcopal Church during 1957 is concentrating its study and missionary giving upon the needs of the church in Haiti. Our particular parish is located in the midst of the art gallery area of this great city. It is natural that we should seek to combine these interests to the furtherance of the work of our Church in Haiti and to the assistance of the good works of these gifted untutored artists."

April 30th for Hudson Convocation at Good Shepherd, Newburgh; May 1st for Ramapo Convocation at Grace Church, Middletown; May 2nd for Dutchess Convocation at Grace Church, Millbrook; May 27th for Manhattan Convocation at St. Bartholomew's Church; May 26th for Richmond Convocation at All Saints, Mariner's Harbour; May 20th for Westchester Convocation at Trinity, Mt. Vernon; May 22nd for Bronx Convocation at St. Stephen's Church.

These curriculum displays are intended to be of assistance to those in the Parish who make the decisions as to what curriculum material will be used. In most instances these decisions are made by the clergy as part of their canonical responsibility, but in many places the Sunday School superintendents and the more experienced teachers are also involved. The displays will include all materials prepared for use in the Episcopal Church and other materials suggested by the Interim Curriculum Committee of the National Department.

Notice of these consultations has already gone direct to the clergy with opportunity given for a reserved consultation period during the morning or afternoon if such should be desired.

Diocesan Youth Day, Saturday, April 27

PLANS have been announced by the Diocesan Youth Council for the program of Diocesan Youth Day in which all young people of high school age are invited to participate. This year, as in 1953, the focus will be on the Cathedral Church, with a celebration of the Holy Communion at the High Altar at 11 a.m. followed by a box lunch and the "complete and confidential" tour of the Cathedral under the leadership of Canon West. Bishop Donegan will celebrate the Eucharist and in it will address a special greeting to the youth of the Diocese. Following the service this greeting will be available in printed form for those who attend.

Those who go on the Cathedral Tour are being asked to participate in three contests. Awards will be made at the Diocesan Youth Convention, May 11th at St. James the Less, Scarsdale, for those who have provided the best: (1) Photograph taken on the tour. (2) Sketch inspired by the tour. (3) Essay on the 'Purpose of a Cathedral'. Parishes are encouraged to make up parties of young people, whether they belong to a youth organization or not. The program will be completed by 3 p.m.

Presentation Service, Saturday, May 18

PLANS have been completed by the Children's Division for this year's Presentation Service, and notice of the hymns to be used in the service has already gone out to the parishes.

All members of choir or acolyte groups are asked to vest and march in the procession from the Synod Hall to the Cathedral and pass the Bishop's reviewing stand. Other children will find seats reserved for them in the Cathedral. Bishop Donegan will conduct the service and deliver the address.

As in the past two years, the congregation will move from the service around behind the High Altar to view tableaux on Haiti on display in the entrance to five of the Chapels. The total amount of the children's missionary offering will be announced during the service.

20th Anniversary Year St. Bede's Library

FEBRUARY 3rd marked the 20th anniversary of a unique center of Christian study, the Library of St. Bede, 157 East 72nd Street, New York. This library was started in 1937 as a venture of faith by Miss Annie Kate Gilbert, Miss Katharine N. Rhoades, and Miss Mary S. Sims, three Episcopalians who felt confident that there must be other people who shared their desire and need to have a place for study and conference.

From the beginning the library has endeavored to make available the best obtainable books in English on the Christian religion. The original 75 volumes have grown to over 6,000, many of them rare and out-of-print books, difficult to obtain elsewhere. Anyone who is interested is invited to use St. Bede's for study and reference. Those who wish to take out books on loan are asked to pay an annual fee and become members. In addition to serving readers and students in the New York area the library has members in various parts of the country to whom books are sent by mail. Its friendly and helpful service has proved a great boon both to private readers and to those who have the responsibility of planning Christian Education materials for others.

During the two decades of its life St. Bede's has made a notable contribution to the life of the Church by arranging conferences and discussion groups in the library rooms where its members and friends have the opportunity to hear and meet informally leading religious personalities, and by sponsoring public lectures by distinguished speakers.

The Bishop's Address At The 176th Annual Diocesan Convention, May 14, 1957

"My Brethren of the clergy and laity of the Diocese of New York, Grace be unto you and peace from God our Father and from the Lord Jesus Christ."

At the celebration of the Holy Communion in the Cathedral this morning we remembered before God the bishops of the church and the clergy and laity of our Diocese who since our last convention have entered into the church expectant.

Of the ten clergy of our diocesan family who were remembered at the altar the only one to die in active service, and most recently was the Rev. Dr. James A. Paul, Rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Manhattan. His sudden death was a shock to us all. He was one of the best loved clergy of our Diocese, and the secret of the affection people had for him was his natural radiance, buoyancy, spontaneous sympathy, his complete sincerity and naturalness and the reality of his true devotion. He was indeed a man greatly beloved, and he has left behind an imperishable memory. We thank God for his life and ministry confident that He who has begun a good work in him and through him, will complete it unto the day of the Lord Jesus. May he, and all our brethren who have entered eternal life through the mercy of God rest in peace and may light perpetual shine upon them.

The past year has been a busy year, and in many respects a time of advance in our work for the Lord of the Church. There is much for which we can be truly thankful to God, as we contemplate the work of the Church in the Diocese since our last convention. But chiefly are we bound to praise Him for the growing sense of membership one with another, and the deepening of our followship in Christ and a readiness to work together in his name.

At the very beginning of this report I wish to express to you, the clergy and laity, my profound appreciation of your courteous and generous cooperation at all times in the common task entrusted to us by God.

I am grateful to Bishop Boynton not only for his loyalty but also for his assistance to me, which increases in measure and helpfulness. To the Archdeacon, the Venerable George Brätt, to our Treasurer, Mr. Theodor Oxholm, to the Chancellor, Mr. Ludlow Fowler, to the Registrar and Secretary of Convention, the Rev. Lawrence B. Larsen, and to all the members of our Diocesan staff I wish to express my gratitude for their devoted and conscientious service.

I know that Bishop Gilbert is thinking of us as we meet here and I am sure that later on the Convention will send him a message of greeting.

STATISTICS

I SPARE you the full statistics of the Diocese—they will be reported in the Journal; and I shall not refer to my Episcopal Acts—they are filed with the Secretary. But I would speak of a few statistics of interest to us all.

During the past year 4,115 persons have been added to the communicant strength of the Diocese—of this number 270 have been received from the Roman communion.

Bishop Boynton and I are able to carry out the heavy Confirmation schedule only because we have the help of Bishop Whittemore, to whom I express my thanks, with the hope that he will be with us again next year.

Since last convention there have been 12 ordinations to the Diaconate and 16 ordinations to the Priesthood. I have received the final vows of one sister of the Community of the Holy Spirit, and two sisters of the Community of St. Mary.

At present there are 502 clergy associated with the Diocese; of this number 426 are canonically resident, and 76 other clergy are officiating under my license.

There are 14 candidates and 30 postulants for Holy Orders, and 39 pre-theological students. There are 9 deaconesses and 274 Lay Readers.

During the past year the following clergy have retired from active service in the ministry: The Rev. Dr. Charles B. Ackley, the Rev. Samuel R. Brinckerhoff, the Rev. Raymond E. Brock, the Rev. Henry L. Drew, the Rev. James C. Healey, the Rev. Floarda Howard, the Rev. Lawrence R. Kelley, the Rev. Arthur Ketchum, the Rev. Walter W. Reid, the Rev. Dr. Edward C. Russell, the Rev. Claude F. Stent, the Rev. Morton C. Stone, the Rev. Albert O. Tritsch, and the Rev. J. Marshall Wilson. The Rev. Dr. Shelton Bishop will retire on June 17th, having spent his entire ministry of 34 years in this Diocese. His leadership in St. Philips's and the community will be long remembered.

We thank God for the faithful ministry of our retired clergy and wish them many blessings, health and happiness in the years of their retirement.

Since the last convention I have received 25 clergy into the Diocese. We welcome them most cordially into our fellowship, with full assurance that they will bring strength to the life of the Diocese.

COUNCIL

THE Council of the Diocese has now completed four full years of operation, and in accordance with the canon, elected or appointed members having served four successive years are ineligible for re-election or re-appointment until the expiration of one year. On my own behalf, and I am sure I speak for you, I wish to thank publicly the Archdeacon, the Rev. Osborne Budd, the Hon. Hubert T. Delany, Mr. Clifford P. Morehouse, and Mr. Ellis H. Carson for their able and devoted service.

The Council has proposed that the Archdeacon be an ex officio member so that he may serve continuously, and I hope this canonical change will have your support when it is formally submitted to you. Father Budd has served two years as Chairman of the Department of Christian Education. Mr. Carson has served all of his four years as Chairman of the Department of Finance. His vision and qualities of leadership have been inspiring, and I am glad he is to speak to you later today on some of the matters that pertain to the work of this important department.

There are many clergy and lay persons who though not members of the Council have served four years as members of departments. To them, also, I express hearty thanks for their help and devotion.

With this convention Mr. Charles M. Walton, Jr. completes seven years of service as a member of the Committee on Diocesan Finances. We are grateful for the contribution he has made to this important committee.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

A REPORT of the work of our Church would be sadly incomplete if it did not include our recognition and profound appreciation of the effective work of the women of the Diocese. Mrs. Arthur J. Simpson, who at the annual meeting last week concluded her term of office as President of the Auxiliary, has been an outstanding leader. To her we give our grateful appreciation for all that has been accomplished. Mrs. Simpson's successor is Mrs. Gurney Williams, and to her and to the new executive board associated with her we wish every success.

WOMEN ON VESTRIES

IT would seem to be an appropriate moment to remind you that the resolution will be before you for final action in regard to allowing women to serve on vestries and as delegates to the Diocesan Convention. On various occasions I have expressed my own careful and considered judgment in this important matter and I have not changed my mind. As I said last year, in the light of the vital contribution to the work of the Church made by the women, and the recognition they receive in all other areas of our social, business and professional life, I earnestly hope there will be no hesitancy in passing this legislation at this convention.

THE BISHOP'S MEN

I AM happy to report that during the past year The Bishop's Men, under the chairmanship of Mr. Alexander Saunders, was created and is in process of organization. I wish to thank the many clergy who have already nominated to me such able laymen, and I bespeak the cooperation of you all as this organization begins to function.

DIOCESAN AGENCIES

I AM sorry that there is not time in this report to speak in detail of the invaluable service being rendered to the community by our Diocesan agencies: the City Mission Society, the Seamen's Church Institute, the Youth Consultation Service, and the Episcopal Service to the Aged.

The reports of the agencies should be read carefully by everyone in the Diocese.

CATHEDRAL

DURING the past year the Cathedral has continued with success the educational and pastoral programs on which I have reported before.

The Cathedral's cooperative work with community agencies has been strengthened by the addition to the Chapter last June of the Rev. Canon John W. Turnbull, as Director of Community Relations.

Two weeks ago the most ambitious conference to date was held here under the joint sponsorship of the Cathedral and the Diocesan Department of Christian Social Relations, with the collaboration of the National Council's Division of Christian Citizenship, and with the aid of a generous grant from the Fund for the Republic. Dedicated to the theme of "Church and Freedom," and including a great Service of Witness, five significant panels, and an interesting set of exhibits placed in the nave of the Cathedral, this event launched a nation-wide observance which will move from Cathedral to Cathedral throughout the nation, ending a year from now in our sister Cathedral in Washington. The purpose of this large-scale observance is threefold: to interpret the religious roots of freedom as grounded in the great doctrines of the Christian Faith, to consider the application of the Christian Faith to current problems and issues, and to consider what the Church and churchmen can do to further freedom in specific fields.

The Cathedral has continued to play a significant role in the life of the nation through television and radio. The Dean's weekly telecast, now in its second year, is carried from coast to coast by over forty-five stations of the ABC network, and has received several national awards, including one from the Institute for Education by Radio and Television, and the Brotherhood Award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Other presentations from the Cathedral throughout the

Two Ordained To Priesthood

ON Thursday, May 9, at 10:30 a.m., in St. James Chapel of The Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, the Right Reverend Charles F. Boynton, D.D., S.T.D., Suffragan Bishop of New York, acting for the Bishop of New York, advanced two Deacons to the Priesthood.

The ordination sermon was preached by the Reverend Gerald Van Osten Barry, Rector of Christ Church, Riverdale.

Jonathan LeRoy King, presented by the Reverend Hugh Douglas McCandless, Rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Manhattan. Mr. King is Assistant Minister at Christ Church, Riverdale.

The Dean's Column

As I reflect back on my more than five years as Dean of the Cathedral, I am grateful for the many fine and gratifying things that have happened here during this time. Many of you have been kind enough to tell us that we have been doing a good job, and often you attribute the credit to my colleagues and myself. Grateful as we are for these kinds of words, nevertheless I want to take this occasion to point to some other sources of whatever strength we have:

1. The people who come here in such numbers to our average of 26 services a week, our lectures, forums, colloquia on special subjects, conferences, and meetings. God is here anyway, and is worshipped and adored daily; but He—and we—are glad to have people join us in our daily praise and prayer.

2. The Bishop and the Trustees, who have backed to the hilt our entire program, all through these years.

3. Friends—not only those who have signed up as members of "The Friends of the Cathedral"—who have not only sent us words of encouragement and cheer, but more especially, who have sent us their criticisms, in candor and charity. While we need favorable and encouraging words (especially on Mondays!), we also need constructive criticism. And we have been blessed with both aplenty and all this has played its part in what we have been able to do together.

4. Prayer—and I'll expand this point a bit. Every day throughout the year we remember different parishes and missions of our Diocese, and also the various dioceses of the Anglican Communion (employing the Canterbury Calendar of Intercession). In the name of my brethren and myself I write all the rectors, vicars, and priests-in-charge in the Diocese, and the Bishops of the various dioceses in the Anglican Communion, indicating that we will be praying for them on a particular day and asking them to pray for us on that day or near that time. Our prayers for these various parts of the work of God in the Church are, we hope, effectual. But, in any case, we rely very much on the prayers of the various parishes and missions throughout the Diocese and various Cathedral churches throughout the world. And this has been much more than an empty hope because of the fine letters we receive daily indicating that we have been actually prayed for. Now this is not something subject to statistical analysis or computation by an IBM machine or a Univac and therefore I make this statement in faith: I am sure that the major factor in any good results that have come from our service of God in His Holy Catholic Church, in our special vocation here, has been the continual round of prayer for us by many people known to us and by many more people unknown to us. I am sure that without it we would have done a much poorer job. That we do not do a perfect job is due to human weakness and fallibility, not to any lack of constant intercession for us.

Anyone reading this who may not have prayed for us before is hereby exhorted to do so. Naturally you will pray for us whenever your priest asks you to do so at a service you may be attending. But we hope that you will pray for us many other times during the year. To help you regularize this activity, you may be interested to know that we pray especially for our Friends (both with a capital F and a small f) on Wednesdays, both at the celebration of Holy Communion, and at the service of Morning Prayer. You may want to pray on that day for your Cathedral Church. In the case you do not pray on Wednesdays at all (some people think the Almighty is tuned in only at 11 o'clock on Sundays), this is a good way to begin: If you start praying for us on that day, you may also add prayers for other concerns which may be near to your heart. But in any case, include us. We are counting on it. It has not all been easy; but our inadequate efforts have been reinforced by all the factors I have mentioned above—but especially by prayer.

God bless you all,

James A. Pike

year have reached an even larger number of stations, such as the simulcast of our Christmas Eve service; and a Good Friday service over the NBC network, and an Easter afternoon service over the ABC network, for both of which our choir provided the music and I gave meditations. Each summer a series of dialogue sermons has been presented over the ABC radio network. The use of these media of communication to the nation (without charge from the networks to the Cathedral) is one way the Cathedral is seeking to serve the cause of our Faith as, to quote our Charter, "a center of intellectual light and learning in the spirit of Jesus Christ."

I wish to voice my appreciation to the Dean and Canons for their contribution to the life of the Cathedral and the life of the Diocese.

CAPITAL FUNDS CAMPAIGN

And now I wish to turn to a matter which has been the object of my thoughts and prayers for many months. I refer to the proposed campaign for capital needs and revolving fund, which I pray the Holy Spirit will guide you to authorize today.

You will recall that last year at this convention I spoke of the responsibility of our Church today in the rapidly changing urban situations, and in the growing suburban areas all over the Diocese. I stated my conviction, which has been confirmed by the further developments of the past year, that the time has come when we must venture boldly forth, and undertake to raise a substantial sum for the advancement and expansion of the work of the Church in the Diocese.

The idea of this campaign did not originate last year. It had its beginnings long before then. As a matter of fact, it came into being soon after the reorganization of the Diocese. You may recall that on becoming Diocesan I

Annual Report Of The Woman's Auxiliary

The Woman's Auxiliary have an Annual full house

THE time has come again to give the annual report of our work. Let us first look at some of the changes we planned at the June Conference and consider how they have worked out. As you know, we decided after a good deal of discussion, to change the place of some of our Diocesan Meetings; to have four in Manhattan and to present the work of the departments in a meeting in each of the Districts from which the attendance in Manhattan was the smallest. These plans have been carried out. For some of you who for years have looked forward to spending the first Tuesday in every month from November through May at a Diocesan Meeting, this year has proved perhaps disappointing. However, for those members who live far away and have never been able to attend a Diocesan Meeting except once in five years when it was the turn of that District to entertain the out of town meeting, it has been an inspiring and approved plan. It has not been as easy for the Executive Board this year, but I know I speak for them as well as myself when I say that to go to some of our farther districts and discuss our work, answering questions and hearing of their problems, as well as learning for ourselves how much splendid work is being accomplished, has been a thrilling experience. It has given all of us a feeling of belonging and working together, a sense of that oneness in Christ which only comes from seeing and talking and breaking bread together. So we ask you to remember this when you gather in Seabury House in June and evaluate these changes.

Another change was to have two presentations of the United Thank Offering in December, one on Saturday for those members who cannot come on a week day, as well as the usual Tuesday morning Presentation. This was successful but it still had an element of division in it. If there is ever a time when we should worship together it is at the Presentation of the United Thank Offering. We talked this over with the Bishop and at his suggestion we are trying the service and Annual Meeting to-day on Saturday. We hope you will all feel that this is the right time and place to have it.

The average attendance at the meetings has been 142. We are grateful to the Deaconesses and the Girl's Friendly Society for serving coffee and sandwiches at the meetings held in the Synod Hall and for those parishes who have entertained us.

As always, I wish to express our appreciation of the interest of the Bishops in all we do and the co-operation of the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral.

SCHOOL OF WORSHIP

THE fifth annual School of Worship was held in the Cathedral in November, sponsored by the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral and the Woman's Auxiliary. The attendance was larger this year and it is interesting to note that groups from the Dioceses of Connecticut, Long Island and Newark were among those attending.

LEADERS TRAINING COURSES

THESE courses are increasing in numbers all the time. Two districts held them for the first time this year and the others have continued them and added to them. For instance, Manhattan held four this year and could have filled more.

MISSIONS CRAFT EXHIBIT

IN this project we suffered a great loss in the serious illness of Mrs. Bernstein, the Director. However, it has continued with the help of a faithful few. The time has now come, when the Board of the Woman's Auxiliary feel that its management should be taken over by the committee in charge of the Exhibit Hall. In this proposition the Dean and Chapter concurred and the final arrangements will be made this month. Those of us who have worked closely on this project feel that we have accomplished our objective in starting it, namely, to bring before the public as well as church members, the contributions which the missions of our church have to give as well as to receive. In the two years it has been in operation we have had visitors from all over the world, and have given out information about our whole Missionary work. This has been of inestimable value as well as the $5,018.74 which has been sent to the Missions in cash.

I wish I had time and space to give the complete reports from every member of the Board, but as that is not possible, I will give some of the highlights and hope that you will seek further information from the District and Department heads.

UNITED THANK OFFERING

THE total for the year 1956 was $59,481,83 including all interest. The total for the Triennium was $86,254.73. The largest number of women we have ever had, 9,217, shared in the Spring ingathering.

DEVOTIONAL LIFE

THE growth in membership and continuity of program in the Devotional Life Diocesan Workshop stand out this year as the most important contribution of Devotional Life to the program of the Woman's Auxiliary. The theme was "Neglected Aspects of Christianity" and all meetings were led by the clergy. The average attendance was 45 to 50. Noon Prayer Cards have been mailed to dioceses all over this country as well as to Canada and British Honduras. There has been an increase in the number of Retreats and Quiet Days and study groups are steadily growing, some as parish groups planned by the Rector and held in the evening. There is a definite progress towards incorporating worship in every program and of centering our work in Christ.

CHRISTIAN SOCIAL RELATIONS

THIS has been a year of development and progress. It has seen a very much closer co-operation with the Diocesan Department of Christian Social Relations and the National Council's Division of Christian Citizenship, in the plans for the Church and Freedom program and in interest in the Refugee program, and by the circulation of excellent material on legislation. Miss Palmer's work has been well supported and the interest in it has increased since the change from Ellis Island. A good start has been made towards the coordination of volunteer needs and services. A questionnaire has been drawn up and is to be sent to a representative sample of Episcopal Church women as a step in the process of determining what volunteer services are now going on and what new volunteers might be available.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A slow but steady increase is shown, in most Districts, of awareness of what Christian Education really means. This was emphasized in an excellent all day conference in November, where Education took the form of learning about the work of the Woman's Auxiliary in Parish, Community, Diocese, Nation and the World. It was presented by a panel of Department Chairmen—a clever skit on "Missions in South East Asia" was presented in several districts and encouraged further study on this subject which was the Interdenominational mission topic for this year. Attendance at the Metropolitan Missions Training Institute sponsored by the Manhattan United Church Women was disappointing. Twenty-five women from the Episcopal denomination is, to say the least, a very poor showing. I trust more women will avail themselves of this opportunity in June.

PERSONNEL AND COLLEGE WORK

A concentrated effort has been made to promote recruitment of full time workers for the church through youth and college programs. Youth work in High Schools has been emphasized. Hospitality for overseas students was inaugurated this year and has been arranged with individual hostesses as well as in some parishes. This work with overseas students will grow but is necessarily a slow process. The districts are now appointing officers to serve on this department, and with an enlarged committee the work will grow more rapidly.

MISSION SUPPLY

Thirty-one missions received help in such scattered places as Alaska, Liberia, Philippine Republic, Puerto Rico and Haiti as well as the continental United States. These supplies were valued at $22,039.33 and represent the combined efforts of 198 parishes. An additional $7,782.50 in supplies was sent to 18 institutions in the Diocese, making a total of value of Supply work of $29,821.83, an increase of $1,139.61 over 1955.

CHURCH PERIODICAL CLUB

Through this department the following list has been sent to missions and seminaries:

60 magazine subscriptions
181 magazines remailed regularly
71 Bibles, prayer books, etc.
2922 cards, pictures, etc.
3053 leaflets or Church School material
37,895 current magazines in bulk
17 music records
30 pairs eyeglasses
2 atlases
20 calendars

Money gifts amounted to $1,515.18

From the reports of the Districts I pick out some of the highlights:—

THE BRONX

A leaders Training Course was held for the first time with great success. A very successful venture was the Quiet Evening with an attendance of 174 and a Corporate Communion Service held on Saturday morning.

DUTCHESS

The past year has been one of steady growth with evidences of greater appreciation of the importance of the Auxiliary work, in increased financial contributions and willingness of the branches to assume more fully their share of responsibility for the work of the Church. Factors contributing to this more positive attitude include: 1st—An officers conference held early enough to give branch officers knowledge they need as they start their term of office. 2nd—The second Leaders Training Course, providing training in the objectives and program of the Auxiliary. 3rd—The visit of the Diocesan officers in October which provided the opportunity of a first hand account of the proposed work for the coming year. This same occasion contributed greatly to the feeling of fellowship and joy of working together.

HUDSON RAMAPO

Although this District covers a large territory, there are encouraging signs of increased interest in District meetings. A Leaders Training Course, the first, was held in Lent and it is the feeling of the committee that this is the beginning of bigger and better cooperation. In some of the smaller parishes where a great deal is being done in parish improvements the women are taking a very active part. While United Thank Offering and Supply work are still the major interests in most parishes, the great opportunities for Christian Social Service in the many institutions and hospitals in the District, as well as with the migrant workers at harvest time, have increased the importance of the department of Christian Social Relations and in many parishes it shows signs of new life.

MANHATTAN

As the Chairman expresses it, Manhattan is "Growing up." There is a feeling of direction, an awareness of the meaning of what we all are trying to do and a greater sense of responsibility. This is due in large degree to the Leaders Training Courses, four of which have been held this year and many applicants are clamoring to join. Other new points of interest have been the group meetings of neighboring churches, the teas held for each department by its chairman, and the well attended President's tea. In the department of Christian Social Relations a fine job was done for Hungarian refugees. Manhattan is aware of its many problems and I am happy to report that many churches are joining with other denominations in solving them.

RICHMOND

The two departments most outstanding are Christian Social Relations and Devotional Life. Here, as in Hudson Ramapo, the location of State institutions and Hospitals gives a great opportunity for service. A School of Worship was well attended and a district Prayer Group, as well as several parish Prayer Groups, have been formed.

WESTCHESTER

With all its activities going at full speed, this District has laid great stress on building up personal relationships among the Parish and District officers which is evidenced in the larger attendance at meetings, etc. A successful School of Worship was held and two Leaders Training Courses. The Officers Conferences were attended by 518 women from 69 branches. The inclusion of a round table discussion group of clergy with the President of the Diocesan Board as moderator was an innovation which proved very helpful to the moderator and I trust to the clergy.

I wish I had time to give more details but from these highlights I am sure that you can get the picture of this Diocese, that it is not asleep or willing to remain in "status quo." There are stirrings all through the Woman's Auxiliary in most parishes, and an increasing evidence that women are working as members of the church not for the church.

As I end my last report to you, I wish to express again my appreciation of all the service we have been able to do together in these past four years. I leave this last thought with you. There is nothing which we cannot accomplish if we pray for God's grace to help us to act together in love and understanding.

Respectfully submitted,

Dorothy M. Simpson

The Bishop's Address

requested the modernization of our diocesan system of operation, and in 1953 the Bishop and Executive Council type of diocesan structure came into being.

It took only a short time under the new setup for the critical situation to become as apparent to the Council as it had been to me for a long time. And in my 1953 convention address I pointed out the need for assistance to parishes in the lower income areas, and the need for providing the ministrations of the Church to the thousands who are moving to the suburbs and even further away from the city Convocations.

The challenges and opportunities for expansion and advancement in this Diocese were as pressing then as they are today, but an all-out, truly realistic campaign strictly for our own needs within the Diocese could not be considered at that time because the General Convention of 1952, in Boston, seeing the same critical needs and opportunities on a national and worldwide scale, had authorized the Builders for Christ Campaign. The quota for the Diocese of New York, you will remember, was $393,000.

In spite of our increasing awareness of our own diocesan needs and opportunities, the Bishop and your Council felt that our primary obligation was to the National Church. So in planning the campaign we added for our own purposes the sum of only $200,000 for a revolving fund. This fund—and much more—was desperately needed so that money could be loaned free of interest to congregations in need of new buildings, or in need of enlarging existing plants.

It was a source of satisfaction to us all when I made the announcement at the convention of 1955 that for the first time in the long history of organized campaigns of the National Church, this Diocese had pledged the full amount requested of it. But then I had to add that for the Diocesan Revolving Fund we received only $30,000, which was pitifully inadequate to meet any of the opportunities available to us.

IN the meantime, through studies made by our own Committee on Social Research, through our cooperation with the Department of Church Planning and Research of the Protestant Council, those who had some misgivings became completely convinced of the need of an ambitious, imaginative diocesan campaign for capital needs and a revolving fund.

For the actual needs and opportunities within the Diocese, brought about by the mushrooming of scores of new communities and the enlarging at a fantastic rate of formerly relatively small communities due to the shifting of populations, the decentralization and expansion of industries, the completion of the New York Thruway and other major parkways, became stark realities. Something had to be done and done quickly, and on a large scale, and in a way never before considered or tried by the Diocese.

After many meetings and many hours of study and consultation the Council unanimously decided that the needs and opportunities could no longer be ignored, and that a campaign of substantial proportions was an inevitable duty. At the last convention you authorized the Council to study the requirements of the Church in terms of new sites, new buildings, etc., to report the findings to this convention, including the amounts required, and you authorized the Council to engage professional assistance in the preparation of plans for a financial campaign.

The Bishop has the Convention's attention

In response the Council immediately augmented its own studies of needs and opportunities by having a professional study made of the relative urgency for the expansion of church facilities in the northerly part of the Diocese. The report indicates a population percentage gain of more than 25 per cent between 1940 and 1950, and these communities have grown considerably more during the past seven years. An appraisal of religious needs of these communities has been made with the result that seven are classified as critically urgent, and ten others only slightly less demanding.

The situation in Greater New York is even more critical and staggering. As a result of studies and extensive consultation, if the Protestant and Anglican witness is to continue and grow, fourteen religious bodies including our own have estimated that a Protestant church investment of at least $27,000,000 is needed to prosecute successfully the outlined tasks in the city. From such research and studies as is indicated in the report which has been distributed to you, the Council of the Diocese feels that no less than $4,000,000 is the fair share of our Church in this over-all venture in Manhattan and the Bronx. Perhaps it should be more, when one realizes that the Presbyterian Church is well along in its campaign for $5,000,000 to extend its work in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Staten Island alone.

In order to help you to see the imperative need and the crucial situation in New York, let us examine a typical area in the upper part of East Harlem. This area extends between 96th Street and 125th Street, and between Fifth Avenue and the East River.

This tract is 29 blocks or about one-and-a-half miles long and 7 blocks or about one-half mile wide. The population in 1940 was about 140,000; in 1950, 190,000; and is estimated today as 215,000. About 74,000 of the residents are white, 55,000 non-white, and 86,000 Puerto Rican.

About 85 per cent of this entire area has been declared "suitable for development" by the public planning agencies. About one-third of the area is already in the process of development. There are 14 great housing projects planned for the area and many of them are completed and occupied. These projects alone will house 55,000 persons.

Now what is the situation of our Church in this area? We have one church, St. Edward the Martyr, located at the extreme westerly boundary of the tract on 109th Street near Fifth Avenue. Its facilities are taxed to the utmost to minister to people living within two blocks of the church.

Think of the implications of these statistics:

First: Within four to five years at least 55,000 people, mostly from the South or the Caribbean, will move into what is in effect a new city to be built within this small area of our city, which already has 215,000 people.

Second: The projected housing will occupy such a large percentage of the land that unless plans are made and action taken now, the opportunity to acquire Church sites will be lost for possibly a century.

Third: There is no Episcopal church so situated that it can minister effectively to any large segment of any of this new housing.

To limit the problem for a moment to the East Harlem housing project. In what other town or city of 55,000 people would we countenance a situation where the Church is not represented?

The situation on the lower East Side of Manhattan is equally critical.

On the West Side final plans involving redevelopment of the area between 23rd Street and 59th Street are not yet published, but the area is under constant study.

In the Bronx we have an opportunity to relocate a mission in Clason Point so that it will be placed strategically with regard to a large housing project now in its final stages of building. Throggs Neck is still a community of one- and two-family houses, and there is still vacant land. More of such small houses and more recently the advent of large-scale projects will soon result in more intensive land use patterns. We should acquire a site and gather a congregation here as soon as possible.

In the northeastern section of the Bronx there has been a population increase of more than 25,000 persons since 1950. Half of the existing Protestant congregations are clustered within a relatively few blocks of each other, with only six widely scattered churches serving the major geographical portion of the area. We should acquire a site immediately for possible future relocation of one of our existing congregations, or the establishment of a new one. This strategy for this area was recommended six years ago by our Unit of Research of the National Council; it is even more obvious today, but we still are without the funds to implement it.

I will not say more than a word about the need for funds to finance programs in the new churches which we are planning. The multi-functional leadership in these urban communities is expensive to provide, and it will be years before we can hope for self-support. We are asking for operating funds for five years, hoping that by then such subsidy as will be required will be supplied from a fully subscribed missionary quota.

In a number of urban situations the Department of Missions is aiding or has accepted into mission status several parishes ideally situated with regard to large-scale housing. In most of these instances the churches are more than adequate, but the school facilities and rectories are not designed for today's needs. In two situations the rectories are single-family frame buildings more than one hundred years old.

Several of our parishes, though self-supporting, find themselves suddenly engulfed by new constituencies. The people living in these housing projects must look to the churches for facilities for community activities of all kinds. The task of reaching out to these new residents requires a staff and a program beyond the present means of these parishes. Such parishes must have the concern and help of the whole Diocese. Incidentally, the parishes where these changes have taken place are parishes which 25 years ago contributed generously to the support of the Diocesan and National Church programs. Some of these parishes will need financial help on a loan basis and by outright gift. Where there is local leadership willing and competent to do the Church's work, it is far better to render financial help now to keep a parish strong than it is to wait until it has gone down hill and then try to put things to rights.

Through the years our Church has offered all those entering this great city from abroad the hand of fellowship in our worship of Almighty God and the sacraments of our Faith. Now our opportunity is to do the same for our fellow Americans who come here from the 48 states and our possessions.

I have left until the last our proposals for extending the Church elsewhere in the Diocese, not because they are less important but because they are more readily understood. The majority of our parishes and about half of our communicants live in the suburbs of New York or beyond. There they are in closer touch with community changes than is possible in the city. The building of a thousand, or even a few hundred new homes, the coming of a single industrial plant are known to one and all, and have a direct impact on the lives of every resident. The report sent to you a few weeks ago indicated the need for a fund for the purchase of sites and a fund for building loans. A site should be bought far in advance of its actual need. It cannot wait for the gathering of a congregation and a fund-raising campaign.

By today's standards we need four or more acres of land to assure suitable parking facilities and economical planning for church, rectory and parish-house buildings. We live in an automobile age when parking facilities are not a luxury but a necessity. If we delay in acquiring property we either lose the opportunity to buy sufficiently large and strategically located sites, or we pay too much.

We are convinced that if we can acquire sites, including when possible a rectory which can at first be used to gather a congregation, our people will be able to repay the money we loan them to build their churches. This is not a new concept. It is being done successfully by others right in our own Diocese.

Last year I stated to you that in Westchester County between 1936 and 1953, a period of seventeen years, no new Episcopal church for a newly gathered congregation had been built. In 1953 a small church, St. Francis, was built in the town of Greenburg, and since our last convention we have begun a new work in the town of Ossining. This newest work, known as St. Paul's on the Hill, is being undertaken by St. Paul's Church, Ossining, and consequently will not consist entirely of a new congregation. So at this present time, the record stands that we have built two new churches for new congregations in twenty-one years in this rapidly growing county.

Let us look at the population figures; census figures released last week indicate a present population for Westchester County of 744,000 people. This represents a gain of more than 170,000 since 1940, but we have built only two small churches. The Regional Plan Association predicts that by 1975, Westchester County will have one million residents. While much of this growth can be absorbed by our existing parishes and missions, we cannot escape the fact that much more of it can only be reached by our Church if new facilities are provided in new localities.

Panelists: John C. Daly, Vice President, American Broadcasting Company

J. Montgomery Curtis, Director, American Press Institute

Frank J. Starzel, General Manager, The Associated Press

The panel discussion determined what is "news". What the responsibility of the editor, the reporter, the ownership and management in the various media of communication, for shaping the public understanding of what is happening in the world, and its significance. Just what is the responsibility of the public in this matter and what constructive action can the Church take? What is the relationship between the reportorial, editorial, and business aspects of the mass communications media? That is, is "Hollywood" a business or an art form, or an educational institution or what? Similarly, radio? Television? Is there any such thing as objective reporting? How, if at all, should the reporter or editorial writer compensate for his own prejudices in the matters he writes about? What is "freedom of the press"? What are the chief threats to freedom of the press today? Censorship? The withholding of classified information by the government? The pressure of advertisers? How is the freedom of the press related to the press's responsibility to general welfare?

"MAN AND HIS MIND"

Professor Ursula M. Niebuhr, D.D., Dept. of Religion, Barnard College

Dean Thomas C. Pollack, Ph.D., New York University

The panel discussed in full and frank manner the implications of the Christian view of life. Can a person be committed to the Christian understanding of life and at the same time be "objective" in his evaluation and understanding of life? Is it not true historically that the churches have often represented an oppression of freedom of thought? Do not the names of Galileo and Darwin, among others, suggest that the Church has sometimes been the enemy of intellectual freedom rather than a strong supporter? Does the traditional version of the Christian faith which the Church has always maintained really dictate answers to man's questions or does it not rather give the setting and background in which fruitful and authentic questions can and must be raised?

ATION INAUGURATED AT CATHEDRAL

THE inauguration of a year-long Church & Freedom Celebration took place in the Cathedral Church on Sunday, May 5th, at 4 o'clock.

This Service, sponsored by the Diocesan Department of Christian Social Relations, The Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral, the Division of Christian Citizenship of the National Council, and the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary, will be held in 25 Cathedrals in America, ending at our sister Cathedral in Washington.

Bishop Donegan presided at the Service; Dean Pike gave the Bidding Prayer; Judge Harold R. Medina read the Lesson; Bishop Mosley of Delaware spoke on "The Faith of The Church and Freedom of Man; and Thurgood Marshall, Director-Counsel, NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, spoke on "The Application of Christian Faith—Current Issues."

Five conference panels, held in Synod House, followed the Service and on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. See pictures and comment on these pages.

Bishop Donegan, in speaking of the Celebration, said: "The Episcopal Church in New York has always borne witness to God's concern for man' freedom, the dignity of his personality, and the equality of all in His sight. It is therefore most appropriate that the service to inaugurate this nation-wide program be held in the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine. The program is designed to interpret the religious roots of freedom as grounded in the great doctrines of the Christian Faith; to consider the application of the Christian Faith to current problems and issues; and to consider what Churchmen and the Church can do to further freedom in specific fields."

"MAN AND HIS LAW"

Chairman: The Very Rev. James A. Pike, J.S.D., Dean of the Cathedral Church

Panelists: Hon. Harold R. Medina, LL.D., Judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals

Whitney North Seymour, Esq., Chairman, Committee on Civil Rights of the New York State Bar Association.

The Panel Discussion covered: The grounding of civil liberties in Christian doctrine. The motivation in Christian ethics for defense of others' civil liberties. The teachings of Christ as to the importance of the individual as a basis of decision-making in the field of civil liberties. "Good Will" as the father of justice, tolerance and freedom. The ethical basis of "The Fifth Amendment". The essentiality of the basic freedoms (religion, speech, press, thought) to the fullest opportunity for personal fulfillment. The importance of fair procedure in avoiding a rankling sense of injustice and frustration—destruction of personality.

"MAN AND HIS LABOR"

Chairman: The Rev. John M. Mulligan, Chairman, Department of Christian Social Relations of the Diocese of New York

Panelists: Theodore E. Brown, Assistant Director, Dept. of Civil Rights, AFL-CIO

The Ven. Canon A. Edward Saunders, D.D., Archdeacon of Brooklyn

This discussion indicated the relation of the Church and its doctrine to the whole field of labor and employment. Is the Church supporting the rights of labor against a background of freedom? What is labor's responsibility to freedom? What is the Church's place in labor relations and what is labor's interest in the Church? The panelists discussed the consideration of the responsibility of the Church to labor including the rights of labor and also the responsibility of labor in relation to freedom, particularly as this is understood by the Church.

"MAN AND HIS FAITH"

Chairman: The Rev. Leland B. Henry, D.D., Executive Director, Department of Christian Social Relations of the Diocese of New York

Panelists: Professor Harry W. Jones, Columbia University School of Law

The Rev. Cornelius C. Tarplee, Associate Executive Secretary, Division of Christian Citizenship of the National Council

This panel discussed the relation of the Church to society—the role of the Church both as a direct advocate on particular issues affecting freedom and the role of the Church as the creation of a social conscience that furthers freedom. The discussion stressed the theological basis of the Church's right to speak, the role of the Church in history, the freedom of the prophetic ministry. It dealt with the significance of the legal doctrine of the separation of Church and State and whether this doctrine precludes affirmative action by the Church. It also dealt with the actual role of the Church in an area of racial tension.

Report Of The Council Of The Diocese Of New York

The Suffragan Bishop gives the Council report

THE annual meeting of the Council of the Diocese of New York was held in the Bishop's office on Thursday, May 17th, 1956. As always at the Annual Meeting the Bishop announced his appointments of chairmen and members of the departments, and the Council confirmed additional members as requested by the department chairmen.

The Treasurer reported that during the year 1955-56 almost $2,000 more was received for The Bishop's Fund for Diocesan Needs than during the year 1954-55, or $10,443 as against $8,691.

In response to the series of resolutions concerning a Capital Funds Campaign unanimously passed by the Convention of 1956, the Council empowered its Executive Committee to conduct a survey and submit recommendations for such a campaign.

The Executive Committee at its June meeting, following a thorough investigation of leading fund-raising organizations of national reputation, selected Marts and Lundy, Inc. to be professional consultants and to conduct the survey.

The fall meeting of the Council was held at Seabury House, Greenwich, Connecticut in October. The Bishop introduced to the Council Mr. Harrison Fiddesof, who had been elected Director of Promotion by the Executive Committee in June, effective August 1st.

The Bishop announced the resignation of the Rev. J. Allen Reddick, effective July 15th, as Associate Director for the Division of College Work of the Department of Christian Education.

Mr. Philip King, who had been appointed by Marts and Lundy, Inc. to conduct the survey in connection with a Capital Funds Campaign, addressed the Council. He described the nature of the survey to be made and answered questions raised by the Council members.

Reports were presented by the President of the Woman's Auxiliary, the Chairmen of the Departments and by the Archdeacon and the Rev. Richard E. Gary, Vicar of St. Mary's Church, Manhattanville, on behalf of the Department of Missions.

The January meeting of the Council was also held at Seabury House.

1956 RECEIPTS

THE Council received the report of the Treasurer which showed that in 1956 gifts toward the missionary objective of the diocese totaled $764,829, the highest on record. $420,656 was paid to the National Council, also a record, though still short of the apportionment to the Diocese.

ADJUSTMENT OF 1957 COUNCIL BUDGET

THE Department of Finance reported that estimates from the parishes and missions as to the amounts they could be expected to contribute toward the missionary objective of the Diocese in 1957 totaled $750,000. The objective is $939,873. The canonical share of the Diocese in the anticipated receipts being 45.5% and there being only $12,750 in other Council funds available, it was necessary for the Council to adjust the askings of the departments and agencies to a total of $354,000. After detailed consideration of all factors, the Council Budget for 1957 was reduced to the following:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Council Departments | | |
| Missions | $193,956 | |
| Christian Education | 49,265 | |
| Christian Social Relations | 16,954 | |
| Finance | 5,000 | |
| Promotion | 36,825 | $302,000 |
| Affiliated Agencies | | |
| Episcopal Service to the Aged | 10,200 | |
| N.Y.P.E. City Mission Society | 19,500 | |
| Seamen's Church Institute | 15,800 | |
| Youth Consultation Service | 6,500 | 52,000 |
| | | $354,000 |

From the unexpended balance of the $2,500 fund appropriated for the study of social agencies, $1,500 was ordered reserved for that purpose.

1958 COUNCIL BUDGET

THE Council Budget for 1958, approved at this meeting, appears in the Calendar of Business in the report of the Committee on Diocesan Finances. In total it represents an increase of about 5% over the 1957 budget as approved by Convention. The greater part of this increase appears in the statement of requirements approved for the Department of Missions. It will be applied principally to raise the stipends of the clergy serving in the missions and assisted parishes. It is hoped that a minimum stipened at the rate of $4,000 per annum can be established. In addition to this, allowances for social security taxes and dependent children will be continued.

The other major increase is in the proposed appropriation for the Department of Promotion. The Council is convinced that an annual missionary objective in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 can be reached if we are able to teach our people the principles of true stewardship. Many of our parishes are learning that their budgets can be doubled and trebled. The increased appropriation for the Department of Promotion will permit this teaching of the real meaning of stewardship to go forward. It will also make it possible to keep our people better informed of the eventual uses of their gifts in the advancement of His Kingdom. The Council asks your affirmative action both in the adoption and financial support of this budget.

FOR most people it must be easier to write letters of complaint than to offer words of encouragement because such letters far exceed those which give tribute. Some seem to forget that the basic urge which causes men to seek Holy Orders is the desire to give their lives in the service of God. St. Francis' prayer expresses it well,—

"To give, and not to count the cost;
To fight, and not to heed the wounds . . ."

Surely if this was remembered there would be more letters of praise and more expressions of approbation. And surely the general tone of that mysterious factor called Morale would be heightened.

True priests dislike and distrust flattery. But the clergy are appreciative of words of encouragement. Should a Warden, addressing his Rector at the close of a Vestry Meeting, say "And now, Sir, what can we (The Vestry) do for you?" what a profound effect it would have! Yet, how infrequently this happens.

Even a so-called back-handed compliment is better than the usual silence. Following the delivery of a particularly forceful sermon one of our clergy was pleasantly surprised to have one of his men say, "I didn't like what you said but it did me a lot of good!"

During the past month I received a letter of tribute written by a member of one of our Mission congregations. Had it been written of me I could not have been more profoundly stirred. It was a parishioner's expression of gratitude for the life and example of the Vicar. With permission I want to share part of it with you.

"I should like to express my own personal feelings of the high regard in which we hold our Vicar. He has brought a fullness of meaning and dedication to our work. The Holy Communion is celebrated with a depth of feeling and reverence which I am sure must be transmitted to each participant. His influence over a group of some twelve or more boys who have served at our Altar is probably best summed up by saying that these boys, for whom Church had had no real significance before his coming, now serve faithfully Sunday after Sunday.

"I can truthfully say that in all my years in the Angelican Communion I have never before seen a young priest give of himself so unsparingly to the work of his parish. I know that many a sick call was made when he himself was the sicker of the two. In my humble estimation the true measure of a priest's worth lies in terms of the people who have been helped in any way which brings them closer to God."

Report of the Council

Another action of the Council at this meeting was to authorize the Department of Finance to study a proposal made to the Council by the Tuxedo Park School for acquisition of its property for conference purposes and to take such action as the Department deemed advisable. Recommendations resulting from this study will be presented to the Convention by the Chairman of the Department of Finance, Mr. Ellis H. Carson.

Also at the January meeting, the Council received from Marts and Lundy, Inc. its report of a survey of the fund-raising possibilities in the Diocese for a capital fund. Dr. Arnaud Marts was present and addressed the Council. A special committee was appointed to study the report and to prepare recommendations for a special session of the Council. This special meeting was held on February 28th and resulted in the enthusiastic and unanimous approval of the recommendations contained in the printed report of the Council which was mailed, well in advance of Convention, to all clerical and lay delegates.

DEPARTMENT OF MISSIONS

THE year past has seen the completion of several area studies under competent and expert guidance. Mr. C. Earl Morrow, a well-known planning consultant, prepared a complete report of the Diocese north of White Plains, and presented his findings to the Board of Managers at the October meeting. His report emphasized the desperate need for a revolving fund in order that the opportunities now opening up in suburban areas might be realized.

Our involvement in the problems of the City Church has continued and in cooperation with the Planning Division of the Protestant Council critical areas in the city have been surveyed. Studies of these survey statistics show factually what had heretofore been surmised, that in Manhattan and the Bronx up to one third of the population in certain areas admit no formal membership with any Christian Church at present. This has led to conferences with the clergy and staffs of many of our own Churches, conferences with the clergy and other representatives of other neighborhood congregations and continuing contact with the Planning Division of the Protestant Council.

At the completion of the Yonkers study, the Rectors, Wardens and Vestrymen of every Episcopal church in that city and a similar representation from our Churches in adjacent communities were invited to sit in with the Committee on Social Research of the Department of Missions to discuss the problems brought on by population shifts and to plan a concerted program calculated to meet the needs as revealed by the study.

On January 1st of this year Trinity Church, Fishkill, resumed its place in the Diocese as a self-supporting parish. This venerable church, one of the oldest in the Diocese, has long been cherished as an historic monument. For some time, however, it has been unable to function without Diocesan assistance. Under the able leadership of the Rector, the Rev. R. De Witt Mallary, and his alert vestry, Trinity Church wasted no time in adapting itself to meet present needs and in extending its influence into the expanding communities.

Sunday, May 4th, the Bishop consecreted the new Church and Parish House of the Good Shepherd, Granite Springs. Both the buildings and the land were given by Mr. and Mrs. Otto Koegel who saw the need for new and adequate facilities and generously provided for them. The Department looks forward to this mission becoming a self-supporting parish in the near future.

Due to problems brought on by the ever-changing city situation, the solutions of which were beyond the control of the Vestries, two congregations, St. Clement's, Manhattan and St. Paul's, Bronx, have been admitted to mission status during the year.

Several of our missions are planning budget expansion programs and have signed contracts with experts in the fund-raising field. The cost of the Canvasses will be borne by the congregations, and we have every assurance these efforts will result in self-supporting parishes.

With but one or two exceptions, every church receiving aid from the Department has reported increased communicant strength, and many have found it possible to request less assistance from the Diocese towards the support of their work.

A new work has been started in Washingtonville. Meeting at present in the local Grange Hall, the congregation is served by the neighboring clergy under the direction of the Rev. Samuel Holiday, Dean of the Convocation of Ramapo.

The Department of Missions with its Board of Managers has enjoyed its work with the many missions and assisted parishes. It feels its reponsibility extends beyond the granting of financial aid and, hence, stands ready to advise and to encourage.

DEPARTMENT OF PROMOTION

At the beginning of this year the Rev. Dr. James W. Kennedy became Chairman of the Department of Promotion. Mr. Harrison Fiddesof became Director of the Department on August 1st. No one has more quickly demonstrated his loyalty to the Diocese nor made his influence and effectiveness more felt than Mr. Fiddesof. The Bishop and the Council look forward to many years of fruitful leadership from this latest addition to our Diocesan staff.

The Department has continued to emphasize proportionate giving and the teaching of stewardship as a twelve month objective rather than the typical two week emphasis in the fall. At the same time, the Department was able to assist many of the parishes and missions in the usual Every Member Canvass and some of the parishes held their Canvasses in the late winter in order to have the aid of the Department.

The Director of Promotion has met with many vestries and advisory boards to help them in planning for larger budgets and to help them in meeting capital funds needs.

For the first time the Department undertook the distribution of the Advent Mite Boxes and reports that thirty parishes used the Mite Boxes for the first time this year. The amount received from this collection is applied to the Quota and has been helpful in making possible full payment of Quota in some of our smaller parishes and missions.

The Department also continued to promote the special offering taken at the time of the Bishops' Visitations. It is actively helping in the organizing of the Bishop's Men and in the developing of the Convocation programs.

The Department was able to announce that again in 1956 there was an increase in the percentage of Quota paid. The Diocese as a whole contributed 80.7% of Quota —the highest level of giving to the Program of the Church in our history. This Diocese was able to send to the National Church, for its regular missionary program, the largest amount any Diocese has contributed for one year.

The Department has cooperated in the planning for the Capital Funds Campaign and has continued to be the service section in Diocesan headquarters, helping every other department.

The Department has had the advantage of having outstanding clerical and lay members since its beginning, who have given freely of their talent and time. In accordance with our by-laws these men go off the membership roster at this Convention. We are fortunate that in the first four years of the Department's activity, we have had the leadership of the Rev. C. Kenneth Ackerman, D.D, the Rev. Gerald V. Barry, Mr. Joseph Boyle, Mr. Ernest F. Eidlitz, Mr. Ralph Hartwig, Mr. William J. Moll and Mr. Clifford P. Morehouse.

DEPARTMENT OF CHRISTIAN SOCIAL RELATIONS

The Department of Christian Social Relations has placed its major emphasis for the year on The Church and Freedom. Conferences on the subject, jointly sponsored by the Department and the Woman's Auxiliary, were held at St. George's Church, Newburgh; St. James' Church, Hyde Park; St. Bartholomew's Church and Calvary Church, New York—all looking forward to the great Service in the Cathedral on May 5th and the five panel discussions on Man and his Law, Man and his Faith, Man and his Labor, Man and his Mind, and Man and his Communications held in Synod House from May 5th through May 8th, 1957. The Service in the Cathedral and the panel discussions were jointly sponsored by the Dean and Chapter, the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary and the Department of Christian Social Relations.

The Committee on Church-related Health and Welfare Organizations continued to carry out the mandate of the Council of the Diocese to study the relationships of the health and welfare Report of the Council to the 176th Convention services to the Diocese by a series of conferences with heads of Church-related agencies. As a result of the conferences the Department has produced, with the approval of the Bishop, a Statement of Guiding Principles and Goals for the Church-Related Social Services and Health and Welfare Organizations in the Diocese of New York. A brochure listing the health and welfare services in the Diocese is in preparation.

The Rev. E. Walter Chater, Chairman of the Committee on Refugees, has given hundreds of hours of devoted service meeting the ships, picking up Hungarians at Camp Kilmer, finding shelter and employment, and stimulating interest in the refugees throughout the Diocese. To date he has been instrumental in the resettlement of 100 family units, comprising 190 individuals. Of that number over 40 are Hungarian.

The Executive Director has continued to serve as a member of the Division of Christian Citizenship of the National Council, the Department of Foreign Affairs of the National Council of Churches, the New York City Commission on Intergroup Relations, and the board of the Citizens' Committee for Children of New York City.

DEPARTMENT OF CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

THE detailed work of the Department of Christian Education has been carried on as usual through its six divisions meeting regularly and made up now of more than 80 clergy and lay people of the Diocese.

While the expanding work of the Department continues to move into a broader variety of activities, the one task central to all its deliberations is the development of leadership which will enable the parishes and missions to meet their full educational responsibility. This leadership training program has been carried on through an increasing

The 163rd Diocesan Assembly Of Daughters Of The King, At Cathedral Church, Saturday, June 15, 11 A.M.

THE 163rd Diocesan Assembly of The Daughters of The King will be held in the Cathedral Church in St. James Chapel, at 11 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, June 15th.

The Reverend Alvin Van Pelt Hart will give his blessing to the new officers, and rededication service to all members.

The new officers are Mrs. Mary H. Wolford, President; Miss Mary Toy, Vice-President; Mrs. Florence Young, Secretary; and Mrs. Mona Reilly, Treasurer.

The Daughters would be pleased to have Church women interested in a devotional order attend this Assembly, and will welcome new members.

Annual Meeting Of The Cathedral Guild

THE 1957 Annual Meeting of the Cathedral Guild of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine was held on Thursday, May 9th, at Cathedral House. Bishop Donegan, Dean Pike and Canon West made addresses. The meeting was followed by a reception and tea.

Several parishes were represented by delegates who brought contributions. $500 was given to the Bishop toward the Building Fund of the Cathedral, and $1500 for music at the Cathedral during the summer. The Cathedral Guild contributes two scholarships at the Cathedral Choir School. The Cathedral Guild is responsible for the floral decorations at the Cathedral for Christmas and Easter. The Guild provides and cares for the linen for the Altars, as well as vestments for the Clergy and Choir.

It is hoped that each parish, through its members, will help to support this work which is necessary for the carrying on of the services at the Cathedral. The annual dues are $2.00; Associate Membership, $5.00; and Life Membership $25.00. Checks may be sent to Miss Emie S. Day, Treasurer, c/o City Bank Farmers Trust Company, 22 William St., New York 15, N. Y.

We have built no new church for a newly gathered congregation in Rockland County since 1920. Let us look at some Rockland County figures. In 1920 the population of Rockland County was 46,000; the figure today is 114,000, a gain of 68,000. We have not built a church for a new congregation in this county for 37 years. The Regional Plan Association predicts an additional growth of at least 20,000 in the next three years, and of 136,000 by 1975.

The population changes and grows around us. We must build churches, parish houses and rectories if we are to stay with our people, and if our Church in the next generation shall still have one Episcopalian for each 90 of our population. It is interesting to note that while the United States population for 1956 increased 6.7 per cent, our Church increased 3.5 per cent. We are not getting our churches into the areas where the people are. We have a duty not only to minister to our own people, but also to the thousands in the city and suburbs who know nothing of Christ.

It must be obvious to all that this growth requires a strategy, and this we have, and can implement if a revolving fund is made available.

A revolving fund of $1,000,000 and a site-purchasing fund of $250,000 more is required to meet this situation if the Episcopal Church intends to be in on the ground floor in this our day as it was one hundred years ago. The reason we are facing this crisis now is that in the past our Church built so wisely and abundantly that we were on the ground when people first began to move into areas which were then sparsely populated.

There are other important uses for a revolving fund besides the vital one of building new churches. Within the last few months, for instance, we have had urgent requests for temporary financing from several parishes. In two cases opportunities had been presented for the acquisition of property adjacent to existing churches. If purchased by others, these churches would be permanently thwarted from any expansion, parking facilities, etc. These parishes would be able to raise the funds and pay for these properties if given time to organize campaigns. But to arrange credit quickly is difficult for the average small parish, and the Diocese should be in a position to make temporary loans in such cases.

In another instance, a newly established parish found that its entire premises would be in the path of a new bridge approach. Cash was needed immediately to enable this parish to bid at auction for a parcel of publicly owned land. The money could be paid back within a year. A revolving fund such as is now proposed would enable the Diocese to act at once in such instances as this, whereas now we have no resources for such emergency situations.

The report of Marts & Lundy, Inc., engaged by the Council at your request, concludes with these words: "To those who have given sufficient study to the facts to absorb their full meaning, the needs and opportunities outlined do not present a question to be argued; they present the greatest challenge which the Diocese of New York has faced, perhaps in its entire history. There is no question but that the need for a capital fund of $5,000,000 or more for Church advance in the Diocese of New York can be convincingly demonstrated. The fund-raising problem is to interpret the challenge so that the present vision of a few will fire the imagination of the entire membership of the Church."

We all agree with our professional consultants that the traditional type of Diocesan fund raising by which parishes assume quotas will not raise the sum which this missionary advance requires. If an amount commensurate with our minimum needs is to be raised, it must come in large individual gifts from the devoted men and women of our Church who give so generously to social agencies, hospitals, schools, universities and other educational institutions.

The Choir Boys are loyal pages

I SEE this proposed campaign as the greatest Diocesan opportunity of our lifetime. Besides the direct benefits of such a campaign there will be spiritual gains. Judging from the experience of other dioceses where similar campaigns have been successfully undertaken, there will be as a result of our corporate endeavor an increased sense of diocesan unity. Our fellowship will be strengthened as clergy and laity are working together in a mighty cause. More than that, it will present an opportunity to every communicant to express his love of the Lord and his Church in a sacrificial way—not as a mere negative sacrifice but as one which will be embodied in the tangible structure of Christ's Church on earth. The campaign cannot fail to bring real results, spiritual as well as practical, if it is undertaken with faith, with conviction, and with enthusiasm.

I realize only too well the additional responsibilities which will inevitably fall upon us all, and particularly upon the Diocesan Bishop, should we embark on this campaign. I know that many of the clergy and laity of the Diocese have heavy burdens—well, the Diocesan Bishop has a few too. But speaking for myself, this is a challenge and an opportunity I would not want to have missed, and I hope each one of you will feel the same way about it.

I must point out that if you vote for the campaign you commit yourselves to a strenuous task. It will not be easy. It will require hard work, and sacrificial giving. An affirmative vote means you are not content for the church to stand still and maintain the status quo. It will mean that you read the signs of the times as a God-given challenge, and that you are willing to do your part. We have the numbers, we have the financial resources, we have the talents to reach whatever objective may be determined. There is nothing to prevent the success of such a campaign except lack of faith.

Our Lord sent his Church into the world to venture boldly in his service. Safety first and timid caution are dangerous slogans for Christians. Rather are we bidden to think, and plan and act adventurously. The time for action is now.

May we go forward with courage in the faith that God will bless our endeavors and in His own time will give the increase. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with us all evermore.

number of Parish Life Conferences and the vitally important follow-up meetings in the parishes, Curriculum Conferences, Director's and Adult Forums, Conferences with the assistance of National Council leadership, Youth Worker's Seminars and Teacher Training sessions. In connection with the last, the Department has only instituted training sessions where request has been made for help, but in each instance an attempt has been made to open up the sessions to parishes in the immediate neighborhood. This has resulted in a more extensive training program than ever before, and in each area the training has been different due to careful assessment of local need.

Throughout all the work of the Department runs the strong desire to do a double task, to convince clergy and laity of the tremendous importance of the Church's teaching task and to provide them with incentive, information and techniques that would enable them to carry the Church's message to their fellow parishioners with a deeper conviction and a stronger confidence. The Church's message is best heard when it emanates from a worshipping congregation whose life and witness are consistent with the Gospel message the Church is here to proclaim. True response to the Gospel must be preceded by a "deep hearing" of the mighty acts of God in His search for the souls of men. The Church in every community must be provided with spiritually mature men and women who are able to meet the opportunities which are constantly present in the parish and community.

It is the Department's desire to surround the clergy with at least a small nucleus of people who, having really heard the Gospel, are now able to bring into the full life of the parish an ability to hear more clearly what the clergy are trying to say and so will respond to that hearing with devoted and skillful action. All of this is caught up in the task of leadership development. It is the central task of your Department of Christian Education.

EVER since the Council of the Diocese was organized, my annual report has been based on the policy of summarizing, all too briefly, I admit, the work of four of the Departments and concluding with a full-scale report of the fifth. In 1953 the report of the Department of Promotion was mimeographed in full and distributed to all the delegates of Convention. In 1954 the Rev. Dr. John Heuss, then Chairman of the Department of Christian Education, presented the full report of his Department which was subsequently printed in the Journal. In 1955 the Rev. John Bell, as its Chairman, presented the report of the Department of Christian Social Relations, and that report was printed in the Journal. Last year the Bishop's address to Convention was primarily oriented around the work and needs and opportunities of the Department which is the steward of by far the largest percentage of the Council budget, the Department of Missions.

It is now my privilege to call on Mr. Ellis Carson, Chairman of the Department of Finance, to present a special report on behalf of that Department. Although one is apt to think of the Department of Finance as dealing strictly with figures, actually their approach to all matters which come within their perusal is a spiritual one. It is a pleasure to ask Mr. Carson to conclude this report of the Council to Convention.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES F. BOYNTON
Secretary

CHAPEL OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD DEDICATED

The Church and Parish House

The Confirmands

The Bishop pins the first Bishop's Medal on Mr. Koegel

On Sunday, May 5, at 11 o'clock in the morning, the Right Reverend Horace W. B. Donegan, D.D., D.C.L., the Bishop of New York, consecrated the Chapel of the Good Shepherd at Granite Springs, New York, of which the Reverend K. Gordon Drescher is the Vicar.

The Chapel of the Good Shepherd has been a worshipping community in the area of West Somers since 1905 and from its earliest date has been a mission of the Diocese of New York.

In the last ten years the Chapel has grown steadily. Due to the developments in real estate in the neighboring community of Yorktown Heights, many new families have been brought to the area. As this trend continues it is expected that parts of the land in Granite Springs will also be converted to home sites.

Because of the need for a larger and improved church property, Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Koegel of Granite Springs, in addition to providing the fund for the erection of the church and parish house, gave to the church the present land, almost four acres. In 1954 work began on the church building and the first service in the new church took place on Christmas Eve 1954. In 1955 work began on the parish hall and the hall was first used in early 1956, and since that time a rectory has been built.

The greatest growth of the chapel has come in the past three years. There has been more than 100% increase in each category of registered communicants, baptized persons, and children and teachers in the church school.

In the consecration ceremony on Sunday morning, the Bishop was received at the entrance of the chapel by the Advisory Board, and the Bishop and Clergy proceeded up the aisle to the Holy Altar. The Bishop went within the rails of the Altar with the Vicar, and sitting in his chair had the instruments of Donation and Endowment presented to him. The Sentance of Consecration was read by the Vicar and then laid by him upon the Communion Table, after which the Bishop said the following prayer:

> Blessed by thy Name, O Lord, that it hath pleased thee to put it into the hearts of thy servants to appropriate and devote this house to thy honour and worship; and grant that all who shall enjoy the benefit of this pious work, may show forth their thankfulness, by making a right use of it, to the glory of thy blessed Name; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Following the Service of Consecration there was a Service of Laying on of Hands upon those who are baptized and have come to the Order of Confirmation.

SPECIAL ISSUE - - - COLLEGE WORK

the Bulletin of the Diocese of New York

VOLUME XXXIII NO. 6 JUNE, 1957 25 CENTS A COPY

This Is Why College Work Is Important

Encouragement from the National Executive

COLLEGE Work is the mission of the Church within the colleges and universities of this country.

1. College Work is a mission. We are sent. The Church is under orders to proclaim the Gospel and to serve the men and women for whom Christ died. College Work is part of that mission. It means the Church is called not merely to wait for those who come and knock, but to seek out those in need. This is a mission calling for movement, for initiative, for (in a good sense) aggression. The college world is more willing to listen to the Church now than in years recently past. Nevertheless college people are reluctant to commit themselves to the Church's Lord (or to any other "lord"). First, they know so little—at best most have a twelve-year old's understanding of religion. Besides that, this student generation has been called "the cautious generation". They are careful, detached, at worst (and commonly) apathetic, at best ready to listen, slow to commit. They are also lonely people, with great talents, with deep needs, and beset by false gods. They need the Gospel. We must go and be where they are. We must so present the Lord Jesus Christ that they may come to know and follow Him, and that they may take their place in the Church and its sacramental life. College Work is a pastoral and evangelistic mission.
2. College Work is the mission of the Church. College Work is not simply the job of the chaplain. It is the work of the community of Christian people, young and old, male and female, clergy and laity, educated and untaught. The Lord is known through the Word and Sacrament and corporate life of the Church. That is why College Work is normally done, in the Episcopal Church, through a parish. There are important and necessary exceptions to this; but that is the norm.
   (a) This implies that, in such parishes, College Work really is part of parish work. If, in the eyes of rector, vestry, or congregation, the college work of a parish is an "extra" (which is frequently true), the base is faulty.
   (b) Parish-as-base does not mean that we simply wait for students and faculty to come join the parish. They won't—not many anyway. We work from a parish; we do not sit in a parish house. Moreover we do not seek to draw students out of the main-stream of university life. Our mission is not a protective operation but a training-ground. We are called to make known and open to them the fiery, hospitable, out-going, out-sending community of the Holy Spirit. College Work is the mission of the Church.

New College "Team"

The Rev. R. DeWitt Mallary

The Rev. Dr. Robert E. Terwilliger

THE Bishop has announced the appointment of the Rev. R. DeWitt Mallary as Associate Director for College Work on the staff of the Diocesan Department of Christian Education. Mr. Mallary succeeds the Rev. Allen Reddick who resigned last June. He will begin his new work on September 1st.

The Rev. Dr. Robert E. Terwilliger, Rector of Christ Church, Poughkeepsie, has been named Chairman of the Diocean Division of College Work.

Mr. Mallary was born in Springfield, Mass., October 31, 1926, where he attended private and public schools, graduating from Classical High School in 1943. He received his B. A. degree from Dartmouth College, in 1948, where he was also Phi Beta Kappa. From 1945 to 1946 he served as Cadet-Midshipman in the U. S. Merchant Marine Cadet Corps.

He graduated from General Theological Seminary in 1951 with S.T.B. degree, and had Clinical Training at Bellevue Hospital during the summer quarter of 1951. He was ordained Deacon in June 1951 and Priest in December 1951, both by Bishop Donegan.

He was Curate at St. Paul's Church, Burlington, Vt., from September 1951 to December 1952, with special responsibility for college work on the campus of the University of Vermont. On January 1, 1953 he was appointed Vicar of Trinity Church, Fishkill, by Bishop Donegan. He also served other neighboring parishes and missions for various periods, including St. Andrew's, Beacon, St. Mark's, Chelsea, St. John the Baptist, Glenham, and Resurrection, Hopewell Junction. He is married and has three children.

The Bishop's Message

As I write this I have just returned from laying the cornerstone of the Francis J. H. Coffin Memorial Building, the new educational facilities at St. John's Larchmont. This is still another indication of the fine work being undertaken by our parishes in the suburban areas to meet the demands of population growth.

During colonial times and the early years of our country's history, our Church built well here in the East. Because of the foresight of churchmen of those days we have had church buildings already available as the population grew turning rural areas into suburban developments, and the old suburbs becoming, in effect, an extension of the city.

Now the increasing population in some instances has overwhelmed the old facilities, and in others the existing buildings are not designed for present day needs.

Everyone of our parishes and missions should evaluate the present plant, not only in the light of present day needs but on the basis of five and ten years from now. Too often we have allowed the problem to be upon us before we take action. As you think of the future in your community, in the forefront of your consideration should always be the determination to witness our faith. Our missionary task is not only across the mountains and over the seas, it is in our own community and among our friends and neighbors. In the last year I have on many occasions shared the joy of a local congregation in consecration and dedication ceremonies. I hope that you will make it possible for me to have many other such opportunities in the years ahead.

We are pleased to welcome into the family at Diocesan House, Mr. Fred G. Long, as Assistant Director of the Department of Promotion. This appointment was necessitated by the great amount of additional work in the department in connection with our Capital Funds Campaign. Mr. Long will begin his duties on July 1st, moving to New York City from Tilton, New Hampshire, where he is an active member of Trinity Parish. He is now Vice-President of Thomas White and Associates and prior to that was an executive of the United Nations Secretariat in New York City. During the war years Mr. Long, who was at that time a Canadian citizen, was on the staff of the British Army Mission in Washington. Immediately after the war he held an important administrative position in UNRRA.

One of Mr. Long's principal duties will be assisting parishes and missions in the Every Member Canvass. Although the Autumn and the time of the Canvass seem far off in these hot days, it is not too early to make the necessary plans.

I am happy to find that in all of the material for the Every Member Canvass suggested for use by our National Council's Department of Promotion, the emphasis is on stewardship and proportionate giving, which is completely in line with the emphasis made by our own department in the last several years. I hope that more and more of our parishes and missions use this approach.

I wish you all a restful and healthful summer.

Faithfully your Bishop,

Horace W. B. Donegan

Presentation Day

Thousands of children representing the Junior Choirs and Acolytes, fully vested, from parishes all over the Diocese of New York marched in review and into the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine on Saturday, May 18, the annual Presentation Service of the children of the Diocese. These vested children, together with their parish companions, who were seated in The Cathedral Church, made quite a large body on the Cathedral Close this day.

The procession formed at 2 p.m. on the south driveway of the Close, processed around the Bishop's House into the north drive and passed the Bishop of New York and his attendants, who reviewed the parade from the steps of the Exhibit Hall. The procession then went down to Amsterdam Avenue, turned north and into the Cathedral Church through the Great Portals.

Bishop Donegan presided in the Cathedral Church and made the address.

At the conclusion of the service the Bishop and officiating clergy moved to the Crossing and along the north Ambulatory to view five tableaux, which had been arranged in chapels behind the High Altar. These tableaux depicted the missionary work of the Church in Haiti.

This Is What The Diocese Faces In College Work

The Provincial Secretary Surveys and Reports

NEW York has a significant role to play among dioceses in college work for the Episcopal Church. In the Second Province (New York and New Jersey) it holds a unique position which provides at once the greatest potential for college work and the greatest difficulties in carrying out the college mission.

The job which the Diocese faces in this situation is tremendous. It is staggering in size and requires ingenuity, determination and imagination to implement. Why here, any more than in any other diocese? There are 17 campuses, representing 15 colleges and universities, on which the Church already has a college work program: In Manhattan and Bronx, New York University, Columbia, Hunter, City College and Finch; a little farther up, Briarcliff Junior College and Sarah Lawrence; in the northern part of the Diocese, Vassar, Bennett Junior College, West Point and Bard. On the west side of the Hudson at New Paltz is the only State Teachers College in the Diocese. Community Colleges, supported partly by the local community and partly by the State, are located in White Plains and Orange County. On Staten Island we have a ministry to Wagner College. (See p. 8.)

At West Point, Bard and Columbia the full-time university chaplain is an Episcopal priest who has responsibility for the religious life of the whole academic community. With these three exceptions, almost all of the

3. College Work is the mission of the church within the colleges and universities. Missionary work is never shouting words (however true) at strangers from a distance. The Church is called to bear grace and love, truth and judgment to friends. This means we must identify with those whom we seek. The college clergyman (parish priest or chaplain) becomes, so far as he is able, part of the college scenery, one of the university population. We care for and cherish the people in the academic world, and also their vocations, their institution, the cause of good education and training and scholarship. We appreciate the part which doubt, questioning, argument and search play in education and in a mature faith. If we disagree with much that is said and taught (and we shall, with vigor) we do this from within. Through students, faculty persons, college clergy, who are citizens of both Church and college, we work within the college or university.
4. College Work is the mission of the Church within the academic community. Several things follow from that:
   (a) The academic community is very, very large. In America there are over 3 million students in 1957, plus a corresponding number of faculty, staff, wives, children. By 1970 there will probably be over 6 million students. About 10% of these students have some connection with the Episcopal Church. Many have no religious life at all. New York is a point of major concentration of educational institutions—e.g. Columbia, Vassar, N. Y. U. (largest university in the world, and we do not have one full-time clergyman there), Pratt Institute, C. C. N. Y., Hunter, Sarah Lawrence, etc.
   (b) College is the time and place where many fundamental decisions are taken by people who will exercise leadership in Church, society, and government. College Work has colossal strategic importance.
   (c) Our mission is not to students alone, but to the faculty, administrators, wives, children, etc. This is College Work, not student work.
   (d) Our mission is concerned not only for the individuals but also for the institutions of which we are a part. Education and scholarship are important under God. Part of our mission, therefore, is to do what we can to help the university be a good university.

Such is College Work. We cannot wait.

Where We Are At Work

THE following list of colleges and chaplains responsible for the Church's work there in 1956-57 indicates the extensive task carried out within the Diocese of New York.

Wagner College, Staten Island (The Rev. Arthur Widlak); New York University, Washington Square (The Rev. John Lee); Hunter College, Park Ave. (The Rev. George Steirwald); Finch College (The Rev. Eric Hutchison); Columbia University and Barnard College (The Rev. Canon John Pyle); City College, Uptown, (The Rev. Dr. Rene Vaillant); New York University, Bronx (no Chaplain active); Hunter College, Bronx (The Rev. Robert Pierson); Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville (The Rev. Lloyd Patterson); Westchester Community College, White Plains (The Rev. Fred Boughton); Orange County Community College, Middletown (The Rev. Herbert Barrall); United States Military Academy, West Point (The Rev. George Bean); New Paltz State Teachers College, (The Rev. George Detor); Vassar College, Poughkeepsie (The Rev. Dr. Robert Terwilliger); Millbrook Junior College (The Rev. Raymond Cunningham); Bard College, Tivoli (The Rev. Ralph Harper). In cooperation with the National Society for College Work, the Diocese is initiating a program with the N.Y.U. and Columbia Law Schools under the leadership of Mr. William Stringfellow.

THE CATHEDRAL'S SUMMER PROGRAM

In practically all churches, the coming of July involves a considerable drop in church attendance and a moratorium on the program and activities. Not so at the Cathedral—because of the large number of summer session students at nearby Columbia University and the many summer visitors to New York. Hence for the last five years we have put a special emphasis on July and early August, and as a result generally have had our best congregations of the year, and the best attendance at our forums. Because of the dates of the summer session, we are this year putting our special emphasis on the Sundays from July 14 to August 4. At Evensong we will have a series on Problems of Faith, with the following topics and preachers:

"God": The Rev. Canon Richard Hartford, D.D., Archbishop King Professor of Divinity, Trinity College, Dublin.
"Christ": The Canon Pastor.
"Creeds": The Canon Precentor.
"The Bible": The Rev. Canon Cuthbert Simpson, D.D., Regius Professor of Hebrew, Oxford University, and known to many of us as the former sub-dean of General Theological Seminary.

Following Evensong, there will be a series of forums on Psychology and Religion, with the following topics and speakers:

"The Handling of Guilt": Albert C. Outler, Ph.D., Perkins School of Theology, Dallas; author of Psychotherapy and the Christian Message

"Psychiatry in the Service of Religion": Smiley Blanton, M.C., pupil of Sigmund Freud; author of Love or Perish

"Anxiety and Education": Randolph Crump Miller, Ph.D., Professor of Christian Education, Yale Divinity School; author of Be Not Anxious

"The Christian Understanding of Personality": Wayne E. Oates, Th.D., Professor of Psychology of Religion, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville; author of Religious Factors in Mental Illness

Following the address and a question period, the participants (usually about 250 in former years) break up into groups for supper and discussion. At the 11:00 a.m. service the writer will preach, and on Sunday, July 14, there will be an official service in connection with the annual convention of the American Bar Association, at which we will open the service with a visitation and procession to the Legal Bay of the Cathedral.

Throughout the summer we will have a distinguished set of guest preachers, including the Rev. Martin Jarret-Kerr, C.R.; the Rt. Rev. Ambrose Reeves, D.D., Bishop of Johannesburg; the Rt. Rev. A. W. F. O. Howells, Bishop of Lagos, Nigeria; The Rev. Canon Frederic Hood, D.D., Vicar, St. Mary Aldermary, London, and the Rev. Canon Herbert Waddams, General Secretary, Church of England Council on Foreign Relations. Canon Simpson will preach a series of sermons at Evensong in August.

On the summer Sunday mornings, you of course belong in your parish church for worship; but we most cordially invite you to Evensong and the Forums which follow.

remaining colleges are ministered to by local Rectors whose churches are nearby the college campus, and whose parishs realize as part of their mission to the whole community in which they find themselves, the mission to the campus near them (see inset). The work at New York University, Columbia, and the Law Schools of both these universities form different patterns. At N. Y. U. the work of the Episcopal Church has been carried on in recent years by the Associate Director, under the Department of Christian Education, for Diocesan College Work. During the past year this work has been the responsibility of The Rev. John Lee, a senior student at Union Theological Seminary, assisted by two General Theological Seminary undergraduates. The Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York conducts the Episcopal work at Columbia through a member of its staff, The Rev. Canon John Pyle, who serves as part-time chaplain to students and faculty there. Mr. William Stringfellow, a New York lawyer, has developed work in the two law schools, under a grant-in-aid from the Church Society for College Work, an independent national body whose aims are to make possible pioneer projects in the field of college work for the Church.

Of these 17 campuses in the Diocese, 13 are urban, commuting or 2-year campuses: the "trolley car" campuses, the "elevator" colleges (where Greek and Science, laboratories and classrooms, are on floors rather than in quadrangle buildings), the junior campuses where student leadership graduates almost as quickly as it develops. On the split campuses, where there is an uptown and a downtown branch, faculty and students spend part of their time first on one and then on the other campus.

These academic communities vary in every possible way: In size, from New York University, with 35,000 students, to Finch, a 4-year private college for girls with a student body of 270; in type, from 4-year dormitory campuses such as Vassar and Sarah Lawrence, to 2-year technical and vocational schools such as the Community Colleges of Orange and Westchester counties. Some are coed, some all men, some all women's colleges.

How does the Church carry on a ministry to this variety? Obviously, there is no one answer. This is why ingenuity and imagination are essential in developing a college work program; it must be fluid, adaptable to any situation, able to reach students, faculty and administration members wherever they are and by whatever means they hold out to the Church. The Church must be able to speak to the commuting student with his businessman's 9 to 5 schedule, to the weekend-exodus colleges, to the faculty who are now at one campus now at another, to graduate schools and schools where 85% of the student body is non-Christian.

Let's take student work by itself for a moment. Every student, whether commuting or resident is acquiring a vast body of new knowledge; he is learning of a cyclical theory of history, he is encountering the philosophies of materialism and existentialism, socialism and democracy, he is discovering the psychology of authority complexes by which the Church itself is sometimes written off. Where is Christianity in this picture? Does it say anything at all to the confusion of all this new knowledge? It does not if religious thinking halted at the Sunday School level; it does not if the prevailing concept of God is a man with a long white beard.

This is What

Or is the student in training at a technical school? If he is solely absorbed with slide rule and hundredth scale does Christianity have anything to say here? It does not unless it is a full blown, mature religion which claims all truth, which endorses and redeems the best that secular minds bring to it, which raises questions where none are asked.

And what about the other confusions peculiar to the student time of life? What about the major decisions which all students make; what courses to take, what majors, what careers and vocations, what job, which woman or man, what marriage? These are important decisions. Does Christianity speak to them?

Christianity, of course, does not speak in a vacuum. It does not articulate itself in extra-sensory handwriting on the blackboard, or by a flash of light in the midst of the quantum theory. Christianity speaks through people: professors, students, chaplains, parish communities. The Church is on the campus in these people; the Church's work is to call these people unto Herself and to help them to speak for Her.

The chaplain doesn't just happen on a campus. Neither do Christian students who know themselves as part of a Christian community within that campus; nor do Christian teachers who articulate their Christianity in their lives and in their work. This is the college work of the Church. This is what takes time and money and thought and planning. The Church must provide a framework for a meaningful Christian experience within the academic community for all those who make up the community, the students, the faculty, the administrators, the janitors and secretaries.

Given this purpose, and given this variety of colleges in the Diocese, then what? How does the Church speak? It must speak in any elevator college, through a professor who is also an ordained priest, who spends twelve hours a week counselling, who has a discussion group sandwiched in after the lunch hour in a classroom, who has open house once a week for students, who is advisor to four campus student groups. It must speak through a Rector who visits a campus once a week to lead an informal discussion group in the library, or another who brings the Sacraments to a resident campus for an early service of Holy Communion in the lounge every Thursday. It must speak through a group of students, Canterbury, who come together as a Christian community welcoming inquiriers who seek answers to questions that they perhaps cannot yet articulate, but who join Canterbury because, in the words of one student, "I hope that by being in this group I can come to know Christ." It must speak through five seminary students who identify with five different living centers on the campus of an urban university in order to carry on a pastoral ministry to resident students in dormatories and fraternities.

Let's take work with overseas students. More and more the importance of this work is becoming apparent. Students from Asia, Europe and Africa are studying in this country, in this Diocese, and will carry back to their countries impressions and friendships from the United States as they assume roles of leadership within their home lands. At Columbia work with overseas students is carried on by Mr. George Varghese, a graduate student in Economics from India. Mr. Varghese lives at International House in order to identify closely with the situation of these overseas students at the University in a pastoral way and to direct the "International House Anglican Fellowship", the only work of its kind in the Diocese. Through the National Council, chaplains receive names and addresses of foreign students and are requested to establish pastoral contacts.

Let's take graduate students. The Cathedral of St. John the Divine provides regular forums addressed to graduate students in the area, inviting distinguished professors and theologians who speak from the standpoint of their various disciplines. The work at the Law Schools of Columbia and New York University has been mentioned above.

Let's take faculty. The Diocesan program urges each chaplain to establish close contacts with Episcopalians on the faculty of his college in the hope that this may result in the opportunity to work with faculty as a group. Faculty Bible study groups have in the past met regularly at Vassar, N. Y. U. and Columbia. These sessions are most valuable both to faculty and to the chaplain as each faculty member brings to bear on a passage the training of his discipline. Occasionally the Diocesan program includes special gatherings of all Episcopal faculty. The regular Cathedral forum program on Sunday evenings is open to faculty as well as graduate and undergraduate students. Faculty from all over the Diocese are invited to participate in a special series for faculty at the Cathedral which, in the past year, has included such speakers as The Rev. William G. Pollard, Director of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Professor Paul Tillich of Harvard and The Rev. Roy S. Lee, Vicar of the University Church, Oxford, both leading theologians of today.

These are areas where we are already at work. There are 11 colleges in the New York city area alone where the Church has no work. These colleges average student bodies of 1000. There are altogether over 40 colleges in the Diocese. Are we thinking of all of them?

The Division of College Work for the Diocese is sensitive to all these needs. The Chairman of the Division, which operates under the Department of Christian Education, is Dr. Virginia D. Harrington of Barnard College. Members are the Rt. Revs. Horace W. B. Donegan and Charles F. Boynton, Mr. Theodor Oxholm and Miss Jessie Butler, ex-officio; Drs. Sophia Cambria and Edwin S. Burdell, Mrs. James W. Greer and Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding, Mr. Malcolm Fooshee, the Rev. Drs. James W. Kennedy, Frederick M. Morris, John McG. Krumm and Robert E. Terwilliger, the Revs. Gordon L. Kidd and Robert Pierson, and the Rev. Canon John Pyle.

The responsibilities of the Division are to promote, in the name of the Episcopal Church, work with students and faculty in the colleges and universities of the Diocese, to foster the organization of new Episcopal faculty and student groups on or near the campuses of those institutions where they do not now exist, to arrange for chaplains, advisors and other direction for such activities, to organize and promote Diocesan-wide activities for students and faculty, to interpret to the parishes of the Diocese the Church's responsibility to institutions of higher learning.

"Diocesan wide activities" are important. It is here that students and faculty gain an increased sense of the larger Church and of its larger mission in the whole area of higher learning. There are regularly held Diocesan Canterbury conferences to which each Canterbury group on a campus sends delegates. There is an annual college clergy Training Conference held to assist clergy new in college work and to develop new plans with the Department of Christian Education, for college work in the Diocese. Last year the Division held a conference with faculty advisors and college work clergy at the Cathedral House.

The college work clergy are greatly assisted in their work by the Woman's Auxiliary. Mrs. James Whitley Greer, of Christ Church, Rye, N. Y., is the W. A. Diocesan Chairman for College Work. Mrs. Greer works with parishes through the local W. A. college work chairman and the Rector, to awaken local responsibilities in the college work mission: to the campus nearby, to the students of the parish who are away from home, to the support of the Diocese itself in its mission to its academic communities. The Church Society for College Work, as mentioned above, is currently supplying a grant-in-aid for work in the city Law Schools. The National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church has in the past financially supported work at Vassar and Sarah Lawrence. In 1956 St. James' Church, Madison Avenue, gave to the Diocese $5000 for the work of The Division of College Work. This gift has made possible the annual Diocesan Training Conference for college clergy.

It is a crucial picture of college work which the Diocese faces. It has begun a good work. If it is to deepen the work where it is already established; if it is to raise Him up, not to 5 or 6 people on the periphery, but really aloft within the center of the academic community; if it is to begin its work where it is not yet started, the Diocese will need every strength it can command: The guidance of its Bishops, the continuing work of all its college clergy, the support of every parish, and the awareness of each one of you, its parishioners.

An Example Of What Happens In College Work

(Wagner College, Staten Island)

ONE thing you can say about college work; it is never dull. The average college group is constantly shifting and changing. Here you find the young church in the process of becoming.

Meet Bill Smith. He is an average Canterburian. He is starting to find out for himself many things he had previously accepted on outside authority. His first response to a question usually is negative. Even if there be a vestige of dogma, painstakingly hammered in during his church school years, doubt usually overwhelms it. Doubt is Bill's fortress. It gives him time to think it out for himself. Finally, right or wrong, the decision he makes will be his.

Bill's changeableness is not only intellectual but social. The program of the college group in order to meet the needs of the student must be adaptable, pliable, and make room for every kind of person and personality.

The first thing you soon learn is that your predilections for an Episcopal group of students—or even a predominantly Episcopal group, must be altered. Bill is first of all in the ecumenical stage of his growth. He is young and not only eager to meet—but must be provided with—all sorts of ideas, concepts and people. Negro or white, rich or poor, socialist or existentialist or scientist, Hindu or Buddhist, and every kind of Christian are his concern. If you want to hold Bill you must provide him with adequate opportunity to satisfy his insatiable curiosity about all things and all people.

The second thing you learn is that the college student is primarily concerned about himself. It is himself that he thinks about even when he is confronting the new world opening up to him. Along with the catholic tastes of the young churchman, also goes the desire to relate to his own life, his own tradition, his own past. It is the conflict between the new outer world and the old world within, which produces the desire to attend the weekly Canterbury Club meetings.

The club provides the ground where Bill can feel at home in his own traditional environment and yet, explore the magnitude of life. As I see it, the work on the campus is really an extension of the arms of the home pastor to the student, who is now mentally and environmentally in a college community. It is for this reason that the concern of the pastor for the student away should continue and every encouragement be given for the student to seek out the local Episcopal church—and the Canterbury Club. In this way the sacramental life of the living Body of Christ is not broken, but strengthened. The social environment, though now changed from the protection of home and parent, can still be an extension of the student's home parish-life. He is now growing into a larger family.

The college ministry is the extension of the home parish to the intellectual community where the student happens to be. That the rector now realize that his boy or girl, acolyte or junior altar guild member, is now growing into adulthood, is very important. Referral to the college chaplain facilitates the work—especially on campuses hostile to religious work or church colleges which oppose denominational religious work. The pull of the secular world on the interests of the student is great indeed. It takes every effort the church can make to create a community which will keep the mind of the young man or woman from being limited only to the scientific naturalism and materialism so influential in campus life.

The ministry on campus is two-fold. First it is pastoral in function—then social. The pastoral work means calling, eating and visiting in "bull-sessions" on campus. The social means providing an opportunity for fellowship.

Our program at Wagner College and the new Staten Island Community College, is based on the premise that we cannot compete with campus social life—especially as an off-campus group. We have therefore broken our program into the categories of formal and informal. Under the formal we provide a speaker, and sometimes supper. These are preceded by a service, which is led by the students under the guidance of the club chaplain—an elected officer—who has been registered as a lay-reader in the diocese. Programs of the formal variety have included a series on the "Faith Of Our Time". A Roman, Orthodox and Episcopal priest, a Lutheran pastor, a visit to a Buddhist Llamasary, dinner in a kosher restaurant with explanation of its meaning, were bits of spice added through the year. This year we have made the variety extensively cultural. Subjects in the fields of art (Ikons, religious painting, modern painting), ideas (scientific and religious) have been interspersed with purely social activities—added to satisfy the younger members of a changing group. We have made a special effort to reach the many foreign students who are on campus and to make use of their particular talents. Perhaps never appreciated enough are the many who, at great sacrifice to themselves, make the long journey to the Island to be our guests. To their generosity we owe a good deal of the success of our program.

The most popular element of our program surprisingly enough, has not been our formal evenings, but rather the informal. It is then (they have grown in frequency) that we gather round the fire in the rectory and talk. Many times these sessions will bring in what we have heard at the speaker sessions, but they run the whole gamut of interesting fields. It is here that the group is formed. We share our lives as members of a Christian family. We say things we are unable to say even to room-mates and parents. It is here that the redemptive work of our common faith —and the acceptance of one another that it brings—is put to practical use. It is here that no campus secular organizaion, no matter how popular, can compete. We are the Christian community and it is here that we relate the living Gospel to the life on the campus.

Bill Smith comes to a new world when he comes to college life for the first time. The church, through the chaplaincy, is there to meet him and provide him, at this vacillating stage of life, with an opportunity to re-assess the facts that have been taught him—and at the same time not lose sight of the fact that God is concerned for him no matter where he is, or what he thinks or does.

Pawling Conference Leadership

The Rev. H. August Kuehl

The Rev. C. Kilmer Myers

THE Pawling Youth Conferences (at Trinity-Pawling School, August 23-28 for Junior High School pupils and August 30th to September 4th for Senior High School pupils) will have the advantage of outstanding leadership, and the adventure of establishing a new type of youth conference in a new location. The theme for both conferences will be "Christian Horizons".

This theme will be initiated on each opening evening by the Suffragan Bishop, the Right Rev. Charles F. Boynton. For the Junior conference the theme will be continued by the Rev. H. A. Kuehl, Rector, St. Barnabas' Church, Irvington. In the Senior Conference the Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, Vicar of the East Side Mission of Trinity Parish, will be the "keynoter". The Rev. Canon Edward N. West, Sacrist of the Cathedral, will serve as Chaplain. Both conferences will be under the direction of the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, assisted by the Rev. E. J. Rooney.

It is hoped that each conference will enroll 100 young people, who will follow up the theme address each day in small groups under ten adult leaders, five clergy and five lay. Organist, Recreation Leader, Swim Instructor, and Nurse are still being arranged.

The Conferences have been planned by the Summer Conference Committee under the Chairmanship of the Rev. H. O. Bingley, Vicar of the Chapel of the Incarnation. Trinity-Pawling School is making their total facilities available without charge, and meals are being handled by Treadway Inns Inc. Cost of the Conference will be $21.50 per person. Parishes are urged to establish scholarships and subsidies for their own young people.

Promotion literature has already gone to the Parishes in quantity with a registration form included. Literature will be mailed direct on request to the Diocesan Department of Christian Education.

New Parish House Dedicated

ON Sunday afternoon, May 5, the new Parish House of the Church of St. Andrew, Richmondtown, Staten Island, was dedicated. A service in the Church, at which the Rt. Rev. Charles F. Boynton, D. D., Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of New York, delivered an address, was held, after which the choir, clergy and Bishop, followed by the congregation, walked down the path and across the street to the new building where the Bishop made the traditional three raps on the door, which was opened from within by the two wardens of the Church, Charles H. Wall and Thomas P. Rabbage. The procession then proceeded to the platform where the Bishop blessed the various rooms of the building.

The new building was designed by Cornelius J. White, formerly Architect for the State of New York and a member of the Parish. It is of colonial design in its exterior with red brick walls, white window trim and a mansard roof. The new building is directly across the street from the Church which was founded in 1708. Although the Church has suffered two fires during the past 249 years, one wall of the original structure is still standing.

The dedication climaxed an effort on the part of the Church started in 1954 to relieve the overcrowded condition that existed in the Church and old Parish House. The cornerstone for the new building was laid in 1956 by the Rector, the Rev. Bernard A. Hemsley and Rector Emeritus, the Rev. Francis R. Godolphin. This new addition has been built keeping in mind the plans of the Staten Island Historical Society in their efforts to restore Richmondtown to its appearance during the Revolutionary War.

New Parish House Planned

CONSTRUCTION of a new three story 40 x 64 foot parish house has been proposed by the building committee of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Poughkeepsie, of which the Rev. William T. Gray is rector. Preliminary plans for the new building, which will be known as the Francis S. Smithers and Roland J. Bunten Memorial Hall, were presented at the recent annual meeting of the church. At that time, the parishioners empowered the building committee to prepare building plans to be presented at a future meeting. The building committee will meet soon to arrange for a starting date for construction.

The new building, to be located on the west side of the present church, is scheduled to have a stone facing to match the present church, with sidewalls of brick. Present plans call for more than half of the existing parish house to be removed and replaced by the new building which also will occupy the space next to the parish house, where a house was demolished several years ago. On the first floor, it is proposed that there be Scout rooms, class rooms, a boiler room and storage space. The main floor is to include a lobby, class rooms, a rector's study, a Sunday school office, a ladies' parlor and nursery and kindergarten class rooms.

Additional class rooms and men's and women's choir rooms are scheduled for the next floor.

Retiring Rector Of St. Phillip's Honored

A TESTIMONIAL luncheon was tendered The Rev. Shelton Hale Bishop, S.T.D., retiring rector of St. Philip's Church, on June 1st. Also a resolution honoring him was passed at the 176th Convention of the Diocese of New York held at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine on May 14th with the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, Bishop of New York, presiding. The presentation was made by The Very Rev. James A. Pike, Dean of the Cathedral.

As a tribute to Fr. Bishop's 34 years of ministry at St. Philip's Church over 1,300 persons assembled in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on Saturday noon, June 1st. As a further tribute, more than one hundred clergymen, social and community leaders sponsored this luncheon with Bishop Donegan as the honorary chairman. The hosts for this occasion were the Wardens, Vestrymen and congregation of St. Philip's Church.

Upon Fr. Bishop's retirement on Trinity Sunday, June 16th, he will assume his new post as a Missionary Priest in Hawaii under the direct supervision of The Rt. Rev. Harry Sherbourne Kennedy, D.D., Bishop of Honolulu. Fr. Bishop expects to report for duty about July 15th.

The Rev. Dr. Bishop became the Rector of St. Philip's on April 1, 1933. He succeeded his father, The Rev. Hutchens Chew Bishop, D.D., who had served as Rector of the Parish from June 1, 1886 to March 31, 1933 and continued in the Parish as Rector Emeritus, on active duty until his death May 17, 1937. This represented 51 years of continuous active service in the Parish.

Dr. Bishop served under his father from 1923 to 1933, as Director of Religious Education, and then succeeded him. When he retires, father and son will have served 85 years in the one Parish.

CANVASS ISSUE

October, 1957

LOAVES AND FISHES

WHEN Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, announced to Jesus that the only resources on hand for feeding the great multitude who had followed Him were "five barley loaves, and two small fishes," no wonder Andrew asked "but what are they among so many?"

Humanly speaking, there is no easy way to find the resources for God's work on earth. But there is a simple principle which Christians need to act upon; that is, when each one's little is offered and blessed and shared, there is sufficient for all. When once accepted and put into practice, this principle will prove as miraculous as the feeding of the five thousand with "five barley loaves and two small fishes."

The very fact of so little being multiplied so greatly, as pictured on the cover of the Bulletin with the endless rows of fish and loaves of bread, should inspire the canvass program in every parish. It is the small gifts of many shared willingly, as each one's proportionate share of God's bounty, which provides the resources for the spread of Christ's Kingdom on earth.

When what God has given us is offered willingly and His gift is shared, we find it orders our lives and regularizes our giving so that the demands of Church and charity are met without severe or sudden sacrifice or uneasy fumbling. If we are faithful stewards of His bounty, and set aside our proportionate share of our income to further His work, our life and its Christian convictions will be fully shared.

Now is a good time to begin setting aside for your pledging to Church and community for "while we have time, let us do good unto all men."

URBAN DEVELOPMENT FORCES PARISH TO ASSUME GREATER RESPONSIBILITIES

HAVE you ever tried to illustrate a big problem by one example? Usually, it is rather difficult. This does not seem to be true when we use St. Mary's, Manhattanville, to show the problem which faces the Episcopal Church in the metropolitan area. Even more striking, we can use the same parish to indicate the possible solution to the problem.

What creates this problem? Tremendous changes have taken place and are taking place in New York City. This involves the rebuilding of great areas, a task for our time as great as was the building of one of the seven ancient wonders of the world. The number of people involved exceeds the total population of the State of Nevada and more money is being spent than the total cost of our country's government throughout the first decade of our history.

The little parish church of St. Mary's is situated in the center of one of the greatest urban redevelopment programs ever conceived by man. Already thousands of people have been moved out of their homes. Hundreds of old buildings have been demolished and new apartment buildings for thousands of new residents have been erected.

Today within a few hundred yards from the tranquil garden surrounding the century-old rectory, we find not only new buildings that are occupied but others that are just being completed and new residents moving in. All stages of building are in evidence.

A block north from the church, we find hundreds of dirty, ugly tenements in various stages of demolition, huge bonfires burning trash and trucks carting away rubble. Many of the streets look like the streets of Berlin or

Please turn to Next Page

South of the attractive St. Mary's Church, in the Manhattanville area of New York City, have been built the General Grant Houses at Amsterdam Avenue and 125th Street. Next to these houses is the cooperative apartment development known as "Morningside Gardens". Thousands of new residents have already moved in, and new apartments are becoming available as construction is completed. A short distance farther down Amsterdam Avenue is Columbia University.

This demolition is just the other side of the school building shown on the top of the page. On this ground will be erected large buildings to house thousands of new families.

Hamburg after the block busters of World War II were dropped. Here, however, is peaceful block busting, done to provide clean healthful living.

The Church's problem is: "What do we do when a whole new 'village' comes into being?" In a newly settled community, we build a new church and other facilities, but Manhattanville is old and with a church in existence.

It was decided that affirmative answers must be given to at least three main questions which ought to be asked in such a situation as this.

1) Does the parish want to assume the responsibility of ministering to the new people? It was found that there was a small active congregation anxious to carry on in this new environment.

2) Is there available a priest trained in urban work and willing to undertake the task? St. Mary's was fortunate in finding just such a priest in the Rev. Richard E. Gary.

3) Is the Diocese willing to provide the project with money and staff assistance? The Department of Missions wholeheartedly approved the undertaking, limited of course by its resources.

After careful planning the immediate restoration program of the church property was begun. The external fabric was repaired and the rectory, more than one hundred years old, was completely restored and modernized. Renovations were made to the basement of the church and parish house. Modern plumbing was installed and additional space provided within the existing structure. To date some $60,000 has been spent or earmarked by the Diocese.

It is in watching the work of the people of St. Mary's, under the guidance of the Rev. Mr. Gary, that we find a possible solution to the Church's problem forced upon us by urban redevelopment.

(Right) Daily summer school sessions were held for 103 children. These included daily instructions in the Church's teachings. Through the interest aroused this summer, it is hoped that these and other young people will enroll in the fall and winter program which has been prepared by the staff.

A year ago, St. Mary's had lost much of its parish family. Today it is alive with new life and hope for a happy, thriving and growing parish.

The Rev. Mr. Gary is not waiting for the new residents to find St. Mary's. He and his staff are taking and have taken the church to the families in their homes and on the street.

The church, parish house, rectory and grounds, have been thrown open to the children. A summer program was organized this year, which took 103 youngsters off the street and kept them occupied and happy in group activities and religious studies at the church. This summer program has laid the foundation for further work in the Fall and through the year. Children were not accepted whose parents or guardians did not indicate a positive interest.

Children, filled with enthusiasm about such a program, will want to talk of it with their parents. Thus through a child, a mother and father must take at least a minimum interest in the church, too.

The parish program does not stop with activities for the children. In many homes, small informal meetings are held. Newcomers are invited and the aims and program of St. Mary's are discussed.

Where a year ago the Sunday School was practically non-existant, St. Mary's now has more than one hundred children enrolled. The communicant list is growing, the choir is growing, every group and organization is growing, and still the neighborhood is expanding.

This work has been made possible through the gifts of the members of the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of New York through the missionary giving in each parish and mission. As pledges are made in your parish canvass and as week by week you make your gifts, you know that you are participating in God's work at St. Mary's, Manhattanville, New York City.

GOOD GIVING IS JOYFUL GIVING

A CURMUDGEON of a church-goer came up to one of the canvass workers and asked to have his pledge card returned. As one of the financially better-off members in his community, he had been in the habit of giving a check at Easter and Christmas which he thought was of a good size, but which when totalled over a year and compared with the gifts of the regular contributors, who gave by the week, was one of the lower gifts in terms of the dollar amount.

During the Canvass, he had been educated to make his pledge on a weekly basis and so there had been an increase. Now the canvasser went after the pledge card shuddering to think that this slight increase in giving would be cancelled. Instead the increased pledge was nearly doubled. However, the pledge card was handed back with a sour face and a growl.

The other canvassers greatly enjoyed the story for they had thought it impossible ever to have obtained the first increase. To the surprise of everyone a few days later the same man—still looking gruff—again asked for his pledge card and this time made the pledge larger than any other in the parish, which was natural since he had the means with which to make such a pledge. This time he returned the pledge card with a great big smile and actually laughed a little bit, as he told the canvasser, "I guess I finally understand what you fellows are talking about."

This man had discovered that the old cliche "Give until it hurts" is all wrong. Certainly he found what so many of us have discovered—in Christian giving there is no "hurt." When we give enough, we feel good about our giving. We are happy about it. We sign our pledge card with a smile. Christians have joy in their giving even though it means doing without something else.

In a pamphlet on tithing* a Christian mother writes:

> For many years I have practiced tithing and known that the tenth belonged to God. The words of Jesus recorded in St. Matthew 23:23 and St. Luke 11:42, This ye ought to have done, were not only spoken to the Scribes and Pharisees but to each of His followers. Someone has said that if any Christian tithes, he will have six surprises. He will be surprised:
> 1. At the amount of money he has for the Lord's work.
> 2. At the deepening of his spiritual life in paying the tithe.
> 3. At the ease in meeting his own obligations with the nine-tenths.
> 4. At the ease in going from one-tenth to larger giving.
> 5. At the preparation this gives to be a faithful and a wise steward over the nine-tenths that remain.
> 6. At himself in not adopting the plan sooner.

This woman has found from personal experience that the use of money is a key to the understanding of one's personality. In "You Keep God's Checkbook" a story is told of the problem of Philip Guedalla in writing a biography of the Duke of Wellington, as follows:

> Philip Guedalla was well along with his biography of the Duke of Wellington when he bogged down. He realized that his efforts to make the Iron Duke breathe from his manuscript were failing. There was no lack of information. The biographer had Wellington's letters and journals, all sorts of official documents, and had been able to interview people who had known the Duke.
> But it was not, Guedalla tells, until he found Wellington's personal check book that he found a valid key to the man's personality. It was then that he learned about what Wellington had cared most.
> The same can be said of any man. His check stubs are the most direct, concise, and accurate characterization of him.
> The way you spend your money is the way you spend your life. Every dollar that passes in and out of your bank account (and most of them seem to do so) is time and energy—your time, your energy, for some of your life has gone into the earning of it. When a dollar is spent, a part of your life, then, is also disbursed.

The biographer had gotten into the area of the Duke's life which might be termed his sense of Stewardship. Stewardship is referred to in another of the excellent pamphlets† available, as follows:

> The word stewardship newly rediscovered in recent years, is constantly in danger of being watered down. Too often it is made to refer only to the way a Christian handles money. Important as our use of money is, this is too narrow a meaning for so big a word, too confining for such a large concept. Stewardship is not about money alone, although, of course, it includes money. It is about all life. It says that God created, and therefore owns, not only all I have but all I am. And is the Lord of all I do. My abilities, my skills, my intelligence, my relationships—all are of His bounty. He places them all in my care, to be administered by me, for Him.

The Presiding Bishop, the Rt. Rev. Henry K. Sherrill, D.D., in "Report to the Church"†† has written:

> The work of our church at home and abroad is made possible by the gifts of hundreds of thousands of men and women, boys and girls. The Mission of the Church is not the task of the National Council but of us all. . . . You have shared in the opportunity facing the Church overseas, as well as in the United States, in rural and city parishes, in any number of special ways of helpfulness. Your gift of money has been transmuted into healing the sick, opening blind eyes, preaching the Gospel of the Kingdom of God. For what you have done, we are grateful to God, for your gift was not to us, but, in a very real sense, to Him.
> But when this has been said, it is also true that we are only playing with our task. Some give with great sacrifice, but the majority of us only casually. Think for a moment of our numbers, of our resources, of what we spend for unimportant things and you will see that this is true.
> Our missionary bishops abroad write constantly of open doors of opportunity into which they are not able to enter. In this country, there is a pressing need of entering new fields as the result of shifting population, of our college work, of our men and women in the Armed Forces, and so on indefinitely.
> When one stops to consider the world in which we live with the great amount of suffering, of hatred and with the threat of war, the magnitude of our task becomes apparent. We are to do our best to make the kingdoms of this world the Kingdom of God and of His Christ. This task demands all that we are and all that we have. God grant to us all greater vision, more capacity to give and to serve in this the greatest of all undertakings.

SUCCESSFUL YOUTH CONFERENCE HELD AT TRINITY-PAWLING SCHOOL

THE Diocese of New York brings together Christians from many lands, speaking widely divergent languages, used to many different customs. This whole range was evident in the recent Pawling Youth Conference for Junior High School and Senior High School pupils.

Puerto Rican, Liberian, Chinese, German, Italian, British West Indian and American Negro, all mingled with their Anglo-Saxon brethren in five days of guided encounter with these typical teenage problems: What shall I be when I grow up? If I am free, why should I obey? What is the difference between Christian love and physical love? How can I know what I ought to do and where can I find the strength to do it? What effect does my conduct have on others?

Our Diocesan Youth Program is only one function of the Department of Christian Education. Other functions include Released Time Education, help with Church School Curriculum and Teacher Training, the Diocesan College Work program, Parish Life Conferences, and other help for adult leaders. The Department does its work primarily in two ways — by providing help to clergy and leaders to assist them in proclaiming the Gospel, and by conducting conferences in which specially prepared leaders teach those who are assembled from many congregations.

As is the case with all other departments of the Council of the Diocese, the Department of Christian Education is entirely dependent on the offerings received from the parishes and missions of the Diocese. That is, only as each member of the Church gives to his parish or mission is this work made possible.

Department Director Named

Albert E. Brownbridge, for the last ten years Director of Contributor's Information Bureau of the Community Council of Greater New York, became Executive Director of the Department of Christian Social Relations of our Diocese, by appointment of the Bishop. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. Leland Henry, who continues as consultant to the Department of Christian Social Relations in addition to his duties of Rector of St. Mary's, Scarborough.

The Contributor's Information Bureau which Mr. Brownbridge has headed is the major consulting and advisory service reporting on local health and welfare agencies which solicit funds from the general public.

During World War II, Mr. Brownbridge served in North Africa, Egypt and Germany; first in a British American Economic Mission and later with UNRRA. He was decorated by the French Government for his work in refugee relief.

Mr. Brownbridge, who has just completed a three year term as a Vestryman of Christ Church, Warwick, is a licensed lay reader. He and Mrs. Brownbridge live in Warwick with their three sons. His oldest child, a daughter, is a Senior at Grinnell College in Iowa, from which Mr. Brownbridge graduated with an A.B. Degree in 1931.

He received his professional training in social work at the Graduate School of Applied Social Sciences at Western Reserve University in Cleveland from 1931 through 1933.

Bishop Confirms at African Base

AT THE request of the Armed Forces Division of the National Council, Bishop Donegan flew from Lisbon to Casablanca on August 22nd. During the next three days he visited the Nouasseur Air Force Base and the Port Lyautey Naval Air Station. The Bishop confirmed a group of candidates at the Air Force Base. At the hospital Chapel in Port Lyautey he celebrated Holy Communion and confirmed another class.

Chaplain Captain Robert T. Holdt, U.S.A.F., stationed at the Nouasseur Air Force Base reported to the National Council that the Bishop preached at a general Protestant Service at the Air Base Chapel and that "his preaching and his enthusiasm and charm won the hearts of all who had heard or met him."

* * * * *

Bishop Donegan is in receipt of the following letter:

August 7, 1957

Dear Bishop Donegan:

It is a privilege for me to inform you that, by decree dated July 25, 1957, the President of the Republic of France has conferred upon you the Legion of Honor with rank of "Officier".

I am pleased to congratulate you on this highly deserved distinction which has been granted to you by the French Government as a token of gratitude for the constant friendship you have shown towards my country.

The diploma of this decoration will be sent to you as soon as we receive it from the Grande Chancellerie of the Legion of Honor.

Yours very sincerely,
JACQUES BAEYENS
Consul General of France

Clergy Appointments Accepted

The Rev. David P. Kern

The Rev. H. Theodore Ries

The Rev. David P. Kern has recently assumed his duties as Vicar of the Church of the Divine Love, Montrose, after having served as an assistant at St. Andrew's, Beacon for the past year. Fr. Kern says that he is one of those who did see the World when he joined the Navy, for as a young seaman in 1947-48 he travelled around the World as a radar operator aboard an American naval vessel. After discharge from the Navy he worked in a New York bank and then attended New York University from which he received his B.S. in Social Work in 1952. He then attended Berkely Divinity School from which he was graduated with a B.D. in 1956.

Fr. Kern, who was born in Brooklyn, in 1928, was raised in the Bronx and attended St. Paul's Church there. He is married to the former Elinor Margaret Tete of Nantucket, Mass. She is a graduate of the University of Massachusetts. Last year the family was increased to three at the birth of their daughter, Audrey Margaret.

The Rev. H. Theodore Ries, S.T.D., has recently been appointed Rector of St. Ann's Church in the Bronx. Dr. Ries was at one time an assistant at All Saints' Church, Trinity Parish, New York, but more recently he has served parishes in the Dioceses of Minnesota and Chicago. Besides his parish duties in these two dioceses, he was an Examining Chaplain of the Diocese of Minnesota, and in Chicago he was Chairman of the Diocesan Refugee Committee. He was born in Germany and received his Doctorate at St. Bonaventure's University in Rome, and has since studied at General Theological Seminary. From September 19th to September 24th, of this year, Dr. Ries was in Switzerland attending an International Conference of the Old Catholic Church, as an official observer for the Episcopal Church. He served in this capacity by appointment of the Rt. Rev. Henry K. Sherrill, the Presiding Bishop.

THE CROSS OVER SPUTNIK

THIS is the year when a certain small "a" brings added meaning to a certain capital "A". The advent of the Russian earth-satellite lends extra attention to Advent. It sharpens the contrast between Him who comes to be creative, and that which may come to destroy. It points up the difference between God, and those who would presume to replace God. Wheeling ominously in its orbit, Sputnik may well serve to remind us of how God's love of man is set over against some men's hatred of men.

We haven't yet decoded Sputnik's sputtering messages, but it's safe to assume that they fall far short of the revelation plainly promised in those key words, "God so loved the world that He gave His only-begotten Son . . ."

There is only the way of the redeeming Christ, by which the world in this critical age can learn to avoid the deliberately headlong destruction of itself at the hands of prideful men. Whether these seeds of destruction are being sown in a hate-torn town here at home, or in the minds of men in Moscow, the Christian program is the all-out program which is satisfied with nothing less than bringing the advent of Christ to bear upon every nook and cranny of life everywhere on this trembling earth.

As somebody recently pointed out, we were occupying Little Rock, while the Russians were occupying outer space. Well, this is Christ's universe, outer space included! The Love that is literally "out of this world" is the same Love which stoops to come into this world. That's the realized promise of Advent. And only when—as children of a common Father—we humbly kneel in the Presence of that Love, will we be able to rise to spread its influence here and abroad.

The Cross which broods over the Little Rocks of this earth is also the Cross which stands over the Sputniks beyond this earth.

QUEEN HONORS BISHOP DONEGAN

DURING her visit to this country, Queen Elizabeth II conferred upon Bishop Donegan a signal honor, in recognition of his outstanding work in the furtherance of Anglo-American understanding. At the British Embassy in Washington, D.C., on Saturday, October 19th, the Queen invested the Bishop with the jewel of his Commandership in the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire.

The Bishop has said, "This honor comes not only to me personally but comes also to all of the clergy and people of the Diocese of New York, for their interest and support in the mutual understanding among the English speaking nations of the world."

Bishop Donegan, when rector of St. James', Manhattan, was a leader in encouraging his parishioners and friends to aid Britain in the dark days before our own country's entrance into the war. The people of St. James' raised funds to equip an ambulance, which was sent to England when that country was standing almost alone in the battle against Hitler. Through the years since, the Bishop has continued his work to further the peace and welfare of the world by the promotion of Anglo-American friendship.

Two summers ago he was a guest at the Royal Lodge at Windsor and preached at the Royal Chapel there. When the Queen and Prince Philip came to New York, they were honored by the Mayor at a luncheon given at the Waldorf Astoria. Bishop Donegan gave the invocation at that time, as well as in the evening at the great dinner given in the same place by the Pilgrims and the English Speaking Union. This dinner had as its presiding officer, an outstanding layman of the Diocese, Mr. Hugh Bullock. Mr. Bullock also was honored by the Queen at the ceremonies in the Embassy.

PARISH ABOUNDS IN THE LORD'S WORK

ST. EDWARD'S FORMS CHRISTIAN FAMILY IN HARLEM

By The Rev. Leslie J. A. Lang
Rector, St. Peter's Church, Westchester

ON a single block in which there live more than two thousand people, on 109th Street, just east of Fifth Avenue, stands the Church of St. Edward the Martyr, one of the smallest, most beautiful, and most active churches in our Diocese. If this were not challenge enough, St. Edward's is the only Episcopal Church in an area which numbers some two hundred thousand people. Thus, it is the Parish of East Harlem.

It is an area in which we find the highest rate of juvenile delinquency and crime in the city, the worst housing, and possibly the greatest social and economic injustice. Although it is commonly thought of as the Puerto Rican center of New York, the ministry of this parish reaches out to those of Spanish, West Indian and various American racial backgrounds.

From the days when "downtown" residents first moved up to the "country" for the summer, St. Edward's has made its impact upon, and drawn into the fellowship of the parish, its German, Jewish, Italian and West Indian neighbors. This adaptability and spirit of Christian friendship has never been more apparent that it is today.

The greatest single problem of the "inner city" is the breakdown of family life. People not only do not live, they do not think, as families. Economic and housing conditions make such thinking and living almost impossible. And yet, everybody has to "belong" to something or somebody. In East Harlem, therefore, only the Church, and in this case, only St. Edward's can provide a sound and healthy family structure.

"Within our walls," says the Rev. Donald Gowe, M.D., Priest-in-charge of the parish, who was formerly both a priest and physician of long experience in Puerto Rico, "we endeavor to produce Christian family life. Against the liberty of anarchy, we aim to provide that liberty and security which can come alone from disciplined family life."

The center and the focal point of all of this, as its inspiration and source, is the parish Altar, the Holy Table of the Christian Family. The work of St. Edward's is the gradual introduction (and in most cases it must be gradual) to the total mission of the Christian parish. Very plainly, St. Edward's is saying to its neighbors, "We want you in the family, too."

The family, then, reaches out as it can. It does so, mainly, in two ways: through emergency situations and through the routine of parish work and worship. Time and time again the court, the prison, the hospital, some critical physical, moral or economic need, has been the pathway to the Altar.

Assisting in the work at St. Edward's, under the direction and guidance of Fr. Gowe, are the Rev. John Luce, and a recent arrival, the Rev. Gerald Peacock.

As to the routine "program" of the parish, the clergy prefer to call it quite

Church of St. Edward the Martyr on 109th Street just east of Fifth Avenue. The parish house is shown to the left, adjoining the church.

NOTE: Fr. Lang was Rector of St. Edward the Martyr from 1940 to 1943, after which he became Rector of St. Peter's, Westchester. He was Dean of the Bronx Convocation from 1951 to 1957, and is currently serving his second term as a member of the Council of the Diocese.

simply "our family living." There are five Sunday Services and the Church School, and the Lord's Own Service is celebrated daily. Once each Sunday and twice during the week the Spanish language is used, and there are both Spanish and English language choirs. Every new family or individual is visited by the clergy, "two-by-two", during the week after their appearance at the church or parish house.

Founded under the patronage of St. Edward the boy king, the parish has always carried on a vital and special ministry to boys. That ministry has become but a part of a balanced family life, and every day until ten o'clock at night, there is an unbroken schedule of parish house family activities: parish council, young adults, altar guild, two choirs, acolytes, released time school, and groups for basketball, softball, calisthenics, bowling, ballet, art, swimming.

Of special interest is the St. Edward's Parish Society, comprising the total adult membership. Because of working conditions, this group can only meet on Sundays. Once a month this group meets for breakfast after the noon-day service.

There are no "gangs" on St. Edward's block. Of noteworthy interest was the summer camp which by private subscription provided a vacation for ninety-seven children, and the vacation school, an all day program of worship, instruction, recreation, and trips in rotation to the local beaches.

There is a temptation sometimes to speak of "the good old days" of a parish which finds itself in a depressed area, but the ministry of St. Edward's has expanded far beyond the dreams of its founders, and reaches out to a far greater neighborhood than ever before in its seventy-five year history. In fact, its parish facilities are now being employed at total numerical capacity.

EDITORIAL NOTE: St. Edward's has been a Mission Church under the Department of Missions of the Diocese since 1952 when the Vestry dissolved the former parish and transferred its assets to the Diocese. In addition to the stipends of two of the clergy, an annual subsidy of $13,000 is made by the Diocese. Endowments provide the Vicar's salary and $5,200 of the subsidy.

The extension of this work is made possible through the gifts of the members of the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of New York through the missionary giving in each parish and mission. As pledges are made in your parish canvass and as week by week you make your gift, you know that you are participating in God's work at St. Edward the Martyr in New York City.

TUXEDO PARK CONFERENCE CENTER TO OPEN

In scenic Tuxedo Park the Diocese has purchased a Conference Center which is expected to be in operation before November 1st. The property was at one time the residence of Mr. Henry W. Poor, and later was owned by Mrs. H. M. Tilford. More recently it was used by the Tuxedo Park School.

The handsome Flemish bond brick and stone mansion is being equipped to accommodate forty persons overnight, and a larger number for one day conferences or meetings.

The Bishop has offered to use part of the proceeds of the Bishop's Fund for Diocesan Needs, over a period of years, to provide the amount needed to purchase and equip the premises. This fund is supported by the offerings received at the time of the Bishop's visitation to the parishes and missions. As the fund is not of sufficient size at present to meet all of the needs of the Center, it is hoped that people will be moved to make special gifts of money and furnishings.

Chapel Furnishings Needed

The basic furniture for the bedrooms, conference rooms and library has been purchased. These areas occupy the first, second and third floors. An attractive room in the basement, with a view of the lawn, formerly used for dramatics, has been set aside for a Chapel. It will require considerable renovation, redecoration and complete furnishing before it can be used. In the meantime, services will be conducted in one of the conference rooms.

Oriental rugs of various sizes are needed for many of the rooms and it is hoped that gifts of such rugs will be forthcoming to brighten up the rooms and halls and to create an atmosphere of comfort and quiet. Anyone wishing to make such gifts or to give small drop leaf tables is asked to communicate with Mrs. William H. van Benschoten of West Park, New York, who is in charge of furnishing and decorating the premises.

The task of equipping and renovating the Conference Center was delegated by the Bishop to a committee headed by Mr. David W. Black of Tuxedo Park, a member of the Department of Missions. Other members of the committee are the Reverend Fenimore E. Cooper, Rector of St. Mary's Church, Tuxedo Park; the Reverend J. Stuart Wetmore, Director of the Department of Christian Education; Mr. John S. Davidson of Spring Valley; Mrs. William H. van Benschoten of West Park and Mr. Theodor Oxholm, Treasurer of the Diocese.

Mrs. Adams Is Manager

Mrs. D. George Adams has been appointed manager of the Center. She and her husband, who is Assistant Treasurer of the Diocese, are now in residence in an apartment at the Center set aside for their use. Mrs. Adams is well known throughout the Diocese, having held several responsible positions on both the Diocesan and Cathedral staffs. She is now engaged in staffing the Center so that operation may begin when the furnishings are in place.

Applications for dates for use of the Center are now being accepted and all requests for reservations should be addressed to Mrs. D. George Adams, Manager, Episcopal Conference Center, P. O. Box 535, Tuxedo Park, New York. Three conference rooms are available and they will be so furnished as to make their use flexible for study, lecture or discussion.

Mr. William H. van Benschoten, architect associated with the Department of Missions, planned and supervised the repairs and renovations.

GROWTH IN

The Chapel of the Good Shepherd, Granite Springs, concluded their Every Member Canvass on October 18th resulting in the receipt of pledges of $12,000 as compared with $5,800 during 1956. The pledges now are on a weekly basis starting on November 3rd with no terminal date.

In view of the results obtained the Chapel anticipates that it will discontinue Diocesan assistance beginning January 1958.

By Christmas, Christ Church, Rye hopes to have in use the new two story wing being added to the existing parish house.

The first floor will have 11 classrooms for the church school and new facilities for the boys and girls choirs. Upstairs will be a new nursery, 6 more class rooms, new offices for the Rector, Curate, Director of Religious Education, Parish Secretary, Treasurer, and a modern kitchen.

WESTCHESTER

At St. John's Church, Larchmont, work is nearing completion on the Francis Coffin memorial building.

This addition to the present parish house is named in memory of the late Rector, the Rev. Francis J. H. Coffin. It will contain 20 classrooms, a kitchenette, and large new parish offices.

Built at a cost of $285,000 it is expected that the building will be in use before the end of the year.

The Canvass Committee of St. Paul's Church, Ossining, consisting of 18 laymen and 20 laywomen, concluded the most successful Every Member Canvass in the history of St. Paul's, on Monday, October 7th.

Through the dedication and hard work of these laymen and laywomen, at the conclusion of the canvass the committee had received pledges of over $9,700 as against total envelope giving of $3,040 in 1956, an increase of more than 220%.

CHURCH MINISTERS TO STUDENTS ON HUGE N.Y.U. CAMPUS THROUGH OUR DIOCESAN COLLEGE WORK DIVISION

THE Episcopal Church is active on nineteen campuses within the Diocese of New York, under the guidance of the Division of College Work of the Department of Christian Education. One of these is the Washington Square campus of New York University, where over 30,000 students are enrolled. With three main under-graduate colleges, various graduate and professional schools, day and evening branches, full and part time students, more than 80% of whom are commuters, N.Y.U. is one of the most complex as well as the largest university in the world.

A weekly Eucharist in the Religious Center (Wednesdays at 8 a.m.), visits to students in their homes, counselling by appointment, study groups, a faculty program and co-operation with the Christian Association will this year be in the hands of four specially prepared leaders. These persons, shown on this page, will together make a team which can make the Episcopal ministry to N.Y.U. more comprehensive and we hope more effective than before.

N.Y.U. Canterbury Association in session. It meets every Friday evening in the Religious Center, 2 Washington Square, North.

The N.Y.U. Leaders

The Rev. R. DeWitt Mallary, the Diocesan executive for college work, is chiefly responsible for the whole work, and serves as Advisor to the Canterbury Association.

This organization serves the intellectual and social needs of Episcopal students, especially those in the evening and graduate schools. The group regularly includes interested students from other Christian communions and non-Christian cultures. Highlights of this term's work include three-week series on racial problems here and abroad (New York priest; African Teacher and Negro writer), a series on the ecumenical movement, and a series on Biblical Theology.

Mr. Mallary's N.Y.U. office is at 2 Washington Square, North. He will be assisted on two days a week by Miss Sandra Clarke, a graduate of the University of North Carolina and an apprentice sponsored by the National Department.

The Rev. Michael Allen, formerly a writer with Look, now on the staff of Grace Church, will work with graduate students. A pioneer work is being carried on at N.Y.U. Law School by Mr. William Stringfellow, a graduate of Harvard Law School, and now Parish Attorney for the East Harlem Protestant Parish which is affiliated with the New York City Mission Society.

At Columbia University a similar intensive program is carried on under the direction of Canon John W. Pyle of the Cathedral staff, with the assistance of several part-time workers.

Special Ministry Needed

College students are in a special atmosphere of academic search when the answers that up to now have been accepted are seriously called in question. They are on the threshold of vocational decision and marriage. They will become the leaders in their community, business and parish, but for this brief campus period they are separated from the normal ministry of the Church.

Therefore a special ministry must be provided outside the usual parish framework. Since most of these students are already communicants of parishes and will be accepting increasing responsibility in parishes after their graduation, all parishes share in the benefit of an adequate college program. In this Diocese, therefore, all parishes and missions assume a share in the cost of the work through their support of the Diocesan budget.

ENJOY SECURITY ## in Your Sunset Years

Old age can be a wonderful time of life—if you have inward peace. It is wonderful to have the peace of God in your heart—the assurance of salvation and the joyous anticipation of seeing your Saviour face to face, and being re-united with loved ones who have gone before.

But peace at sunset depends too upon material security, and enough independence so that you do not feel you are a burden to others.

New York Bible Society Annuities can help you achieve the security that will safeguard your peace of mind.

Write today for full information as to how you may have a guaranteed life-time income as dependable as the calendar—and at the same time share in a great missionary enterprise.

CLERGY IN THE NEWS

The Rev. Sydney R. Olorenshaw

The Rev. John C. Harper

The Rev. M. Moran Weston

The Rev. K. Gordon Drescher

The Rev. Sydney R. Olorenshaw has recently been appointed Vicar of St. Andrew's Church in the Bronx, after having been with St. Mary's and All Saints' Churches on Staten Island since 1954. He is a native of England and transferred to this Diocese from the Diocese of Chicago, where he was Rector of St. Ambrose Church, Chicago Heights. He also served in Canada from 1948 to 1951.

The Rev. John C. Harper became the new Rector of St. Matthew's Church, Bedford, in September, and was Instituted by Bishop Donegan on October 13th.

Mr. Harper was graduated from Harvard College in 1946 after serving as an officer in the Navy during World War II. From 1946 to 1950 he taught English at the Taft School in Watertown, Conn., leaving there to enter the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, Mass., from which he graduated in 1953.

He was ordained Deacon in June, 1953, and Priest, in December, 1953. From 1953 to 1954 he was Curate at Grace Church, Providence, R. I. From 1954 to 1957 he was Rector of St. Mark's Church, Foxboro, Mass., and during this time he was active in the Diocesan Department of Christian Education and was a member of the Ecumenical Relations Committee.

He is married to the former Barbara Quarles of Wellesley Hills, Mass., and they have two children.

The Rev. William L. Casady

The Rev. C. Kilmer Myers

The Rev. M. Moran Weston, Ph.D., became Rector of St. Philip's Church, Manhattan, on June 17th. However, he is not a stranger to St. Philip's Parish. It could be said he is returning "home" to the parish he once before served, both as a member of the clergy staff and as business manager.

Dr. and Mrs. Weston, the former Miriam Drake, have one daughter, Karen, who is five years old, and a son, Philip Gregory Moran, born this past July 27th.

Dr. Weston's father is the Rev. M.M. Weston of Tarboro, North Carolina. His grandfather was also a priest of our Church.

Prior to his recent return to St. Philip's, Dr. Weston was Executive Secretary of the Division of Christian Citizenship of the National Council. He has also served as a member of our Diocesan Department of Christian Social Relations.

City Priest Writes Thrilling Book

THE thrilling story of the work of St. Augustine's Chapel with teen-age gangs of New York City is told by the Vicar, the Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, in his book Light The Dark Streets (Seabury Press, $4.00).

Fr. Myers sheds new light on the role of the Church, the police and social agencies, in helping the bewildered, the rejected and the hostile who make up our juvenile gangs.

This is not a book on social work. Nor is the job that is being done at the Lower East Side Mission of Trinity Parish a social service job. It is rather a much more fundamental and far-reaching activity centered in the accepted fact that the love of God poured out through the Church's family is a thing that can be realized in the lives of these boys.

Fr. Myers' story is not a pretty one. It is first the story of a bopping (fighting) gang—the Knights. Potentially dangerous, their lives and problems dramatize one of America's most pressing problems. He writes of boys who are dying slowly from lack of love, dying of dope, loneliness and fear. Time is running out for them and for us.

Light The Dark Streets doesn't pretend to offer quick and easy solutions. But this fiercely honest account of St. Augustine's fight against big city delinquency does tell when and how genuine progress has been made.

The author makes very clear throughout the narrative that this is a Christ-centered activity. "We hold, with our Savior, that His Church is a society of redeemed sinners and that no one, no matter how wicked in the eyes of society, may be barred from entrance to this holy community or denied its help."

Exciting as it is, and based on the hard facts of reality, this book can be of invaluable help to people everywhere who are working with youth. It offers startling insights. It is a challenge to people of courage and strength —especially to the churches—to face the rising threat of our youth in torment and work out new solutions with the help of other interested agencies.

Books Presented to Seminarians

The Church Periodical Club, which supplies printed and allied materials to the mission field at home and abroad, is presently conducting the annual appeal for The Seminarians Book Fund. This fund provides each candidate or postulant from the Diocese of New York with the nucleus of a theological library with which to start his ministry. The candidates make choices from an authorized book list, and receive from one to four volumes (up to a total cost of $12.50). Each book contains a C.P.C. bookplate inscribed with the name of the donor. The list of candidates and postulants supplied by the Bishop's office this year contains forty-five names. The letters received from the seminarians plus later statements from the mission field amply attest the value of the plan. It is the chief diocesan project of The Church Periodical Club. Contributions may be earmarked for a particular student. Checks should be made payable to Virginia Creed Mattesich, Director, Church Periodical Club, 233 East 69th St., N. Y. 21, N. Y.

W. A. Meets Dec. 14

The Advent meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in the Cathedral on Saturday, December 14 at 10:30 A.M. The service of Holy Communion will be preceded by the United Thank Offering Presentation. The preacher will be the Rt. Rev. A. Ervine Swift, S.T.D., Bishop of Puerto Rico. Following lunch in the undercroft of Synod House, Bishop Swift will give an informal talk on the work in his district.

Devotional Workshop Planned Monthly

The Diocesan Devotional Workshop of the Woman's Auxiliary meets on the fourth Tuesday of each month at St. Thomas Guild Hall, 1 West 53rd Street, New York, from 10:45 A.M. to 12:30 P.M. There will be no meeting in December as the fourth Tuesday falls on Christmas Eve.

One of the aims of the Workshop is to stress the fact that all our endeavors stem from Christ. This year's emphasis, like that of the School of Worship, will be on "Christian Living".

Visitors to the Diocese are always welcome to attend and participate in the programs of worship, instruction and discussion.

Conference Date Set

A Consultation Conference of Board members of the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary and a team from the National Board and Staff of the Auxiliary will be held at Tuxedo Park Jan. 29th through Jan. 31st.

Such consultations with Diocesan Boards across the country are an outcome of the restudy of National Board members on the goals of woman's work in the Church. In these conferences the Diocesan Board is helped to obtain a clearer picture of itself and to review its function and objectives.

ATTRACTIVE MITE BOX PREPARED FOR CHILDREN'S ADVENT OFFERING

On the label around the little container which is being used this year throughout the Diocese for the Advent Offering, you will find two pictures with appropriate quotations.

One picture is of the infant Jesus with his holy mother. The quotation accompanying this picture sums up what happened to him from the time he was a baby until he was grown up. It reads: "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man" (Luke 2:52). He wasn't able to do this all by himself. No baby or child has ever been able to do so. How, then, was it possible? The answer to this question is found in the verse just previous to the one quoted on the label. This other verse (Luke 2:51) reads: "And he went down with them" (that is, with his parents) ". . . and was subject unto them."

Jesus increased in wisdom by learning everything his parents taught him. He increased in stature by eating what they fed him. His parents' public and private worship of God and their gracious dealings with neighbors and strangers alike helped Jesus immeasurably to increase in favor with God and man.

The time finally came, as represented by the second picture on the label, when Jesus no longer needed the protection and assistance of his parents. But we must never forget that he was able to grow in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man because he had loving parents who helped him in every way they possibly could.

Your offerings, through the Advent Mite Boxes, are for the support of mission churches entirely within the boundaries of your Diocese. The Diocese of New York is responsible for one of the largest missionary activities within the whole, world-wide Episcopal Church. Did you know that?

Missions are churches where scores and often hundreds of people, young and old, men and women, boys and girls, gather together to worship and in other ways to show their love of God, but are not yet able to support themselves, i.e., are not able to pay all the bills. These mission churches in our cities, our suburbs and our rural areas are like the infant Jesus, subject unto, dependent upon, the parent diocese for existence. But they too can grow if they are lovingly cared for and encouraged until the time comes that they also can be on their own.

Through the Advent offering you can help the Diocese play the part of Mary and Joseph. Our missions need the protection and assistance of the Diocese just as the infant Jesus needed the same of his God-chosen parents.

THE BULLETIN

DECEMBER, 1957

A CRÈCHE SEEN . . .

"BUT the angels are standing in the dirt!" exclaimed a small boy when he first saw the crèche at the Cathedral which is pictured on the front cover.

Yes, it is strange to see the heavenly Christmas messengers, usually thought of as winging through the skies, standing upon the ground. But it is no more strange than the mystery of Almighty God lying in a manger.

The heart of the classic Christian Message is the strangest and most incredible proclamation ever heard by the ear of man. The human mind has always balked and protested, at first glance, when confronted by the mystery of God as man upon earth, as did the little boy when he first saw the Cathedral Crèche. Such a reaction is to be taken for granted.

We shall not know the first thing about the glory of the Christian Message nor about its power to transform and to redeem the nature of human life until we bow in awe and astonishment before this incredible mystery and until we then by "a leap of faith" decide in favor of self-commitment to its truth.

To attempt to make the Christian Message palatable to man's natural reason, shot through as it is with unimaginative pessimism, is a hopeless task resulting only in a dreary, sentimental parody.

Man, besmirched as he is by sin and earthiness, could not go to God so God came to him, caring enough to redeem what He cared enough to create. "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, to the end that all that believe in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

The angels stand in the dirt. God lies in the manger. And life is suddenly worth living again, eternally worth living! The world is worth saving after all! Despite Jimmy Hoffa and Orval Faubus and Khrushchev, the world is still worth saving! Despite the things in you and me that we cannot stand, man is still important, eternally important, because God loves.

"Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will to men."

DIOCESE HONORS BISHOP DONEGAN ON FIRST TEN YEARS OF HIS EPISCOPATE

BISHOP DONEGAN was honored by nearly 1,000 clergy and laymen of the Diocese in a Special Service of Thanksgiving held at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine on October 28th, the tenth anniversary of his consecration as a Bishop in the Episcopal Church.

Following the Service, a reception for the clergy and their wives was held in the Undercroft of the Synod House, during which Bishop Boynton, on behalf of the Clergy, presented Bishop Donegan with a George III English Silver Covered Tureen. The mounted tureen was made in London in 1790 by the famous silversmith, Robert Makepeace, and bears the Arms of Tatton of Tatton.

Bishop Boynton. Mrs. Boynton. Bishop Donegan and his mother. Mrs. H. George Donegan formed the receiving line to greet the clergy and their families who attended the reception in Synod House. Miss Elizabeth Corker, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. William F. Corker is shown shaking hands with the Bishop.

AWARE of Bishop Donegan's anniversary this fall, the Convocations elected to set aside their usual autumnal agenda in order to hold dinner meetings in honor of the Bishop. More than 2,000 clergy and lay-people attended the seven Convocation dinners at which Bishop Donegan, in another departure from the usual Convocation program, was the only speaker.

At the Bronx Convocation dinner, 375 people gathered to honor the Bishop. The Rev. Gerald V. Barry, Rector of Christ Church, Riverdale and Dean of the Convocation presided. Among those seated at the head table were Mr. George J. Oakes, Chairman of the Bishop's Men of the Bronx, and Miss Alice E. Wheeler, Vice President of the Woman's Auxiliary, Bronx District. Special credit for the success of the dinner goes to Mr. Edward Prescott of St. Luke's Church who handled the distribution and sale of tickets, to Mr. Louis F. Stauss of Holy Nativity, who was in charge of the arrangements, and to Mr. Oakes and the Bishop's Men.

Mr. Howard Williams, his daughter, Miss Gwyneth Williams, and Mr. Clifford Nuhn, were largely responsible for the success of the dinner in the Dutchess Convocation. One hundred sixty people attended the meeting in Poughkeepsie which was presided over by the Rev. Robert Cunningham, Jr., Dean of the Dutchess Convocation.

The Hudson Convocation met in Kingston, where one hundred forty-one people attended the dinner at St. John's Church. Present at the head table besides the Rector of the host parish, the Rev. R. T. Shellenberger, were the Hon. Earle Houghtaling, Treasurer of the Convocation, the Rev. George A. Detor, Acting Secretary of the Convocation, and the Dean of the Hudson Convocation, the Rev. G. Melbourne Jones presided.

St. James' Church, Madison Avenue and 71st Street, was crowded to capacity for the Manhattan Convocation dinner. Two hundred fifty people attended and more were turned away. The Rev. John Ellis Large, Dean of the Manhattan Convocation, presided.

One hundred thirty-five people were at the dinner meeting of the Ramapo Convocation in Goshen. The Rev. Samuel P. Holiday presided. Among those at the head table were the Rev. Messrs. Douglas Glasspool and Frederick F.

PARISHES REPORT SUCCESSFUL CANVASSES

Christ Church, Tarrytown, is rapidly concluding their Budget Expansion Program. Designed to increase the regular giving within the Parish, this program was under the Direction of Thomas White and Associates of Chicago.

With still a few families to be reached, pledges to date have been made in the amount of $44,000 which compares with $25,000 in 1956.

St. Simon's Church, Staten Island, has brought to a successful conclusion their Every Member Canvass which was directed by Thomas White Associates.

Due to hard work of the members of the parish the pledging this year amounted to $13,601 which is more than double the $5,678 pledged last year.

Next month the Bulletin will carry a feature story on St. Simon's which will show how the parish is dealing with a unique problem which vitally concerns its future.

St. John's Parish, in the town of Lewisboro, have just finished their Every Member Canvass during which a committee of 17 men under the Chairmanship of Mr. Forrest Geneva worked for a period of one month.

In the course of the Canvass a successful Fellowship Dinner was held for the entire Parish. The arrangements were handled by a Hostess Committee consisting of Mrs. Floyd Frost, Mrs. Hugh Coyle, Mrs. Mary Lawrence, Mrs. Floyd Wakeman, Mrs. Charles Ketcham, Mrs. Carl Low, and Mrs. Nicholas Lefor.

The Canvass resulted in the receipt of pledges totalling $13,000 as compared with $6,100 in 1956.

St. Paul's Church, Pleasant Valley, reports a dramatic increase in their Canvass results this year. Also under the direction of Thomas White Associates, the pledges have amounted to $8,568 as against $2,300 last year.

The Canvass Chairman was Mr. William H. Hubner who was assisted by nine canvassers. Mrs. Aimee Husted was the Hostess Chairman with the help of ten other women of the Parish.

The Church of the Divine Love, Montrose, finished a most successful Every Member Canvass on November 1st.

Under the Chairmanship of Mr. Robert Sedgwick, a committee of twenty men and twenty women worked for a period of three weeks to complete the Canvass. The results showed that the committee had done its work well, for there were pledges received for a total of $11,500 in contrast with $4,200 pledged in 1956.

A Loyalty Dinner, attended by 140 people, was held to initiate the Canvass. Speakers at the dinner, Mrs. Bernard Capodieci, Mr. Sedgwick, Mr. Frank Thomas, and the Vicar, The Rev. David Kern, discussed the Canvass, Church finances and the needs for the coming year.

In view of the results obtained by the Canvass, the Church is hopeful of being able to discontinue Diocesan assistance during 1958.

Dana House Opens

On November 7th, Bishop Donegan consecrated the Chapel of the Divine Compassion in Dana House, the new quarters, at 17 East 71st Street, of the Youth Consultation Service of the Diocese. The Chapel was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene W. Stetson, of New York City.

On the same date, the Youth Consultation Service officially moved into the building, and now for the first time since its inception in 1909, YCS has a home for the young women ages 14-25 which it is dedicated to help.

The purchase of the handsome brownstone house was made possible by the generous gift of $150,000 from Charles A. Dana and the Dana Foundation of which he is President, and appropriately the home will be known as Dana House.

Throughout the years the YCS has operated branches in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Westchester (White Plains), but this is the first time the organization has had an official residence to serve all of its branches.

Dana House has recreation and music rooms, a library, sitting room and garden, a small nursery, living quarters for girls and staff in residence, administrative offices, and facilities for medical treatment. In the basement are a modern kitchen, pantry, and a dining room with a garden atmosphere.

The operation of Dana House, which will accommodate 20 girls at a time, will require a budget of $300,000 for the first year of service to an anticipated number of 1,500 girls. Youth Consultation Service receives 70% of its support from contributions by individuals, organizations, and foundations. It also receives income from The Diocese, the Stuyvesant Square Thrift Shop, the Greater New York Fund, the New York City Youth Board, and the White Plains Community Chest.

It is estimated that some 25,000 girls have been helped by YCS since 1909. These girls have come to YCS through other social agencies, institutions, hospitals, doctors, schools, church sources, and through other girls YCS has helped. Their problems are varied—unhappiness at home, unmarried motherhood, difficulty at school, spiritual bewilderment—and so are their needs—psychiatric consultation, hospital and dental care, suitable employment, educational and vocational planning, help in making new friends, heartaches and breaks and other adjustment problems so often overwhelming to young people.

Two Priests Accept New Posts

The Rev. Merrill O. Young

The Rev. Ernest D. Vanderburgh

The Rev. Merrill O. Young is now Curate at St. Augustine's Chapel, Trinity Parish, Manhattan. He was formerly assistant minister of St. Margaret's Church, Bronx, where he has served since 1955.

Fr. Young was born in Brooklyn in 1930. He attended Philips Andover Academy and while there studied for one year at Trinity College, Scotland, as an English Speaking Union exchange student. He was graduated from Harvard with a B.A. degree in 1951.

He attended the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., for two years and then for a year was a youth worker at St. Augustine's Chapel, Manhattan. Resuming his studies at General Theological Seminary he was graduated in 1955, and received his S.T.B. in 1956.

He was married in 1956 and in October of this year he and his wife became the parents of twins, a boy and a girl.

The Rev. Ernest D. Vanderburgh has recently become the new assistant minister at St. John's Church, Tuckahoe. He had been Rector of Trinity Church, Mount Vernon, and previously assistant to the Rector of St. John's Church, Larchmont.

The son of a Presbyterian missionary surgeon, Fr. Vanderburgh was born in West Fulton, N. Y. and was brought up in China.

He attended Cornell and North Carolina Universities and was graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1940.

As a Presbyterian minister, he served churches in Brewster and Gilbertville, N. Y. He became an Episcopalian in 1946, was ordained as deacon in the same year and as a priest in November, 1947. He served on the staff of St. James' Church, Holy Trinity Parish, New York City, before going to Larchmont in 1949.

He is married and the father of one child.

Director's Forum Examines Techniques

THE Department of Christian Education keeps in touch with those who have professional responsibility for Educational Work in the parishes, through a Director's Forum which meets five times a year.

The October session, held in Cathedral House, dealt with "Creative Drama" and was under the leadership of Mrs. Isabel Burger, Director of the Children's Theater Association of Baltimore, Md. The December meeting will be concerned with Visual Education.

Through such meetings departmental leadership is provided to a very strategic group of more than forty clergy and lay workers, with significant results in the program of many parishes in the Diocese.

Cathedral Opens Library For Churchmen

THE Cathedral Library, three years in the making, was opened to the public on the afternoon of All Saints' Day, November 1st, at a brief ceremony presided over by Bishop Donegan, accompanied by Bishop Boynton and other Diocesan officials.

Dedicatory prayers were read in the presence of the Dean and Chapter and several Trustees of the Cathedral, together with representatives of the Trustees of the New York Training School for Deaconesses, Friends of the Cathedral, the Woman's Auxiliary, and librarians from The General Theological Seminary, Union Theological Seminary, and the Library of St. Bede—venerable libraries to which this youngster owes thanks for advice and encouragement.

The William Reed Huntington Memorial Room which houses the Cathedral Library, just as it had housed the Library of the New York Training School for Deaconesses, was looking its handsome best at the dedication and tea, being aided by a fresh coat of paint, a rug provided by two Friends of the Cathedral, and new furniture, some of which had been given by the New York Training School for Deaconesses.

The books, all catalogued according to the Library of Congress system, derive from three principal sources: volumes given or bequeathed to the Cathedral Church during the last half-century; volumes which formerly constituted the Deaconesses' Library in St. Faith's House (as the bookplates still indicate); and the many new volumes purchased from Cathedral funds starting three years ago when the Trustees enthusiastically authorized the creation of a library in this place which, by its Charter, is under

THE clergy of the Diocese of New York are very prolific; at least some of them are. For example, another book by Dean Pike has just appeared under the title The Next Day. The title of the book is taken from a quote out of "Christian Discourses" by Soren Kierkegaard: "What is anxiety? It is the next day." The title is misleading, for the Dean does not put off until the next day the discussion of how to deal with the very serious problems which confront us today. This book is practical, readable, and I am sure will help many who "may be normal." The titles of the chapters range all the way from "How to Sleep" to "How to Die". The Dean desires to be helpful, and is—today.

The Canon Theologian of the Cathedral, Howard Johnson, has just edited the compilation of the recent series of lectures on "Preaching the Christian Year" held at the Cathedral last winter. This collection is designed primarily for the preacher and includes a Foreword by Dean Pike and an Office for Preachers by Canon West. This is an invaluable guide to the busy parson who would like to have a theological framework for his preaching throughout the Christian year. The lectures are always stimulating and most of them completely intelligible even though written by very high grade theologians. My favorite chapter is "Preaching in Pre-Lent" by the Warden of the College of Preachers, Theodore O. Wedel. Running a close second is "Preaching in Holy Week" by Frederick C. Grant. The other seasons are covered by the late Dean Fosbroke, Dr. Mollegen, Dean Nes, Dr. Casserley, Dr. Pittenger and Dr. Ferris. This is top level stuff which you hope the layman will not read since you will want to quote it by the yard.

The final slender volume by the late chaplain of General Theological Seminary, Miles Lowell Yates, has been issued as the Seabury Book for Advent. It is almost too slight to be called a book; it is more like a prolonged meditation on The King in His Beauty. If Preaching the Christian Year is lacking in poetic insight The King in His Beauty makes up for it, at least for the Advent and Christmas seasons. I marked many passages in this little book which I shall long remember. The best one of all however, is this one: "In the thick of things, in the labyrinthine magnitude that encircles us, Christ was the lighted gate to God through which men passed, and have passed ever since, from bad to good, from good to better, from better to best; from spiritual isolation to spiritual comradship; from weakness to reinforcement; from guilt to cleansing. Christ is the Lord of transitions—is it not a significant way of thinking about Him?" On almost every page there is an arresting sentence, such as "Remember not to mind is the essence of humility." "Be generous hearted; this is always the will of God." "Humility, courage and generosity — as exemplified in Christ—are a triple cord that binds us to the Divine Will."

It is fine to have so many creative writings coming out of the Diocese, and we recommend the above volumes for the consideration of the diocesan family.

ST. PETER'
MINISTERS TO M

"I have become all things to all men that I might by all means save some." 1 Cor. 9:22

THIS might well be the motto and description of St. Peter's Church in Chelsea, New York City, ministering now, after more than one and a quarter centuries, to a changing, "mixed up" community of literally all sorts and conditions of men. Yet despite or perhaps because of this tremendous variety of people, St. Peter's is very definitely a family—with all the family's joys and hurts, growth and frustration.

At the head of this family, directing, guiding, encouraging, and using all means, are the vicar, the Rev. Edward Chandler, the assistant, the Rev. Wray E. MacKay and his family, and a full time lay worker from Mexico, Miss Esperanza Villanueva.

The program to minister to this family is as varied as are the people, and as changing as are the needs of a changing community. All means are used, just as St. Paul used all means, to a purpose: that some might be saved.

In the summer, the program attempts to meet the special conditions of the season, and to attract the increased number of children released from the confines of the classroom to the freedom of the hot, busy street. Using funds raised by the Missionary Society of the General Theological Seminary, St. Peter's sponsors dances, baseball teams, beach trips, picnic outings, Bible School, and other activities.

But the deliberate planning of a varied program would count for little and bring small reward to its ministers, were it not for the wonderful things happening inside the people St. Peter's reaches. Many first approach the Church and its program with suspicion, then "test" the clergy and staff to see if they really like them. Cautiously they enter into the fun, but when they finally do open up, it is often with spontaneous joy, in response to the love with which they find themselves surrounded. Throughout the summer they pour into the open rectory, into the parish house and into the Church . . . and some stay.

Some stay past the summer and perhaps begin Sunday School and a somewhat regular attendance at the 9 A.M. service. With rapt attention, eager curiosity, and often exasperating behaviour, they listen and, it is hoped, take in some of the experience of Christ from their teachers.

Or if they do not enter Sunday School, and perhaps did not even come during the summer, they may attend Released Time classes on Thursday afternoons. Fortunately situated right across from one of our Public Schools, St. Peter's draws a large number of children new and old. And the program ministers to new and old, having in addition to the expected classes for those who have little or no acquaintance with Church or Scripture, a special post-confirmation class on the Prayer Book.

Slowly the word spreads. Most of the people are missionaries, though they would not know the word if they were told; they bring friends to St. Peter's simply because they have touched something good and want to share it, have received some real love and want others to have some, too.

Then a child brings his mother. She, too, has heard that St. Peter's helps, and she needs help—there is no money and no food. She's resigned to an answer of no, and often surprised when someone goes with her and helps her shop. Perhaps she comes back for other nourishment; if not, she is called on and immediately there is seen the next great need—housing—eight people in a room and a half. And so visits are made to the housing authority where there is delay; many have not moved, though they have tried, since St. Peter's has known them, but some have.

Not all are poor or in desperate physical need. Perhaps they hear of St. Peter's through the clergy's participation in community projects, or from their neighbors. Perhaps they were invited to the celebration of the Holy Communion in the house of a communicant. Done to date only once, it offers rich opportunities for the spread of the Word.

Finally they come to Church on a Sunday. And as they come and continue to come from single rooms and luxury apartments, from different cultures and racial backgrounds, from different social and language groups, they also continue to grow in depth. They begin confimation classes; they are invited to join the altar guild, to teach, to visit, to type; they are voted into membership in the Advisory Board; join the prayer group, the Spanish Society, the G.F.S., the boys' clubs, the acolytes, basketball teams.

Slowly the family grows—in love and in response to the vision. The vision has never left; it is of the Kingdom of Heaven, and that Kingdom has open doors. St. Peter's has therefore become all things to all men that by all means some may enter in through those doors.

Gutekunst, both members of the Executive Board of the Convocation, and their wives; The Rev. Kenneth W. Costin, Secretary of the Convocation Board, and Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain Chester of the Woman's Auxiliary.

The Richmond Convocation held its dinner November 18th with one hundred fifty people present. The Rev. George E. Nichols presided at the meeting which was one of the finest turnouts and Convocation events ever held in Staten Island.

Nearly five hundred persons representing forty-five Episcopal churches attended the dinner of the Westchester Convocation. The Rev. Osborne Budd, Dean of the Convocation, was master of ceremonies, and Ellis H. Carson, prominent layman and a vestryman of St. James the Less, Scarsdale, spoke for the laity in tribute to Bishop Donegan. Prominent lay women present were Mrs. Gurney Williams, of Chappaqua, president of the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. Llewellyn Roberts, Mrs. William E. Leidt, and Mrs. Rex P. Mulligan. The Rev. C. Ronald Garmey, Rector, St. Bartholomew's Church, White Plains, was in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

The spirit which prompted all seven dinners and the enthusiastic participation by clergy and laity alike was summed up well at the Westchester dinner: to show our gratitude for the Bishop's constant interest and encouragement through the past ten years, and to pledge our loyal support as we look forward with him to a long and happy Episcopate.

Diocese Names New Center For Bishop

THE Council of the Diocese has authorized the naming of the new Diocesan Conference Center in Tuxedo Park, New York, in honor of the Bishop. The Center therefore will be known as the Bishop Donegan Episcopal Conference Center.

The beautiful brick and stone mansion which was formerly a residence and more recently housed the Tuxedo Park School, was purchased earlier this year by the Diocese and opened for use in early November.

Twenty-two conferences have already been scheduled at the Center to date, and parish groups wishing to use the facilities are urged to apply early to be sure of accommodations.

The Center can sleep up to forty persons overnight and has three conference rooms suitable for both small and large groups. The furnishings of the public rooms make them flexible for study, lectures, or discussions.

Application for reservations should be made to: The Office of the Suffragan Bishop, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York 25. Phone: UNiversity 5-3600.

The need for a Diocesan Conference Center is clearly shown by the fact that so many conferences and meetings have been scheduled over the next few months.

Diocesan departments and organizations have been the first to take advantage of the Center, but already individual parish groups are inquiring for dates and reservations.

Examples of some of the meetings booked for the next month are listed below:

January 11-12—Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

January 14-16—Parish Life Conference for Clergy—Christian Education.

January 16-17—Council of the Diocese.

January 17-18—Leadership Trainers School—Christian Education.

January 20-21—College Work Conference.

January 29-31—Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary—Executive Board.

W.A. Plans Panel On Youth-College Work

YOUTH and College Work will be the subject of a Conference to he held at Cathedral House on January 7, 1958, sponsored by the Personnel Department of the Woman's Auxiliary for the women of the Church.

The distinguished panel of five speakers will include: Dr. Phillip Zabriskie, Executive Secretary of the Division of College Work; The Rev. Ellsworth Koonz, Director of Recruiting; Mrs. Harding Maggoti, Associate Secretary, Overseas Students; The Rev. Howard Bingley, Vicar of the Chapel of the Incarnation and Chairman of Youth (high-school age) Conferences, and Miss Jessie Butler, Associate Secretary for College Work in the Second Province.

The Rev. DeWitt Mallary, Associate Director of College Work for the Diocese will serve as Moderator. The Conference will run from 10:30 A.M. to 1:45 P.M. and is open to all the women of the Church. Everyone is asked to bring a box lunch; coffee and tea will be served.

Plaques To Identify Four City Churches

FOUR Episcopal churches will be included in the first twenty buildings to receive identifying plaques from the City of New York. The four are: Church of the Ascension, Fifth Avenue at 10th Street; Grace Church, Broadway at 10th Street; St. Paul's Chapel, Broadway and Fulton Street; and St. Thomas Church, 5th Avenue and 53rd Street.

The plaques, paid for and placed on the buildings under a program sponsored by the New York Community Trust, will mark structures famous for their architectural distinction or historic significance.

The buildings to be marked were selected by the Municipal Art Society which in the future will choose other famous New York buildings for public identification.

St. James' Abolishes Pew Rentals

On November 3rd, St. James' Church, Madison Avenue and 71st Street, Manhattan, officially abolished the pew renting system which had been in effect since the parish founding 148 years ago. Worshippers may now be seated wherever they choose on a first come, first served basis.

The pew rental system, originally instituted to insure a stable budget for church expenses, has steadily declined in favor in contemporary America. Felt increasingly to be a contravention of Christian fellowship, the system also has become somewhat impractical in serving a parish community with rapidly enlarging population growth.

On the upper East Side of Manhattan, this growth is attributed largely to the decrease in number of private homes and increase in large apartment houses and subdivision of former private residences to multiple apartments.

Though faced with the possible loss of $25,000 per year assured income, the Rev. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, Rector, with the Churchwardens and Vestry of the parish felt that the goal of greater service to the community must come before this financial consideration, and so the action was taken.

Dr. Kinsolving this fall celebrated his tenth anniversary as Rector of St. James'. Bishop Donegan was the previous Rector.

Offer Grants To Postulants

THE Board of Directors of the DuBose Memorial Church Training School, formerly of Monteagle, Tennessee, has announced that it will use the assets of the institution to set up an endowment to provide scholarships for mature men preparing for the ministry of the Episcopal Church.

Applicants for scholarship grants must meet the following requirements:

1. Be 32 years of age or older.
2. Have been accepted as a postulant.
3. Be recommended by their bishops and three other persons.
4. Have achieved success in their former business or profession.

Application forms may be had by writing the Rev. J. Leon Malone, 206 East Clark Boulevard, Murfreesboro, Tennessee.

DuBose School was organized about 1920 to assist mature men who decided after experience in the business or professional field, to enter the ministry of the Church. It was in operation for approximately twenty years, and more than 150 men were admitted to the school during that time. The school was closed during World War II because of war conditions and the small number of students.

The Board of Directors states that "since the other seminaries of the Church are taking more mature men, and because of the difficulties involved in reopening the school, we decided to sell the property to the Diocese of Tennessee and use the income from the investments as scholarships for qualified mature men."

"This is in keeping with the original purpose of the school," the Board said.

Clericus Started In Dutchess

AN official clericus which will meet five times a year to discuss Diocesan and parochial matters has been formed in the Dutchess Convocation.

The Dean of the Convocation, The Rev. Robert Cunningham, Jr., reports that the first meeting was held on November 8th at his parish, Grace Church, Millbrook, and the second December 13th at Zion Church, Wappingers Falls. There has been no clericus in this Convocation for a number of years.

IS DEATH THE ANSWER?

"Please forgive me," begins a letter from a young girl in Greece, "for writing this letter. It is my long illness and desperate condition that force me to do it. I have been sick since 1953 and God only knows when or whether I shall get out of here. I lost my parents when I was still a little girl. They died of hunger during the Second World War. After the war, I went to work as a maid servant, but my mistress was very cruel to me. Because I was too young and weak to do all she expected from me, she beat me hard and treated me badly, until one day I came down with a high fever. After a few days she took me to a doctor and was told that I had tuberculosis. When we came home she locked me in a room until she could prepare papers for my admission to a sanitarium. Since then she has never come to see me, never sent me a letter.

"I feel so very sad and lonely. I feel as if the whole world has forsaken me. Many times I sink into despair and feel that death would be the best solution for me—but is that right? My dear Christian friends, if there is anything you can do for a lonely, sick and broken-hearted girl, please answer me soon.

Yours respectfully,

CORINA KANTARCLI."

Is that right, that death would be the best solution for Corina? Surely we as Christians cannot give her that answer. Out of love of Christ and love of our neighbor, we ought to open our hearts and hands to this poor girl and let her know that in the mercy of God she is not forsaken. She needs medicine, nourishing food, warm clothing, and a Bible to bring her to the One who is the Friend of the weak and helpless. Whatever you do for Corina and others like her, you will be doing as unto Him. You may help her through the American Mission to Greeks, Inc., Rev. the mandate of becoming "a center of intellectual light and leading in the spirit of Jesus Christ."

Small as the collection is at the moment, it forms a useful and convenient working library, specializing in ecclesiastical art and architecture, liturgics, Church music, and Anglican theology. It has the honor of serving as custodian for the splendid collections owned by the Diocesan Departments of Christian Education and of Christian Social Relations. A special feature is its collection of tracts from all English-speaking parts of the Anglican Communion.

But to become what it must be, the Library still has a lot of growing to do. To this end it invites book lovers—clerical and lay—to remember the Library in their wills . . . and it hopes that not all book lovers will be minded to wait until they die! Meanwhile, such resources as already exist are henceforth available to all persons, whosoever and wheresoever, who have discovered the joy of reading.

All are welcome to come in, browse and borrow. And for those who live at a distance, the Library—with Miss Carolyn S. Joy, M.A., as Librarian—stands ready to serve by mail.

NEW CITIES WITHIN OUR CITY

CATCH phrases have become so much a part of our every day life, we may at times gloss over one of importance. Not that we do not hear it, nor even that we do not at times repeat it, but that we do not recognize the importance of an occasional catch phrase. Often a phrase is bandied around to such an extent that its significance is lost. Those who have been working in the organization of the Diocesan 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign have come more and more to realize the full significance of the phrase New Cities Within Our City. For it is in these great new apartment developments of New York City – truly new cities in themselves – that we find one of the greatest missionary challenges with which our Church has ever been faced.

Relatively slowly through the years, so that many are not aware of the tremendous change, the bulldozers have been at work demolishing great areas of New York City. Squalid and dangerous slums have been torn down to make way for great new skyscraper apartments. Where once there was rubbish, there are now green lawns. In areas where children have always played in the streets, there are now playgrounds. These new developments provide homes for literally thousands of families. In only one respect are these communities different from new communities being built all over the United States.

Our new communities are set down in the midst of a great urban area. However, just as in small cities and in suburbs, the families are new to the neighborhood. Shops are unfamiliar, the children must go to schools that are strange to them, with new friends and teachers and different surroundings. The family next door is one also trying to accustom itself to the neighborhood. In almost every way, the move is similar to one to a new city.

It is a much better city than the family lived in previously. This is a city that gives the family all the essentials and conveniences which we think so important to American life. There is heat, light, water, plumbing, radio, television, proximity to playgrounds, stores and theaters.

As one of the workers so aptly put it, it is a city that contains all the conveniences and essentials of a Christian community except the most essential, a place of worship. In our country the city officials cannot build the churches. Nor would we have them do it, for in America the establishment of churches has always been left to the initiative of private citizens with neither help nor hindrance from Government.

Many years ago our Diocesan officials wisely began to work with the Protestant Council of the City of New York to be sure that there would be opportunity for establishment of churches near these great new cities. Last year the Protestant Council submitted its report. The research revealed the need for at least twenty seven million dollars in new buildings, if the non-Roman churches are to provide a ministry in the areas of the city designated for redevelopment. At the time of this report it was stated that the housing pattern in these areas is now set for the next one hundred years. Either the churches will be built in these areas now or there will probably not be an opportunity for another century.

Eight of these areas are in our own Diocese and we have been told that four million dollars is considered to be the fair share of the Episcopal Church in the over-all venture. We are allowed to select our areas and we know that no other group that has participated in the Protestant Council's survey will attempt the formation of a new congregation in the areas that we select.

The Federal, State and City Governments are doing their part; private financiers, builders, and civic leaders have accepted responsibility. What will the Church do about the New Cities Within Our City?

We believe trained clergy should be at work in the midst of those who take up residence in the new communities. We believe that these men should have adequate financing and proper facilities. It is because of this belief that Bishop Donegan challenged our Diocesan Convention to enter upon a fund raising campaign.

The Convention of 1957 set in motion the establishment of the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign to begin in 1958 and end in 1960, the 175th Anniversary of the Diocese. The funds raised will be used to enlarge and increase work in Manhattan and the Bronx and to provide a revolving fund for continuous increase in our missionary work in the other five Convocations.

Your prayers and your assistance will be needed if we are to have the Church take its place in the New Cities Within Our City. The phrase is to catch your eye, but the appeal is one which must touch your heart.

BISHOP APPOINTS CAMPAIGN CO-CHAIRMEN

Bishop Donegan has announced the appointment of Robert E. Strawbridge, Jr. and Ellis H. Carson as Co-Chairmen of the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign which is being undertaken to provide funds to extend the Episcopal Church's missionary work in New York City and its suburbs. Preparations for the launching of the Campaign have been under the direction of Charles F. Bound, who is Chairman of the Steering Committee.

Mr. Strawbridge, a Vestryman of St. Thomas Church, Manhattan, is in charge of the Special Gifts Committee, which is already in operation. Mr. Strawbridge is a Trustee of the Sloan-Kettering Institute and has been active in promotion of the Institute's work. He is a member of the Board of Managers of the Memorial Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases and a Director of Strawbridge and Clothier, Inc. A graduate of Harvard University, he is a retired partner of Reynolds, Fish and Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange.

He was formerly Chairman of the U.S. Polo Association and a member of the Salvation Army Association and the National Board of the U.S.O. He is a veteran of both World Wars, having served as a Captain in the Field Artillery in World War I and a Commander in the U.S. Naval Reserve in World War II.

Well-known throughout the Diocese as an active churchman, Mr. Carson has served since 1949 on the Vestry of Trinity Church, Manhattan, and was elected Clerk of that body in 1955. His neighborhood parish is the Church of St. James the Less in Scarsdale, where he and his family have been members for nearly twenty years. He is now, for the second time, a Vestryman of St. James the Less, having just rounded out an aggregate of nine years service in this capacity.

Mr. Carson was the first Chairman of the Department of Finance of the Council of the Diocese and occupied this position from its inauguration in 1952 until May 1957. He was then elected to the Committee on Diocesan Finances. He is also a Trustee of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and an elected delegate to General Convention to be held in Miami Beach next October. He is active in the affairs of the Church Club of New York and has served a term as Trustee.

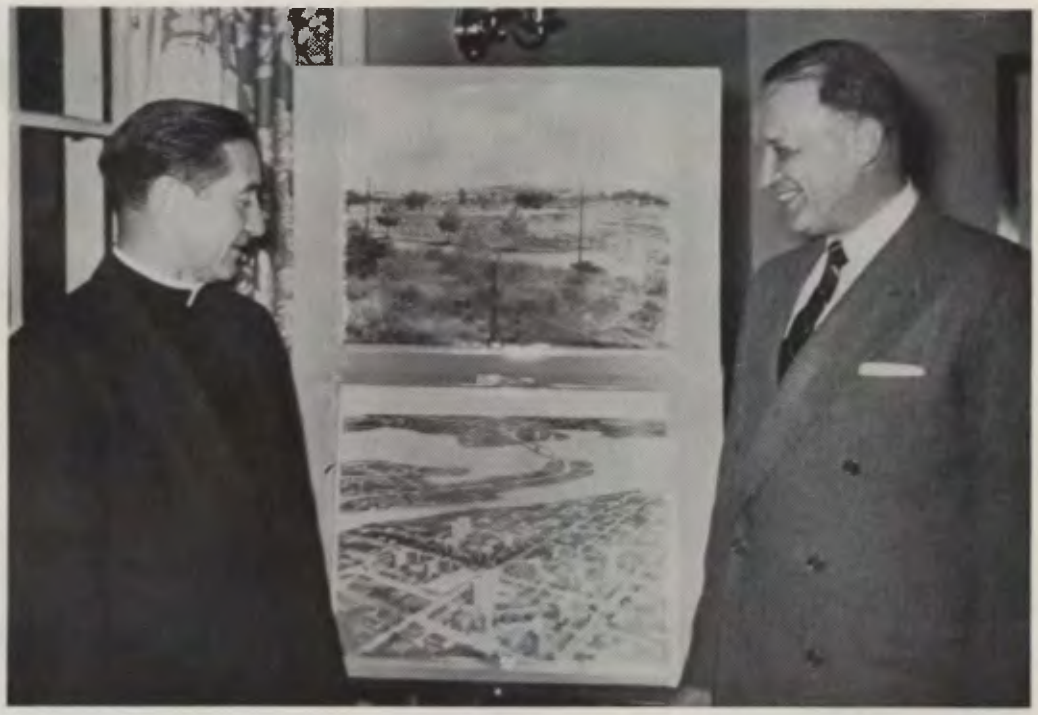
From 1949 to 1956 Mr. Carson was President of the National Surety Corporation of New York. Previously he had been an executive of the Royal-Globe Insurance Group. He has held several important representative appointments in insurance industry associations, and is now practising as a Management Consultant to insurance companies.

Mr. Charles F. Bound

Charles F. Bound, Vice-President of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, at its Fifth Avenue office entered the banking field in 1936 as Executive Assistant with the Security National Bank Savings and Trust Company, St. Louis. Three years later he joined the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

In July, 1941, Mr. Bound went on active duty with the U.S. Navy with the rank of Lieutenant (jg), advancing to the rank of Lieutenant Commander and continuing in service until November, 1945, when he returned to the Guaranty Trust Company and was assigned to the Fifth Avenue Office. He was appointed an Assistant Treasurer in the Banking Department at that office in January, 1947, was promoted to second Vice-President in December, 1953, and became Vice-President in December, 1955.

Mr. Bound's home is in Mt. Kisco, where he is a Vestryman of St. Mark's parish. He is a former member of the Department of Finance of the Diocesan Council and he is at present a member of the Department of Missions.



TALKING IT OVER. The Dean of the Westchester Convocation, The Rev. Osborne Budd, and Mr. Ellis H. Carson, Chairman of the General Canvass of the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign, discuss an area of the Bronx where one of the new cities within our city will be built.

ARDSLEY MISSION BECOMES PARISH

As a result of the 1957 Every Member Canvass, St. Barnabas Church in Ardsley has been able to make application to the Bishop to become a parish. On January first this year, it began its life as a self-supporting congregation. Final legal action making it official will be taken at the Diocesan convention in May 1958.

So ends a concentrated effort of more than three years, during which a tiny congregation grew in strength sufficient to build a new church and prove that it could support itself.

St. Barnabas Church, Ardsley, has been a mission of the Diocese receiving an annual subsidy since 1936. The Diocese also contributed more than $60,000 toward the purchase of the new rectory and the construction of the new church.

In the fall of 1954, St. Barnabas had 67 active communicants and pledged giving amounting to $3,212. The people worshipped in a totally inadequate run-down building in an area where interest in the Episcopal Church was at a low ebb, but churches of other denominations and synagogues were thriving.

By Spring, 1955, the record showed 85 communicants and pledged giving of $3,958. Though the old building was still in use, a building fund campaign was held in 1955 and ground broken late in the fall for a new church.

In January, 1956, there were still only 85 communicants, plus a number of other people not fully identified with the church, and pledged giving amounting to $4,661.45. However, the new church was being built, and the first service was held in the new structure late in July, 1956, with formal dedication in November of the same year.

Just a year later, the November 1957 Canvass resulted in a pledged $18,000 for 1958, excluding all other forms of income which have played a large part at St. Barnabas in the past. The $18,000 just pledged is three times the amount pledged for 1957. The number of communicants has risen to 292, with more than a hundred other interested persons and 132 children are registered in the two Church schools which meet at 9:30 and 11 a.m.

During 1957, St. Barnabas improved the church by installing a permanent floor and carpeting, tiling the basement area, and painting everything not previously painted. The congregation also increased the salaries of the Vicar, the sexton and the organist. More parish activities were added, and at present there is a group for every age and interest, all with trained leadership.

Though the successful 1957 Canvass achieved parish status for St. Barnabas, the congregation regards the goal as a beginning rather than as an end. There is no time for resting on laurels; so much remains to be done. The church's influence in the community is steadily increasing and new problems are already arising. For example, the most popular of the three Sunday services, the 9:30 a.m. Family Eucharist, regularly overflows the seating capacity of 150 chairs. More seating is urgently needed, as well as extra classroom space for the children.

The story of St. Barnabas' recent years of greatest growth under the leadership of the Rev. Donald S. Gausby, their Vicar, would be incomplete without mention of some of the parish laymen who have given devotedly of their time and energy, particularly during the recent Canvass. The Women's Guild took charge of hostessing, and the Canvass team included: Howard Ayers, Initial Gifts Chairman; Nixon de Tarnowsky, Canvass Committee Chairman; Ian Hay, Training Chairman; Ralph Geer, Special Gifts Chairman; Thomas Mack, Auditor; and the three Team Captains, Edwin Yowell, John Utts, and Robert Mason.

ST. SIMON'S FACES "THE BRIDGE"

AFTER 100 years of being a mission, St. Simon's Church, Staten Island, whose congregation has had to fight to hold itself together from its beginning, attained parish status—only to discover as it prepared its victory celebration, that it faced a life and death struggle for its very physical existence.

In the fall of 1954, plans for the proposed Clove Lakes Expressway, an approach route to the proposed Narrows Bridge, were announced and St. Simon's found itself standing directly in the path of the Expressway, with condemnation of its grounds and demolition of its buildings more than probable. "The Friendly Church-in-the Clove", as St. Simon's has been known, stands at the entrance to the only passage through the north shore hills of Staten Island. ("Clove" is the Dutch word for valley or cleft in a ridge of hills.)

St. Simon's accepted the proposed encroachment of progress, and at the parish incorporation meeting early in 1955, courageously voted to have the buildings and grounds condemned. This step taken, the new Vestry faced the problems of acquiring a new location and further, of raising the money to buy it and pay its taxes until a church structure could be erected on the new site.

The search took more than two years. The property had to be of a nature befitting the dignity of the church, but property in Concord was scarce, what was available was expensive, and St. Simon's parishioners were not wealthy.

Several parcels of land were inspected in various localities, but the one agreed to be most suitable was a city-owned block situated about a quarter of a mile south of the present church site near the intersection of Targee Street, Fingerboard and Richmond Roads. Its proximity to the present church site was considered a big asset. Also, there was little commercial development in the immediate area of the lightly-wooded gently-rolling piece of land. The Parish held a special meeting and voted unanimously to acquire this land.

Borough President Albert V. Maniscalco offered his help in speeding the sale of the property at public auction, and in making possible the purchase of the property at essentially its assessed value in June 1957, right in the midst of a land-hungry building boom on Staten Island.

In the spring of 1957, the Vestry, having increasingly realized the importance of successful fund-raising in meeting the problems facing the parish, concluded that a professional fund-raising organization should be engaged to conduct the 1957 Canvass. This decision was made with grave doubts for St. Simon's had never resorted to employing professional fund-raisers before and had heard many rumors concerning canvass pitfalls and costs at the hand of professionals.

Now that the intensive part of the Canvass is over, their decision, they know, was a wise one; the people have pledged $13,600 for 1958—more than twice the actual income for 1956.

However, it is not just financial statistics that are delighting the people of St. Simon's. Rather, it is the unexpected dividends the parish has enjoyed—the by-products of the Canvass.

First of all, the loyalty of the men of the church was really tested. The job was a hard one and required the selfless dedication of front-line fighting men. Result? The spirit of the sixteen canvassers has precipitated the formation of a new men's group for the first time in over twenty-five years!

Their need to "hold the line" doubtless was a factor in creating this unifying spirit, for their task was not always pleasant and they certainly were not greeted with welcoming smiles everywhere they went. They sacrificed considerably to do their jobs. One man had to resist the temptation to tap the person he was to canvass at a house party they were both attending. He had a pledge card in his pocket but remembered the Canvass Director's words: "Call on the person in his own home." The canvasser waited. Another canvasser had to call three times before he obtained the pledge he thought would help the parishioner most. His comment: "We're all learning, and I'm sure I get as much out of an interview as the person I'm canvassing."

Secondly, the women of the church found that their true job during the Canvass was to boost the morale of the men. Officially, they were Canvass Hostesses, presiding at Loyalty Dinner tables and serving hot coffee to the tired canvassers who reported in several times a week late in the evening. Result? For the first time in the history of St. Simon's the women are asking for a united organization to carry on the fellowship that grew out of serving together in the Canvass. It is hoped that a Woman's Auxiliary branch will soon be started.

Leaders of the 1957 Canvass included the three team captains, who are also the Continuing Committee: the Messrs. Gilbert Carmichael, Norton Fremd, W. Homer Frank; Mr. Joseph Wagner, Jr., Chairman of the Loyalty Dinner, and Mr. Louis Goodwin who was the speaker at the Loyalty Dinner. Miss Margaret Rathke was chairman of the Hostess Committee, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Miller, and Mrs. Gilbert Carmichael. The Rev. Arthur F. Widlak is Rector of the parish.

St. Simon's recognizes that this recent experience in lay evangelism was good. Though the question of moving the present church structure at great expense, or of building a whole new plant on the new site, remains unsettled, the parish looks forward to the future with much more hope and confidence as a result of the Canvass and its by-products of newfound fellowship and greater unity. Growing pains, the people realize, are sometimes difficult to accept, but nothing ever stands still. The choice is either to retreat or grow. St. Simon's has chosen to grow.

NEW NEIGHBORS ON FIFTH AVENUE

FIFTH Avenue shoppers and business people frequenting Midtown Manhattan during the past year, have watched with interest the rise of a new office building next to St. Thomas Church between 53rd and 54th Streets on the west side of the Avenue. Though sidewalk superintending has long since become the passer-by's "right" in the city, and with some New Yorkers a lunch-hour vocation, there has been more than usual interest in the building rising next to St. Thomas. Why, they wondered, was the office building being set so far back from the building line? Could it be the designers and owners of the new building cared enough not to wish to crowd out the church and overwhelm it with the new skyscraper? The answer actually is 'yes', and the story of the planning is a heart-warming one for churchmen and anyone who feels that corporate business is a cold, impersonal, uncaring entity.

The building, intended originally to serve as headquarters in New York for Canadian Industry, has from the start been known as Canada House, and will bear on its facade the official seals of Canada and its provinces carved in stone. There is some question at present whether any or many Canadian enterprises will be tenants; however, that question does not alter the history of the planning and building of this edifice, whose architects were Eggers & Higgins of New York.

In considering the exterior design of the building, Eggers & Higgins realized they were facing a problem of a somewhat special nature. St. Thomas Church, which occupied the south half of the block, was acknowledged as one of the masterpieces of church architecture in the United States. Now, on the north half of the block, a commercial building was to rise which must appeal in looks and layout to prospective tenants, and provide enough rentable space to yield an adequate financial return and thereby justify the cost of building. An architecture was required, Eggers & Higgins felt, that would make an effort to join the two buildings in some harmony of expression, so that together they would present a united front to Fifth Avenue.

After trying and discarding a number of schemes, the architects approached the Owners with a solution which appeared to all to suit the requirements. First it was agreed that the building should be of a stone which in time will weather into harmony with the church. Then it was planned that the main facade of Canada House should be set back twenty-five feet from the building line. In this way, if the two buildings are viewed together as a composition from the east side of Fifth Avenue about half a block below 53rd Street, the Church is seen silhouetted against the blank south wall of the set-back in a striking way. The long vertical Gothic lines of St. Thomas has an answering but subdued recall in the vertical lines of its neighbor, particularly in the tower portion which rises from the sidewalk to summit without interruption. The whole result of the plan will not be apparent until the sidewalk bridge is removed early in 1958, and additional decorative features of Canada House are revealed.

Though the plan reduced the rentable area, the Owners were strongly in favor of the architects' proposals and in agreeing to them contributed to an act of civic graciousness that is all too rare. Apparently now and then big business does have a heart — and Episcopalians, New Yorkers especially, should not fail to appreciate this present demonstration of heart, respect, and good neighborliness.

Advent In-Gathering Nets $32,489

THE sum of $32,489 was received by the Woman's Auxiliary United Thank Offering Advent In-Gathering throughout the Diocese and presented by parish representatives at a Special Service of Holy Communion in the Cathedral on Saturday, December 14th. This Advent In-Gathering brings the figure for the Triennium up to $149,-648 — and is an increase of 18½% over the figure at the same time last triennium, $126,261.

The Rt. Rev. A. Ervine Swift, S.T.D., Bishop of the Missionary District of Puerto Rico, preached at the Service, which was followed by a luncheon in the Undercroft of the Synod House.

Speaking informally at the luncheon, Bishop Donegan reminded the women that missionary work is not something remote and far off in strange lands, but is often going on in our own backyard. Calling attention to the specific need for new churches in various rapidly-developing areas of the Diocese, Bishop Donegan gave fresh and urgent meaning to the Diocesan Capital Funds Campaign which will begin in 1958.

Two Clergymen To New Posts

The Rev. Philip C. Jefferson

The Rev. Wendell B. Tamburro

The Rev. Philip Clarke Jefferson is the new assistant minister at Christ Church, Tarrytown.

He was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia in 1928, and attended local schools. He entered the University of King's College on a Foundation Scholarship, and received a B.A. from Dalhousie-King's in 1951, also a B.S.Litt. in 1952 and a B.D. in 1957 both from King's.

During 1950-1952 he was student assistant in the Parish of Emmanuel Church, Spryfield. After being ordained to the priesthood in 1952, he was appointed to the Parish of Ship Harbour, Nova Scotia, where he served until September of this year.

In 1951 he was married to Jean Estelle Martin of Halifax, and they have two sons, Stephen born in 1953, and Paul, born in 1957.

Having received a scholarship from the General Board of Religious Education, he is taking an S.T.M. in religious education at Union Theological Seminary while serving as curate at Christ Church.

The Rev. Wendell B. Tamburro was instituted as new Rector of the Church of the Holy Innocents, Highland Falls, on December 22nd by Bishop Boynton.

Fr. Tamburro was born in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1916 and was educated at the Episcopal Academy, Upper Darby High School and the University of Pennsylvania.

He graduated from the Philadelphia Divinity School in 1941, was ordained to the Diaconate in the same year and to the Priesthood in 1942.

Before coming to this Diocese he had spent his entire Priesthood in the Diocese of Long Island having been Curate and Rector of several parishes there. His most recent post was Rector of Calvary Church, and Priest-in-charge of St. Lydia's Church, both in Brooklyn.

Active in diocesan affairs he served continuously on the Board of Directors of the Youth Consultation Service of the Diocese of Long Island, 1950-1957; was on the Executive Committee of the Episcopal Charities Appeal, 1951-1952; Acting Chaplain of the Sisters of St. Mary, Bayside, 1952; and on the faculty of the McAlpin School, 1957.

He is married to the former Georgia Carolyn Webber of West Groton, Mass., and they have two children, a boy, Paul Rene born in 1956, and a girl, Mary Elizabeth born last year.

"I'LL DO MY BE

EVERYBODY talks about it . . . but who does something about it? Juvenile delinquency . . . that is! The Rev. Drury L. Patchell has literally made it his job to do something.

Every day of the week, the stark homely corridors of the New York City Criminal Courts Building echo with an enthusiastic greeting of endearment. . . ."Hello, Father Pat!" It comes from every one and in every accent.

Appointed directly by the Bishop of New York as Episcopal Chaplain to the Criminal Courts of New York City, Fr. Patchell is pioneering a complete new field of action to prevent the recurrence of lawlessness among boys aged 16 to 19.

The title Chaplain means that he is not attached in a regular pastoral way to any parish or mission; it also implies that he is assigned to an institution (as are hospital, college and prison chaplains).

Fr. Pat ministers to all boys who need and want his help, regardless of race or creed, not primarily in order to make them Church members, or even Episcopalians, but in order ultimately to return boys in trouble with the courts to useful and often very successful lives.

A boy may need his help any time of the day or night, and Fr. Pat is always available and on the go. Fr. Pat feels that his being single helps greatly in his work (he is an Oblate of Mt. Calvary, Order of the Holy Cross) and that he is therefore freer to give completely of himself, his time — and his love to the boys.

Although his is officially a non-parochial ministry, the youthful offenders, as well as many officers of the Courts, regard themselves and each other as Fr. Pat's "parishioners". As a result, Fr. Pat has probably one of the largest, most devoted and enthusiastic "congregations" in the Diocese. Their "pastor" carries on his work in various places: the courtroom, Judges' chambers, the jails and houses of detention, reformatories, hospitals, and the other "outbuildings" associated with law enforcement and social order . . . as well as in his own "rectory", a three-room apartment on the lower East Side, and in the boys' homes . . . wherever a boy's need takes him . . . or wherever that boy is.

The manner in which he goes about his work is very official. He knows the ropes and the laws, and most of all, he loves and understands boys. His friend and admirer, Chief Justice Irving Ben Cooper of the Court of Special Sessions, describes Fr. Pat's work as "Unofficial Aid to the Defendants AND to the Court."

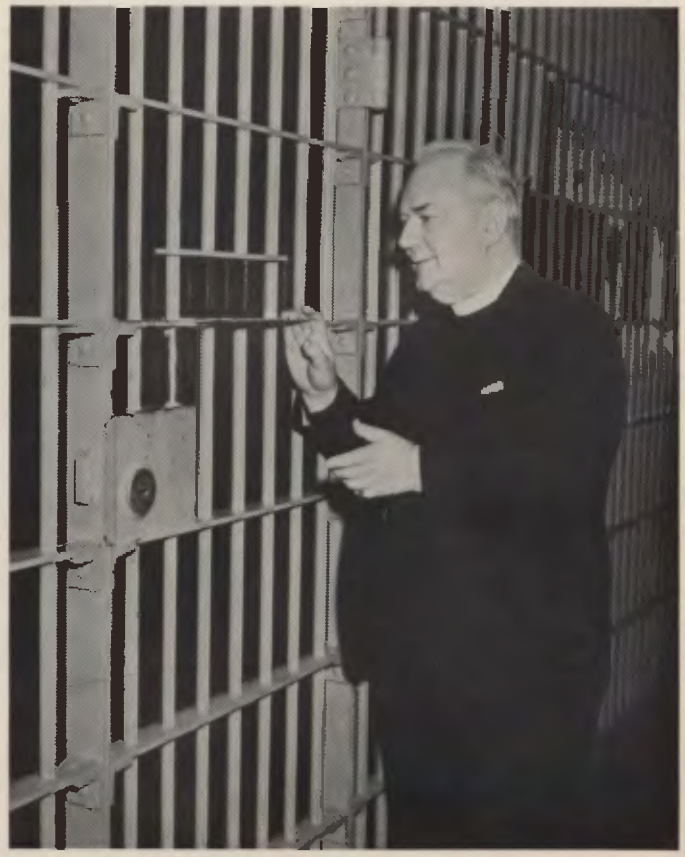
This special work took shape in Fr. Patchell's mind when New York State passed a law in 1944 which gave offenders in the 16 to 19 year age group, the most difficult of all, a genuine opportunity for a second chance. The law established that cases in these ages could be tried as youthful offenders . . . not as criminals. As a youthful offender, environment, circumstances and personal potential could be taken into consideration by the court. Penalties could be lightened. Even more important, hope for complete rehabilitation was added . . . once the Court's ruling on the case is carried out, the record is to be sealed and put away. Unless the boy becomes involved in further trouble, the matter is completely closed at that time. Legally there is no police record against him and full rights of citizenship are restored.

Helping troubled boys qualify for this opportunity and make good became the mission of Fr. Pat, while he was Rector of St. Edward the Martyr, East Harlem (1943-1953).

Why did the boys get into trouble? In less serious offences it was frequently the wrong companions. Sometimes these boys could be completely rehabilitated quickly and quietly without their families or friends even knowing of the humiliation. However, the more serious offences introduced more complex reasons requiring work and understanding with the families. Generally, the boy was unwanted, uncared for, unloved . . . or even homeless. Methods of coping with their problems needed to be worked out. Perhaps the real answer to complete rehabilitation is through the complete faith, interest and guidance of a clergyman, was Fr. Pat's conclusion. On this theory he set about developing specific methods of reaching and helping the boys and their families.

This is what happens. All too frequently, a troubled boy has no friend in the world . . . until he meets Fr. Pat in the detention cell. Often he has heard of Fr. Pat through the grapevine and asks for an interview. This, in itself is an indication of his will to recover himself. With the knowledge that someone sincerely cares for him, self-confidence and hope are re-established in the boy.

Once armed with a boy's confidence and the facts of the matter, Fr. Pat is ready to intercede in the boy's behalf. Perhaps a legal angle can be presented to lessen the severity of the charge and thereby give the boy an earlier opportunity to return to society. Perhaps the charge is not so serious and immediate parole could be possible . . . if the court were convinced that someone would be responsible for redirecting that life.



FR. PAT VISITS BOY BEHIND BARS. "I think we can get you a second chance. But if we do, you will have to do your part, however hard it is, whatever the court decides. But I'll be with you every step of the way, I promise you."

SOR THIS BOY"

As his friend, Judge Cooper states, "It is our responsibility to protect the community and also to give every consideration and chance to youth. But who is going to help them reorganize their lives and get the proper set of values? When Fr. Pat says, 'I'll do my best for the boy,' that question is answered. The court is then able to take that proffer of aid and handle the matter in a manner perhaps not otherwise possible."

Whatever the court verdict . . . hospitalization for narcotic treatment, serving a penalty term or suspended on parole . . . Fr. Pat is ever present in their lives. Their mutual friendship grows with every contact. Rehabilitation is slowly but surely established.

Parole time is the special challenge to which Fr. Pat has devoted his greatest study during the last ten years. The first days, weeks and months out of an institution or just out of trouble are so crucial. Before accepting the Court as his full-time "Parish" four years ago, his Rectory at St. Edward the Martyr provided large enough facilities to experiment with methods of coping with this difficult period.

Could better results be obtained by close, personal contact during this re-establishment period? What were all of the needs which could be filled without removing that all important factor of self-improvement and self-accomplishment?

His Rectory became "home" to as many as ten boys at a time. Basically clothing, a temporary roof, food and an opportunity to hunt a job were needed. What else? The boys responded eagerly and anxiously to learning how to live. Living customs, routines and standards were introduced to them for the first time. Family living in a home environment and just being wanted by the friend who'd never let them down proved the very best medicine. Here was another answer . . . a Youth Hostel system.

The Hostel would be a home for not more than ten boys at a time. The boys would share the work and the problems of the "family" group and remain only until they were able to be on their own. However, the Hostel would serve as an anchorage point and social center as long as it was needed. It is but a dream to Fr. Pat today but a very logical and real hope for the boys.

The law has provided a genuine second chance; a new method of rehabilitation has been pioneered . . . but this is just the beginning. With over 5,000 youthful offenders a year, the work is endless. How successful is it? Judge Cooper answers, "In our efforts to rehabilitate youth and to prevent crime recurrence in these age groups, we need more Fr. Pats. This is religion brought into the open field and put to work there. Justice, too, is love. With such an approach, the good that a man of the Church can do is inestimable."

SECOND CHANCE GRANTED. Fr. Patchell tells the boy, "The Judge has given you a chance to start over with a clean slate. He expects you to make the most of it. So do I."

After the hearing in the Chambers of Chief Justice Irving Ben Cooper of the Court of Special Sessions (at left in picture), Fr. Pat begins his real job. He has promised the Court to guide the boy, to teach him new values, be his friend, help him reorganize his life.

Judge Cooper, in granting the second chance allowed by New York State Law, knows from experience that Fr. Pat will do his best, and Fr. Pat's best means, with the majority of boys, success.

BEHIND DIOCESAN DOORS: The Treasurer's Office

To many people, the names of our Diocesan Departments are as unrevealing as full-head masks worn at a fancy dress ball—and give no hint of the vital, varied, and interesting work carried on year in and year out behind Diocesan doors.

Take the Treasurer's Office for instance, where a small integrated staff of seven pepole, headed by Mr. Theodor Oxholm, the Treasurer, handles a volume of 1.5 million dollars each year. What may sound comparatively simple, is actually a complex operation not at all confined to the keeping of books.

There is of course, the bookkeeping function: the receipt and disbursement of all monies for all the departments of the Council of the Diocese, of the monies from all special campaigns, of monies from parishes of our National Church.

Miss Anne Weber, Executive Secretary and Assistant to the Treasurer.

The Treasurer's Office is also in the real estate business. It buys all land for new mission churches makes contracts for and supervises the building of all new mission churches. In the case of a church's becoming extinct, it has authority to take title to the real estate and dispose of it.

Insurance matters is another area in which the Treasurer's Office functions, handling whatever type of insurance a mission needs—fire, liability, workmen's compensation, and group life insurance, hospitalization, medical catastrophe insurance for all clergy and parishes desiring such policies.

Too, the Treasurer's Office serves variously as financial adviser and business manager. It supervises the maintenance and finances of all Assisted Parishes. It acts as business manager for the new Bishop Donegan Conference Center in Tuxedo Park.

Acting as a Trust Department is another function of the Treasurer's Office, which invests mission funds and any endowment funds existing for the benefit of mission churches.

Obviously much of the brain work (and more often than not, the legwork) of these various functions is the immediate job of the Treasurer himself, who works officially in four ways. Technically his title is Treasurer of Convention, Convention being the legislative body of the Diocese which meets once a year. He is also treasurer ex-officio of both the Council of the Diocese and the Diocesan Missionary and Church Extension Society, (more generally known as the Department of Missions), and financial adviser to the Bishop of New York.

Tending to the financial problems of parishes or missions, frequently takes Mr. Oxholm out of his office to the churches themselves. Furthermore, the real estate end of his job demands that he work closely with especially qualified members of the Department of Missions and local consultants, inspecting and picking suitable Church sites, planning the kind of building to be erected, negotiating where land is to be purchased and contracting for construction, acting as diplomat extraordinary in hundreds of potentially knotty situations.

Mr. Theodor Oxholm
Treasurer

The other members of the staff carry on clearly defined jobs in the operation of the Treasurer's Office.

As the Assistant Treasurer, Mr. D. George Adams is directly responsible for all the accounting for both the Council and the Convention. Formerly Business Manager of St. Thomas Chapel, he has been in the Treasurer's Office for ten years.

Miss Anne Weber, Executive Secretary and Assistant to the Treasurer, is the liaison between the Treasurer and the clergy. She has charge of all payroll records for Diocesan employees, prepares the statistical records for all the annual parochial reports, does all calculations regarding missionary quotas and Diocesan assessments, and supervises the files and correspondence of the Office. Forty years ago next spring, Miss Weber came to work on the Close for Mr. Samuel Thorne, who was then Diocesan Chairman of the "Nation-Wide Campaign", a forerunner of the "Program of the Church", also known as the Every Member Canvass.

Mrs. Dorothy Brown, a member of the Treasurer's staff since 1951, works in a dual capacity: first as Secretary to the Secretary-Registrar of Convention, and secondly in charge of all accounting for four Council Departments.

Mrs. Dorothy Brown and Mr. George W. Rounds.

Mr. George W. Rounds is in charge of the accounting for the Department of Missions. This department's accounting is handled separately because it is a corporate entity. It owns all mission property and has other assets of more than 1 million dollars, with annual budget receipts and disbursements of over $500,000. Mr. Rounds joined the staff in 1955 following his retirement from teaching at Rockville Centre High School, where he was also Chairman of the School's Finance Department.

Following his retirement from 42 years in the banking business, Mr. Joseph F. Selesky joined the Treasurer's staff in 1954. His special responsibility is recording receipt of all monies for the work of the Council of the Diocese and the Diocesan share in the work of the National Council and from the Diocesan Assessments.

Mrs. Vivian A. Peterson.

Mrs. Vivian A. Peterson, serves as Secretary to the Archdeacon and does the correspondence for the office and for the Assistant Treasurer. For seven years Mrs. Peterson was Swedish interpreter for American Overseas Airlines.

It may be a coincidence that the initials of "Treasurer's Office" are the same as those of Theodor Oxholm, but everyone who knows him is aware that the two are virtually synonymous. And this is NOT a coincidence, for it is his planning that has apportioned the work load of the Office so that a small staff can handle it smoothly and efficiently, his wisdom that has secured the right people for his staff, his vision and farsightedness that cures and in many cases prevents parochial financial ills, and his personal dedication to the work of the Church that places him impossibly but truly everywhere in the Diocese at once.

Dr. Simcox To Lead W.A. Retreat

The Rev. Carroll E. Simcox, Ph.D., Assistant Minister, St. Thomas Church, New York City, will conduct the Woman's Auxiliary Diocesan Retreat, February 5-7, 1958, at the House of the Redeemer, New York City.

Dr. Simcox is well-known as the author of the "Living" trilogy on the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments.

The Retreat will begin late Wednesday afternoon and end following breakfast on Friday. For reservations, contact the House of the Redeemer, 7 East 95th Street, New York 28, ATwater 9-0399, or Mrs. Alfred O. Mueser, Diocesan Devotional Life Chairman, KIngsbridge 6-5901.

W. A. Conference To Pose Challenging Questions

What is the Christian's responsibility to society? Why should church people involve themselves in civic affairs? When and how should they participate? What are some of the important current legislative issues about which they should be concerned?

These are a few of the questions which will be discussed under the title "Church People and Their Involvement in Community Relations" at the Woman's Auxiliary Conference, Tuesday, February 4th at Cathedral House.

Three distinguished members of the Diocesan Department of Christian Social Relations, The Rev. Leland B. Henry, Consultant, The Rev. John M. Mulligan, Chairman of the Department, and Mr. Albert E. Brownbridge, new Executive Director, will speak briefly and guide the subsequent open discussion.

Mrs. James A. Pike, Chairman of the W.A. Christian Social Relations Committee, is in charge of the program, which all church women are invited to attend. The Conference will run from 10:30 A.M. to 12:30 P.M. Coffee will be served at noon and those wishing to bring box lunches are welcome to do so.

Book Review:

The Bishop Of New York Book For 1958

Holy Island by James W. Kennedy
Morehouse-Gorham Co.,
New York, 1958

The Bishop of New York's Book for 1958 is an unusual Lenten book—not in subject, but in style and approach. Its purpose is to help the modern Christian pilgrim to refresh his soul in the presence of the Lord—which is the purpose of any truly Lenten book. But there are many ways in which the devotional writer can do this. He can just preach to you in print, which is what most do. Or he can give you a kind of transcript of his own dialogue with God. These are the two commonest types of devotional writing.

In Holy Island, Dr. Kennedy takes us on a tour of the "holy island" of the soul, following an allegorical scheme which is simple and apt. There is a geographical "holy island"—Lindisfarne, which the author knows and loves. We cannot all go to Lindisfarne, to keep our Lent there; but in Dr. Kennedy's company we can visit that blessed place in our imagination as we spend this season in the holy island of our soul in our Lenten communion with God.

It would be easy for a writer employing this theme to make it merely precious and pretty in his handling of it. Dr. Kennedy admirably avoids this pitfall. He does not take us soaring into the Cloud-Cuckoo-Land of the spiritual skylark. His type of devotion is thoroughly and consistently down-to-earth, without being pedestrian.

I want to develop this point and stress it, because I think it is the outstanding merit of this book, and it is something most of us hunger for in our devotional reading. We want to be more deeply rooted and grounded in God's love; we know that we are already rooted and grounded in this world as it is. Devotional writers who assume that we are angels, or saints, or sages, can do us no good. Those who would help us in the Christian way must reach us where we are. And this Dr. Kennedy succeeds in doing throughout. If you say of yourself, "I am a Christian, but not a very good one, and I don't know very much, and certainly I am not an accomplished mystic," this book is for you.

Those of us who know Dr. Kennedy know that he is a very busy man, as active as any "activist" of the perpetual-motion school. But he recognizes that the first work of the Christian is prayer; and the conception of the life of prayer which is implicit in Holy Island so relates prayer to work that they become one in fact.

The contents are conveniently arranged for daily reading, and in the course of his treatment Dr. Kennedy brings all of the major problems of Christian living into consideration. Typical subjects are: "Evidences of Spiritual Growth", "Inner Blindness", "Resentment's Cure", and "See Both Sides." Such problems as resentment, doubt as to whether you are growing spiritually, lop-sidedness in living, are your problems, are they not? They are every Christian's problems. Let me assure you that if you will read Holy Island during this Lent you will find your primary spiritual problems dealt with, and you will receive light on them.

Staff Change Affects "Bulletin"

For the past five years, William J. Moll, has been Director of public relations for the Diocese of New York. Part of his work for the Diocese has been to edit the BULLETIN. On January 1st, 1958, Mr. Moll resigned this post and is now responsible for the public relations of the Cathedral.

Complete responsibility for publication of the Diocesan Bulletin has been assumed by the Department of Promotion and is now the particular charge of Miss Judith Gaylor, Assistant to the Director of the Department of Promotion.

THE BISHOP OF NEW YORK BOOK FOR 1958

HOLY ISLAND

The Rev. James W. Kennedy

Rector of the Church of the Ascension, New York

"HOLY ISLAND is one of the most helpful devotional books that has appeared in recent years. It goes out with my prayers for God's blessing on all who shall read it." — Horace W. B. Donegan, Bishop of New York.

This book is an analogy between an actual existing island and the mental image of an island to which one can make pilgrimages at any time. All who wish may use Lent as a Holy Island and find themselves both cut off and accessible, both in the world and apart from it, practising the rhythm of the spiritual life.

Written for laymen, here is a Lenten meditation for each day in Lent, beginning with Ash Wednesday. Price, $2.75

City Church Celebrates 125th Anniversary

ON Sunday, January 5th, the Church of the Epiphany, York Avenue and 74th Street, Manhattan, celebrated the 125th Anniversary of the founding of the parish. Bishop Donegan preached at the special service attended by over three hundred people, and the Rev. John W. Suter, D.D. who was Rector of the parish when the present church was built in 1938-39, celebrated the Holy Communion.

First organized in 1833 under the auspices of the Episcopal City Mission Society for the purpose of carrying on mission work in lower Manhattan, the Church of the Epiphany has used six different city sites and church buildings in its history, moving each time to meet the new needs of the city's expansion northward on Manhattan Island. It became a parish in 1845.

In a foreword to a history of the parish recently published, Bishop Donegan has written: "While the history has a primary intent for the people of Epiphany Parish, it has significance for the whole Diocese. It portrays the manner in which one parish has wisely dealt with the inevitable vicissitudes of a city church." ("The Church of the Epiphany, 1833-1958" by Charles H. Russell, Morehouse-Gorham, New York.)

AT COFFEE HOUR following service, Bishop Donegan greets Mr. Charles H. Russell, Senior Warden and author of parish history, while The Rev. Joseph H. Titus (behind the Bishop to left), a former curate now Rector of Grace Church, Jamaica, and the Rev. John W. Suter (to right of the Bishop), former Rector, look on. Another former curate, The Rev. Lansing Hicks, now Professor of Old Testament at Berkeley Divinity School, New Haven, is seen in background at right talking with Canon Charles W. MacLean, (not visible), of the Diocese of Long Island. Mrs. Russell stands in back to right of her husband. The present Rector, The Rev. Hugh McCandless is seen in conversation at rear left. ## THE EPIPHANY or the manifestation of Christ to the gentiles

FROM THE COLLECT:

O God, who by the leading of a star didst manifest thy only-begotten Son to the Gentiles; Mercifully grant that we (may) know thee now by faith . . .

This petition has significance today, and the emphasis should be straight as we pray: grant that we who know thee now by faith, because others who came and found thee let it be known, may show forth, where we are, the meaning to us of thy life in Jesus Christ.

A LEARNING LENT

THE period we know as Lent began as a period of learning. Before infant baptism became the general custom, converts to the Christian Religion were baptized and confirmed on Easter Even. These initiation ceremonies were preceded by a long period of preparation, climaxed by six final weeks of intensive discipline — set apart finally as the season of Lent.

That which was obviously necessary for all seeking membership in the church soon became as obviously appropriate as a refresher course, if you will, for those already members. It was only natural, therefore, for the Church to enjoin all the faithful to associate themselves with the catechumens in the Lenten disciplines of Instruction, Prayer and Fasting.

Only after the custom of administering Baptism on Easter Even passed out of use did Lent become emphasized as a penitential season of mourning for sin, and the spirit of its ascetical exercises diffused more and more with recollections of our Lord's trials and sufferings and less with anticipations of His triumphant Resurrection.

God forbid that anyone minimize the continuous necessity of mourning for sin or meditating on the trial our Lord suffered for us men and for our salvation! We are suggesting that during Lent we should do that and something else besides.

What is this something else we ought to do? We ought to revive the ancient custom of associating ourselves with the Lenten disciplines of Instruction, Prayer and Fasting. Space permits us to deal only with the first. The reader is urged at the same time not to neglect the other two. The book, HOLY ISLAND, is an admirable guide for the exercise of the disciplines of Prayer and Fasting.

The Discipline of Instruction

LET us be honest with ourselves. How many of us have systematically studied the articles of our Faith since our Church School days or our Confirmation preparation? And yet, behind everything that our Church officially stands for and does not stand for, behind everything that our Church officially does and does not do, lies the Faith, the Doctrine, in which we are admonished to stand fast.

We were baptized into a Faith which is clear and definitive and, it should be added, exciting! Do we really know what is the Faith?

Let us, along with the other disciplines, associate ourselves anew with the discipline of Instruction and with the catechumens, as it were, "learn the Creed, the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments and all other things which a Christian ought to know and believe to his soul's health."

Begin by studying the Baptismal Service (P.B. 273-282), rubrics and all. Let the Doctrine come through to you afresh.

Then, study carefully and, preferably, memorize the answers in the Offices of Instruction (P.B. 283-295). Here you will find the Doctrine pure and simple.

Then, study carefully the Order of Confirmation (P.B. 296-299), again rubrics and all. See how the Faith into which you were baptized is herein renewed. And reflect seriously on how you were empowered by this Sacrament "to believe and to do all those things" which you undertook as your bounden duty.

But don't stop there. "Take heed to the Doctrine," as St. Paul was wont to say, lying behind the other Sacramental Actions of the Church. Study the form and manner of making, ordaining and consecrating Bishops, Priests and Deacons (P.B. 529-553); the form of Solemnization of Matrimony (P.B. 300-304) and above all, the order for Holy Communion (P.B. 67-85) and the Exhortations following.

Finally see for yourself the truth of the phrase "lex orandi, lex credendi," freely translated "as the Church prays, so that Church believes".

IF you will conscientiously enter into this suggested course on Instruction, you will come across many surprises as you discover what truly is the faith, as contained in the Book of Common Prayer in which the substance of the Faith has been kept entire.

If you will do this, your Lent will not only be a profitable season of mourning for sin, but also a thrilling season of anticipation of Christ's triumphant Resurrection.

BOOTH ACCEPTS CAMPAIGN CHAIRMANSHIP

Mr. Willis H. Booth

BISHOP Donegan has announced the appointment of Willis H. Booth as Chairman of the Sponsors Committee for the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign now under way to provide funds through which the missionary program of the Episcopal Church can be extended in New York City and its suburbs.

The Sponsors Committee has indicated its support of the program outlined by the Bishop and accepted by the 1957 Diocesan Convention to establish mission churches in new housing development areas in New York City, as well as to provide a $1,000,000 revolving fund for loans to new and expanding missions and parishes in the suburban and rural areas of the Diocese.

Mr. Booth has long been active as a vestryman of Trinity Church, Manhattan. He served as Vice-President of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York from 1919 until his retirement in 1941. He is a trustee of the Solomon R. Guggenheim Foundation and the National Industrial Conference Board and is honorary president of the International Chamber of Commerce. The honorary degree of doctor of letters was bestowed on him by Syracuse University, the University of Southern California and Occidental College.

His directorships include: the American Bible Society, National Foreign Trade Council, Inc., National Institute of Social Sciences, Commercial Solvents Corporation, Guaranty Safe Deposit Company, American Manufacturers Mutual Insurance Company, and the International Business Machines Corp.

Mr. Booth has been decorated by the governments of China, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Poland and Sweden.

NEW YORK GREATEST MISSIONARY AREA
-- Bishop Donegan

"NEW YORK is now the most strategic missionary area in the church," said Bishop Donegan in an address at the 71st Annual Dinner of The Church Club of New York on January 28, at the Hotel Plaza.

Four million people in New York, the Bishop stated, have no church affiliation. This figure is comparable to the combined populations of Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, Idaho, Montana and South Dakota.

Changed conditions, the movement from country to city, the shift and mobility of population, the Bishop went on to say, have resulted in the building of new urban communities — new cities within our city — "rising upward, instead of spreading over a large land area." The Bishop stressed that these are in every sense new and large communities, and "require churches just as the new communities did a century ago."

"In the past we built so wisely and abundantly that our churches were there (in Manhattan and the Bronx) when people moved into areas which were at that time sparsely populated.

"But so rapid has been the growth of population in Manhattan that there are new communities of thousands of families where there is presently no witness for the Episcopal Church, and in a number of neighborhoods no witness of any non-Roman church.

"The Episcopal Church must inevitably diminish in influence and numbers, and eventually die, if it does not, or will not, read the signs of the times — and pretends that the world or its neighborhood has not changed."

"Now to meet these pressing needs, our Diocesan Convention has authorized the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign. It is so named for I have set as the target date for the completion of the most urgent of our planned projects, May 1960, when we celebrate the 175th Anniversary of the founding of our Diocese.

"In this missionary endeavor I ask your prayers, your support in word and deed, and when you are approached for your gifts — which will be soon — I bespeak your generous, sacrificial, and cheerful response."

The other honored guest speaker at the Dinner was Sir Pierson Dixon, G.C.M.G., C.B., Permanent Representative of the United Kingdom Delegation to the United Nations.

PLEDGES WAY UP IN WINTER CANVASSES

Church of the Ascension, West Park:

With its Budget Expansion Canvass 91% completed, the Church of the Ascension, West Park, reports spectacular success in its drive. More than $8,707 has been pledged for 1958, representing an increase of 250% over the amount pledged last year for 1957. Sixty-six of the eighty-six families canvassed responded and of these, twenty-six families were new pledges.

The Canvass began with a Loyalty Dinner on January 10. The Hostess Committee Chairman was Mrs. William H. van Benschoten. Mrs. Dina Broglio served as Arrangements Chairman, and the General Canvass Chairman, Mr. Henry M. Cameron, acted as Toastmaster at the Dinner.

Besides Mr. Cameron, the Canvass leaders included William H. van Benschoten as Teams Chairman, and Richard I. van Benschoten as Initial Gifts Chairman.

The Canvassers were the Messrs. W. Edmund Love, James H. Card, Edward J. Cochrane Jr., Leslie E. Mott, John Chamberlin, Edward T. O'Dell, Milton G. Tsitsera, and Edward Hecht. The Rev. Herald C. Swezy is Rector of the Church.

All Angels' Church, Manhattan:

New York City parishes who have had trouble canvassing successfully may take heart in the remarkable results which All Angels' Church, West End Avenue and 81st Street has had in its Winter Budget Canvass. The parish has raised $30,000 — a considerable increase over the $18,000 pledged a year ago for 1957 parish expenses.

Twenty men worked on the Canvass Committee led by the General Chairman, Mr. C. W. Babcock. Mrs. C. W. Babcock served as Hostess Chairman. The Rev. J. M. Mulligan is Rector of the Church.

St. Andrew's Church, New Paltz:

The results of the recent Canvass at St. Andrew's Church, New Paltz, have brought this mission a step closer to parish status. In just one year, the financial stability of the church has increased markedly.

To date, the people have pledged over $7,000 for 1958. In 1957 the pledged income was not quite $2,500, to which the Diocese made an additional missionary grant of $3,000.

The newly-pledged budget means that though St. Andrew's is not yet self-supporting, it has nevertheless made a great advance toward its goal of eventual parish status.

Credit for this achievement goes to the Canvass Committee led by the Messrs. George W. Bond, Chairman, John G. Vett, Initial Pledges Chairman, and Robert van Valkenburgh, Training Chairman. The Committee included the Messrs. Russell J. Rosa, Alfred Johnstone, Albert S. Roe, John Randall, George Vetter, Joseph Crescimbeni, Michael Mostransky, and William Heidgerd.

The Hostess Committee for the Loyalty Dinner, headed by Mrs. Albert Otis, was composed of Mrs. John G. Vett, Mrs. Donald Beattie, Mrs. Carleton Reed, Mrs. George Ronk, Mrs. Warren Belmore, and Mrs. Russell J. Rosa. Mrs. William Heidgerd served as volunteer secretary to the Canvass Director. The Rev. George A. Detor is Vicar of St. Andrew's.

St. Bartholomew's Church, White Plains:

In its "Program of Progress" Parish Building Fund campaign, St. Bartholomew's Church, White Plains, raised over $200,000 on 3-year pledges.

The people also pledged over $50,000 for the 1958 Budget for parish expenses and missionary giving.

The Building Fund drive had as its prime purpose the completion of the church plant. Construction of the parish house, planned as a long term project when begun seven years ago, is now to be completed. The addition to the parish house will be ready for use in the fall.

The church itself was erected in 1926. Although over the years certain important improvements have been made, the church interior has never been really finished. The successful drive makes possible a definite plan to begin work on this project in 1959.

St. Bartholomew's is also eager to retire an existing mortgage.

The General Chairman of the Canvass was William F. Ranscht. Joseph MacFarlane served as Canvass Committee Chairman; James E. Freeman as Special Gifts Chairman; Forbes D. Shaw as Initial Gifts Chairman, and Paul R. Wiggin as Teams Chairman. Mrs. Bruce I. Davenport was Chairman of the Arrangements Committee, assisted by Mrs. Charles Schauer. The Hostess Chairman was Mrs. J. Crawford Brown, and Mrs. Archie E. Prout was in charge of Publications, Mr. Prout served as Canvass Treasurer. The Rev. C. Ronald Garmey is Rector of St. Bartholomew's.

FRENCH INSTALL BISHOP IN LEGION OF HONOR

ON January 16, Bishop Donegan was formally installed in the Legion of Honor of the Republic of France, with the rank of Officier.

The ceremony, conducted by the French Consul General in New York, Mr. Jacques Baeyens, took place in the French Consulate, and was attended by French Consulate officials and friends of the Bishop.

In bestowing the Cross of Legion upon the Bishop, Mr. Baeyens said, in part: "The French people will never forget Bishop Donegan's actions on behalf of France in her dark days of the last war, when he did all he could to help in raising funds for French War Relief and the purchase of ambulances. And we will never forget his actions towards a greater understanding between our two countries."

Irish, a Director of Standard Oil Company, Paris, who was present at ceremony attended by many friends of the Bishop and French Consulate officials.

IT ALL STARTED WITH THE ROOF

ONE thing leads to another—at least it can—particularly when a home owner decides to make just one simple repair on an old house. In fact, one man made a lot of money out of recording the hilarities and nightmares of such an an experience in book form — and so contributed a symbolic mirth-provoking family name to modern American literature and small talk — Blandings.

There must have been plenty of times during the past year when the Vestry of St. Mary's Church, Scarborough-on-Hudson, felt like a Westchester family of Blandings — building a dream church (instead of house). All they were trying to do, initially, was to re-roof their church. They ended up doing a complete and very expensive restoration of the entire building.

How did they get into all this? one might ask. And doubtless they asked themselves the same question — often. The answer is simple, though no less bewildering: one thing led to another.

In the first place, the building might affectionately be called 'old'. St. Mary's was founded in 1839 by the Rev. William Creighton, D.D., who built the grey stone English Gothic building at his own expense in 1849. Located three miles north of Tarrytown on the Albany Post Road, it is acclaimed as one of the most beautiful churches in America.

Dr. Creighton also founded Christ Church, Tarrytown, and Zion Church, Dobbs Ferry, both immortalized by Washington Irving's membership.

Ivy Entwines History — And Trouble

The name of Washington Irving features in St. Mary's history, too. There is ivy still growing from gnarled roots set around the church by the famous American writer. This ivy came originally from Scotland, from Abbot's-ford-on-the-Tweed, home of the English literary figure, Sir Walter Scott. Other ivy comes from the American Cemetery in the Argonne, France.

It was in fact this century-old ivy clinging to the walls of St. Mary's that was largely responsible for much of the destructive deterioration of the walls and windows, making necessary the extensive repairs and ultimately the complete restoration of the building.

New Roof Just a Starter

The extent of the deterioration, however, might have gone longer unnoticed, had not the Vestry voted a year ago to re-roof the church.

This was, the Vestry thought, the only project — but as Senior Warden Pierpont W. Davis points out, "It was only the beginning."

Soon it was discovered that moisture was seeping through the walls where the mortar had deteriorated. The ivy tendrils, so attractive in outside appearance, had penetrated the decayed mortar, subjecting the walls to the ravages of the elements. The offending ivy had to be cut back to the ground. Then, the church, parish house (built in 1897), and cloister were repointed and the building complete waterproofed.

Next Came the Windows

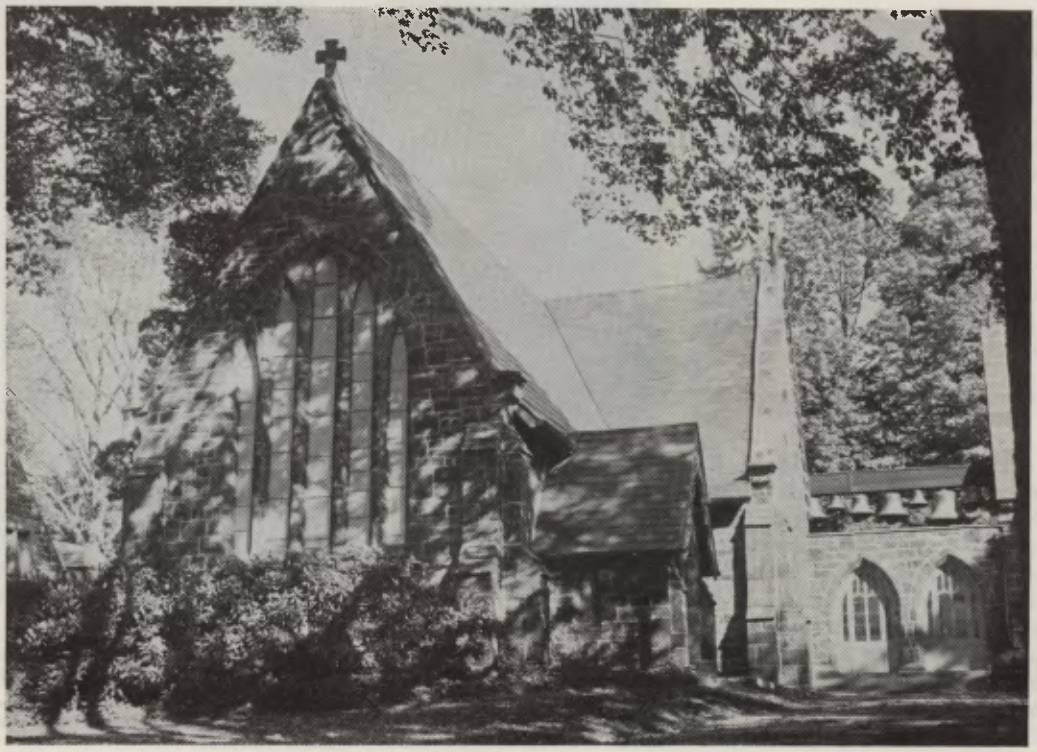
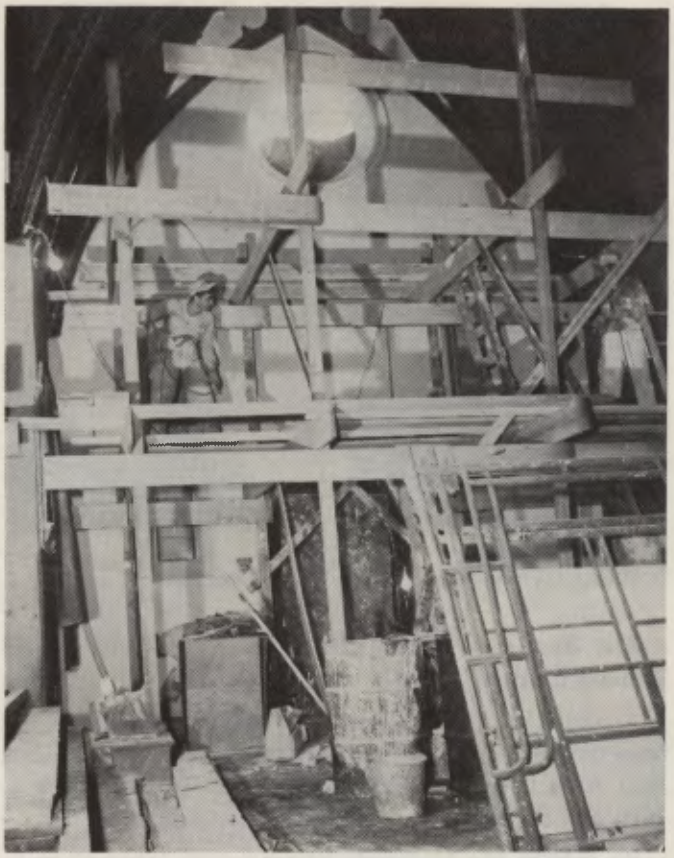
As this work neared completion, attention was drawn to the condition of the priceless stained glass windows made a century ago by John Bolton of Pelham, who founded one of the earliest stained glass studios in this country. It was discovered that these windows now needed re-leading. To do this, the precious glass had to be completely removed, piece by piece.



ST. MARY'S CHURCH, SCARBOROUGH. Carillon of bells suspended over cloister is visible at right.

Considered one of the most beautiful churches in America, St. Mary's is steeped in the history of the locale and of the nation. Many famous names appear in its records. Commodore Matthew C. Perry, who opened Japan to the Western World, was an early member of the parish.

Other early members were Brig. Gen. Lloyd Aspinwall; Maj. Gen. Alexander Webb, who was President of City College; and the Hon. Ambrose Kingsland, Mayor of New York, whose estate occupied Kingsland Point in North Tarrytown.



RESTORATION UNDERWAY. Plasterers are shown on scaffolding above the door to the cloister, completing work in south transept of church.

More Trouble in the Interior

If the vestry hoped that the restoration of the windows would be the last of the unexpected projects, they were wrong. On Sunday, June 16, shortly after the last service, the plaster around the rose window in the north transept came down on the choir stalls which less than an hour before the choir had occupied.

Examination revealed dry rot in the furring and lath. Now, the people found, the entire inside of the church had to be re-lathed — this time with metal — and replastered.

One thing had led to another, and the wearying Vestry, probably secretly wondering if they were somehow jinxed, voted at this point to make the restoration complete. No more makeshift emergency measures — no more surprises.

Restoration in Earnest

John A. Barbour of North Tarrytown, Junior Warden, as Chairman of the Fabrics Committee, supervised the interior, roofing, and repointing work of the restoration. New arched moldings of doors and windows were made by hand by George Duff of Bedford, the original corbels supporting each molding being retained. Restoration of the windows was paid for by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Woyden of Ossining, as a memorial to their parents. A new dossal in St. Mary's blue was given by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barber, in memory of their parents.

Next — the Bells

In 1937, a carillon of ten bells, which were suspended over the cloister in full view, was given by Mason B. Starring, Jr., as a memorial to his father. The automatic player for these bells had not been in operation for six years. The player was replaced as a memorial to her husband by the late Mrs. John L. Curtis.

And Then . . . Bills

Memorial gifts were a tremendous help in meeting the sky-rocketing costs of the restoration, bills which continued to mount and threatened to be endless. The $15,000 originally estimated was quickly devoured and by the time the work was finished, more than $40,000 had been spent.

Existing parish funds, needless to say, could not begin to cover the large bills for the restoration. The vestry debated the pros and cons of holding a special drive and finally decided against it. Instead they chose to incorporate the restoration fund drive in the regular Every Member Canvass program.

In this way, people were approached only once — at Canvass time — but the Canvass pledge cards had two sides, so that Canvassers could handle pledges for both drives simultaneously.

Led by William Barstow of Sleepy Hollow, the Canvass began and the response of the congregation was overwhelming: the parish goal was exceeded by several thousand dollars.

The Work Goes On

As a result of the successful double drive, the restoration work can be continued. Painting and completion of the interior decoration will be done this coming summer, after the plaster has set. Albert L. Kennelly of Scarborough is Chairman of the Decoration Committee.

Time Out for Celebration

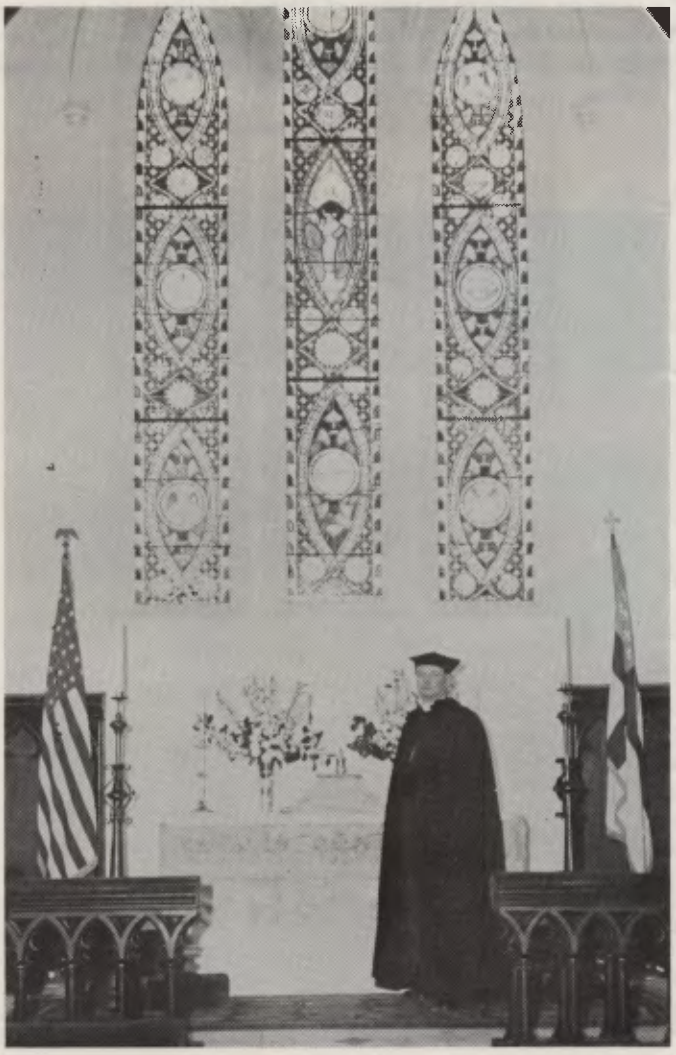
During the six months of repair work, The Rev. Leland B. Henry, Rector, held services in the parish house.

On December 1, 1957, the first service was held in the fully-restored church. It was an historic day for the people of St. Mary's, and to many, the new beauty of the building was breathtaking.

The restoration should protect and preserve the building for another century. Perhaps during the service some of the worshippers thought of that — and perhaps a few took special comfort and pleasure in the knowledge that this restored beauty, to which they had personally contributed, would live after them in their beloved parish church.



FIRST SERVICE IN RESTORED CHURCH. The Rev. Leland B. Henry, Rector of St. Mary's, poses in front of altar in newly-restored church interior. Stained glass made a century ago by John Bolton of Pelham has been re-leaded and replaced piece by piece in windows.

NEW CLERGY IN DIOCESE

The Rev.
G. Clayton Melling

The Rev.
Vincent H. Strohsahl

The Rev. G. Clayton Melling became Rector of St. Thomas Church, Mamaroneck, in January.

A native of Philadelphia, Mr. Melling was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1933, received his B.D. from Union Theological Seminary in New York in 1936, and also studied at General Theological Seminary.

Since 1936, Mr. Melling has served at St. John's Church, Jersey City; the Pro-Cathedral of the Nativity, Bethlehem, Pa.; Christ Church, Towanda, Pa. and St. James Church, Canton, Pa.; and St. Mark's Church, Mauchunk, Pa.

For the past ten years he has been Rector of St. Mark's Church, Johnson City, Diocese of Central New York. In that Diocese, he was Chairman of the Department of Promotion 1949-52, Editor of the Diocesan publication, THE CHURCH MESSENGER, 1949-50, and served as a member of the Council of the Diocese of Central New York from 1950 on.

Mr. Melling is married and has four children.

The Rev. Vincent H. Strohsahl recently became Vicar of Christ Church, Patterson, New York, and of the Church of the Resurrection, Hopewell Junction.

A graduate of Trinity School and Columbia College, he prepared for the ministry at the General Theological Seminary. For five years Fr. Strohsahl was Priest-in-Charge of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Chappaqua.

During the war years, he served as Curate of Grace Church, Newark, New Jersey, and in 1947 went to the Philippines where he was Priest-in-Charge of the Mission of St. Francis of Assisi, Upi, Cotabato Province, Island of Mindanao. In 1956 he returned to the Diocese of Newark where he was Rector of the Church of the Holy Innocents, Hoboken.

Born in Park Ridge, Bergen County, New Jersey, Fr. Strohsahl is 42 years old and a bachelor.

Two Churchyards Close In Annual Ritual

TRINITY Church, lower Manhattan, and one of its Chapels, St. Paul's on Vesey Street, both closed the gates to their churchyards for a few days late in January. No public traffic was allowed to cross the grounds during these periods.

The gate-closing ritual is an annual legalistic maneuver to protect the churches against any move by the City to declare their churchyard paths public thoroughfares.

St. Paul's churchyard was closed from sundown on January 23 to sundown on January 26. The dates were chosen to include January 25, the Conversion of St. Paul. At the mother Church, Trinity, the gates were closed January 24 and 25.

The ritual, comparatively new, began in 1918, and for ten years the gates were closed for a full week. In 1928, this period was reduced to two full days. The closing of gates, however, pertains only to the grounds and not to the church doors, which remain open as usual for services and private worship.

St. Paul's Chapel (built 1764-66) is the oldest religious building in Manhattan; more than that, it is the oldest public building. Old Trinity's first building was erected earlier, in 1696, but it and the second building both burned down.

Vesey Street, which is one of the boundaries of St. Paul's Chapel was named for The Rev. William Vesey, first Rector of Trinity Church.

Saying Thanks With "Blue Boxes"

TWICE each year, thousands of women of the Church join in giving thanks for the everyday blessings of their lives by dropping coins in individual "Blue Boxes" to provide blessings for others. This is the United Thank Offering — a gift above and beyond the regular parish pledging of the giver.

UTO is one of the most vital aspects of the work of the women wherever the Episcopal Church may be. Since 1883, it has been helping send women workers to home and overseas fields. It has also helped to build, equip, and repair hundreds of churches, schools, hospitals and dormitories.

The United Thank Offering for the 1955-58 Triennium will be the first presentation to our newly-elected Presiding Bishop at General Convention in Miami Beach next October. This total Offering will represent six "In-gatherings" of the women (two a year).

Women around the world now share in UTO and an increasing number of parishes in this country are reporting 100% participation.

In charge of the United Thank Offering for our Diocese is Mrs. Harold E. Pim of Riverdale. Working with her as District Chairmen are, by Convocations: Miss Marion T. Wheeler, Bronx; Mrs. David G. Dutton, Dutchess; Mrs. S. H. Lewin Shaw, Hudson-Ramapo; Mrs. Murray Martin, Manhattan day branches, and Mrs. Landes Lewitin, Manhattan evening branches; Mrs. Thomas Rabbage, Richmond; and Mrs. George M. Knebel, Westchester.

The Spring 1958 In-gathering lies just ahead. It will be the last of this three-year cycle of prayer and thanksgiving. How are the "Blue Boxes" doing in your parish?

Book Review:

The Promises of God—
an Exercise in Biblical Thinking
by Carroll E. Simcox
Morehouse-Gorham, New York

"Standing on the promises of God" — So runs a refrain to a gospel hymn. We are fortunate indeed to have these promises so clearly and convincingly outlined by Dr. Simcox. In a time of false promises and disappointed hopes, in an era when prophets of facile reassurance and a crossless Christianity command a wide hearing it is heartening to have the grounds of genuine Christian confidence so honestly, yet winningly stated.

The book is divided into forty pairs of short meditations, making it a convenient sort of work for daily Lenten reading. The subtitle "An Exercise in Biblical Thinking" is well chosen indeed and follows appropriately from the main title — for the word promise occurs a great number of times in the Bible — suggesting the reliable, personal character of God's relationship to men. Each pair of meditations is based on two texts—one from the Old Testament, the other from the new, combined with considerable insight and ingenuity.

The underlying thesis in the meditations is stated by Dr. Simcox in the preface: "The Old Testament is preeminently the Book of man B.C., before Christ comes into man's life. The Old Testament shows us man trying to find his way back to the Father and the home he has deserted. The New Testament shows us God coming all the way down into man's wilderness to find and reclaim him."

Wise and imaginative choice of texts, apt quotations never overused, and the capacity to state sound truths in arresting ways characterize the book. One might cite such contrasting titles as "Every Man for Himself" and "Members one of Another;" "Ten Righteous Men" and "No Righteous Men;" "The God of Limited Jurisdiction and "The God of The Impossible;" and such sound theological statements as "We are important, not for anything that is in us, but because God Loves us. God does not cherish us because He sees great value in us. Rather, His love for us creates our value to Him."

No reviewer is ever completely satisfied. This one wishes that the author had developed the theme of Justification by Faith somewhat further to include a more explicit treatment of the still sinful Christian involved in the awful dilemmas of our time, often forced to choose between evils and thereby compelled to live more by God's mercy than his own virtue. In a book on God's promises, should not the most important of all promises, the promise of the kingdom, have been included, with some discussion of the paradoxical truth of the Christian's both living in it now and watching for its coming in the future?

One feels that the author has frankly faced the implications of Old Testament criticism, but is not so sure about his treatment of the New Testament. Need one imply that Jesus actually said "Before Abraham was, I am" in order to use this truth about Christ as the basis of a meditation?

Despite these minor dissents I can think of few books as admirably suited both for theological and devotional reading by more different kinds of people this Lent.

VocationalConference For College Women

A Conference on Christian Life and Vocation for women of college age will be held at Seabury House, Greenwich, Conn., the weekend of February 28-March 2. The conductor and chaplain of this year's conference will be The Very Rev. Robert F. Capon, Dean of the Theological School, Diocese of Long Island.

The conference, open to women who reside or are students in the four sponsoring Dioceses of the Second Province, and others in the same age group who are interested, will bring together speakers to tell the young women about some of the jobs open to them within the framework of the church, and to make clear the training required to qualify for them.

The conference is sponsored annually by The Committee on College Work of the Second Province and the Woman's Auxiliary in the Dioceses of New York, New Jersey, Newark and Long Island. W. A. members representing their Dioceses on the Conference Committee are: Mrs. James W. Greer, New York; Mrs. Karl Lutge, Long Island; Mrs. Hamilton Pickering, Newark, and Mrs. David Stowe, New Jersey.

Registrations should be sent to Miss Jessie Butler, 1047 Amsterdam Avenue, New York 25, N. Y., with a registration fee of $1.00, not later than February 20.

THE PROMISES OF GOD

By Carroll E. Simcox

Are we living in B.C. or A.D.? It may seem strange to ask now, in the middle of the twentieth century A.D., whether we are actually living A.D., or whether, ignoring the meaning of that Life from which our years are dated, we are still trying vainly to solve by our own strength alone the insoluble problems of life B.C. Dr. Simcox's book of eighty short meditations on parallel passages from the Old and New Testaments puts this question squarely before us and sets us on the way to find the answer for ourselves through a clearer understanding of the Bible. $3.50

1957 MISSIONARY GIVING IN DIOCESE

Richmond Pays Quota In Full

THE churches of the Diocese of New York contributed $424,214 for the work of the National Council of the General Convention in 1957 and $354,000 for the missionary work in the Diocese itself. The total amount credited to 1957 quotas was $780,947.

Five Convocations exceeded 90% of their quotas. The Richmond Convocation was the only one which paid its assigned share in full. Every church on Staten Island either paid or exceeded its quota, resulting in a payment of 102% of the Convocation quota.

The largest single appropriation in the Diocese was made to the Department of Missions — $193,956. This Department is responsible for the maintenance and administration over and above their own resources of all churches which are not self-supporting.

Other appropriations were $49,265 for Christian Education, $16,954 for Christian Social Relations, $36,825 for Promotion, and $5,000 for the Department of Finance.

The amount of $52,000 was divided among the following agencies: The New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, The Seamen's Church Institute, The Episcopal Service to the Aged, and the Youth Consultation Service.

The payments by parish (listed below) include some received too late for distribution in 1957, although they were credited to 1957 parish quotas.

NEW PRESIDENT FOR SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE

ON January 23, Mr. Franklin E. Vilas was elected President of the Seamen's Church Institute at a meeting of the Board of Managers.

He succeeds Mr. Clarence G. Michalis, who after 26 years as President, will now serve as Chairman of the Board of Managers. A trustee of the Seamen's Bank for Savings, Mr. Michalis is a leader in many business and social service organizations. He is also Senior Warden of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue at 90th Street.

The new President, Mr. Vilas, is no stranger to the work with seamen. During the past ten years he has served variously as Chairman of the Special Services and Planning Committees of the Institute's Board of Managers and as Director and Vice-President of the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies. For thirty years he has been an executive of Consolidated Edison Company. Mr. Vilas is a resident of New York and Southport, Connecticut, where he is a vestryman of Trinity Church.

The Seamen's Church Institute has served merchant seamen in the Port of New York since 1834. Its Manhattan shore center for active seafarers, at 25 South Street, is the largest in the world.

TRADITIONS OF OUR CHURCH: Doxologies

Photograph of Cathedral State Trumpets by Morris Pisen

Praise God, from whom all blessings flow;
Praise him, all creatures here below;
Praise him above, ye heavenly host:
Praise Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. Amen.

THIS Doxology is thought of by many churchgoers as The Doxology. It is not. There are many Doxologies, of which this is merely the most popular.

Webster defines a doxology as "one of certain hymns or chants of praise to God." The Hymnal 1940 Companion further defines a doxology as coupling the proclamation of God's praise with an affirmation of his infinity in time.

Doxologies are another example of the Judaistic heritage of Christianity, for doxologies were commonly used in Hebrew worship. The most familiar is "Alleluia" or "Hallelujah" (meaning "Praise ye the Lord"), which was used at the end of certain psalms (called Hallel Psalms), probably as a priestly device to secure popular participation in the services of the Temple and synagogues. In the early Church, it was gradually taken away from the Psalms and given a certain disembodied form, using the vowels only, as the earliest jubilus—A E O U I A.

Early Christian Doxologies appear in Romans 16:27, Ephesians 3:21, Jude 25, and Revelation 5:13. With the rise of the Arian heresy, threatening the very foundation of the Church through its denial of the eternity of the Son, the final form of the Gloria Patri, or lesser Doxology, evolved. Cassian wrote about 400 A.D. that every Psalm or antiphon must be concluded with these lines.

In keeping with this tradition, which thereby set the seal of Christ on the psalms of the earlier Hebrews — which were the hymns used by our Lord in his own worship — we still use this lesser Doxology after the psalms and other canticles, as well as in certain places for its own sake — e.g. the opening versicles of Morning and Evening Prayer.

The most familiar Doxology, "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow", was written by Thomas Ken in 1709 as a conclusion to his Morning and Evening Hymns. It had such merit that during the past century it has been used independently in many Protestant liturgies. In many churches, it has become a fixed part of the liturgy, being sung each Sunday as an opening sentence, or as in our own Anglican Communion, in place of the hymn at the presentation of the Alms.

The Greater Doxology, Gloria in excelsis Deo, an expansion of St. Luke 2:14, came into the Roman Liturgy at the beginning of the sixth century. In the Book of Common Prayer, this is used principally after the Thanksgiving at the close of the Holy Communion, although it is suggested in place of the Lesser Doxology after the psalms at Evening Prayer.

Doxologies have also been used as the termination of prayers since the days of the early Hebrews . . . as in the conclusion of the Lord's Prayer. This tradition has always been maintained in the Eastern Orthodox churches, and was recognized by Archbishop Cranmer in shaping the Thanksgivings of the Book of Common Prayer, of which he was the chief architect and author.

THE MEANING OF PASSIONTIDE

No one can watch Jesus as He approaches Calvary without wanting to be as courageous, forgiving, and faithful as was He.

The last two weeks of Lent are called Passiontide. During these days the crosses in many Episcopal churches are veiled in violet to symbolize the dark valley of suffering through which God's Son walked alone.

What is the meaning of the sufferings of Jesus Christ? They demonstrate to us that God submitted to evil as a human person. Therefore, the darkest hours of our lives can be bravely endured because we know that He who loves us has already walked this burdensome, lonely path and understands.

Passiontide is the assurance of a love that makes our suffering easier. Whenever anyone voluntarily puts himself to pain in order to help us, we find ourselves encouraged and strengthened – we are redeemed from cynicism, disillusionment, disbelief, and bitterness. A willing act of sacrifice will save us, as nothing else will, from sinking to the lowest levels of our worst nature.

We see in Passiontide not only a holy and just man. We see goodness lifted to the pinnacle of sacrificial love. What we see makes it necessary for us to say this was not merely a man! We echo the feelings of the Centurion at the Cross, who was so moved by what he saw, that he exclaimed, "Truly this was the Son of God!"

What a comfort it is to know with certainty that "love which will sacrifice all" does not fail at the summit.

DIOCESE PURCHASES NEW CHURCH SITE

A CAMPAIGN gift has made possible the purchase of 45,000 square feet of land for a new church on Clason Point in the Bronx. In announcing this purchase, Bishop Donegan said, "This is an important first step in our plan to erect a church plant in time to serve the 2,000 families who will shortly take up residence in this area."

The Bishop was speaking of the Castle Hill housing project which is now under construction to provide apartments for approximately 7,000 people. The gift of $45,000 from one family to the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign came on Christmas Eve. It enabled the Diocese to acquire the strategically located property at an advantageous price.

The land occupies a whole block front with 350 feet on Lafayette Avenue and 100 feet on Virgil Place. It is about two city blocks from the nearest buildings of the new project and a block from Castle Hill Avenue which is the major through street, running from Castle Hill Park at the East River west to Bruckner Boulevard and into Parkchester.

Across the street from the site of the future church is a public playground and a short distance away a new public school is already under construction.

The church site is vacant land which has the advantage of economy both from the standpoint of purchase and use. Most of the land in this area is also vacant which makes it very desirable for a large scale housing project. The relocation of families is unnnecessary and the expense of demolishing old buildings is eliminated.

Clason Point was originally the site of an Indian village and takes its name from Isaac Clason who purchased the eastern section of the point from Thomas Cornell in 1793. In the early years of this century it was a popular shore amusement resort.

Nearby five housing projects have already been erected and four more are under construction. As this changing process continues, the population will grow from its present 20,000 to approximately 45,000 when all construction is completed.

The date for the completion of the Castle Hill Houses is 1959. In the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign we must raise the necessary funds to erect the parish buildings so that at least the first of them will be ready for use when the families begin to move in to the surrounding area.

The purchase of this land is an important first step, but it is only one step in the process.

CAMPAIGN BRIEFS: Manhattan, Westchester Convocations Appoint Chairmen, Plan Dinners

Mr. Kennedy

Dr. Kinsolving

Fr. Chambers

Fr. Winterbottom

Mr. Morehouse

MR. William Walker Kennedy has agreed to serve as lay-chairman for the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign in the Manhattan Convocation. The Rev. Arthur Lee Kinsolving and the Rev. Albert A. Chambers have accepted the clergy co-chairmanship.

Mr. Kennedy, clerk of the vestry at St. Thomas Church for 15 years, is a general partner of W. E. Burnet & Co., members of the New York and American Stock Exchanges. He is a member of the executive committee and Board of Managers of the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, and a trustee of St. Luke's Home for Aged Women. Mr. Kennedy is a veteran of the Seventh Regiment.

Dr. Kinsolving is Rector of St. James Church, Madison Avenue at 71st Street; Fr. Chambers is Rector of the Church of the Resurrection, 115 East 74th Street.

Mr. Clifford P. Morehouse and the Rev. Lemuel J. Winterbottom have agreed to serve as co-Chairmen of the Campaign for the Westchester Convocation.

Mr. Morehouse, a Vice President of Morehouse-Gorham Co., is a vestryman of Trinity Church, Manhattan. From 1926 to 1952 he was editor of The Living Church. He has been a lay delegate to every General Convention since 1934, and has represented the Church overseas as a member of the Commission on Ecumenical Relations.

Fr. Winterbottom is Rector of St. John's Church, Getty Square, in Yonkers, and was for a number of years, Dean of the Westchester Convocation.

As we go to press, plans have been completed for the kick-off dinners to be held in Westchester at the Holiday Inn, Scarsdale, on February 25, and in Manhattan, at Stouffer's Restaurant, 100 East 42nd Street, on March 4.

Students Hold Service Of Witness

More than 1200 persons participated in a special "Service of Witness" at St. Thomas Church, New York City, on Sunday, February 9th. The congregation was composed of 700 students from fourteen Episcopal Schools in the Diocese and over 500 parents and friends. Special anthems were sung by pupils of St. Thomas Choir School, New York, St. Mary's School, Peekskill, St. Peter's School, Peekskill, Trinity School, New York, and its sister school, Trinity-Pawling.

The Rev. Dr. Malcolm Strachan, Chaplain of the Groton School, preached at the Service, which was sponsored by the Division of Boarding and Day Schools of the Diocesan Department of Christian Education. Mr. Robert Porter, Headmaster of St. Thomas Choir School, was chairman of the program.

President Of Provincial Woman's Auxiliary To Address Diocesan Meeting

Mrs. Peter Malevsky-Malevitch, President of the Provincial Woman's Auxiliary, will address the Diocesan W.A. meeting to be held March 4, at 10:30 A.M. in the Synod House. She will report on the work of women in four of the missionary districts of the Second Province.

Mrs. Malevsky-Malevitch recently made a trip through these missionary districts — Haiti, the Panama Canal Zone, Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico — as an official representative of the Woman's Auxiliary.

The Diocese of New York is one of ten Dioceses in New York State and New Jersey, which, with the missionary districts of Central America, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, and those names above, comprise the Second Province of the Episcopal Church.

Those who know Mrs. Malevsky-Malevitch personally anticipate a vivid and dynamic report—full of information of great interest—and very lively.

All women of the church are invited to attend the meeting. At noon, sandwiches and coffee will be available at a nominal cost in the Undercroft of the Synod House.

Canon Johnson To Deliver Annual Hadden Lecture

The Annual Hadden Memorial Lecture, sponsored by the New York Altar Guild, Inc., will be delivered this year by The Rev. Howard A. Johnson, D.D., Canon Theologian of the Cathedral Church. As his subject, Canon Johnson has chosen "The Mystery of the Loaves."

The meeting will be held on Thursday, March 6th, at 10:30 A.M. in St. James Church parish house, 865 Madison Avenue, New York City. Everyone is invited.

Ramapo Convocation Holds Youth Rally

The Ramapo Convocation scored a successful "first" on February 2 when more than 75 young people between the ages of 12 and 18, representing the Youth Fellowships of thirteen parishes in Orange and Rockland Counties, met at the Bishop Donegan Episcopal Conference Center in Tuxedo Park, New York.

This was the first time the Ramapo Convocation had attempted a Youth Rally — and leaders were delighted to find an enthusiastic response among the young people. It is said that 150 youngsters expressed the desire to attend, but could not be accommodated. About twenty adults were also present, some of them parents of the delegates.

The group, led in discussion by the Rev. Dr. John Krumm, chaplain of Columbia University, examined the question: "Why I Am An Episcopalian". Dr. Krumm wrote a recent book with this subject and title. (See Review on p. 11.)

The Conference convened at 3 P.M., took time out for box supper at 5:30, and ended at 8.

DEAN PIKE ELECTED BISHOP OF CALIFORNIA

On February 4, the Convention of the Diocese of California elected the Very Rev. James A. Pike, Bishop Coadjutor. Dr. Pike has been Dean of our Cathedral Church since 1952. He will automatically succeed the Rt. Rev. Karl Morgan Block as Diocesan after the latter retires in December, 1958.

Dean Pike, who was born in 1913 and grew up in Los Angeles, left a successful career in law to enter the priesthood. He was ordained in 1944 and served first as Curate of St. John's Church, Washington, D. C.

Since 1946, he has lived and worked entirely in our Diocese, but his ministry has not been limited in any way to the physical boundaries of the Diocese.

An exponent of the use of mass communication media, Dr. Pike has used nearly all of them to extend the reach of the Gospel to people from coast to coast, and not infrequently across international borders. In great demand as a guest preacher and speaker, he is also well-known as the author of books and magazine articles in the field of Federal, judicial, and administrative procedure, as well as in religion.

Three years ago, the ABC Network chose to give Dean Pike a half hour weekly television program. Their faith in his appeal was justified, for the program with its informal conversational format quickly received widespread acceptance and both in 1956 and 1957 won for Dr. Pike and ABC a coveted TV award.

Dr. Pike has always taken a keen interest in education and the academic scene. He holds a number of both earned and honorary doctorates himself. He first came to the Diocese of New York as tutor at the General Theological Seminary, leaving that post to become Rector of Christ Church, Poughkeepsie, and Chaplain to Episcopal students at Vassar College.

In 1949, he returned to New York City as Chaplain of Columbia University and Chairman of the Department of Religion. Three years later he moved four blocks south to the Cathedral Church to become its first Dean in 10 years, but he retained some ties with Columbia and still serves as Adjunct Professor of Religion and Law.

Mrs. Pike has become almost as well-known coast to coast as the Dean because she frequently joins him on his TV program. But Mrs. Pike also has been active in Diocesan and National Church affairs, particularly in the field of Christian Social Relations. In the Diocese, she is a member of the Executive Committee of this Department and was Chairman of the committee which prepared a Statement of Guiding Principles for the Church-Related Health and Welfare Services in the Diocese. She is vice-president for Christian Social Relations of the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary, and on the national level is a member of the Division of Christian Citizenship of the Department of Christian Social Relations. Mrs. Pike is also on the Advisory Board of the Seabury Press and on the Board of Windham House.

The four Pike children have practically grown up on the Close before the eyes of Cathedral and Diocesan staff members, who also have become very fond of the fifth junior member of the Pike family — Peggy, a beagle. Peggy regards the Close as her own special property, and has made it her particular duty to give a warm wagtailed reception to everyone who enters the Close.

Just before he flew to California the third week in February, Dean Pike made a special statement for BULLETIN readers:

"It has been very difficult to contemplate leaving the Cathedral, the Diocese, the Bishop, and my other colleagues here. My family and I will also miss our many dear friends. But an exciting challenge has been presented to me, happily in the State in which I was raised — and now that the decision is made, I am looking forward to the tasks which have been set before me, God willing.

"Anything my brethren and I have accomplished here at the Cathedral has been possible only because of the warm interest and strong support of many, many people in our Diocese.

"To all these I extend my sincerest thanks in the Lord. And now that travel is increasingly simple, I look forward to seeing many of you on the other Coast. In the meanwhile, I will count on support by prayers of all those who have in the six years of my deanery supported the work here by prayer, interest and participation."

INCARNATION CHAPEL BEGINS SECOND CENTURY WITH BURST OF ACTIVITY TO ATTRACT MEMBERS

ANNIVERSARIES are not to be ignored — especially 100th ones. And since much thought, effort, publicity, and planning had gone into the preparation of its 100th anniversary, the Chapel of the Incarnation, 240 East 31st Street, New York City, was not about to be stopped by a heavy snowfall—even eight inches underfoot and below freezing temperatures all around.

There may have been some faint-hearted souls who wondered, on the morning of February 16, whether zeal would be strong enough to overcome the elements. Apparently it was, for 200 people came to the Special Service at which Bishop Donegan officiated, preached, and confirmed four persons.

Also participating in the Service were the Rev. John Bell, Rector of the mother Church of the Incarnation, the Rev. Andre Trevathan, and the Rev. John Richard McDonald, both of the Chapel clergy. This service also marked the Rev. Mr. McDonald's first as a member of the Chapel staff.

Former vicars and curates of the Chapel, as well as administrators of nearby settlement houses, schools, and welfare organizations were invited to join in the procession.

The Chapel of the Incarnation started as a one-room mission on Second Avenue near 28th Street, and has been a spiritual landmark in the area for four generations. The first service was held in 1858. Three years later, the first Chapel was built on the present site between 2nd and 3rd Avenues on 31st Street.

For over 50 years the Chapel and Parish House have served neighborhood needs variously by running medical, dental, and baby clinics, as well as a nutritional lunch program for school children (discontinued after schools began providing the same service).

Curiously, despite the Chapel's community service, there have been people, some long term residents in the neighborhood, who were not even aware that the Chapel existed. People have mistaken the Church plant for a school because the Chapel is so much smaller than its parish house. In fact, one lady, a devout churchwoman, who lived just half a block from the Chapel, had, for 25 years, traveled forty-odd blocks each Sunday to the Church of the Epiphany.

Last summer, a group of concerned Chapel members, among them professional writers, newspaper people, and public relations specialists, organized a Public Relations Committee for the Chapel. Their enthusiasm started a chain reaction and the Parish entered into a series of activities to promote the Chapel as a whole.

For one thing, a new outdoor sign was put up on the East wall of the parish house, bought from the proceeds of a square dance held in November. The sign will identify the Chapel to traffic on Second Avenue. A circus bazaar, held in December, netted enough to buy a new cross to hang out front to further identify the Chapel.

Imaginative exhibits, shown in the Parish Hall monthly, attracted the attention of many people. These exhibits have had various themes. One month, members were asked to exhibit their personal treasures. A small boy brought his most prized possession—a hero-autographed baseball—which was shown just as proudly as a piece of the hull of the original Mayflower belonging to an older member. The current exhibition is of clippings and other memorabilia tying in with the Chapel's 100th Anniversary.

INCARNATION CHAPEL FACADE. Thought by many to be a school because of its deceptive appearance, the Chapel now has a new identifying sign facing Second Avenue at 31st Street. The Chapel is at the extreme right and the Parish House at the left; in between is the Vicarage.

Church Benefits From Well-Planned Rectory

THE clever design of the Rectory of St. John's Church, New City, (Rockland County), has made the most of the land the parish owned.

The church stands on the front half of the lot, facing Main Street. The rest of the land runs back from the church along Second Avenue.

The recent surge of building in the area has brought a flood of young families into the community — and to St. John's. About three years ago, St. John's decided that at last it could support a full-time clergyman, and set about building the Rectory for which it had been saving ten years.

Anticipating still more growth in the size of the congregation in the future, the vestry and architect devised a scheme whereby the Rectory could serve two purposes; a house for the clergy family, and some badly-needed additional classroom space for the church school.

The natural hollow of the land lent itself to the scheme; a ranch-style house was built in the hollow and the front lawn was filled in. The comfortable Rectory, complete with study for the Rector, is all on one floor and faces the street.

At the back of the house, however, the building has two stories. One portion of the basement serves the Rectory as laundry, etc. The rest provides classroom space for the primary grades. A separate entrance to the basement, accessible by path from the church, means the Rectory family will not be disturbed by children trooping through.

Though the classroom portion of the basement is still open space, there will eventually be sliding partitions down the center of the room toward the little Children's Chapel of St. Nicholas. Free-standing blackboards will serve as dividers between classes.

Upper church school classes continue to meet in the church basement. This space is obstructed by the jacks now needed to hold up the groaning church floor. The steady growth of the congregation is taxing church facilities greatly—and if it continues at the present rate, the parish will be forced to seek a more permanent solution to the space problem.

Meanwhile, the forethought of the rectory designers is paying off important dividends.

Priest Accepts Bronx Post

THE Rev. Norval Scott was instituted as Rector of St. Stephen's Church in Woodlawn (Bronx), in January.

A native of Rochester, Fr. Scott received his A.B. degree from the University of Rochester. He was graduated from the Berkeley Divinity School in New Haven in 1947.

Fr. Scott was ordained at Christ Church, Rochester, in December of 1947, and served there as Curate until 1949 when he became Rector of St. James, Watkins Glen, New York. In 1955, Fr. Scott became Curate of the Church of the Transfiguration in New York.

While in the Diocese of Rochester, Fr. Scott was a member of the Department of Missions and a faculty member of Camp Davenport-Phelps. In 1947 he organized the Canterbury Club for College Students at the University of Rochester.

Tivoli Church Has New Rector

THE Rev. Jack H. Thorn became the Rector of St. Paul's and Trinity Parish in Tivoli, New York, in January.

Born in 1930 at Beacon, New York, Mr. Thorn graduated from Hobart College. He studied for the ministry at the Philadelphia Divinity School and he was ordained in December, 1955, by Bishop Donegan.

Mr. Thorn served as Curate of Grace Church, Middletown, New York, from June 1955 until January 1957, when he became Vicar of the Church of our Saviour in Okeechobee, Florida, and the Church of the Holy Nativity in Pahokee, Florida.

While in Middletown, Mr. Thorn was active in Youth and college work (Orange County Community College). He also was a member of the Middletown Chapter of the American Red Cross.

While in Okeechobee, Mr. Thorn was a member of the Lions Club and served as a substitute teacher in the City School System.

Mr. Thorn is married and has a son.

DR. DARLINGTON RETIRES

THE Rev. Dr. Gilbert Darlington recently retired as treasurer of the American Bible Society, a post he has filled since 1920. Dr. Darlington will continue as investment officer.

Ordained an Episcopal clergyman in 1915, Dr. Darlington served as a Navy chaplain during the First World War. In World War II, his efforts contributed greatly to the high level of Scripture production, particularly for the armed forces, refugees, and war-stricken areas.

Throughout his term with the American Bible Society, Dr. Darlington has been instrumental in planning Bible Houses not only in America, but in such distant places as Peiping, Rio de Janeiro, Tokyo, and Buenos Aires.

ECUMENICAL: A WORD—A MOVEMENT—

CHRISTIANS around the world have begun to discover each other. It is true that they have always been conscious of each other, but each lined up on opposite sides in competition with one another.

Since 1910, when the first great world missionary conference was held in Edinburgh, the various fragments of the Church from the largest down to the tiniest scrap have begun to feel their apartness and to search for ways of drawing together again. We have described this 20th Century phenomenon by a phrase "the ecumenical movement." Its major expression is found in the World Council of Churches, which is made up of 175 member Churches ranging from the Orthodox at one extreme to the Quakers on the other. The Protestant Episcopal Church is one of these member churches, and is taking its rightful place in this vast cooperative movement which has begun to live up to its "ecumenical" nature, for it quite literally touches "all of the inhabited earth."

NORTH AMERICAN CONFERENCE on Faith and Order met in September on the Oberlin College Campus in Ohio. Delegates are here shown chatting informally outside the Hall Memorial Auditorium.

Togetherness

The Churches have discovered so many things they can do together that they are able to bear their differences without the strains and tensions which break apart. Today with the Christian Church facing a world which is antagonistic, brutal and blatantly pagan, whatever can strengthen the witness of the Church at any point must be a major concern of endeavor to all the Churches. The World Council of Churches at the international level, and the National Council of Churches of Christ in the United States of America at the national level, furnish the instruments of cooperation for which, as Episcopalians, we are partly responsible.

During the almost half a century of cooperation and conversing together there has been new understanding and appreciation of the Churches for each other. Indeed, no one of these fifty years has passed without some organic union of two or more Church groups some place in the world. This is almost an incidental, or some would say inevitable, result of working together and growing together.

South India

The outstanding example of this organic union is the Church of South India which was inaugurated in 1947, the year India became an independent nation, and is composed of Scottish Presbyterians, English Congregation-

—AN ATTITUDE—AND AN ACTION

alists, Wesleyan Methodists, and Anglicans. Since Anglicans are involved, we are naturally concerned.

At the Anglican Congress in Minneapolis in 1954 the various parts of the Anglican Communion were asked to take notice of the Church of South India, to learn about it, and to state their attitudes toward it. The General Convention of 1955 recommended a study of the C.S.I. for three years by the entire Church. It also sent a Delegation to South India in 1956 to bring back a first hand report on what has happened and is happening over there. The purpose of all this was to formulate whatever actions could be taken, stating our relationship to the Church of South India, possibly at General Convention in 1958.

The Joint Commission on Ecumenical Relations has received the Report of the Delegation and the Report of the Theological Committee, and has formulated its report, including specific resolutions, which will be presented to General Convention this Fall.

You have read in the national Church press a great deal about the Church of South India and the actions to be taken or not taken. You should read the resolutions with care, and the many comments, pro and con, concerning them, remembering that the members of the Theological Committee and the Joint Commission on Ecumenical Relations are a responsible cross section of the Church membership, and they recommend these resolutions after long and careful examination. Some feel that the resolutions do not go far enough; others feel that they go too far. However, what is now before the Church is the unanimous presentation which the Joint Commission feels can and will receive the approval of General Convention.

The Diocese of New York has given careful attention to the subject through many addresses by the members of the Delegation who went to India, an all day clergy conference, and study groups sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary. However, all well informed churchmen should at least read three documents which are available from The Order Unit, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York 10, New York. The first one is the official study guide, "Empty Shoes." The second is the "Report of the Delegation" on its first hand observations of the C. S. I. The third will be the "Report of the Theological Committee," with the resolutions and appendices which will appear as Part I of the triennial report of the Joint Commission on Ecumenical Relations to General Convention.

Ecumenical relations must find its expression at the parish level. This is where you come into the picture.

WORLD COUNCIL OF CHURCHES PRESIDENTS pose on Yale Divinity School campus during annual meeting of W.C.C. Central Committee in August, 1957. Left to right, they are: Bishop Sante Uberto Barbieri, Bishop of The Methodist Church in Argentina, Uruguay, and Bolivia; Bishop Otto Dibelius, Bishop of Berlin and Brandenburg of the Evangelical Church in Germany; Archbishop Michael, Greek Archdiocese of North and South America; Dr. George K. A. Bell, Bishop of Chichester, England; Metropolitan Mar Thoma Juhanon, Mar Thoma Syrian Church, Travancore, India; the Rev. Dr. John Baillie, former principal of New College, Edinburgh, Scotland; and Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, U. S. A.

CHURCH OF HAITI HONORS ST. JAMES PRIEST

THE Rev. William J. Chase, Assistant Minister of St. James Church, Madison Avenue and 71st Street, New York City, recently became an Honorary Canon of the Holy Trinity Cathedral, Port-au-Prince, Haiti. He was so named by the Bishop of Haiti, the Rt. Rev. C. Alfred Voegeli.

The honor came to Mr. Chase last January, while he was vacationing in Haiti — for the second time.

Just a year ago, Mr. Chase, in a sudden change of plan, went to Haiti on vacation, instead of to France. Traveling for a number of days with Bishop Voegeli in the mountains, from mission to mission, gave Mr. Chase a new understanding of the special problems which confront the Church in Haiti. Many of them could be solved by money and gifts, Mr. Chase realized, and upon his return he presented the first "problem" to the people of St. James: mountain missions in Haiti had no communion silver of their own. Chalices were needed. The congregation responded immediately with donations of silver and silver-plated cups. Many of these were trophies awarded for athletic achievements which, with inscriptions and handles removed, made wonderful chalices. Wedding present vases also were donated. As a result of the gifts, all of Haiti's 40 mountain missions now have communion silver.

From this initial plea for gifts and assistance for the Church of Haiti evolved an intense interest in Haiti among the people of St. James. They adopted more projects until the Church in Haiti became a year's parish program for them. The variety of projects and gifts is interesting in itself.

From the first Haitian vacation, Mr. Chase brought back a painting of the Nativity which he had commissioned M. Toussaint Auguste, a native artist, to paint for him. (M. Toussaint Auguste did the murals on the walls of Holy Trinity Cathedral in Port-au-Prince.) The Nativity scene was reproduced as a Christmas card. Profits from its sale in the parish paid for 200 gold-filled wedding rings for Haitian couples who otherwise could not afford rings.

A vestryman of St. James sent a set of ancient maps of Haiti to the library of the new church college, St. Peter's, in Haiti.

Doctors of the parish sent medical samples to the Church's School for Handicapped Children and helped to secure polio vaccine for Haitian children.

The church school of St. James sent its Lenten Missionary offering to Haiti, and from the proceeds of the 1957 Spring Festival, the women of St. James sent an additional money gift of $4,000.

Though the intensive program of assistance may be over at St. James, the people's interest in Haiti has not waned.

In fact, the staff of St. James is constantly receiving phone calls for travel information on Haiti. Many parishioners, their curiosity aroused by the program, have taken their winter vacations in Haiti this year — including St. James' Rector, the Rev. Arthur L. Kinsolving.

Not only are New Yorkers turning up in Haiti, but St. James has become a stopping point for Haitian clergy visiting our city. This continuing good will and international interest is probably the most important product of the program. Certainly it appears to be a lasting one.

CHALICES FOR THE CHURCH OF HAITI. The Rt. Rev. C. Alfred Voegeli (right), Bishop of Haiti, and the Rev. William J. Chase (left), of St. James, examine some of the 42 chalices collected through St. James Church for Haitian mountain missions.

Book Reviews:

Why I Am An Episcopalian
by John McGill Krumm
Thomas Nelson & Sons, New York

This book is one of a series published by Nelson attempting to explain the reasons why different parts of the Christian Church attract different people. This is the first book in the series I have read, and if it is typical, the series can be a very helpful one.

Dr. Krumm's approach is biographical, which adds to its warmth and interest. It is certainly not stuffy and will appeal to a wide range of readers who would fit into the typical Anglican middle of the road position. The book is not extreme in any sense of the word. It is an excellent summary of how Episcopalians act, what they believe, and their place in the larger fellowship of the Church universal. It will appeal to the so-called intellectual, and I am convinced that any agnostic will find real guidance in its pages. Dr. Krumm leaves nothing out of the story of the Episcopal Church, but I am very glad he said, "I am an Episcopalian because in my experience I found there what it means to be a Christian."

Dr. Krumm is Chaplain at Columbia University which provides an excellent setting for the contents of the book. His Ph.D. from Yale in 1948 has not harmed his ability to communicate. I like this book.

My Little Church Around the Corner
by Dr. J. H. Randolph Ray
Simon and Schuster, New York 1957

Randolph Ray was almost a legendary figure when I first heard of him many years ago in Dallas, Texas. He was always the Dean who had just gone to "the Little Church Around the Corner" and the reply was always punctuated with a sigh. I had even heard of him earlier while I was at Texas A. and M. but the Dean Ray of those days had a very limited appeal and very few knew of him outside the Diocese of Dallas.

This book is the story of Dr. Ray's life which, as he says, is inseparable from the parish he has served for one-third of a century. If you were married in the Little Church Around the Corner, or if you are all agog when you read about famous people, or if you have a sense of romantic quaintness in your soul, you will probably enjoy reading this star-studded biography of a man and his first love, his parish. The book is largely anecdotal and covers a wide span of time during which the Church of the Transfiguration became a household word not only among theatrical people but the love-lorn of the world as well. Dr. Ray's record stands as the "marrying-est" parson in the world.

Apparently the book was ghost written by Villa Stiles, who must have sat for hours listening to Dr. Ray reminisce.

Those who have had any contact with the famous Little Church and its rector will not mind paying $5.00 and reading 354 pages. Dr. Ray will soon retire and this book will make a nice memento of his rectorship. In case you are looking for some particular famous person, there is a handy index which will save you reading the entire book. In line with the trend of similar books today, there is an "Illustration Section" which I enjoyed most of all.

Profile Of A Varied Career

THE Rev. William G. Love, who is now serving on the staff of the Chapel of the Intercession, 155th Street and Broadway, moved to his new post in November from another Trinity parish Chapel, St. Augustine's on the lower East side.

At Intercession Chapel, Fr. Love is working especially with a group of young people of college age called the St. Stephen's Fellowship. This group has taken as its task that of assisting the Vicar, The Rev. Robert R. Spears, Jr., in any way he needs and generally helping with the life of the Chapel as a "family".

This may seem a far cry from the ministry at St. Augustine's, where work among underprivileged families is the usual, and efforts to prevent delinquency have become a major responsibility.

But Fr. Love's move uptown is no more of a jump than he made some years ago in giving up his practice as a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine to enter the priesthood.

Fr. Love, a Yonkers boy, was graduated in 1933 from the University of Pennsylvania and entered practice as a Veterinarian. Five years later he returned to the University to teach in the Veterinary Department and carry on a research program at the same time. Later, for two years, he did research at the Animal Disease Station in Beltsville, Md., for the United States Department of Agriculture. During World War II, he served in

Profile of Father Love

the Veterinary Corps of the Army for nearly 4½ years. Twice, he got as far as ports of embarkation, but he never got overseas.

After his discharge, he entered the General Theological Seminary—and a new career, which was destined in a few short years to provide him with more different types of ministry than many clergymen experience in a lifetime.

Following his ordination, Fr. Love was sent to the Missionary District of the Panama Canal Zone for a three year tour of duty, However, he became ill from tropical diseases and had to come home after only one year.

Transferred to the Diocese of Albany, he became priest-in-charge of St. Thomas' Church, Tupper Lake. He was also Chaplain of both the U.S. Hospital at Tupper Lake and the Trudeau Sanatorium at Saranac Lake.

In 1953, Fr. Love was appointed to the staff of St. Augustine's Chapel, Trinity parish. He became priest-in-charge in 1955 and continued there until he moved uptown to begin another kind of work at the Chapel of the Intercession.

More About Our Cover Picture

IN Art, Jesus' Entry into Jerusalem is regarded as His first stage to Calvary, and when shown at all in the series of the Passion, it is always the first picture.

The Evangelists in reporting the Entry agree that Our Lord was seated on an ass, and that he was accompanied by a multitude crying "Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest!"

There is, however, some ambiguity among the Evangelists regarding the animal. St. Matthew relates that our Lord sent the disciples to fetch the ass and the colt (her foal presumably) tied with her. St. Mark and St. Luke refer only to the colt (hardly big enough to support a man) — and St. John to a young ass.

This ambiguity appears to have presented a problem to artists who sought to paint the scene. Tending to take the details of the Gospel story quite literally, they then had to choose which version they preferred.

Fra Angelico chose Matthew, and the tiny foal is quite visible through the legs of the ass carrying Jesus.

Fra Angelico (1387-1455) was born in Tuscany. In 1407 he entered the Dominican convent in Fiesole where he did some of his best work. Lovely color and gentleness of spirt mark his 200-300 extant works, including frescoes in the convent of St. Mark's in Florence, and scenes from the lives of Sts. Stephen and Lawrence in the Vatican.

Incarnation Chapel

Besides hosting every Sunday at Coffee Hours, the Committee has also printed and distributed special flyers, small enough to slip neatly into mail box slots, announcing services at the Chapel. They also check apartment houses periodically for new names and write personal invitations to attend Chapel services to new residents.

Through the efforts of the Public Relations Committee, the Chapel has received wide read publicity in such media as The New York Times and The Living Church.

With this Committee's efforts combined with a growing neighborhood interest in the Chapel and the increasing numbers of new people which new housing will bring near the church, the Chapel of the Incarnation can look forward to a bright and prosperous second century.

SEAMEN CONFIRMED IN HOSPITAL

Three hospitalized seamen, one of them in a wheelchair, were confirmed recently by Bishop Boynton at the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital, Stapleton, Staten Island.

Being confirmed in this picture is Robert Thomas of Coatsville, Pa., who came to the altar rail of the hospital's interdenominational chapel in a wheelchair for the evening service on Sunday, February 9th. Confirmed with him were Henry Denton of Manhattan and John Terry from the Bronx. A fourth seaman, Harry Mape, was received into the Church.

The sailors were presented by the Rev. Richard J. Bauer, resident Episcopal chaplain supplied at the hospital by the Seamen's Church Institute of New York.

Almighty God, who seest that we have no power of ourselves to help ourselves; Keep us both outwardly . . . and inwardly . . .

(From the Collect for the Second Sunday in Lent)

We learn the truth of our impotence slowly and after much experiment. But when we get to the point where we can pray this prayer, we are well on our way to dependence upon God for the wherewithal to meet our needs, and the faith that makes us strong through partnership with Him in all things. Once we admit our limitations and throw ourselves upon the unlimited mercies of God, we shall from that moment be free from the domination of self and earth.

THE CROSS

On the cover is the highest symbol of our faith, the Cross.

The sign of the Cross is traced on our foreheads at baptism. The Cross surmounts our altars, it rises from the steeples of our churches, it is carried in procession before our choirs.

It is a symbol of hope, the sign of the triumphant Christ who endured suffering and shame in order that He might open the gates of heaven to all believers.

There are those to whom the Cross is a cruel and forbidding symbol—they look upon it with aversion. When the Cross was set up on Calvary, it was despised as an instrument of physical torture. It was a symbol of defeat, desolation and mental anguish. The Cross is now an emblem of the victory of love and righteousness.

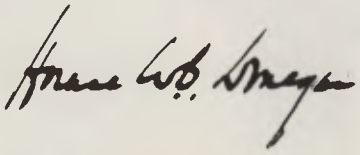
Sin and evil did not have the last word. On the first Easter Day Jesus Christ rose victorious, sin and death were vanquished.

The Cross of Jesus tells of a divine love coming down into human history to share the burden of human pain and to wrestle with human sin that humanity may be redeemed and men lifted to fellowship with God.

Victory is born out of struggle. The struggle may be fierce and hard, but we are not alone, Christ is with us.

Easter is more than the promise of final victory. It is the assurance of the empowering presence of the Risen Lord Who gives us strength to triumph over sin and death.

Thanks be to God which giveth us the victory through Our Lord Jesus Christ.



ON THE COVER: The Cross of New York, made in 1950 by Louis Glasier, was given in memory of Bishop Manning by the Laymen's Club of the Cathedral Church. The 8½ foot Cross, made of silver and gold, is set with 192 diamonds and 96 other precious stones. It is reserved for use at services presided over by the Bishop of the Diocese.

SPRING CONVOCATION MEETING THEME TO BE "THE PARISH IS THE CHURCH IN THE COMMUNITY"

THE Deans of the seven Convocations have selected as the theme for the Spring meetings "THE PARISH IS THE CHURCH IN THE COMMUNITY." This decision is based on the findings of a conference called by the Bishop and attended by all seven Deans of Convocation.

The Deans believe that the meetings planned will give realistic support to a statement made by the Bishop to them: "In a very real sense a Diocese is its Bishop and its Parishes, and in the task that only the Parish can undertake the Bishop is aided by the Priests, the Convocations and the Diocesan departments as 'Extensions of the Episcopate'. The Parish is the unit of the Church as bricks are the unit of the brick wall.

"The Church is people rather than building, or institution, or body of rules and regulations; and insofar as these people are gathered together in parishes the parish is the front line of attack.

"Those who work, as extensions of the Episcopate, both clergy and Convocation and Diocesan leaders, should see themselves as responsible for bringing such help and leadership to the parish as will enable it to carry out the task that only the parish can do. Those who are entrusted with responsibility in the name of the Bishop, at no matter what level they work and plan, must see the parish as the central factor in the Church's work."

In the light of the Bishop's statement it is planned that the Spring Convocation meetings will take the form of panel discussions at which executives of four of the Diocesan departments, Missions, Promotion, Christian Education and Social Relations, will explain how the services available from these departments support the basic premise.

The Venerable George F. Brätt will represent the Department of Missions; the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, the Department of Christian Education; Eric E. Ley, the Department of Promotion; and Albert E. Brownbridge, the Department of Christian Social Relations.

Following the presentation by Department representatives they will be joined in discussion by four members of the Convocation. This will be followed by a general discussion from the floor. It is hoped that this procedure will underline the important place of the parish and make for a better understanding of the tools and aids available in the Diocese through the four departments.

Subsequent to the panel discussion in each Convocation, the Dean will conduct the annual meeting. This will include reports by officers and committees and the election of officers for the coming year.

HEMSTITCHING A WINDMILL OR A DICTAPHONE

GONE are the days when anyone can possibly think of the Woman's Auxiliary Supply Department as merely a sewing circle of devout churchwomen . . . unless someone thinks that busy hands and neat stitches can make a windmill—or a dictaphone.

Last year, our Diocesan Supply Department participated in a Provincial Woman's Auxiliary project to buy a windmill for St. Just's School in Puerto Rico. The windmill was needed to help make electricity. Similarly, the busy missionary Bishop of Haiti was supplied, partly through our help, with a sorely needed dictaphone.

It is heartening that despite the heavily-urban and fast-paced nature of our Diocese, the women of the Diocese of New York do more supply work—all on a volunteer basis—than practically any other Diocese in the country. It is also fitting, of course, since our Diocese is the biggest in the Church.

In 1957, we helped an aggregate of 30 missions outside the Diocese and 18 within its boundaries. The geographic range of the foreign missions served was Liberia to the Philippines—and the variety of things supplied was almost as wide. In clothes, for instance—from size 56 garments down to layettes for tiny babies, all kinds of clothes for all kinds of people, were sent. Bedding went to hospitals and schools; supplies to clinics; first aid kits to remote mission areas.

The Diocesan W. A. Supply program is a large one, obviously, and it is carried out in various ways. Wholesale buying is the key to the big supply problem, and to meet it, there is a Ready Made Buyer, Mrs. Edward B. McGeorge, Jr. She shops for raincoats, rubbers, blue jeans, T-shirts, socks, underwear, jackets, sweaters, blankets, sheets, bedspreads, towels, sport shirts—just about anything you can think of—all in quantity. She pays for the articles from the Ready Made Buying Fund, to which the women of the parishes contribute voluntarily every February. She also has access to the Dispensary Fund for which money is contributed in April and which she uses for articles destined for hospital or clinic use.

Used clothes and household items which are in good condition or can be repaired are also collected, sorted, repaired, and shipped to fill mission needs.

Contributions for a third Special Gift Fund are made by the women of the parishes in November. Through this fund, retired missionaries and lay-workers are given extra help, and missions situated near enough to buying centers are given money to purchase what they need locally. In this way, the high cost of shipping goods to them is saved, and local industries are supported.

One reason the Special Gift Fund solicits contributions in November is to provide money for the National Church to use for Christmas presents to our missionaries and lay workers in the field.

Lest someone think that contributions have become a substitute for individual labor, we should say right here that the money just makes the purchases possible. Goods must still be sorted, packed, labeled, and shipped. Our women devote many hours of their time to dozens of little jobs like this, all of which are vital to the execution of the large program of Supply.

In the Diocesan House on the Cathedral Close, where the Woman's Auxiliary has its diocesan headquarters, there is a Cutting Room. Our Cutting Room is unique in that all its workers are volunteers—and it is one of the few Diocesan Cutting Rooms in operation. The Room is airy and well-lighted, furnished with large, long tables—and an electric cutting machine which requires careful, skillful operating to avoid sawed-off fingers and ruined materials. On an ordinary Tuesday and Thursday, the days the Cutting Room is open for business, one sees seven or eight women engrossed in various jobs. One woman is operating the cutting machine, another meticulously fitting patterns to bolts of material with a heavy-leaded pencil. Cutting in bulk with the machine means a sudden quantity of pajama backs, for instance, which must be identified before being separated and matched up with other pieces of the garment so that all parts of the pattern are sent together complete for sewing in the parishes. One woman sits quietly concentrating on marking each piece accurately; another assembles the pieces of the garment, checking against the original pattern to be sure no piece is missing. There is little conversation; everyone is too busy—but you can feel the sense of fellowship which derives from working together for a comon purpose.

Only preparation for sewing is done in the Cutting Room; the sewing itself is done by the women of the parishes . . . and by using this assembly line procedure from diocesan Cutting Room to the parishes for sewing and shipping, an extraordinary number of garments are completed and shipped . . . dresses, slips, pajamas, nightgowns, aprons, hospital gowns, towels and diapers (150 dozen diapers last year—a lot of babies!) . . . whatever the needy missions have specifically ordered.

Women who like to knit are kept busy filling orders for all kinds of baby clothes, sweaters, socks, mittens, caps, and gloves.

Because $30,000-$40,000 goes through the Supply Department each year, the Supply Committee has its own Treasurer, Mrs. John Heuss. Mrs. John N. Hazard is chairman of the Committee. The vice-chairman is Mrs. George Dwight who is in charge of the Cutting Room on Tuesdays. Mrs. Charles H. Gummey supervises the Room on Thursdays. Miss Merle Munn is in charge of wool, and Mrs. Marge Woodman of Layettes. Mrs. Arthur J. Gary is Secretary of the Committee. A close liaison with the parishes is maintained through District Secretaries in the seven Convocations.

There is a way for every woman in the church to participate in the varied, vital, and extensive program of the Supply Department. Though many women are already active in the work, there is always room for another helper, need for another pair of hands.

Last year through the Supply work alone, the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of New York gave over $29,532. in aid to the missions of the Episcopal Church. The spirit of the women who regularly devote time to Supply work is reflected in Mrs. Hazard's words: "It is a wonderful way to show those who are far off that we are all one Family in God".

W.A. 1958-9 Nominees

THE nominating committee of the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary presents the following slate for the coming election on May 17th: Vice-President-at-large, Mrs. Rex Mulligan; Secretary, Mrs. Ralph F. Scott; Treasurer, Mrs. Jamie H. Kerr; Assistant Treasurer, Mrs. John L. Reynolds; Treasurer U. T. O., Mrs. William E. Leidt; Devotional Life, Mrs. Alfred O. Mueser; Christian Social Relations, Mrs. Charles I. Morton; Supply, Mrs. John N. Hazard; Vice President, the Bronx, Miss Alice Wheeler; Vice President, Dutchess, Mrs. Matthew Netter; Vice President, Manhattan, Mrs. Cecil Morgan; Chairman of the Nominating Committee for 1959, Mrs. Mrs. Arthur J. Simpson.

THE MINISTRY OF HEALING

By The Rev. John Ellis Large, D.D.
Rector, Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the last few years, Episcopalians have become increasingly aware of the existence of "a movement or a practice or a whatever" called Spiritual Healing. Some, of course, have known and participated in this ministry for years—but only recently it seems has the subject begun to pop up all over the place—in newspapers, radio, television, magazines, and books.

However, the mass recognition of the existence of spiritual healing has not necessarily carried with it any real understanding of just what it is. This Ministry is being carried on in a number of our churches and by our clergy. It has its proponents and opponents. But as long as any of our churches and clergy are involved we should want to know just what this Ministry is. A clear statement about "The Ministry of Healing"—what it is and seeks to do—follows, written for the BULLETIN by a leading proponent of our Diocese.

PROBABLY no subject in the entire life of the Church is surrounded and encumbered by more misconceptions than that of spiritual healing. To the regular practitioner, the title seems self-evident. But millions of interested people are frankly puzzled by it.

Some think it's an illegitimate offspring of Christian Science. Some think of it as a black magic hangover from the Middle Ages. Others look upon it as a timid stepchild of psychiatry. And still others conceive of it as a back-door way of bargaining with God, whereby (in exchange for a few muttered prayers) your ulcer or arthritis or migraine headache is banished forever.

Spiritual healing is none of these things. As its name implies, it is simply an ancient, Biblical, and classic way of re-opening, re-aligning, or otherwise re-activating the thruway of the soul between man and his Creator. If an individual is at sixes-and-sevens with his brethren and/or his God, it stands to reason that both his emotions and his body are likely to be thrown out of kilter also.

Therefore, just as it is the task of the physician to minister to the malfunctioning flesh; and just as it is equally the task of the psychiatrist to redirect the derailed emotional life; so it is the job of the minister of healing to bring God's grace and peace to the starved, shattered, or inward-turning soul.

In short, when physical well-being results from the Church's ministry of healing, it's much like parentheses thrown into the middle of a paragraph. (That is, it's only a happy by-product of a deeper healing!)

That's the way it was in the ministry of Jesus himself. In more cases than not, outward health came back to a sick man only after an earlier event in the divine encounter. Before the flesh was made whole again, our Lord had said something like, "Thy sins be forgiven thee." Obviously, something wrong inside the man had been, in part at least, responsible for something wrong outside the man.

LAYING-ON-OF-HANDS is part of Healing Service which is frequently preceded by a Celebration of the Holy Communion. Episcopal priests shown are the Rev. John Ellis Large, Rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue and 90th Street, New York City, and the Rev. Clinton Kew, of the staff of the American Foundation of Religion and Psychiatry. Several other churches carry on an active ministry of healing with regularly scheduled services.

In this connection, it must be noted that Christ did not automatically heal everybody. We don't say that He couldn't. We simply note that He didn't. There are worse things to be endured than an inadequate body. And there are few heresies worse than the one which makes the temple of the spirit more important than the spirit itself.

Jesus Christ was not the Chief Inspector of the Department of Sanitation. Nor is the City of God named Miltown. Our Lord came primarily, not to make us well men, but rather to make us better men. And being well is not the same as being better.

Furthermore, since health means wholeness—and since Christ came to redeem the whole man—it follows that the better man is more likely to be the whole man, and that the whole man is, in the most profound sense of the word, ultimately the well man.

Let it here also be noted that pain need never be meaningless to a Christian. With the sin of pride upon us, it's a well-known fact that most of us learn the hard way. More men have risen to nobility from a bed of pain, than from a bed of roses. The Christian who means business is the one who says, "Lord, I'd like to serve You from a throne. But if need be, I'm willing to serve You from a cross. In either case, I'm determined to serve You. And in that event, the state of my flesh is not of paramount importance." . . . If you are seeking health, it's well to note that the true north of the compass points in that direction.

A great deal of our suffering, however, is admittedly needless. Which is where the ministry of healing comes in. This is a sacramental universe. Pure spirit is unknown and unknowable to us, except as it is mediated through the physical. That is one of the implications of the Incarnation. We don't know the meaning of love, for example, until the day we first see love in action. Webster does us no good at all, except as we are given to see the verbal definition translated into visible sacrifice.

So it is that at any public healing service, the priest need possess no special gifts of his own. He is simply a spokesman of the Lord, mediating God's grace on behalf of a loving congregation ingathered to worship Christ in His sacramental presence. They are there, in His name, to pray for wholeness in themselves, as well as for wholeness in those others for whom their thanksgiving and petitions are offered up. This loving congregation is the dynamo which goes into action "whenever two or three are gathered together in My name," says the Lord. So does the pure spirit of the Risen Christ operate via His penitent stewards in the sacramental rites of Holy Unction and the Laying-on-of-Hands (Book of Common Prayer, page 320) which are often immediately preceded by a thankful celebration of the Holy Communion.

Finally, let this be said of spiritual healing. If, in our imperfections, our failures are many, so by the grace of God our successes may also be many. Meanwhile, we can take as our goal the aim of all those who seek to cure in Christ's name: "To heal sometimes; to relieve often, to comfort always!"

Diocesan Convention Set For May 13th

THE 177th CONVENTION of the DIOCESE of NEW YORK will be held on Tuesday, May 13, 1958, in the Synod Hall, Cathedral Close, 110th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, New York City.

Following a celebration of the Holy Communion in the Cathedral at 8:15 a.m., and breakfast in the Undercroft of the Synod House, the business sessions of the Convention will open at 10:00 a.m.

The Convention is the legislative body of the Diocese consisting of all canonically qualified Clergymen together with three Lay Delegates from each parish in union with the Convention, and one Lay Delegate from each organized mission.

This year, in order to increase the efficiency of the catering of breakfast to those Clergymen and Certified Lay Delegates who attend the celebration of the Holy Communion and luncheon for Clergymen and all Certified Lay Delegates present at the Convention, reservation blanks for meals have been mailed to the Clergy.

Tickets will be sent to those to be served as indicated by the reservations.

W. A. Gives Grant

IN response to the first request made by the Bishop of the newly-created Episcopal Missionary District of Central America, a grant has been made from the United Thank Offering funds of the Woman's Auxiliary to the National Council of the Episcopal Church.

The grant, a sum of $3,000, will go toward equipment for a clinic in Managua, Nicaragua, including basic furniture and physician's instruments. The physician who will direct the clinic is a Nicaraguan who served his internship and residency at St. John's Episcopal Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y.

CONVOCATION DINNERS SIGNAL START OF

THE tempo of the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign quickened considerably as a result of the "kick-off" dinners held in Westchester and Manhattan Convocations.

The Westchester Convocation dinner, held at Holiday Inn, Scarsdale, on February 25th, brought together over 200 clergy and laymen representing 50 parishes and missions in the Convocation.

Clifford Morehouse, Westchester Convocation co-chairman for the Campaign, acted as toastmaster and introduced the speakers who included Bishop Donegan, Ellis Carson, General Canvass Chairman, The Rev. Lemuel J. Winterbottom, rector of St. John's Getty Square, and Westchester Convocation co-chairman, and Harrison Fiddesof, Director of the Department of Promotion. The Invocation was given by Bishop Boynton.

The Manhattan Convocation dinner, held at Stouffer's Restaurant in New York, was attended by 175 clergy and laymen representing 50 parishes and missions in the Convocation.

Speakers at the Manhattan dinner included Bishop Donegan, Ellis Carson, Harrison Fiddesof and the Rev. Albert A. Chambers, rector of the Church of the Resurrection and one of the two clergy co-chairmen for the Manhattan Convocation Campaign. William Walker Kennedy, vestryman at St. Thomas Church, New York, and Convocation lay co-chairman, presided and introduced the speakers.

In addressing both Convocations Bishop Donegan stressed the fact that many opportunities have been missed to establish and strengthen the Church in the Diocese because funds were not available for the work.

Speaking of the lack of Episcopal Church facilities in several areas where new housing developments are being established, and in suburban areas where large numbers of new families are locating, the Bishop said: "The population changes and grows around us. If we do not act promptly we shall see community after community, neighborhood after neighborhood come into existence without an Episcopal Church . . . The Church must inevitably diminish in numbers and influence and eventually die if it does not, or will not, read the signs of the times and pretends that the world or its neighborhood has not changed from what is was in the 19th century."

The Bishop said that he had already made his own sacrificial gift to the Fund, and from that act of giving had come ". . . the courage to ask you—both laymen and clergy—to join hands with me in this important project."

Herminio Ruiz, vestryman at St. Edward the Martyr, Manhattan, and Henry Iijima, vestryman at St. Mary's, Manhattanville, listen attentively as Bishop Donegan urges the 175 clergy and laymen present at the Manhattan Convocation dinner to join hands with him in assuring the success of the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign.

OUR CHURCH – OUR COMMUNITY – OUR RESPONSIBILITY! Bishop Donegan pointing to one of the displays at the Westchester Convocation dinner to illustrate a point in the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign. Shown left to right: Clifford P. Morehouse and The Rev. Lemuel J. Winterbottom, co-chairmen for the Campaign in the Westchester Convocation; the Bishop and Ellis H. Carson, General Canvass Chairman.

Mr. Carson reviewed the conditions and events leading up to the Campaign, pointing out the urgent needs in urban and suburban areas as established by Diocesan studies and the independent survey made by the Protestant Council of Churches.

Father Winterbottom at Westchester, and Father Chambers at Manhattan stressed the personal responsibility of the clergy and laity in making the Campaign a success. Each warned that: "What we do, or do not do, in this effort will establish the pattern of the effectiveness of the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of New York for many decades to come."

Mr. Fiddesof explained the various steps and procedures which will be followed in the Campaign at the Convocation, Area and Parish levels. He pointed up the necessity for proper organization and adequate training. In connection with the training program he said: "A great many questions will arise in your minds both now and later. It is proposed to go into far greater detail during the training sessions for which you may ask for assistance from your Bishop, the General Canvass chairman, the Convocation co-chairmen, Area chairmen and the Campaign Office. It is important that we all bear in mind that the success of the Campaign lies in the strength of the roots of the Diocese, which are the parishes themselves."

The timetable for the Campaign in the Westchester and Manhattan Convocations is as follows:

During March for Westchester, and during March and April for Manhattan:

1. Appointment of Area chairmen.
2. Approval by parishes of dates for the Campaign.
3. Area chairmen will meet with rectors or priests-in-charge to learn of specific plans.
4. Training meetings for parish chairmen and vice-chairmen.

During April, May and June in Westchester, and May through December in Manhattan:

5. Organization and operation of the parish Campaign.

The procedure proposed for operating the Campaign in the parish involves:

1. The Rector, Wardens and Vestry deciding on the methods and timing for obtaining subscriptions.
2. Appointment of the parish chairman and vice-chairman.
3. Enlistment of the parish committee by the rector and chairmen.
4. Presentation of the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign story to the parish at a Sunday morning service.
5. Presentation of the Campaign story at a parish meeting.
6. Presentation of the Campaign story to parish groups and organizations.
7. Solicitation of gifts.

JOY AT THE PROSPECT of being able to widen the influence of the Episcopal Church in under-churched areas of Manhattan is shown by Bishop Donegan and the Rev. John Heuss, D.D., rector of Trinity Parish, Manhattan, as they study one of the exhibits at the Manhattan Convocation dinner.

"A WALL — A CISTERN — A ROOM"

By The Rev. J. J. Sharkey
Rector, Zion Church, Wappingers Falls, N. Y.

NEARLY ten years ago the U.S.S. Kearsarge, with me aboard as Chaplain, entered the great Gulf of La Gonave and dropped anchor at the capital city of Haiti, Port-Au-Prince. In the midst of this colorful, noisy city of 175,000 people, I found the Episcopal Cathedral of the Holy Trinity and the Rt. Rev. C. Alfred Voegeli who had been sent as Bishop of the Missionary District only a couple of years before.

Lying 1400 miles southeast of New York, the second free republic in the western hemisphere, Haiti occupies the western third of the island of Hispaniola, and, being mountainous, is said to have nearly as many vertical acres as horizontal.

Caught by the spirit of the clergy and laity, I have returned three times to Haiti, and spent many days and evenings of the intervening months describing the place to parish audiences.

My last trip a month ago included visits to the cities of Matthieu, Leogane and Miragoane on the south peninsula, and an eight hour jeep-trip north through Gonaive and Gros Morne to the ancient colonial city of Port-de-Paix.

It was at Port-de-Paix that the American Church intended last summer to send a youth work-team for the building of a school on our church grounds. The team was unable to go because the politics of Haiti went into a turmoil a year ago December with the fall of potential dictator Magliore. Several governments attempted to restore order and only a few months ago a free election put President Francois Duvalier into office. I had the pleasure of a brief "rendex vous" with him in the presidential palace at Port-au-Prince just three days before I returned to the States.

In this fabulous, Negro, French speaking country the Episcopal Church has solidified its work and is now making tremendous strides and rapidly winning the confidence of the people, thousands of whom are engaged in superstitious voodoo practices.

Eighteen Haitian Episcopal priests, trained at the Episcopal Seminary of Christ the King in Montruis, form the backbone of our Church's work in mountains and cities. These Negro priests are often all things to their people—teacher, preacher, pastor, doctor, lawyer and translator as well, for in most cases, with an illiteracy rate of ninety-five percent, the three million peasants cannot read or write the French tongue, the country's official language. Creole is everywhere—an unwritten language lacking syntax and literature. The church provides a Book of Common Prayer in French.

My three weeks of travel in Haiti have produced nearly 200 color slides which now provide the background for a new lecture on this lively missionary district of our church. Already scores of talks in the Diocese of New York, Connecticut and New Jersey based on earlier visits have produced gifts amounting to several thousands of dollars all sent to Haiti.

I am sometimes asked before speaking: "What is the title of your talk?" When there are at least a dozen facets to the work the Episcopal Church is doing, there can be as many different titles. Here is a sampling.

"A Negro Christ Over the Altar" could tell the whole story of the development of primitive Haitian art under the inspiration of Bishop Voegeli and Mr. DeWitt Peters, Director of the Art Center in Port-au-Prince. It would be bound to mention the unique wall murals in the Cathedral.

"Road in the River" could tell how our priests get around the countryside in their efforts to keep alive a half dozen missions—horse, jeep, bicycle and foot are all used.

"Seminary by the Sea" can tell the story of higher education especially of seminarians under the direction of Dean Hall Partrick at the Montruis Seminary which is in turn producing a new parish in the town.

"Born Limited" is the story of St. Vincent's School for the Handicapped in Port-au-Prince. "Time to Learn", a description of Holy Trinity School next to the Cathedral, and "Evening Dress to Chasuble", the clever and imaginative work of the Cathedral Altar Guild. These three activities are under the direction of the Sisters of St. Margaret.

FR. OCTAVE LAFONTANT pointing to the cistern cornerstone at St. Matthias' Vicarage, Grande Colline, Haiti. The cistern is one of several projects made possible by Zion Church, Wappingers Falls.

"Five Hours to Church" could tell of Haitians walking to church services over mountain trails carrying their shoes under their arms or on their heads, for, as Bishop Voegeli suggests: "Shoes wear out—feet don't!"

"A Wall, A Cistern and a Room" is the story of three projects completed by the Wappingers Falls parish in Haiti.

"Here Endeth the Lesson" is about the 138 lay readers who teach day schools and Sunday schools, bury the dead, collect the quotas and guide the missions, as well as reading the Scripture, in the absence of the priest.

I am delighted with opportunities to speak to parish audiences where it is likely that real interest will accomplish something definite for the good of our church in Haiti. Words, pictures and music combine to lift us into a vision of the possibilities now at work in the Englise Episcopale D'Haiti.

The Boom Continues In Church Building

CHURCH building in the U.S.A. abounds with promise . . . During 1958, church building may break into the billion dollar column. . . . The boom is not likely to burst. It has come out of a solidly established need. . . . On national, denominational and local levels the crucially important financial campaigns are well established. Trained volunteer and professional workers have discovered ways and means of securing the dollars to begin the building.

The generous and often sacrificial response by members of the congregation is quite thrilling. The spiritual tone of the church is lifted up by the reawakening of the sense of stewardship. Our generosity as Americans is usually surpassed by our response as Christians to a genuine and felt need. We will not fall short of the estimated need of 70,000 churches during the decade for lack of money; the promise at this level will be met.

Student Exchange Program Planned

THE Rev. Philip T. Zabriskie, executive secretary of the Episcopal Church's College Work Division, is one of three representatives of American student and youth organizations who will visit Russia in April to complete the groundwork for an exchange of college students between the USSR and the United States planned for this summer.

Arrangements and negotiations for the exchange of both students and student leaders are being carried out in this country by the Council on Student Travel, a private educational and student exchange organization.

The student leaders group, which is visiting Moscow at the Russians' request, will be the guests of the Soviet Youth Committee. During their two week stay, from March 29 to April 13, the leaders expect to visit Soviet education centers and talk with Russian student leaders, as well as complete plans for the summer student exchange.

Present plans call for a six week visit by forty American students to the Soviet Union with twenty Russian college students coming to America for six weeks.

According to Mr. Zabriskie, "State Department representatives have participated in the planning meetings, and the State Department has approved both the student exchange and the leaders' exchange."

New St. Andrew Chapter Formed

A BROTHERHOOD of St. Andrew Chapter has been organized at St. James the Less, Scarsdale, according to the Rev. George F. Kempsell, Jr., rector. The officers are: Elbridge S. Stevens, Director, Henry R. Wubbenhorst, Vice-Director and Roderick C. Richards, M.D., Secretary-Treasurer. One of the first activities of the Chapter was the sponsorship of a Service of Holy Communion on February 22 for fathers and sons of the parish.

Other chapters recently chartered in the Diocese are:

St. James', Manhattan; St. Luke's, the Bronx; St. John's, Staten Island; St. Paul's, Poughkeepsie, Christ Church, Warwick; Trinity, Saugerties; St. Andrew's, Walden and Montgomery; Trinity, Garnerville; Good Shepherd, Granite Springs; St. John's, Ellenville; All Saints', Harrison, and St. John's, New City.

Thirty-One Million Americans Move

A RECENT survey revealed that every year 31,000,000 Americans move from one home to another. Some families are shifted about by the companies for which they work. Some move just for a change of scenery while others seek better opportunities and higher standards of living.

Whatever the reason, it would seem that here is an opportunity for the Church. A stranger alone in a new community always welcomes the hand of friendship and neighborliness.

When the hand of friendship is extended in the name of the Church, a seed is sown that may flourish in many ways.

When is the last time YOU said "Welcome" to a stranger in your Church?

2 Manhattan Parishes Call New Rectors

The Very Rev. Orin A. Griesmyer

THE Church of the Holy Trinity, East 88th St., New York, and the Church of the Transfiguration, One East 29th St., New York, have called new rectors, both from the Diocese of Chicago.

The Very Rev. Orin A. Griesmyer will become rector of the Church of the Transfiguration, succeeding the Rev. Dr. J. H. Randolph Ray who served as Rector for the past third of a century.

Fr. Griesmyer returns to the Diocese of New York after having served parishes in Minnesota, Kansas and, most recently, as rector of the Church of the Advent, Chicago, since 1951. He previously served as rector of St. John's, Tuckahoe and St. Mary's, Staten Island. During the years 1942 to 1951 he served on the Diocesan Board of Managers and the Board of Religious Education.

The Rev. Cuthbert Pratt, D.D. will become rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity on April 21. He succeeds the Rev. James A. Paul, D.D. who died in May, 1957.

For the past twelve years Dr. Pratt served as Assistant Minister, Locum Tenens, and, since June of 1950, as Rector of St. Chrysostom's Church in Chicago.

Born in England, Dr. Pratt has spent most of his life in the United States. He was graduated from Lafayette College in Easton, Pa., in 1937, and from Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, Mass. in 1940. Since his ordination he has served parishes in Lawrence, Mass., Brooklyn, N. Y. and Fall River, Mass., before going to St. Chrysostom's.

In 1954 Dr. Pratt was the accredited correspondent for the London Times at the second meeting of the World Council of Churches in Evanston, Ill. He will be the commencement speaker at the Chicago Art Institute in 1958.

Religious Revolution On Campus Cited

THE lead article in the March 29, 1958, issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, which appeared on the nation's newsstands March 25, is "Religious Revolution on the Campus", written by the Rev. Jones B. Shannon.

Author Shannon, who was for five years Chaplain to Episcopal students at Pennsylvania State College, is now the executive director of the Church Society for College Work, private organization affiliated with the Episcopal Church's College Work Division.

Mr. Shannon's article stresses the current religious revival as reflected in the greatly increased church attendance by college students and the revitalized activities of Churches and religious organizations on campuses across the country.

Drawing on his personal experiences as a student, a college chaplain, and, in his present position, a regular visitor to the nation's colleges and universities, he cites the marked change in the college student's attitudes toward religion as a facet of American life.

Change In Manhattan

ST. CYPRIAN'S BOWS TO THE OPERA

ST. CYPRIAN'S Church on West 63rd Street in Manhattan held its final service on March 2nd. Two days prior to that the City of New York took title to the property in a vast condemnation proceeding involving twelve city blocks.

While the courts still have to decide on a number of appeals by other property owners, the courts have held, up to this writing, that the development of this great area as a cultural center can go forward.

Lincoln Square, as the development is called, will contain some new housing on its northern border, but primarily it will be a new opera house and buildings designed for the New York Philharmonic Society, the Julliard School of Music, a small auditorium for light opera and ballet, a museum, a library and a university campus.

Where St. Cyprian's stands will be the new home of the Metropolitan Opera Company. A corporation headed by John D. Rockefeller, III, and called "Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts", has purchased the land and buildings of St. Cyprian's from the City of New York, and already an office has been established in the parish house by the firm responsible for relocating tenants in this section of the area.

St. Cyprian's started in a room in what is now the parish house in 1905 and the church was built in 1907. The work was established by the N. Y. Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society, and the first vicar was the Rev. Dr. John Wesley Johnson, father of the present rector of St. Martin's, Manhattan, the Rev. Dr. John Howard Johnson, who is now President of the Standing Committee. Dr. John H. Johnson, himself, at one time served in this Mission. The present vicar, the Rev. Herbert C. Banks, was appointed in 1940.

In 1942 the City Mission Society ceased operating mission churches and St. Cyprian's was deeded to the Diocesan Missionary and Church Extention Society which has been responsible for the work ever since.

In recent years many of St. Cyprian's people, while maintaining allegiance to the Mission, have moved away from the area and into sections of the City where they have found better living conditions. This, coupled with the fact that St. Stephen's and Christ Church located just north of the project, will be close to the only large housing to be built, represents a gain to the Church rather than a loss.

ST. CYPRIAN'S PARISH HOUSE is currently serving as a temporary field office for the real estate firm which is managing certain properties in the Lincoln Square Project. Shown above are tenants of the area paying their rent and seeking relocation advice.

Early in March the Archdeacon, the Venerable George F. Brätt, Deconsecrated the church. When all of the buildings in the area are vacated, St. Cyprian's will be torn down and on its site will rise the new Metropolitan Opera House.

EVER MINDFUL OF THE NEEDS OF OTHERS

Do you remember your summers as a child? Where did you spend your summer the year you were ten? Did you ever go to Camp?

Summer and youth go together. It is a time when children should have the joy of space and freedom to run and jump and play. The photograph on our cover shows a group of children in Manhattan and the inset is a photograph of some Manhattan children in a camp sponsored by your own New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society.

Last summer more than 1500 boys and girls had a vacation of two weeks or more at Elko Lake Camps and Edgewater Creche, where there were long days of fun and play in the open air, swimming in a real lake, boating, playing games with other kids and plenty of good food at every meal.

The camping program operated by the Society recognizes that there are always some children who need special help in the art of living. A new aspect of the program in 1957 was an effort to give some psychological assistance to the children with severe emotional and behavior problems. The Assistant Director of the girls camp, who is studying to become a psychiatrist, and the student chaplain conferred with over 100 boys and girls of whom thirty-five seemed to be in serious need of further assistance and were referred to other centers for more help.

The age range of those provided with summer camp is from 3 to 15. Elko Lake Camps are largely planned to help children see the wider horizons of life. Picture yourself two thousand feet above sea level on a thousand acres of rolling fields and woods, overlooking a fifty acre lake and you will feel something of the impact camping has on these city youngsters. In a healthy environment, coupled with expert leadership, they learn swimming, boating, crafts and nature, and learn that it can be fun to live together in peace and harmony.

They participate in regular devotional services under the guidance of the resident chaplain who is always available for discussion of the camper's problems.

The physical fabric of the camp was considerably improved this year at a cost of $21,862. Six new Adirondack shelters were built in the Senior Boys' area and two in the Senior Girls' area. A boat house with sleeping quarters for the waterfront directors was erected. In addition five of the wooden rowboats were replaced by aluminum craft. A serious need is the replacement of five more boats at $200 each. Mr. Walter "Red" Barber gave the children a beautiful sixteen foot power boat, making a valuable addition to the safety of the waterfront program and to the pleasure of all campers.

One of the most important activities of the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society is the operation of St. Barnabas House. Its work will be covered in a future article in the Bulletin.

The summer camp program is only one phase of the important work done by the Society. Through its Chaplains Service it ministers to the troubled, the sick, the aged, and the imprisoned. In the last calendar year, 26,794 of these people who so desperately need help were ministered to by the Chaplains.

You may wonder: What can the Chaplain do for them? Here is the answer directly from the 1957 Report of the Society:

"A broken body can be mended, a diseased member healed or removed. Psychiatric treatment can reach into the personality for the causes of illness. An individual can be the recipient of all these aids and still be lacking in what our Lord meant by 'wholeness.' There can still be a consuming pride which brooks no interference. There can still be lack of good purpose or the presence of a wrong purpose. There can still be disrupting despondency, loneliness, fear.

"The Chaplain's task has always been to make available every means of wholeness to those broken in body and spirit, and today the means are many and varied. Agencies dealing with welfare are more numerous, medical procedures are more widely available. In a widening of his sphere of work, the Chaplain has become the interpreter and commender of these services. But his unique contribution is made during and sometimes following the processes of healing. By interpretation, by example, by instruction, by sacramental ministration, the Chaplain strives to make the individual rightly understand God. It follows that as the individual grows in wholeness he begins to see his problems in their true perspective.

"Bill, twenty-five years old, had not been successful because of impatience, low self-esteem, and general dissatisfaction with life, which resulted in many sorts of trouble. He was sentenced for felonious assault. The Chaplain saw him regularly for 14 months. Bill's concern about a Biblical passage was actually a shy outreach for acceptance. Through many interviews his confusion and hostility were revealed. The Chaplain understood them, discussed and interpreted them.

"In the Chaplain's discussion group Bill soon expressed himself freely and became more relaxed. By degrees he showed a more reasonable and patient approach to life. A basically sound personality structure with a layer of good moral principle and a genuine religious concern came into the foreground. When he was released he had literally become a new person. He was referred to a parish, baptized, confirmed and became a Church School teacher. He still calls up the Chaplain when he has doubts.

"From indifference to active Church membership; from hostility to reconciliation; from destructive to constructive thinking; from a felon to a Church School teacher, might be called a miracle, but to the Chaplain, Bill is just another soul who needed help."

In the year 1957 the Society's Chaplains ministered in 36 institutions, conducted 5,520 services, made 6,173 pastoral visits to the critically ill, and 8,015 to persons facing operations. Initial and follow-up interviews totaled 76,035.

The President of the Society is Bishop Donegan. The Chairman of the Executive Committee is Thomas M. Peters, and the full time Director is the Rev. William E. Sprenger.

The genesis of the Society was the founding in 1831 of the Episcopal City Mission Society to minister to the souls and bodies of the great number of immigrants coming to a rapidly growing city. It also responded to the needs of the sick and neglected in public institutions. The Mission of Public Institutions became an integral part of the Society's program in 1864. This mission was founded by the Rev. William Richmond and his assistant, the Rev. Thomas McClure Peters, in 1847.

The Rev. William E. Sprenger, Director of the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society.

In 1865 a Home for Homeless Women and Children on Mulberry Street was taken over and renamed St. Barnabas House. In 1890 the first summer camp for slum children was opened. In 1907 a new service to immigrants on Ellis Island was inaugurated. In 1921 Family Service was instituted and in 1924 work among the women prisoners at Westfield Farm was begun. There are now seven active departments of the Episcopal City Mission Society. Much of its work is supported by the gifts of individuals in our Diocese and from some foundations and from the budgets of some of our parishes. Part of every dollar which your parish gives to the Diocesan quota goes to this important program, particularly for the Chaplaincy work. Income is also received from endowment, made possible by generous gifts in the past.

The Treasurer of the Society is Mr. William H. Deatly, a Vestryman of the Church of the Epiphany, Manhattan, and a Manhattan Area Chairman in the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign.

The Assistant Treasurer is Mr. William Walker Kennedy, a Vestryman of St. Thomas, Manhattan, who is also active in the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign as Manhattan Convocation Co-Chairman.

Mr. Elliott H. Goodwin of St. James', Manhattan, is Secretary and Mr. Charles M. Walton, Jr., Senior Warden of St. John's, Larchmont, is Counsel. Mr. Walter "Red" Barber, well known sports announcer, who is a member of St. Mary's, Scarborough, is a Vice-President.

175th ANNIVERSARY FUND CAMPAIGN SPEEDS-UP

THE 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign moved into the parish phase with a meeting March 26th of the Convocation and Area Chairmen for the 11 areas of the Manhattan and Westchester Convocations.

The meeting was devoted to organization structure, training plans and general strategy preparatory to the organization of the Campaign in the parishes comprising each area.

Dates on which the Area chairmen would bring together the clergy, chairmen and vice-chairmen within their specific areas for indoctrination were established as follows:

For the Westchester areas: 1) Brainard Rau, chairman, April 9th; 2) Jamie Kerr, chairman, April 24th; 3) Samuel Brookfield, chairman, April 14th; 5) Ralph Hartwig, chairman, April 15th; 6) Warren Caris, chairman, April 16th.

For the Manhattan areas; 1) Randolph Jacobs, chairman, April 18th; 2) Ashton Dunn, Jr., chairman, April 21st; 3) William Deatly, chairman, April 10th; 4) Fred Witkop, chairman, April 24th; 5) Robert West, chairman, April 29th.

The Area meetings, which were well attended by clergy and chairmen, were devoted to a slide presentation showing the growth and needs of the Diocese, a review of the procedures recommended for use in the parishes in conducting the campaign and an intensive question and answer session.

Following the Area meetings the parish chairmen began work in their individual parishes to enlist the Campaign Committee and prepare for solicitation of parish families.

As part of the procedure in the parish the campaign story is being presented to the congregation at a Sunday morning service by the Rector or a trained speaker and thereafter to a parish meeting and organizations.

Among the aids being offered to parishes in addition to campaign materials is a graphic presentation through the use of slides depicting the growth of the Diocese and the present inadequacies and needs resulting from increased growth and population shifts.

To date more than 50 parishes in the two Convocations have requested slide presentations. Special speakers have been made available to parishes through the Diocesan and Campaign offices.

Many parishes have indicated a desire to contribute to special projects within the scope of the Campaign such as items in the urban program and the Revolving Loan Fund which it is proposed to establish for use of the suburban parishes.

Active campaigns are already under way in many parishes. Many others are accelerating their campaigns in an effort to complete the work before the summer months.

Ralf Shockey

THE slide presentation being used to acquaint parish organizations with the needs and scope of the 175th Anniversary Fund is to a large extent the result of services contributed by Ralf Shockey and his organization of advertising and promotion specialists.

The slides, most of which are in color, trace the growth of the Diocese of New York, beginning with Trinity Church and St. Paul's Chapel up to the present. Woven into the history of growth is a graphic picture of the many changes brought about through population shifts and increases in the urban and suburban areas. The presentation is designed to bring into sharp focus the need for the Fund in meeting the challenges of the present and future.

Mr. Shockey is president of Ralf Shockey and Associates, consultants in advertising and promotion, a member of the Department of Promotion and a former vestryman of St. John's Church, Larchmont.

Day Of Witness

THE fifth annual Day of Witness, to be held Saturday, May 10, will feature as its theme "The 175th Anniversary Fund and its Need." The presentation will start with a parade which will form at St. Michael's Church, Amsterdam Avenue and 99th Street, at 10 a.m. and proceed up Amsterdam Avenue to the Cathedral for the service of Holy Communion at 11 o'clock. Bishop Donegan and Bishop Boynton, Patrons, will meet the procession at the Cathedral.

On The Air

THE Diocese of New York, probably more than any other diocese in the Church, has access to some of the finest religious broadcasting on the air. Practically all this broadcasting of religion in the New York area is done cooperatively through the Protestant Council's Committee on Radio and Television. It is fairly simple to keep up with the regular "shows" on the air week by week, but it is very difficult to keep the Diocese informed about the "single shot shows."

The Diocesan Bulletin does not come out often enough to do this. The National Council of the Church, through its Division of Radio and Television attempts to keep the clergy posted on network shows involving Episcopalians, but we have found no set way to alert the Diocese except in some such reminder as this.

By far the most popular Sunday television shows are "Lamp Unto My Feet" at 10:00 a.m. on CBS, Channel 2; "Look Up and Live" at 10:30 a.m. on CBS, Channel 2; "Frontiers of Faith" at 1:30 p.m. on NBC Channel 4; "Dean Pike" at 2:00 p.m. on ABC Channel 7. On radio, on Sundays, "The National Radio Pulpit" at 10:05 a.m. on NBC; "Pilgrimage" at 1:35 p.m. on ABC, and the "Church of the Air" at 10:30 p.m. on CBS.

There are many interesting and valuable religious shows on the air. Try to "catch" some of them.

No Safe Harbor . . .

PICTURE a coastguard or life-saving station on a dangerous coast. It has stood for centuries, and tales of its rescue service are treasured by the successors of the founders. Stained-glass windows in the life-saving station commemorate its heroes. In the course of time, those who manned the rescue service have turned to expanding and beautifying the station itself. Do not "life-savers" deserve comfort and a rest-home to fit them for their arduous task? Architects vied with one another in building for them a dwelling place worthy of the cause they served. Honorary though not active members of the company of rescuers joined in lending support. Nor was the rescue-station designed merely for those whose duty it was to launch the lifeboats. The rescued, in their turn, deserved warm beds and proper food.

This station-building, however, became in time such an absorbing activity that rescue-service itself was increasingly neglected, although traditional rescue drills and rituals were carefully preserved. The actual launching out into ocean storms became a hireling vocation or one left to a few volunteers. What was even more a deflection of the original charter of the station, when the dedicated volunteers brought in their boatloads of the shipwrecked—men of alien color and speech, maimed, and encrusted with ocean slime—the custodians of the rescue-station were often disconcerted and disturbed. "Will they not," so they were tempted to exclaim, "soil the linen on our clean beds, and moved by gratitude for salvation, desire to become life-savers themselves and thus presume to belong by right to our intimate fellowship. Should we not set up a minimum entrance requirement of cleanliness and good maners before we offer shelter? We can, at least, urge them to build a life-saving station of their own at a decorous distance from ours." — The Rev. Canon Theodore O. Wedel. "The Ecumenical Review."

G.F.S. News

THE GIRL'S Friendly Society has announced that five new branches in three parishes have been set up this year. With these new additions there are now thirty-three branches in operation in twenty-eight parishes in the Diocese.

Junior and Senior branches were started at St. Mary's Church, Cold Spring; and at Trinity Church, Fishkill. A Junior branch was started at St. Andrew's, Beacon.

The Annual Mission Rally and Service of Presentation of the G.F.S. was held at the Chapel of the Incarnation, Manhattan, on May 3rd.

At the Service, conducted by the Rev. John R. McDonald of the Chapel, the members presented their offering for the National Mission Quota which in 1958 is being raised to help expand the work of the G.F.S. in Japan and to provide scholarships at St. Augustine's College, Raleigh, N. C.

The mission study emphasis has been on Japan for the past months and the program at the Rally centered around crafts, songs, dances, and games the girls had learned in the course of their study.

On May 10th G.F.S. members will participate in the Day of Witness Service at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine.

For the first time, on May 17th, G.F.S. branches will participate in the United Thank Offering of the Woman's Auxiliary at the Cathedral. G.F.S. members will act as ushers at the service and serve at the lunch in Synod House where they will also sell articles made by them. The proceeds from the sale will help meet their financial obligations to the Diocesan and National G.F.S.

Is There A Doctor In The House?

IF you were attending a Parish Meeting at Christ Church, Riverdale, and asked, "Is there a doctor in the house?" the answer most surely would be "yes". For this parish not only has an impressive membership among the medical profession, but a surprising number of them serve on the Vestry and otherwise devote their time and talents to the work of the Church.

One of the wardens is Dr. Walter Root, Professor of Physiology of the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University. The other warden is Dr. Robert H. Elliott, Chief of Surgical Services, Presbyterian Hospital, and Associate Professor in the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons.

These busy doctors still find time to head Every Member Canvasses and serve their community whenever called upon. In addition, both are recognized as outstanding lay speakers.

Recently, Dr. Elliott addressed a neighborhood forum on "Healing and the Medical Profession." Drawing upon some of his own personal experiences, it was interesting to hear him relate the unquestioned value of religious faith and prayer in the healing of the sick.

When a parish rector so often is confronted by barriers of indifference erected by those proclaiming to be too busy to devote capsules of their time to the business of the Church, it is refreshing to find busy men of medicine still able to make time for God and help translate His message through their talents.

LaGuardia Windows In Riverdale Church

A PAIR of stained glass windows, depicting St. Francis of Assisi and St. Michael the Archangel, were dedicated at Christ Church, Riverdale, April 27th, in memory of Fiorello LaGuardia, Mayor of the City of New York from 1934 through 1945.

Many former associates and friends of Mr. LaGuardia were present. Julius Isaacs, formerly Magistrate of the City of New York, read the first lesson. Lee Thompson Smith read the second lesson. Newbold Morris, formerly President of the City Council and Chairman of the LaGuardia Memorial Association, gave the address.

The windows are the gift of the LaGuardia Memorial Association, composed of former associates and friends of the late mayor, who attended Christ Church from 1945 until his death on September 20, 1947.

The three foot by seven foot windows were designed and executed by Mr. Len R. Howard of Kent, Conn.

Two New Books

The Road to Reunion
by Charles D. Kean
Seabury Press, 1958

Dr. Kean has done a very useful job for all of those interested in Church unity and ecumenical relations. He has gathered into one volume the history of the Protestant Episcopal Church and its involvement in unity negotiations, giving in detail the conversations with the Northern Presbyterians and the current negotiations with the Methodists.

Part III of the book will prove exceedingly valuable for summarizing the Anglican viewpoint concerning inter-communion, the "priesthood and eucharist" and the "sacraments in the life of the Church." A very useful appendix gives the accepted basis of Faith and Order for approaches to organic unity with any other Church group, adopted by General Convention in 1949.

This book is a welcome addition to the literature of the ecumenical movement within the grasp of most everyone. As Secretary for the past nine years of the Joint Commission on Approaches to Unity, Dr. Kean speaks with authority.

Christ and Celebrity Gods
by Malcolm Boyd
Seabury Press, 1958

Mal Boyd is obsessed with the idea of communication. It is well that someone is obsessed with the crisis in communication so far as religion is concerned. His basic thesis is that no bridge exists between theology and life and that man, who is surrounded by celebrity gods, finds it very difficult to hear and to comprehend Christ's message.

In Christ and Celebrity Gods, Boyd does for the field of drama (both in the movies and on the stage, as well as a touch of television) what Colin Wilson does for literature in The Outsider. Both books read like a compendium of man's attempt to communicate visually and intellectually over the whole of the 20th Century today. While one stands in awe of the "staggeringly erudite grasp" of Wilson and the emphasis of the know-it-all-about-the-movies resume of Boyd, both leave the reader, at least this reader, with the feeling that all of this knowledge is of very little value in the life of the average person.

In a good first chapter the writer makes it quite clear that a Christian must live his life where he is, looking at everything from a Christian point of view and allowing the sovereignty of Jesus Christ over the totality of his life. However, one might skip over the next five chapters, winding up with the final chapter which really gives the point of the book, namely the Christian interpretation and witness in a mass culture where celebrity gods and the celebrity cult tend to separate man from the Church and Christ.

Mal Boyd has a facile pen and a determined spirit and some of his words are wise indeed. He needs a little more experience in separating the chaff from the wheat if he is to get the hearing he deserves.

Cathedral Assistant Edits Pamphlet

A NEW pamphlet, "Puerto Rican Neighbors", just released by the National Council, was edited by the Rev. Walter D. Dennis, assistant minister at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. The 24-page booklet was designed to acquaint the reader with some of the problems being met by the new arrivals and the steps being taken by the Church to help them adjust to new surroundings.

According to recent estimates there are 759,000 Puerto Ricans in the United States, the majority (570,000) are located in New York City, where, with 200,000 migrants from Cuba, the Dominican Republic, and other Latin American countries, they form a Spanish speaking group of 800,000.

CHRIST CHURCH, BRONXVILLE, PLANS EX

THE visitor to Christ Church, Bronxville, is confronted with the contradiction between the greatness of the church and the inadequacy of the other parish facilities. There is the church itself, with its clean lines and its commanding spire, its severe stone walls and arches lightened with a remarkable polychromed roof and rood, its chancel dominated by a classic "English" altar. Now thirty years old, this building was one of the last structures designed by the famous American ecclesiastical architect, the late Bertram Goodhue. A modern treatment of Gothic themes, it is admirably adapted to its peculiar geographical location and conveys a sense of grandeur while being fairly small in actual size and capacity.

The church is located at the top of a triangular piece of land comprising part of a sharply sloping hillside. Immediately below the church stands the parish house, which served as the church for a quarter-century before the construction of the Goodhue edifice. For the past thirty years the activities of the parish, whose total number now well exceeds the listed 1250 communicants, have been carried on either in this converted church (parish house) or in the undercroft of the present church.

Although it comprises an easily identifiable and central element in the village of Bronxville, the church and parish house are hemmed in on one side by the well-known Gramatan Hotel and on the other by a power house, storage building, and public garage. Apartment houses immediately adjoin it up the hill.

For many years the leaders of the parish have realized that more modern and adequate facilities were needed if the program of the parish was to be commensurate with its membership and standing in the community and the important place in the tradition of Christian art and worship which it has held through the introduction of the "English" or Prayer Book Rite under the Rev. Harold F. Hohly, former rector of the parish. At the same time, they were faced with a location which made expansion difficult and a site which was difficult of access even before the advent of the automobile and the parking problem.

After the indebtedness on the church was eliminated and the church itself consecrated in 1954, the attention of the parish was increasingly directed to the problems of parish house development. During the last two years under the leadership of the Rev. George W. Barrett, D.D., present rector, prolonged and intensive study has been made and a large number of solutions considered. It was soon realized that, unless the parish should adopt the almost impossible solution of building anew on an entirely different site or the undesirable solution of building a parish house at some distance from the church, additional land had to be acquired in the immediately surrounding area. This solution, however, depended on other interests beside those of Christ Church. Consequently, the plans of the parish became closely involved with those of the Village of Bronxville and the Lawrence Investment Company for the improvement of that part of the village.

Within the last few months a practical solution has been worked out by these groups and new buildings for the parish designed with the architectural skill of Mr. Randolph Evans of the New York firm of Chapman, Evans & Delahanty.

In conjunction with plans for the improvement of the adjacent areas, the first part of the parish program calls for the demolition of the present parish house and the landscaping of the area thus cleared, opening a vista from the Bronxville station plaza to the present church. The parish will then purchase the two apartment buildings immediately adjoining its property up the hill. Since the present roadway separating the church from these apartments is a private street, it is planned to close it and to create a unified group of buildings with a connecting wing and cloister. The area between will be made into an enclosed garden.

The apartments thus acquired, well-built in steel and concrete, will then be converted into a parish house. The exteriors of these buildings will be treated in a modern style which will combine with the Gothic of the present church. The interiors will be renovated in such a way as to provide facilities for the activities of the parish: offices, classrooms, enlarged choir and altar guild facilities, modern kitchen space, an assembly room for audio-visual projects and lounges and reception rooms.

A combined dining and auditorium area is also included in the plans. The top floors of these buildings will be used at least temporarily as apartments for the assistant clergy and other members of the staff.

The poor parking situation existing at present will be greatly improved by a plan recently announced by the Lawrence Investment Company which includes the demolition of a number of buildings on one side of the parish property and their replacement with a two-level parking garage as well as by the widening and repairing of adjacent streets.

The cost of the parish project is estimated at $700,000, which is considerably less than would be the cost of erecting entirely new buildings on vacant land, assuming that such land were available. A great advantage of the project is its flexibility in allowing for alterations and enlargements in line with the increased needs and resources of the parish.

A special parish meeting, convened on March 21, 1958, heard a presentation of the project by the Rector, members of the various committees, and the architect; and approval was given for a campaign to secure the necessary funds. The campaign will be conducted during May and June under the direction of Marts & Lundy, Incorporated.

The Rector, Vestry, and parishioners of Christ Church are naturally aware that the 175th Anniversary Drive of the Diocese is being conducted in the Westchester Convocation this spring, and a resolution of support for the Diocesan Campaign was discussed and passed by the same parish meeting which considered the project of Christ Church. A definite responsibility toward the Diocesan Campaign was expressed by the speakers and incorporated in the reports of the meeting. The two appeals will be conducted at the same time and members of the parish encouraged to give part of their contribution to the work of the Diocese. The desire on the part of the leaders of the parish is that the parish should make a contribution to the larger work commensurate with its own resources. The fact that the same firm is directing both the Diocesan and parish campaigns is seen as a means of unity of action and purpose.

Christ Church parish looks forward with eagerness to its endeavor in conjunction with that of the Diocese. It realizes that its own project is one of immediate necessity in the local situation and that upon its success rests the adequacy of the future witness of the Episcopal Church in a section which is vital to the life of the whole Diocese.

Dr. George West Barrett became rector of Christ Church, Bronxville, in October, 1955. He came to that position after serving for three years as Eugene Augustus Hoffman Professor of Pastoral Theology at the General Theological Seminary.

Dr. Barrett was born in Iowa City, Iowa, in 1908. He was educated at the University of California, and the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge, Mass., where he received the degree of Bachelor of Divinity, cum laude, in 1933. The first three years of his ministry were spent as Assistant at St. Paul's Church, Oakland, California. In 1936 he became rector of St. Mark's Church, Upland, and also served as Episcopal Chaplain to students at Pomona, Scripps, and Claremont Colleges.

From 1942 to 1947 Dr. Barrett was rector of St. Luke's Church, Monrovia, California, and in the latter year was called to the rectorship of St. James' Church, Los Angeles. He was at this post when elected to the General Seminary professorship.

In 1952 Dr. Barrett was awarded the degree of Doctor of Divinity, honoris causa, by Occidental College. He has been elected a Clerical Deputy of the Diocese to the General Convention of 1958 and also serves on the Committee on Diocesan Finances. In 1936 Dr. Barrett married Dee Hanford. He and Mrs. Barrett have three children.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY REPORTS VARIED ACTIVITY

Forecast Discontinued

BEGINNING in October, all Woman's Auxiliary news and the Calendar of Diocesan Meetings will be included in The Bulletin of the Diocese of New York. The Bulletin will be mailed directly to subscribers each month except July, August and September.

It has become apparent in recent years that Forecast, the Woman's Auxiliary publication, can no longer adequately cover the work of the women of the Church because of many limitations, including problems of distribution. Forecast, therefore, will be discontinued with the May 1958 issue. The Woman's Auxiliary Diocesan Board, in making the decision to discontinue Forecast, is confident that all will welcome the opportunity extended by the Department of Promotion of the Diocesan Council to use space in The Bulletin.

In making use of The Bulletin for coverage of Woman's Auxiliary news and Diocesan dates, there are obvious advantages for all the women workers in the Church:

1. The Bulletin will be received directly and on the same date each month.
2. Only officers received Forecast, but all women may be subscribers to The Bulletin.
3. Most important, Woman's Auxiliary news will be presented and reported as part of the work of the Church in this Diocese.

Those who have known little about the program of the Woman's Auxiliary will be better informed, and Woman's Auxiliary members will be advised of the whole program of the Church in the Diocese, as well as being stimulated by stories of parishes, missions and people.

Report Of The Church Periodical Club

THE Seminarian's Book Project, the chief Diocesan effort, has, thanks to the cooperation of secretaries and members in the Parishes, been a success.

Approximately one hundred and sixty books are in process of being delivered to the forty-four postulants and candidates for Holy Orders from this Diocese, who are scattered from Wisconsin to Virginia. A few young men from other dioceses who are working here were included by special request. Forty-four parishes contributed, some to their own seminarians, some to the general fund. The personal relationship in this giving was especially fostered and much appreciated.

On the District level, Dutchess has completed its project to supply the Wassaic School with Landmark Books, and is now giving dictionaries to the cottages at Greer School. Regularly through the years, the Westchester, Dutchess, and Hudson-Ramapo branches supply reading material to schools, hospitals, and homes in their areas although most of the children or patients come from New York City.

Through the National Book Fund, many parishes made contributions to both home and foreign missions, most substantially to the work of Rev. John Caton in Taiwan, and the program conducted by the Rev. Kenneth W. Costin at the New York State Rehabilitation Hospital, West Haverstraw, N. Y. Also, impressive amounts of reading material were sent to Africa, the Caribbean, Central America and Japan.

There are new secretaries in many parishes, new district chairmen, fresh interest and heartening plans—but the need continues to grow despite limited resources. The National Books Fund spends more than ten thousand dollars a year and could spend to good purposes many times that amount. The help of every member is needed. In the Church Periodical Club a member is "anyone who takes interest in the work."

The aim of an active C.P.C. secretary in every parish could be realized if Woman's Auxiliary members would be on the look-out for the "right" person to do the work. There is one in each parish, often a parishioner who does not like meetings and might not care for other Auxiliary work. Where there are no secretaries members can contribute their own books and magazines.

National C.P.C. Poster Contest

AN ALL expense weekend trip to Miami and the General Convention on October 3rd, is the grand prize being offered by the National Church Periodical Club to the winner of its National Poster Contest which is now underway.

The contest is open to young Episcopalians between the ages of 15 and 19, and all entries must be in the hands of the Contest Chairman, Mrs. David J. Nolin, 8 Alden Avenue, Auburn, N. Y., by June 1st.

The prize will be given for the poster that best tells the story of the Church Periodical Club. The winner will be provided with proper chaperonage and the trip is so arranged that very little time will be lost from school.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Nolin at the above address.

Auxiliary Names Triennial Delegates

THE Woman's Auxiliary has named representatives to attend the Triennial Meeting to be held this year in Miami, Florida, on October 5th to 17th. The meeting coincides with the General Convention of the Church which is also being held in Miami at the same time.

The delegates are: Mrs. Gurney Williams, Mrs. Ogden Bowman, Mrs. William Deatly, Mrs. William McDonald, and Mrs. William Leidt.

Alternates named are: Mrs. Rex Mulligan, Mrs. Rudolf Mattesich, Mrs. Harold Pim, and Mrs. James Pike.

W. A. Annual Meeting Scheduled For May 17

THE annual Diocesan meeting and Spring Ingathering of the United Thank Offering will be held on Saturday, May 17, 1958.

There will be a service of Holy Communion at 10:30 A.M. in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Following the service, luncheon will be served in the Undercroft of Synod House. Sandwiches, tea and coffee will be available at a moderate price.

The Annual Meeting will convene in Synod Hall at 12:45 P.M. for election and installation of the new Diocesan officers. Bishop Donegan will address the meeting.

School Of Worship Planned For Fall

THIS YEAR the Diocesan School of Worship will include both morning and evening sessions, to be held on the four Mondays of November 3rd, 10th, 17th and 24th.

The morning sessions will be at the Cathedral and will consist of worship, lecture, discussion groups and forums, from 10:30 A.M. to 1 P.M. The evening sessions will be held at four Manhattan parishes to be announced later.

The subject will be "The Eucharist," and the lecturers will be the Rev. Dr. Cyril C. Richardson, Professor at Union Theological Seminary and the Rev. Edward N. West, Canon Sacrist of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine.

The School of Worship is sponsored jointly by the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary and the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral, but this in no way limits the attendance to Woman's Auxiliary members or in fact, to women only. Men, both clergy and lay, throughout the Diocese are cordially invited to participate, and it is hoped that many of them may be able to attend, particularly in the evenings.

Registration blanks will be available in the early autumn and the course ticket (price $2.00) will permit the member to attend either morning or evening sessions.

Did You Know That:

ELECTIONS at the Diocesan Convention are by ballot, except for the election of trustees of funds?

Nominations, to be printed on the ballot, must be in the hands of the Secretary of Convention at least thirty days before the opening of the Convention, and must be signed by the proposer and four other clerical or lay-delegates?

Resolutions must be presented in writing to the Secretary of Convention?

Diocesan Council reports are condensed and presented by the Suffragan Bishop as Secretary of the Diocesan Council?

Delegates must be certified by the Rector and Clerk of the Vestry to the Secretary of the Convention at least three weeks before the date of the Convention?

Because of the complex method of counting ballots under the Hare system of the single transferable ballot the results of elections when using this ballot are often not known until after the Convention is adjourned?

The delegate body has grown so large that it is necessary to ask those who are not entitled to vote, except officers of the Convention, to sit in the balcony of the Synod Hall?

TEACHING
THE CHURCH'S CHILDREN

By The Rev. William W. Reed

Director of Christian Education, Trinity Church, New York City

This book may be used for individual reading or reference by the clergy, teachers, and parents or may be made the basis for a course or study group. Suggested plans for class or group use are contained in the Leader's Guide.

Although this book was written by the Rev. William W. Reed, with the assistance of the Curriculum Committee of the Episcopal Church Fellowship Series, primarily for the use of teachers and parents in parishes using the Series, specific references to the series are not included but are confined to a Leader's Guide designed to accompany it when used in classes or study groups. Consequently, it is equally useful in parishes using the Episcopal Church Fellowship Series or in those using some other curriculum.

CLERGY CHANGES IN THE DIOCESE

St. Thomas, Manhattan

The Rev. Sidney Lanier

THE Rev. Sidney Lanier has joined the staff of St. Thomas Church, New York, after serving as Locum Tenens at Holy Trinity, East 88th Street, for the past few months.

Mr. Lanier was born in Brooklyn in 1923 and brought up in Florida. He was graduated from Rollins College in 1949, and received his Bachelor of Divinity from Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., in 1953.

From 1953-54 he served as Assistant at St. Peter's Church, St. Petersburg, Fla., and then was a missionary in the Virgin Islands for three years before coming to New York.

During World War II he saw service in the Pacific with the Army, advancing from Private to 1st Lt. with the 6th and 40th Infantry Divisions.

He is married to the former Nancy Van Zile and they have two children, Sidney, III, aged four and Lise Sterling, aged three.

Trinity, Mt. Vernon

The Rev. Kenneth B. Waldron, D.D.

THE eleventh Rector of Trinity Church, Mt. Vernon, the Rev. Kenneth B. Waldron, D.D., was instituted on April 8th by Bishop Boynton.

Since his ordination in 1926 Dr. Waldron has served churches in the Dioceses of Erie and Pittsburgh. Before coming to this Diocese he had been Rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Bellevue, Pittsburgh.

Active in his former Diocese he has served as Examining Chaplain, Secretary of the Standing Committee, member of the Youth Commission, and Deputy to General Convention.

He has long been interested in relations between the Anglican Church and the Eastern Orthodox Churches and was appointed by the Presiding Bishop to the Commission on assistance to the Eastern Orthodox Churches.

Dr. Waldron is married to the former Mary E. Horton. They have five children and four grandchildren. One of their sons is studying for the ministry and will be ordained in June.

Grace Church, Nyack

The Rev. Gardner A. Johnson

THE Rev. Gardner A. Johnson is the new assistant to the Rector, the Rev. Harold B. Thelin, of Grace Church, Nyack.

Mr. Johnson, a bachelor, was born in Everett, Mass., in 1913, and is an alumnus of Boston University. While studying at General Theological Seminary he assisted at the Church of the Ascension, Mt. Vernon.

He was ordained in 1941 and served for a year and a half at Grace Cathedral, Topeka, Kans., and for six years as Rector of St. Peter's Church, Salem, Mass.

In 1951 he became an Army Chaplain and was assigned to the hospital at Fort Sill, Okla., before going to Japan where he was Episcopal Chaplain at St. Luke's Hospital in Tokyo.

Becoming Chaplain of the 40th Infantry Division, he spent a year and a half in Korea on the front lines and was awarded the Bronze Star for service.

He was sent with his unit to Nuremberg, Germany, where he was the Protestant Chaplain to the 161st Infantry Division. Returning to this country in 1957 he left the Army with the rank of Captain.

St. Luke's, Hospital

The Rev. Cornelius P. Trowbridge

THE Rev. Cornelius P. Trowbridge has recently been appointed the new Director of the Religious Work Department of St. Luke's Hospital, New York.

For the past 11½ years he has been rector of St. Peter's Church, Morristown, N. J. Prior to that he had been rector of the Church of the Redeemer, in Chestnut Hills, Mass.

From 1935 to 1940 Mr. Trowbridge was Canon of St. Paul's Cathedral, Boston, Mass. During that time he was also the Episcopal Chaplain of the State Prison in Charlestown, and the Chaplain for the General Court (State Senate and House of Representatives) of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. He has also been affiliated with Grace Church in Salem, Mass., and Calvary Church in New York City.

Mr. Trowbridge attended Hill School in Pottstown, Pa., and graduated from Princeton in 1921. He received his theological training at Virginia Theological Seminary and Yale Divinity School.

Married to Margaret M. Laird of Wilmington, Del., they have four children and five grandchildren.

Canon Turnbull To Leave Cathedral

The Rev. Canon John W. Turnbull

THE Rev. John W. Turnbull, Canon Precentor of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine since 1956, has been appointed the first Warden of the Episcopal Church Conference Center of the Diocese of Texas. He will also serve as Adjunct Professor of Christian Ethics at the Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest in Austin, Texas.

Canon Turnbull's duties at the Cathedral have included the direction of its community relations program, liaison with the Cathedral Church's music organization, oversight of the Exhibit Hall and promotion of the "Friends", an international organization of those interested in the Cathedral.

He will begin his new work September 1st.

Consecration Day Set

BISHOP Donegan will serve as co-consecrator when Dean James A. Pike is consecrated as Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese of California on Ascension Day, May 15, 1958.

As is the custom, the Presiding Bishop, the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, D.D., will be the Consecrator. The other co-consecrator will be the Rt. Rev. Karl Morgan Block, D.D., Bishop of California.

Dean John B. Coburn, D.D., of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Massachusetts, will preach. Attending Presbyters will be the Rev. Canon Howard A. Johnson, D.D., of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, and the Rev. Charles W. F. Smith, D.D., of the faculty of the Episcopal Theological School.

Summer Conferences Scheduled

DURING the summer months the Diocesan Department of Christian Education will conduct a more intensive and varied program than ever before. The schedule is as follows:

June 8th-14th — Conference on the Liturgy and the Parish Church, focused at the Chapel of the Intercession but depending on the cooperation of 12 neighboring parishes. The Conference intends to assert the centrality of corporate worship in the life of the parish Church; to relate the Christian's life to the Faith proclaimed by the Church through the Liturgy; and to affirm the place of Christ in the Christian's experience through meeting others in His Name. Three groups are invited: delegates, clerical and lay, limited to 50; auditors who will attend morning and afternoon lectures, and laity who will attend special evening sessions. Key leadership: the Rev. Dr. William Nes of Seabury-Western Theological Seminary and the Rev. Canon E. W. Southcott, Vicar of St. Wilfrid's Parish, Halton, Leeds, England. For clergy and lay leaders.

June 10th-August 29th — Training Program for parish assistants. A ten week course conducted by our National Department of Christian Education at the Bishop Donegan Conference Center, Tuxedo Park, New York.

June 23rd-27th — The Princeton Conference sponsored in cooperation with the Dioceses of Newark and New Jersey. A disciplined training conference for lay leaders of adult work, featuring workshops on the Woman's Auxiliary (led by Mrs. G. Russel Hargate) and Christian Education (led by the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore). Keynote addresses by the Rev. Dr. Thorne Sparkman of Bryn Mawr, Pa. Other lectures by the Very Rev. Robert McGregor, Dean of Newark; the Rev. Leslie J. A. Lang and Capt. Robert Jones of the Church Army.

June 29th-August 1st — The St. John's Conferences for high school students, at St. John's-in-the-Wilderness, Bear Mountain. Five successive five-day conferences beginning Sunday evenings. For young people over 13 years of age and/or above grade eight.

August 22nd-September 2nd — New York Youth Conferences at Wooster School, Danbury, Conn. Aug. 22nd-27th, Junior High Students; Aug. 28th-September 2nd, Senior High Students.

September 15th-20th — Workshop on Creative Drama at the Bishop Donegan Conference Center, Tuxedo Park, under leadership of Mrs. Isabel Burger, Director of the Children's Theatre of Baltimore. For Sunday School teachers and leaders of children's groups.

For literature on all the above programs write or phone the Diocesan Department of Christian Education.

Bear Mt. Youth Program Planned

THE St. John's Conferences are an important new development in the Diocesan Youth Program. At St. John's-in-the-Wilderness (the "Hiker's Church") in Bear Mountain Park several different groups of young people will spend five days each exploring the close relationship between Worship and Work.

This property was decided upon as a Diocesan Youth Center in 1956 but this summer's extensive program will be the first real test of its potential as a focus for small youth conferences.

The St. John's Conferences, planned and sponsored by the Youth Division of the Department of Christian Education, will be under the direct supervision of members of the staff of the Department, with the Rev. Donald Cheetham serving as Program Director throughout the five weeks. The Rev. Kenneth Costin, Vicar of St. John's-in-the-Wilderness will also be active in the program.

Present accommodations will take care of twenty-four young people plus leadership. Three of this year's conferences will appeal to special groups as indicated in the following schedule:

|---|---|
| June 29th – July 5th | – Acolytes |
| July 6th – July 11th | – Any young people |
| July 13th – July 18th | – Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Girls' Friendly Society |
| July 20th – July 25th | – Any young people |
| July 27th – Aug. 1st | – Athletic teams |

Further conferences can be run in August if enrollment in the July conferences is complete and there are still requests for opportunity to participate.

Young people over 13 years of age and/or above the eighth grade may be enrolled if they are in good health. Living conditions are safe but "pioneer." Daily Eucharist, meditations, work periods, swim periods (at Lake Sebago) and evening instructions make up the basic program. Interior work on the rectory and exterior work on the grounds, including the development of a recreation field, will be the major work projects.

Charges will be below cost at $12.50 for each five day period. Help from the Woman's Auxiliary and the Diocesan Youth budget keep costs to young people at a minimum.

The property at St. John's-in-the-Wilderness has all the basic features of an outstanding youth center. With the recreational facilities of Bear Mountain Park on the doorstep this Diocesan owned property is capable of development and expansion in many significant directions. Support for this year's program, both by parishes and their young people, will provide encouragement to improve and increase the facilities for use in other years.

THE BULLETIN

of the Diocese of New York

JUNE, 1958

ARE WE COMMITTED? . . .

THERE is a saying among those who advertise and sell products that "you can't sell from an empty wagon." This applies in any line of endeavor, even though the word "sell" may not be the most appropriate term. It applies with equal force to the work of the Church, particularly the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign. The only purpose of the Campaign is to make possible a more adequate job in our home mission field.

Those who talk about the Fund—those who have accepted the responsibility of leadership at the Diocesan, Convocation, Area and Parish levels —must have the basic conviction that what they are engaged in is a tremendously important work which, if not done now, will probably not ever be done.

There are varying degrees of conviction and, therefore, varying degrees of interest. But those who are charged with leadership must have strong conviction—deep dedication—if they are to transmit their concern and enthusiasm to those for whom they have accepted leadership. The surest test of dedication is the degree of sacrifice the leader himself is willing to make for the cause. And until he makes a commitment that is meaningful to him he cannot feel the full force of dedication.

This is not a question of how much he gives to the Fund in terms of dollars, but rather how great has been his contribution in terms of what he is able to give.

How, then, to test this degree of conviction leading to making a sacrificial gift to the Fund? The Divine Commission charged the Church to go into all nations, teaching and baptizing. The Light was that Light that came into the world to lighten all men—not just the few. If this is accepted, the next questions are: "What can I do to help the Church reach all nations, therefore, all men, for whom the Light came into the world?" And, bringing this home, "How can I help in one segment of one nation, among my own neighbors?"

Each of us can rationalize his own viewpoint, but in so doing one must be honest. If the Diocese is to succeed in carrying out the mandate of the Convention to raise the funds necessary for the task outlined by Bishop Donegan at the last three Conventions, those who gave the mandate—and those who agreed to lead—must stand up and be counted. Not until then can the Campaign move forward.

This applies to all the delegates and officials, both clergy and laity, who have said: "Yes, I believe in this project and will carry the story to others who come within my sphere of influence. I will tell it with the conviction which has come to me through making my own meaningful commitment."

Until that time comes we are "Selling from an empty wagon."

Campaign Progress

ST. JAMES', MANHATTAN, NEARS $170,000

According to an interim report at Convention time, St. James' Church, Manhattan, under vigorous leadership, has reached the sum of $165,661 in their parish campaign for the 175th Anniversary Fund of the Diocese.

Previous to starting the parish campaign, Mr. John Rutherfurd, parish co-chairman, had made an extensive tour of the areas in which the Diocese plans to build and expand churches and missions. Following his tour he addressed the congregation at a Sunday morning service to report on the great need for an all-out effort on the part of the parish.

Several other parishes report progress in their campaign activities, including, in Manhattan, Heavenly Rest, Ascension, St. Ignatius, Incarnation, Resurrection, Trinity, St. Stephen's, St. Michael's, St. Edward the Martyr, St. Esprit, St. Bartholomew's, St. Mark's, St. Phillip's, and St. Andrew's. In Westchester: Redeemer, Pelham; St. Mary the Virgin, Chappaqua; Christ Church, Pelham Manor; St. John's, Larchmont; St. John's, Getty Square, Yonkers; St. John's, Tuckahoe; St. John's, Pleasantville; St. Peter's, Peekskill; St. Paul's, Yonkers; Ascension, Mt. Vernon; Divine Love, Montrose; St. Luke's, Katonah.

Up to Convention time fifty-six slide presentations had been made in parishes and at various group meetings. In addition to the slide presentation, question periods were held in most cases. Typical of the questions most frequently asked are:

1. How can a parish be expected to give to the Fund when they have so many needs of their own in the direction of repairs or additions to plant?

All needs must be viewed in their order of priority. The Diocese has undertaken to meet the urgent needs of its home mission field. This is not an "extra," just a rapid acceleration of what the Diocese has been doing continuously. Most of the present churches in the Diocese came into being through the missionary spirit of leaders of established churches who, when they saw an opportunity to extend the work, set about to raise the necessary funds and establish a church to meet the need. At the same time it is recognized that growing parishes need to expand their facilities. All parishes have the responsibility of maintaining the fabric. The question is not a matter of deciding whether a parish will either support the home mission program of the Church or support its own requirements. Each must have attention. Each must be given the benefit of earnest, prayerful consideration by people who understand their Church and its mission. It is dangerous for any one person or group to decide that individual families in a parish cannot be expected to support the Diocesan program. Only the families involved have the right to make that decision, and they can only make an intelligent decision when the facts are made available to them.

2. Isn't this concern for the many millions of unchurched people a new idea for the Episcopal Church?

The Church has always been concerned about the spiritual nurture of all people. If it has appeared that it was not concerned about them it is because we have, in too many cases, become too parochial. Again, recall, that most churches started as missions because our established congregations were concerned about the spiritual life of others.

3. Why must this program be done now. Why can't it wait for a more propitious time?

We have already waited too long. While the percentage of unchurched people in our Diocese may not have changed appreciably in many years the number of people involved is greater. Further, life keeps getting more and more complex for all people, but much more so for those who have no spiritual reservoir to sustain them. Mankind needs the Church and it is the job of the Church to bring people into the orbit of the Christian life within the hearing of the gospel.

INTERIM REPORTS ON 175th ANNIVERSARY FUND CAMPAIGNS

Following are interim reports received at press time from several of the parishes who are in the midst of their campaigns for the 175th Anniversary Fund. Many other parishes have started their campaigns but have not yet reported.

BISHOP'S ADDRESS HIGHLIGHTS CONVENTION

SPEAKING before the more than one thousand delegates and visitors at the 1958 Diocesan Convention, Bishop Donegan said, "We have set as our Anniversary Fund target for 1958 a minimum goal of $1,750,000. We can reach this objective if it is our desire to do so."

The Bishop devoted a sizable portion of his address to the 175th Anniversary Fund to expand the work of the Church in the home missionary field.

"At our Convention last year you directed your Bishop and Council to embark upon a great missionary endeavor, the creation of a multi-million dollar fund for the expansion of much of our present work and the creation of new work in the areas affected by the new communities being developed in New York City. You also directed that we include in the Campaign a million dollar revolving fund for loans to our growing parishes and missions.

"We have learned much in the past year and we can give credit to our Campaign for this learning process. We have found many of our people willing to give and work so that the Church may grow, but I must report to you that there are some who have busied themselves with explanations and excuses for deeds not done.

"It would be good to be able to report that we have learned how to distinguish between the type of parish that will support a missionary effort such as this, and one that will not even try to support such an undertaking. But I cannot tell you how to make such a distinction.

"We look on two parishes of similar size, similar plant, in the same kind of neighborhood and with approximately the same budget. One goes wholeheartedly into the program. The other does nothing.

"During this Campaign I have been asked many times to give estimates of amounts that should be raised by a church. Members of the Diocesan staff have been asked the same question.

"You will recall that the plan recommended by our fund-raising counsel, based on interviews with many of our clergy, and laity, was that and I quote: 'Instead of rigid quotas, each parish be urged to study fully the problem before the Church and assume voluntarily a worthy share in the total undertaking.' We promised that there would be no quotas, and there have been none, and there will be none.

"You also know that the need is so great that it would tax the resources of even as large a Diocese as ours. I do believe, however, that there is a formula which can guide us and that is one which you have yourselves established for the Diocese.

"Ever since the establishment of the National Council in 1919, and the assignment to Dioceses of shares in the National Council missionary program in 1920, the Diocese of New York has given to the National Council at least as much as it retained for itself.

"Since this is the canonical formula for our Diocese in relation to the National Church, would it not seem to be equally applicable to a congregation in its relation to the Diocese? And so I suggest to each parish and mission that it take as its minimum goal – and I repeat MINIMUM GOAL—at least the amount that the congregation spends on itself in one year. For some congregations this will be difficult and may not be forthcoming this year, or next, or even the next. For others it is likely that the goal will be achieved this year. Some will exceed the goal this year – one already has reached this objective this year.

"If a parish or a mission takes such a formula, the minimum it would give in 1958 to the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign would be the difference between its Diocesan quota and the amount of its annual budget.

"In each succeeding year of the Campaign a similar plan should be undertaken. I hope that even after the Campaign is completed, each parish and mission will continue to think in terms of the great opportunities of our Church for growth in our nation and in the world and always strive for this minimum goal of giving to others at least as much as we spend on ourselves.

"There is fine progress to report as we prepare for our 175th Anniversary in 1960. We know that by the anniversary year we shall have in readiness a new church plant at Clason Point where thousands of new residents are to be housed in large apartment buildings now under construction.

"This new work has been undertaken as a special project by St. James', Manhattan. To date we have received in gifts and pledges $165,661 from the people of St. James' for this purpose.

"Another item in our Anniversary Program is the building of a new parish house for St. Paul's in the Bronx. Here unsightly tenements are being torn down for new housing, thereby leaving our Church in what amounts to a park setting. Our plan is to have the new facilities ready at St. Paul's by the time the new families start moving into the community. Still another project underway is the expansion of both plant and program at St. Mary's, Manhattanville, and at St. Edward the Martyr on East 109th Street in Manhattan.

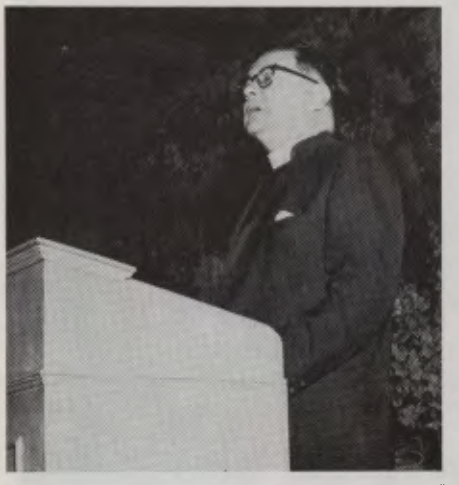
"All of this we know we will do by 1960, but let us not forget the other urgent requirements toward which the campaign is oriented. We need to acquire sites for new churches in several critical areas outside the city where our studies show marked population growth and new concentration of industry. Indeed I would not want you to forget a single project to which this endeavor is directed.

"Last year you voted to approve this campaign, and I have assumed ever since that you shared my concern and would participate wholeheartedly in the task which I believe God has placed before us. You will recall that I told you at that time '. . . . if you vote for this campaign you commit yourselves to a strenuous task. It will not be easy. It will require hard work, and sacrificial giving.'

"I also said that 'If an amount commensurate with our minimum needs is to be raised, it must come in large individual gifts from the devoted men and women of our Church . . .'

"In simple terms, the job was to organize our forces in two directions: One, to appeal to the generosity of those of our people whose resources are such that, in the light of what they do for social agencies, hospitals, cultural centers, schools, universities and other educational institutions, they might give serious consideration to the great task facing the Diocese and make substantial financial gifts to the effort. This has been termed the Special Gifts phase, through which it was our expectation that a major portion of the needed funds would be raised.

"The other direction was the great number of our people in the parishes who, while their financial resources are not great, would want to give sacrificially to the Fund. This we called the General Canvass phase.



THE FORMER DEAN of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, J.S.D., D.D., Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese of California, bids farewell to the Convention just before leaving by plane for his consecration at San Francisco.

"In the Special Gifts phase, the work has not proceeded as expeditiously as I had hoped. Progress has been slow. I have devoted as much time as is humanly possible, even at the expense of my regular duties as Diocesan, to this phase of the campaign. Yet with all that I can possibly do, I cannot begin to do the job alone. We have not had sufficient assistance from people of the calibre necessary to do the job. Therefore, the Special Gifts phase must go on.

"We shall keep at it unceasingly, and I shall continue my constant efforts to interest possible large contributors, and every aspect of the campaign will continue to have my personal attention.

"Turning now to the brighter side — the General Canvass phase — the work in the parishes is, with some few exceptions, on schedule. Beginning with 'kick-off' dinners during February and March in the Westchester and Manhattan Convocations, we have made steady progress in organizing the Convocations into areas, and through the area structure to the individual parishes.

"All the resources available to me have been brought to bear in setting up and conducting training sessions for parish chairmen, in producing materials through which to tell the dramatic story of our needs and the methods by which we can accomplish the parish campaigns in an orderly, meaningful way.

"Many parishes are now at work in carrying the story to their people, and I am greatly heartened by the way in which the clergy and laity of these parishes are responding.

"It is our intention to press vigorously the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign in order that much of the program which was outlined to the Convention last year and of which you have read in the brochure may be completed.

"We have set as our target a goal of $1,750,000 as a minimum in 1958. We can reach the objective if it is your desire to do so."

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

Speaking of the alarming increase in juvenile delinquency, the Bishop said:

"Anyone who reads the newspapers at all cannot fail to be aware of the alarming proportion to which what is called 'juvenile delinquency' has grown. The incidents have become increasingly numerous, vivid, and shocking. This is neither the time nor the occasion to discuss the sociological, psychological and penological aspects of this problem, but there are two things which I believe a Bishop in whose city such a condition is growing more rampant should say, not simply in his own name, but in the hope that the responsible people in convention assembled will also say, and act upon in our city:

"First, judging from what I read in the press and from what I hear from responsible people, I would hope that our Mayor, Commissioner of Police and Police Department, our school administrators, and our municipal and voluntary social agencies, are bending their efforts with seriousness and concern toward reducing the extent of this menace to us all and will seek to implement a firm but redemptive approach to this problem. I think it is important that Church people and all our citizens give every support to their efforts and join with their criticisms which is the right of citizenship—words of commendation where such are appropriate.

"Second, to the Church itself I say this: in the long run there will be no

BISHOP BOYNTON GIVES REPORT ON COUNCIL

CLERICAL AND LAY DELEGATES are shown assembled in Synod Hall for the opening of the 177th Convention of the Diocese of New York.

RIGHT REVEREND SIR AND DELEGATES:

IT is once again my privilege to report to you the work of the Council of the Diocese during the past year.

At the annual meeting held on Thursday, May 16, 1957, the Bishop greeted the new members of the Council and announced his appointments to membership on the Council, named the chairmen of the several departments and assignments to departments of all members both appointed by him and elected by Convention.

The nomination by the Department of Christian Education of the Rev. Raymond DeWitt Mallary, Jr. as Associate Director for College Work was approved.

The Bishop congratulated the Special Committee of the Department of Christian Social Relations for the excellent "Statement of Guiding Principles and Goals for the Church-Related Health and Welfare Services in the Diocese of New York," which it had prepared, and the Council voted that it be published and distributed to appropriate persons and agencies.

The October meeting of the Council was held at Seabury House, Greenwich, Connecticut. Full reports of fall programs were presented by all the departments, the Woman's Auxiliary and affiliated agencies to the Council. The Bishop introduced Mr. Albert E. Brownbridge, appointed in June as full-time Director of the Department of Christian Social Relations, who assisted in the presentation of the report of that Department.

Two actions relating to the Department of Promotion are worthy of note. The Council congratulated the Department on its increasingly effective program of stewardship throughout the Diocese and urged it to continue to exert its influence in the expansion of this deeply spiritual as well as practical enterprise. The Council also voted to discontinue the Advent Mite Box Offering either under the sponsorship of the Diocese or of any diocesan-connected agency. These boxes will again be available to those parishes and missions which desire to use them to supplement their giving to the quota.

The major portion of the October meeting was concerned with the Capital Funds Campaign approved by this Convention. The Bishop created a 175th Anniversary Fund Steering Committee and appointed members of the Council to it, with Mr. Charles F. Bound as Chairman.

Owing to a sudden heavy snowstorm, the Council was not able to hold its January meeting at the Conference Center as planned. With the excellent cooperation of the staff of Cathedral House, the Council was able to be housed and fed at the Cathedral.

Highlights from the reports of the several departments and affiliated agencies of the Council were as follows:

(1) Mrs. Gurney Williams reported:

(a) Change in the Woman's Auxiliary status in the National Council. She said that whereas no immediate change in our Diocesan organization is anticipated, there is a trend towards coordination of the Woman's Auxiliary departments and diocesan departments in program and planning.

(b) The U.T.O. Ingathering for the Triennial, as of December, was $149,648, compared to approximately $126,000 at the same time during the previous Triennial and represents an increase of 18½%.

(2) The Rev. Dr. Kennedy, in his report of the Department of Promotion, announced the appointment of Mr. Eric Ley as Assistant Director of the Department. (Mr. Ley has subsequently become known to many through his intimate activities in connection with the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign and the spring Convocation programs.)

(3) The Rev. Mr. Mulligan, reporting on the Seamen's Church Institute, announced the coming retirement, after many years of faithful and able service, of Mr. Clarence G. Michalis as President of the Board of Managers.

(4) Mr. Harrison Fiddesof gave his progress report on the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign. As a result of his report, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"The Council approves in principle a plan to allow special projects in the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign to be assumed by individual parishes." (Several parishes have taken advantage of this plan.)

The major portion of the January meeting was devoted, as usual, to the report of the Department of Finance as to 1957 receipts, adjustment of the 1958 Council Budget and the presentation of the 1959 Council Budget with appropriate actions on the latter two.

1957 Receipts

The Council received the report of the Treasurer which showed that in 1957 gifts toward the missionary objective of the Diocese totaled $777,458, the highest on record. $424,214 was paid to the National Council, also a record, though still short of the apportionment to the Diocese.

Adjustment of 1958 Council Budget

The Department of Finance reported that estimates from the parishes and missions as to the amounts they could be expected to contribute toward the missionary objective of the Diocese in 1958 totaled $753,000. The objective is $950,395. The canonical share of the Diocese in the anticipated 1958 receipts being 47.5%, the Council found it necessary to adjust the askings of the departments and agencies to a total of $367,624. The Council Budget for 1958 as reduced was as follows:

Council Departments

|---|---|
| Missions | $186,815 |
| Christian Education | 57,892 |
| Christian Social Relations | 20,483 |
| Finance | 3,650 |
| Promotion | 46,784 |
| | $315,624 |
| Affiliated Agencies | 52,000 |
| | $367,624 |

The Department of Finance was given authority to meet any deficit from operation of the Bishop Donegan Episcopal Conference Center.

1959 Council Budget

The Council Budget for 1959, approved at this meeting, represents a reduction from the 1958 budget, as approved by Convention, of $11,568.

It is now my privilege to summarize for the Convention the full reports of the several Departments of the Council submitted to me as Secretary.

Department of Missions

The Bishop, as President of the Board of Managers, has already reported in his Convention Address on the progress made by the Department of Missions during the previous year. The following items are added as being of interest to Convention:

(1) The Board of Managers, acting under the authority delegated to it by the Diocesan Convention last year, purchased, equipped and now operates the Bishop Donegan Episcopal Conference Center at Tuxedo Park.

(2) The Board of Managers, as the entity responsible for implementing the projects to be financed by the 175th Anniversary Fund, has maintained close contact with the Campaign's progress.

(3) The Board assumed responsibility for the payment of premiums of Medical Catastrophe Insurance covering all clerical and lay persons employed by the Board.

(4) Under the stimulus of the Board, several successful canvasses, some conducted with professional guidance, have taken place during 1957 in our missions and assisted parishes. As a result the following five churches have reached self-support:

Good Shepherd, Granite Springs
St. Luke's, Katonah
St. Barnabas, Ardsley
St. John's, South Salem
Divine Love, Montrose

The Board is also happy to report that St. Paul's, Pleasant Valley, and St. Andrew's, New Paltz, have had canvasses resulting in almost tripling the income of previous years, and similar campaigns are now being organized at Holy Cross, Kingston, and St. Peter's, Stone Ridge.

The Council extends congratulations to the clergy and congregations represented in these successful efforts.

(5) Because of changing conditions, the Church of the Holy Communion, Liberty; St. Luke's, Haverstraw; All Saints, Rosendale; San Salvatore, Manhattan and St. Cyprian's, Manhattan, have been closed and the communicants transferred to neighboring congregations.

Department of Promotion

It became the duty of the staff to undertake a considerable portion of the work in connection with the General Canvass phase of the 175th Anniversay Fund Campaign. This involved many assignments, including the planning and direction of the "kick-off" dinners for the Westchester and Manhattan Convocations together with the preparation of informational materials used at the dinners and the enlistment of sponsors to serve on the Sponsors Committee.

CONGRATULATED BY CONVENTION. Shown above are the Rector and officers of St. Barnabas Church, Ardsley, which, with Good Shepherd, Granite Springs, St. Luke's, Katonah, and St. John's, South Salem, became a self-supporting parish on January 1st and was admitted into union with the Convention by action of the delegates. From left to right: Thomas Mack and Charles Van Brunt, wardens, Howard Ayers, treasurer, and the Rev. Donald J. Gardner.

The staff undertook the assignment of preparing the necessary instruction materials and to train the Westchester and Manhattan area and parish chairmen in procedures for conducting campaigns for the Fund in the parishes. With few exceptions this training has been completed.

Additional assignments included revisions to the Campaign brochure

W. A. REPORTS ACTIVE YEAR

To The Diocesan Convention:

In December the Diocesan Board was advised of action taken by the National Executive Board and the National Council on the merging of certain portfolios of the W.A. with the appropriate departments and divisions of the National Council.

The action taken by National Council, upon the unanimous recommendation of the National Executive Board of the W.A., changes the status of the organization from Auxiliary to a General Division of Women's Work of the Council, composed of the members of the National Executive Board of the W.A. The New York Diocesan Board welcomes this action as a step forward in making women's work an integral part of the life and work of the Church. Neither our Diocesan organization, nor work plans, is in any way affected at the moment; any changes in our Diocese will be gradual and appropriate and will provide the means for greater service—not less.

While our work in the Diocese may not be "history-making", as is the case on a National level, much has been accomplished as evidenced by the reports which follow the general summary of the year. One important forward step is toward better communication. Beginning in October, all W.A. news and the Calendar of Events will be included in The Diocesan Bulletin. This is in line with our overall policy to present our work as part of the work of the Church in this Diocese.

In January, a Consultation Conference was held with three members of the National Staff and the Diocesan Executive Board. Discussion was general, but two aspects of the discussion were of particular concern to us: (1) Our program should take into consideration the needs of all women of the Church and be wide enough in scope and understanding to include all. (2) A unified program including all phases of the work must have not only long range aims but short term goals; this would include responsibility to parish and Diocesan projects, such as the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign.

Attendance at Diocesan Meetings was larger this year than last, with an average attendance of 255. But attendance figures are often as indicative of the weather as the interest of members. Again we thank the Deaconesses and Girls' Friendly for serving coffee and sandwiches to those attending meetings at Synod Hall.

During the year we have been conscious of, and are deeply grateful for, the wonderful backing of the Clergy. We appreciate, too, the interest shown by Diocesan Department personnel and the cooperation of the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral in many ways. And, especially we thank our Bishops for their interest, support and encouragement in all that we undertake.

Schools of Worship

The sixth Diocesan School of Worship held at the Cathedral four Mondays in November on the subject "Christian Living" completed the coverage of the six volumes in the Church's Teaching Series. The registration of 324 was the largest to date. On the same dates, an Evening School of Worship with a registration of 130 men and women was conducted in downtown Manhattan parishes. These schools are jointly sponsored by the W.A. and the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral. Mrs. Charles S. Reid, Chairman, in her report wrote: "The School of Worship is a unique part of our Diocesan Life; a means of both spiritual and intellectual growth." District Schools are held in Richmond, Westchester, and Dutchess.

United Thank Offering

The total offering for the year 1957

was $63,393.49. The triennium figure at the end of the year was $149,648.22 which is $23,386.70 more than the amount in the preceding triennium. 9,437 women shared in the Advent offering. Mrs. Harold Pim, who has been the Diocesan custodian for the past six years, has earned the great gratitude of all of us for her devotion and constant effort to make known the true meaning of thanksgiving.

Devotional Life

The program, which includes help and guides for prayer and Bible study groups, special Lenten programs, "Quiet Days", opening services of prayer for all meetings, continues to stress the necessity of seeking God's will and guidance in all that we undertake. One achievement stands out this year: the Diocesan Retreat was attended by more women than could be accommodated overnight at the House of the Redeemer.

Christian Social Relations

Programs are planned in conjunction with the Diocesan Department. The District chairmen report that varied and worthwhile volunteer activities in Church-related and other institutions are progressing.

Interest and enthusiastic support of Miss Alice Palmer's work in Port and Immigration continues. Since the closing of Ellis Island, the scope of service is wider and Miss Palmer, working from three offices, is accomplishing more than ever.

Christian Education

The program is planned to help members grow in their understanding of the whole program of the Church. Resource material presented to parish leaders helps to build a foundation for their work. A diversified program of study is recommended and techniques suggested for its development. Leader's Training courses, under the chairmanship of Mrs. George W. Barrett, have been given in the Districts of Manhattan, Westchester, Hudson-Ramapo, Dutchess and the Bronx. At a Program Planning Conference in April, Diocesan Program objectives for the coming year were presented. ONE FAMILY IN CHRIST, the Triennial theme, has been adopted for the Diocesan theme.

Personnel and Youth Work

A Youth and College Fund for conferences was established this year to provide assistance to students attending summer conferences and women attending the Christian Vocational Conference. The Eleanor S. McCulloh Memorial Fund to provide scholarships and other help for Windham House students is now at $4,558.00.

Mission Supply

The Cutting Room at Diocesan House continues to bustle with activity on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The total value of Mission Supply work in the Diocese during 1957 was $29,732.28, with 200 parish groups participating in the work. A decrease of $1,000 in Missionary sewing was balanced by a corresponding increase in work for Diocesan Institutions with 113 Branches participating. There is an increasing need for contributions to Readymade and Dispensary funds and parishes will be asked to increase their gifts to these funds.

Church Periodical Club

The second largest sum contributed by a Diocese to the National Book Fund was $504.00 from our Diocese. On a Diocesan level, magazine subscriptions were given to Chaplains and $624.63 was spent for books for seminarians. In addition, $274.00 was spent by individual parishes in supplying books to seminarians from their own parishes. Reports from about a third of the parishes produce these statistics: 42,000 magazines in bulk, 124 subscriptions to magazines, 243 remails; over 500 bibles and hymnals, 2,300 new and used books were distributed.

Respectfully submitted,
LOIS WILLIAMS

National Council Changes

CHANGES in the status of three organizations affiliated with the National Council of our Church were approved at the Spring meeting of the Council. Bringing the organizations within the Council's administrative structure, these changes affect the Woman's Auxiliary, the Presiding Bishop's Committee on Laymen's Work, and the Committee on Recruiting for the Ministry.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the National Council becomes the General Division of Women's Work. Mrs. Arthur M. Sherman will continue as executive director.

The women of the Church will continue to meet in triennial session at the time of the General Convention. Their United Thank Offering will also be continued.

The new Division will continue to have four nominated representatives on the National Council; eight members elected to represent the Provinces on the Division and eight members elected to the Division by the Triennial, also one member each to represent the GFS, Daughters of the King, Episcopal Service for Youth, the Church Periodical Club.

The Presiding Bishop's Committee on Laymen's Work has similarly become the new General Division of Laymen's Work. The Rev. Howard V. Harper retains the title of Executive Director. The new Division will have four members appointed by the National Council and eleven additional members including the present eight provincial Chairmen of Laymen's Work and the Committee's three members-at-large.

The Committee on Recruiting, inaugurated by action of General Convention, was incorporated into the National Council's structure as a new Unit of Church Vocations, responsible to the Council's president. It will concern itself with recruiting for the ministry and for professional Church work; with the coordination of all Church work training except theological education; and with personnel services for all lay people who "are now or may be employed in professional Church work."

Many Parishes March On Day Of Witness

More than 2,000 clergy and laypeople of the Diocese of New York marched in procession to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine on Saturday, May 10th, as part of the fifth annual Day of Witness to Christian Brotherhood.

The colorful parade of marchers, bands and floats formed at St. Michael's Church, Amsterdam Avenue and 99th Street and moved up Amsterdam Avenue behind the Elks band from the Henry Lincoln Johnson Lodge. The second section was led by the Manhattanaires, a Police Athletic League band. On arrival at the Cathedral the procession entered for the choral Eucharist celebration by Bishop Boynton. Bishop Donegan and attending clergy greeted the marchers as they entered the Cathedral.

Churches and orders represented in the procession included Holy Trinity, 88th Street; Incarnation Chapel; Intercession Chapel; St. Christopher's Chapel; St. Edward the Martyr; St. Mark's in-the-Bouwerie; St. Mary's, Manhattanville; St. Mary the Virgin; St. Matthew and St. Timothy; St. Michael's; St. Peter's, Chelsea; Trinity; St. Augustine's Chapel; St. Peter's, Westchester; St. Ann's, Bronx; St. Paul's, Bronx; St. Margaret's, Bronx; Heavenly Rest; St. James; St. Luke the Beloved Physician; Grace Church, Jersey City; St. Andrew's, Beacon; St. James the Less, Scarsdale.

Among the orders represented were the Order of the Holy Cross, Sisters of St. Margaret, Sisters of St. Helena, Sisters of the Holy Spirit and the Sisters of the Holy Nativity.

Liturgy And Parish Conference

Through the "Liturgy and the Parish Church" conference scheduled for the week June 8th through the 14th, at the Chapel of the Intercession, Broadway and 155th Street, New York, the Department of Christian Education offers intensive training for both clergy and laity.

Shorn of its ecclesiastical connotations the word "liturgy" means, "public work". The public work of Christians is public worship. The Church early adopted this secular word to describe her highest function, and the worship of the Church became the Liturgy.

The three-fold purpose of the Conference is: 1. To assert the centrality of corporate worship in the life of the parish church; 2. to relate the Christian's life and work to the Faith proclaimed by the Church through the Liturgy; 3. to affirm the place of Christ in the Christian's experience through meeting others in His name.

To demonstrate this truth the Conference will employ a variety of methods and presentations. In addition to the daily offering of Prayer Book worship there will be lectures, study classes, seminars, "practice sessions" and "Team visits" in the homes of people previously prepared from among the co-operating parishes.

Key leadership for the Conference will be provided by the Rev. Dr. William Nes of Seabury-Western Theological Seminary, and the Rev. Canon E. W. Southcott, Vicar of St. Wilfred's Parish, Halton, Leeds, England, author of Receive This Child and The Parish Comes Alive which was the Bishop of New York Book for 1957.

New Organ At St. George's Church

Work has begun at St. George's, Manhattan, on the removal of the large gallery organ in the Church. The gallery will then be converted into additional seating space.

A new organ will be installed during the summer months and is expected to be dedicated during September of this year.

Services will be transferred from the church to the chapel on Sunday, June 22nd to allow removal of the chancel sections of the present organ and installation of the new organ. The church will remain closed during the summer months and plans are being made to accommodate the summer congregations in the chapel.

Every Member Canvass Issue

The October issue of the Bulletin will be devoted largely to the parish Every Member Canvass.

Parishes desiring additional copies are urged to place their orders as soon as possible.

For the first time since its founding, the sacrament of confirmation was administered to a class at the New York Military Academy, Cornwall-on-Hudson.

On April 11th Bishop Boynton confirmed twenty cadets, many of them from such far away places as Paris, France, and the Island of Bahrain in the Persian Gulf. More than half of the confirmands had previously been members of denominations other than the Episcopal Church.

The class was presented by the Rev. Arnold A. Fenton, Academy Chaplain, and formerly rector of St. Thomas' Church, Mamaroneck.

A SUMMER CHURCH WELCOMES YOU

EXTERIOR OF THE CHAPEL of St. James the Fisherman, showing the unusual steeple structure and building design.

ONE of the most unusual church buildings in America is approaching its first birthday. Opened for services July 7th, 1957, the Episcopal Chapel of St. James the Fisherman, in Wellfleet, Mass., with its square floor plan and center altar, expresses the oldest Christian pattern of a church building.

Originally designed so that no person would be more than four seats away from the Holy Table, the building seated about 200. However, so great has been the interest and attendance that additional seats have been installed to expand the seating to 250.

The beams which support the steeple begin at the floor level and rise to form the baldichino, or canopy-like structure over the altar. The shingling on the steeple begins about one third of the way up from the roof of the church building, permitting daylight to flood the altar. Additional light is supplied by a band of windows around the base of the building, about three feet high.

Unique in design and construction, so also is the feature of participation by the congregation as a Christian family. In keeping with the ancient, primitive custom, laymen rise from where they are seated with their families to read the lessons; others bring up the Portuguese bread, native to the Cape, and the wine used as oblations. The seats for the clergy and for the choir are in with the congregation, conjoining them with their own families. The choir does not perform as such but rather leads the people in the corporate singing. The Gospel is read from the pulpit by the clergy.

The Chapel serves the summer community in Wellfleet, Truro and Eastham. About half of the average Sunday congregation is made up of Episcopalians. The remainder are from various other denominations.

An interesting feature of the program is that, following the service of Morning Prayer, Holy Communion and Sermon at 9:30 on Sundays and Holy-days, the congregation gathers in the grove outside the church for refreshments. This is the agapé of the early Church, which was generally associated with the Eucharist and its accompanying Service of the Word.

Activity at the Chapel is not restricted to Sundays and Holy days. Many of the laypeople take turns as guides for the more than 150 visitors who come each day to see this unique structure.

While acting as guides the laymen seek to interest visitors in attending the service on Sunday, frequently giving a personal invitation to the visitors and offering to call them on Saturday as a reminder.

With the help of people of many diverse occupations: a railroad vice-president, university professors, a psychoanalyst, school teachers and retired people, all of whom helped with painting, clearing the ground, landscaping and surfacing the parking lot, the cash outlay was held to $24,000.

The Chapel of St. James the Fisherman is under the charge of the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, J.S.D., D.D., Bishop Coadjutor of California. Associated with him is the Very Rev. John B. Coburn, D.D., Dean of the Episcopal Theological Seminary, Cambridge, Mass.

C. S. R. Committee's Resolution Passed

THE Convention approved a resolution offered by the Department of Christian Social Relations to encourage the formation at the parish level of a Christian Social Relations Committee.

The resolution as offered and approved was as follows:

Whereas, our concern for Christian Citizenship and service in the fields of health and welfare would be more effectively put into action if there were organized Christian Social Relations Committees in the parishes of this Diocese, and

Whereas, only a limited amount of such activity is now being carried on in our parishes, other than the commendable work of the Woman's Auxiliary in this area, and the effectiveness of our Christian concern for problems found in both the local and the larger community can best be expressed on the parish level, be it

Resolved: that the members of this Annual Convention encourage the formation in each parish of a Christian Social Relations Committee with representation from the parish organizations and one or more persons with special competence from the congregation at large to work with the Rector and with the Department of Christian Social Relations of the Diocese on serious consideration of the Church's role with reference to current social problems.

Secretary Appointed

Mr. John H. Hewitt

MR. JOHN H. HEWITT, clerk of the vestry, has been appointed full-time Administrative Secretary of St. Phillip's Church, Manhattan. Mr. Hewitt has had wide experience as a business systems consultant. He studied at Harvard College and received his Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees from New York University. Following his university work he served as an instructor at Morehouse College and Atlanta University.

Tax Deductions Possible

CLERGYMEN who take summer school courses or college work at night to better prepare themselves for their ministry can now deduct the expense of this education on their income tax returns, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

All persons employed in religious education and many who work as "ministers of music" or as social workers for religious organizations can also benefit from the new regulation.

The principle requirement, specified in the IRS regulation, is that the education must be undertaken primarily for the purpose of "(1) Maintaining or improving skills required by the taxpayer in his employment or other trade or business or (2) Meeting the express requirements a taxpayer's employer, or the requirements of applicable laws or regulations, imposed as a condition to the retention by the taxpayer of his salary, status, or employment."

Whether or not the education undertaken falls within the definition of an allowable deduction depends on an individual investigation of each case by the Internal Revenue Service where the taxpayer files his annual return.

Ministers or church workers who feel that the summer school or night classes they have been taking can qualify under the standards, can apply on Form 843 for a refund on income taxes paid during calendar years 1955-56-57. The new exemption is retroactive to January 1, 1955.

Churchman Gets Award

Robert Young, an active member of All Saints' Church in Beverly Hills, California, was given an "Emmy" award by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences for his work in the NBC-TV series "Father Knows Best."

Mr. Young, the father of four daughters, had previously won a similar award in 1957. He is a special consultant to the Episcopal Church's Radio and TV Division and host of the Church's 15-minute radio series, "The Search."

solution to this problem which is not grounded in religious and ethical principles, and this is our task: to be more assiduous in bringing into the lives of young people the positive values and motivations which will make them want to live joyful and fruitful lives in peace and constructive relationship with the rest of those in their neighborhoods. To the extent that we fail, the judgment of God will be heavy upon us. This is not only a challenge to existing parishes and chapels with existing space and facilities, it is a challenge to the Diocese as a whole, to the extent that we have failed to provide churches and adequate facilities in many parts of our city where we could help supply a saving leaven. And in this our concern should not only be for the safety of our city, but also for the well-being and sound development as adults, of the young people in these areas. This is one aspect of what we are trying to do through the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign."

CONFIRMATION PREPARATION

In recommending a Diocesan commission on Confirmation preparation, the Bishop said:

"I wish to stress the importance of adequate Confirmation preparation. Too many after Confirmation become lapsed communicants, or conventional and casual Christians. This happens in part because of lack of commitment, and a lack of careful adequate instruction. Furthermore, there is often no follow-through of fellowship and interest on the part of the congregation in the newly confirmed. I would point out that this matter of adequate Confirmation preparation is not only the concern of the parish priest who presents the candidates, but also it is the concern of the Bishop who confirms them. Every person presented to the Bishop should understand that Confirmation is personal commitment to Christ and be aware of the obligations and duties of a Christian and a Churchman.

"On the recommendation of the Department of Christian Education I am organizing a Diocesan commission on Confirmation preparation to be made up of ordained and lay leadership well versed in the theological, pedagogical and parochial disciplines.

"The membership of this commission will be appointed immediately and I shall direct the commission to report its findings and recommendations to the next convention."

Bishop Announces Resignation of Convention Secretary

"I regret to state that the Rev. Lawrence B. Larsen has tendered to me his resignation as Secretary to take effect as of the expiration date of his term of office which, pursuant to the Canons, is December 31, 1958.

"The mounting demands of his parish and the imminence of a major building program prompted him to make this decision.

"He has served the Diocesan Convention since 1936 when he was appointed assistant Secretary under the Rev. A. D. Beaty. On the death of Mr. Beaty in 1951, Mr. Larsen was elected secretary. He is the first person to hold simultaneously the posts of Secretary of Convention and Registrar of the Diocese.

"I know I speak for all of you when I assure him of our deep gratitude for fine service rendered."

The Rev. Mr. Larsen was given an ovation by the Convention and spoke briefly.

CHURCH OF SOUTH INDIA

In speaking of the General Convention scheduled for October in Miami, Florida, Bishop Donegan stressed the importance of recommendations to be offered in regard to the Church of South India:

"An important item on the agenda of the 59th General Convention of the Church will be the recommendations of the Joint Commission on Ecumenical Relations in regard to our relationship with the Church of South India.

"General Convention should consider gravely and in a spirit of patience and humility and tolerance the commission's recommendations.

"In Christian charity naturally we would want to move toward church unity—the first time since the reformation that the Catholic and Protestant forces have come together to give a unified witness in a land where at best the total Christian witness is weak indeed.

"This carefully appointed commission on which all the facets of our Church's life is represented, recommends limitations at the present time, and production of the new edition for general distribution in the parishes, pictorial and verbal presentations of the Fund needs to parish meetings and groups, and the distribution of brochures and pledge cards to parishes in Manhattan and Westchester.

The staff gave counsel and advice to many parishes in adjusting Campaign procedures and timing at the local level to avoid conflict with other financial programs contemplated by the parish and has aided in processing letters of appreciation for gifts and pledges to the Fund.

For the second time the Department undertook the distribution of Advent Mite Boxes, which this year were in the form of cans rather than boxes. These were very popular, both in our Diocese and elsewhere. Proceeds from this collection were applied to the payment of quota and aided many small parishes and missions to contribute 100% or better of their quotas. The percentage of quota paid in 1957 broke the record which had been set in 1956.

Throughout the year both the Director and the Assistant Director have had the pleasure of meeting with vestries and advisory boards to help them in their planning for increased budgets and capital funds programs. Following out the Department's announced purpose of helping in the teaching of stewardship, parishes and missions have been able to report increases in giving ranging from 50% to more than 400%.

Owing to the rule of rotating membership, the Department must lose two of its valuable members this year. They have been fortunate in having had the enthusiastic assistance of Mr. Edward F. Thomas and Mr. Ellsworth E. R. Wallace.

Department of Christian Social Relations

Since the Convention last May, the Department of Christian Social Relations, under the Chairmanship of the Rev. John M. Mulligan, has given attention to the development of perspective and a base for the operation of this aspect of the program of the Church in the Diocese.

"The Statement of Guiding Principles and Goals for the Church-Related Health and Welfare Services in the Diocese of New York" was published and distributed.

The re-institution of a full-time staff service, with the continuance of the former Executive Director as Consultant, at the beginning of the autumn of 1957 enabled the Department to renew exploration of the relationship of the work to the National Council program, to the scope and functioning of the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies and to those secular welfare agencies operating in the areas of program of concern to this Department.

A resolution was passed supporting the Sharkey-Brown-Isaacs Bill in the City of New York.

In February, 1958, careful attention was given to the Court Reform Bill (then before the State Legislature), as revised, sponsored by the Temporary Commission on the Courts for a simplified state-wide court system. A resolution was unanimously passed giving the Department's endorsement of the Court Reform Bill.

The advisory, consultation and referral work of the Department with the clergy, and through them, with the laity of the Diocese on matters of welfare and health services and facilities available has developed steadily during the past year.

The Chairman and the Executive Director held consultations with the Deans and Convocation representatives of the Woman's Auxiliary and Christian Social Relations in three Convocations to discuss ways in which the program of the Department could be more closely related to the parishes and missions and the Convocations.

The increased emphasis on the importance of the parishes as the source of much of the content and direction for the program of the Church's work in all of its aspects can have a far-reaching effect on the program planning of this Department.

Department of Finance

The Department of Finance, in accordance with its canonical duties, has reviewed and studied the financial affairs of the Departments of the Council and the several agencies receiving financial assistance from the Council. All budgetary requests and financial operations were reviewed and a detailed report containing budgetary recommendations was submitted to the Council at its January meeting.

The Department of Finance also continued to act for the Council in matters of policy regarding staff salaries and personnel practices.

Because four of the Departments of the Council were represented on the program of the Spring Convocations, it seems fitting to mention these meetings in this report.

The Council takes this opportunity to thank the Bishop and the Deans of our seven Convocations for the privilege of explaining to some 1,000 clerical and lay representatives of the Diocese in Convocations assembled how the services available from the Departments of the Council support the theme of the spring meetings: "The Parish is the Church in the Community".

Having summarized the reports of four of the Departments of the Council, I now conclude by calling on the Department of Christian Education to present its report in full. It has not been our privilege to hear from this Department in detail since 1954. Much has been done in the intervening years under the consecrated and able Chairmanship of the Rev. Osborne Budd and the Rev. Robert R. Spears and the Directorship of the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore. I am sure you will all agree with me that the report of this vitally important department will make a fitting climax to the report of your Council for the year past.

Respectfully submitted,
CHARLES F. BOYNTON
Secretary

Christian Education Report

The report of the Department of Christian Education has been separately printed under the title 'Evangelistic Education—or Educational Evangelism', and was distributed to delegates at the Convention.

Copies of the report are available from the Department of Christian Education, Diocesan House, Cathedral Heights, New York 25, N. Y.

Staff Member Resigns

Miss Judy Gaylor has resigned from the staff of the Bulletin, on which she served in an editorial capacity.

Recommend Trial Of Revised Prayer Book

AMENDMENTS to the Episcopal Church's Constitution permitting trial use of a revised Book of Common Prayer are recommended to General Convention 1958 by the Church's Standing Liturgical Commission.

The Commission reiterated its statement made at the Convention of 1955 that the Constitution "as it now stands, does not permit, or can reasonably be argued not to permit, trial use of a revised Prayer Book, or of sections or Offices thereof."

The amendments would "authorize for trial use throughout this Church, as an alternative at any time or times to the established Book of Common Prayer or to any section of Office thereof, a proposed revision of the whole Book or of any portion thereof, duly undertaken by the General Convention."

As presently written, Article X of the Constitution requires that any change in the Prayer Book must be voted at one General Convention, studied by the Episcopal Church's diocesan and missionary district conventions, and finally adopted at the next succeeding General Convention.

BELIEVING

By HERBERT WADDAMS

In this book Canon Waddams, often described as the Church of England's Foreign Secretary, takes a new look at the Nicene Creed, which he describes as the Foundation document of the Christian faith. He provides, simply and cogently, the cultural, historical and theological background to the Creed in terms which any inquiring laymen can readily understand and appreciate. # THE KIRKBRIDE CONVERSATIONS

By HARRY BLAMIRES

The purpose of this S.P.C.K. book is to bridge the mental gap between those Christians who are informed about the Faith and people outside the fold whose idea of what Christians believe are so very wide of the mark. This is done in semi-fictional form, consisting mostly of conversations between a parish priest and a typical twentieth-century unbeliever. (Publication, May 26) $2.50 in our relationship to the Church of South India.

"With a liturgy as orthodox as any liturgy in Christendom, and strongly grounded in the apostolic episcopate the Church of South India is a living working reality—a new fact in Christian history, and therefore it calls for a new formula on the part of the historic churches of the Anglican communion.

"We must hold out the hand of Christian fellowship to a small group of Christian witnesses in a non-Christian land, and at the same time, affirm the principles of our Anglican tradition. These two things I believe the commission has admirably accomplished in its considered recommendations to the church."

FINANCES

The Bishop noted the increase in missions giving and in the Bishop's Fund for the Diocesan needs:

"Financially we have advanced this year. Missionary giving in 1957 continued its upward rise though at a lesser rate. The total given for the Program of the Church is $777,458.00 of which more than half, $423,714.00 was given to the National Council. This is the largest total amount ever to be contributed by our parishes and missions and our gift to the National Council was the largest of any Diocese, although we still failed to meet our apportionment. This evidence of an awakened concern on the part of our people for the total mission of the church is a cause for thanksgiving to God.

Admitted Into Union

The Bishop announced that the following had become self-supporting parishes. By action of the delegates they were admitted into union with Convention:

Good Shepherd, Granite Springs. The Rev. K. G. Drescher, Rector.

St. Luke's, Katonah. The Rev. H. H. F. Morton, Rector.

St. Barnabas, Ardsley. The Rev. D. J. Gardner, Rector.

St. John's, South Salem. The Rev. P. E. Parker, Rector.

"The offerings to the Bishop's Fund for Diocesan Needs received at the Episcopal visitations for Confirmation last year amounted to $25,752.00, surpassing the giving of the previous year. The major part of the Bishop's Fund was used toward the purchase of the Conference Center at Tuxedo Park.

"I want to expess to Mr. Charles S. Reid my thanks, and yours, for his long, faithful and able service to the Diocese as a member of the Committee on Diocesan Finances. First appointed in 1954, Mr. Reid has served ever since and was also a member of the Committee on the Reorganization of the Diocese."

Bishop Donegan congratulated Miss Ann Weber, Executive Secretary and Assistant to the Treasurer on her years of faithful service to the Diocese. Miss Weber was given an ovation by the Convention.

In concluding his address the Bishop, again referring to the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign, said:

"With all my heart I urge both clergy and laity to maximum effort in this the only campaign of its kind ever undertaken in the 173 years since its founding. Let us remember that the purpose of this Anniversary Fund and our every endeavor is to enable our Church to fulfill its God-given mission to bring to all people the unsearchable riches of Christ.

"Last October I concluded 10 years as Bishop in this Diocese, and I cannot close this report without expressing my sincere appreciation for your fellowship and cooperation.

" 'The Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ and the love of God and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost be with you evermore. Amen.' "

Seminary Reports Gifts

The General Theological Seminary has passed the $1,000,000 mark in its campaign for $3,500,000 for the new library and other needed building units. The largest single gift received to date was $500,000 from an anonymous donor.

New Gift Record Set

Total gift income for the University of the South in 1957 set a new record of $1,740,299. The previous record, made in 1956, was $1,732,000.

For the past seven years he has been rector of St. Peter's Church, Spotswood, New Jersey.

Fr. DuBois graduated from Princeton University in 1933 and from General Theological Seminary in 1949. Prior to attending the Seminary, he worked for a number of years as a metallurgical engineer.

He is married and has two children.

Book Review

Seed For a Song, Lee Hastings Bristol, Jr., Little Brown, 1958.

I remember vividly the dramatic, poetic preaching of Bishop Spencer. Each time I have heard him preach there has always been a dramatic climax in the sermon where the Bishop threw his hands up toward the heavens and looking straight into the spotlight, cried out some memorable phrase. That is why I have alway associated Bishop Spencer with the leading character in Channing Pollock's play, "The Fool," for at the most dramatic moment in the play, the same thing happens when "the fool" throws his hands heavenward, lifting his face full into a powerful spotlight and cries, "God"!

Seed for a Song moves along with the life story of this colorful preacher in successive dramatic highlights similar to the moments in the pulpit—his childhood accident, his close call with typhoid, his slugging it out with Boss Pendergast, his tangling with gangsters, his unforgettable brushes with Sinclair Lewis and Clarence Darrow. This interesting and charming portrait catches the courage, humor and compassion of a great man. His preaching style today might be considered a bit too purple, but throughout the Church, Bishop Spencer will be long remembered for the perceptive, vigorous and poetic presentation of the Word of God for men to hear. We owe Lee Hastings Bristol, Jr., a debt of grattitude.

Cherry Blossom Festival Held At Cathedral

MORE than 150 people attended the annual Cherry Blossom Festival planned by the Golden Age Clubs of the Church of the Incarnation; Washington Heights, and the Cathedral Community Club for the Aged, held at Synod House on April 30th.

The Cherry Blossom theme was accentuated by the attendance of several Japanese women and children, dressed in native costumes, who sang and danced for the guests. A highlight of the festival was the performance by three of the Japanese women who presented the ancient tea ceremony which is a traditional part of the welcome to guests in Japan.

In addition to the entertainment and refreshments the festival featured several booths at which were sold articles made by members of the sponsoring clubs. The proceeds are to further the work of the clubs.

The festival was under the direction of Mrs. Bertha Herrfeldt and was sponsored by the Episcopal Service to the Aged, of which the Rev. C. T. Bridgeman of Trinity Parish, Manhattan is chairman, and Miss Elizabeth Evans the director.

JAPANESE TEA CEREMONY. One of the features of the Cherry Blossom Festival was the ancient tea ceremony presented by Mrs. Okuda, acting as hostess. Mrs. Mannen and Mrs. Yamagata acted as guests.

Personnel Service Started For Clergy

A PERSONNEL Information Service, designed to "make more effective the strategy of the Church in the use of its clergy," has been inaugurated by the Episcopal Province of New England.

Headed by the Rt. Rev. W. Appleton Lawrence, retired Bishop of Western Massachusetts, the Service is a two-year pilot project, subsidized in part by a gift of more than $10,000 from Episcopalians of the Bishop's former diocese, in appreciation of his service there.

The Service has begun to set up a file on the Episcopal clergy of New England, containing information which will be available to bishops and "other properly accredited persons who are looking for a clergyman for a special position."

According to Bishop Lawrence, "Personnel Information Service is just what its name indicates. It deals with persons—clergymen, to start with, but probably will enlarge its scope to include other Church workers. It is not a 'placement bureau'."

If the project proves successful, its inaugurators hope that the idea will spread from Province to Province, "so that in time there may be a central Bureau where clergymen with special gifts or desires will be registered."

THE PARABLE OF THE ALMS BASIN

By The Rt. Rev. Charles F. Boynton
Suffragan Bishop of The Diocese of New York

THE parable springs from an experience I have from 3 to 5 times a week as I go about the Diocese visiting my share of our parishes and missions. It has to do with that moment in the Service when I place the Alms Basin upon the Altar, after I have offered its contents to God and while the choir is singing an appropriate offertory sentence, anthem or a verse of a hymn.

As is my custom, I hold the sides of the plate with my hands and gaze down upon the mixture of envelopes—parochial and special—the mixture of coins and bills. And although I am conscious of the music and the voices, I seldom hear the words of the text distinctly. My mind is occupied with other things. What things?

1. Seeing the special envelopes put out by the Diocese for use on the occasion of the Bishop's Visitation, I wonder if the response has been sufficiently generous to meet the specific needs outlined in the booklet on The Bishop's Fund for Diocesan Needs. The thought flashes into my mind: that depends on whether the cause has been conscientiously presented in advance to the people and on whether the people in turn have as conscientiously studied the material. And quickly I pray: God, grant it to be sufficient, for the need truly is great.

2. Then, seeing the envelopes designated to the work of the parish and for missions, I wonder if I have before me a token of sufficient generosity which, in the aggregate over the year, will underwrite the operating expenses of the parish plus any advance work which may have been proposed. And I wonder further, with I must confess a tinge of anxiety, whether I have before me a representative ingathering which, again in the aggregate over the year, will meet this parish's share of the Diocesan Council budget and the great Missionary budget of the Program of the General Church. The same thought then flashes into my mind: "that depends on whether the parish had a truly organized and inspired Every Member Canvass." And again I quickly pray: God, grant it to be sufficient, for the harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few.

3. But all that I have mentioned is not what occupies my mind the most at this critical moment in the Service. As I gaze down upon the envelopes and currency before me in the Alms Basin, I wonder most of all how much of the heart of each giver is represented before me, "for where the treasure is, there the heart is also." The drawing up of budgets is vital, and the meeting of them is imperative if the planned work of the Church is to be carried out in an orderly and constructive fashion. But beyond that, wholly apart from that, in a very real sense in no way connected with that is the relationship between the heart of a man and his possessions. There is nothing that reveals the condition of a man's soul as does his attitude towards that which he possesses. Money is an abstraction, a coin or a piece of paper, that represents a man's work, talents, time and bread; and when he gives it or withholds it, he is giving or withholding himself. Where his treasure is, there his heart is also. And because our Lord's interest was to capture the hearts of men that He might save the souls of men, it is no wonder He admonished His hearers. "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal. Seek ye first the Kingdom and its Righteousness, and all other things shall be added unto you."

So apart from programs and budgets and needs and opportunities, my greatest concern, as I gaze upon the offering, is whether I am beholding the hearts of the givers, for the winning of hearts of men is the only real purpose of programs and budgets—the only legitimate basis of needs and opportunities.

Herein lies the theological implication of giving. How much one gives, really and fundamentally, has absolutely nothing to do with budgets. It has everything to do with the relationship between the giver and his God. Basically, we must first of all ask the question, of ourselves and those to whom we are sent, do we really love God? Do we really love Him with all our heart and soul and mind and strength? Do we really believe that all things come of Him, and of His own we give back in return? If we really believe these things, if God is really first in our lives, then we will put Him first in every manifestation of our living; first in time, first in talent, first in treasure. Our first duty, rather our first privilege, will be to please Him because we love Him. Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. True. And the converse is true. Where your heart is, there will your treasure be also.

So I wonder, as I gaze upon the Alms before me, have I offered the hearts of the people who form the congregation behind me? And I quickly pray: God, grant that this above all be so. For if it is, then—as I come out of my reverie—it is not only the choir, but the hearts of the people I hear singing "All things come of Thee, O Lord, and of Thine own have we given Thee."

STEWARDSHIP AND THE EVERY MEMBER CANVASS

WHILE it may take one of many forms, the unasked question in the minds of many clergymen and laymen in the Church boils down to: "What is wrong with our Every Member Canvass?" It is the essence of such questions as, "How can we increase the giving of our people?" "How can we clear our indebtedness?" "How can we underwrite an expansion program?" "How can we realize our true financial potential?"

Each year a great deal of fine material is prepared and distributed on the subject of the Every Member Canvass. Every year parishes face the problem of enlisting lay people to serve as canvassers. Every year new presentations are made of budgetary requirements, which include operating expense, repairs, missionary quotas and, frequently, amounts toward sinking or expansion funds.

Yet, out of good reading material, a canvass organization, and a clear picture of budgetary requirements there will come only a small increase in giving and in the number of persons who give. The needs are met only on a minimum basis. Again the annual question comes: "What did we do wrong?"

There is no all-embracing answer to the question, but, too frequently, the problem lies largely in the viewpoint. First, the finest canvass material in the world is of little value unless it is read. Deplorable as it is, people have gotten out of the habit of reading any material other than that which attracts them. Second, the canvass organization too frequently approaches the Every Member Canvass as a distasteful chore.

Look now at the viewpoint from which the whole effort must stem. People are asked to give to pay staff salaries, the fuel bill, repair bills and many miscellaneous expenses. Quite without intending to do so, we are telling them that this is their reason for giving. While this reflects a stewardship obligation, it is essentially the same kind of stewardship obligation they face weekly and monthly in operating their own households. True Christian financial stewardship means giving to God through His Church—giving out of love—out of gratitude—giving to God to extend the witness of His Church because we believe in the Church.

If one would take the time to read the canvass material distributed to parish families, this point of giving to God through His Church, out of love and gratitude, and to extend the witness of the Church is made time and time and time again. Yet it seems to have little effect on those who read it, possibly because in the reading, the lack of warmth and conviction of the printed page prevents the magnitude of the idea from getting through to the reader. Yet the same truth has an electrifying effect on the individual when it is shared as a conviction by someone else in the quiet of a home. This brings us back to the second point: each year great numbers of lay people are enlisted to serve as canvassers, yet too often the canvasser is not equipped to do the job.

Unless the canvasser has wrestled with the truth of Christian financial stewardship and has understood his personal obligation, he is not equipped with the first fundamental tool of the canvasser. The layman who calls at a home with a pledge card must go there to share a personal conviction with a fellow Christian. This is not to say he must submerge the needs of the operating budget and missionary quotas, but rather that he is impatient to share a great conviction with someone he holds in high regard.

Certainly, no seller of merchandise would attempt to sell a product or service in which he had little or no faith. This is a time-honored law of selling. The man who does not believe in the product he is trying to sell can have no positive conviction about it. How then can we expect a canvasser to do his job in the Every Member Canvass unless he himself believes that he has an obligation of stewardship and has made his own meaningful commitment to the work of the Church as a gift to God?

We so often read in diocesan and religious journals of the success of professionally conducted canvasses in churches. Why, we ask, can a stranger come into our parish and, in a short time, bring our people to an understanding of stewardship they never held before? The answer is that the professional canvass director teaches stewardship—brings to light not new things, but the things we have been taught and exposed to all our lives in the Church. He does not change these truths. But he does relate them to the spiritual life of the individual. He does not high-pressure. Rather he encourages church members to believe in their potential as Christian stewards.

The material offered this year by the National Council and by the Diocese is concise and well written, but it cannot be depended upon to do the whole job. It must be augmented by dedicated laymen who understand their personal stewardship obligation and, having understood it, generate within themselves the desire to share it with others.

GENERAL CANVASS NOW UNDERWAY IN ALL CONVOCATIONS

THE General Canvass phase of the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign became full-blown with the kick-off dinners in the Bronx, Dutchess, Hudson, Ramapo and Richmond Convocations during September.

Prior to the dinners, indoctrination and information meetings were held in each Convocation for the clergy, parish chairmen, and vice-chairmen. Most parishes were represented at the indoctrination meetings. The organization structure for each of the five Convocations is as follows:

Bronx Convocation

Co-Chairmen: The Rev. Leslie J. A. Lang and Mr. Louis F. Stauss.

Vice-Chairmen: Area #1: Mr. Herman Sunkenberg; Area #2: Mr. George Lopaus; Area #3: Mr. Frank Byrne.

Dutchess Convocation

Co-Chairmen: The Rev. J. Jack Sharkey and Mr. Clifford J. Nuhn.

Vice-Chairmen: Area #1: Mr. Harold Williams; Area #2; Mr. Ernest Acker; Area #3: Mr. Reginald H. Davies.

Hudson Convocation

Co-Chairmen: The Rev. Frank L. Carruthers and the Hon. H. Earle Houghtaling.

Ramapo Convocation

Co-Charimen: The Rev. Herbert M. Barrall and Mr. James A. Collishaw.

Vice-Chairmen: Area #1: Mr. W. Robert Quackenbush; Area #2: Mr. I. Newton Bell.

Richmond Convocation

Co-Chairmen: The Rev. Alexander A. Frier and Mr. Dominic W. Rich.

Kick-off dinners were held at points as central as possible in each of the Convocations. Each dinner was well attended by selected representatives, both men and women, of each of the parishes and missions in each Convocation. The Lay Co-Chairman presided in each Convocation and introduced the speakers who were: Bishop Donegan who was the principal speaker and host at the dinners; the clergy Co-Chairman in each Convocation who charged the Convocation with its responsibility in the Campaign; Mr. Ellis Carson, the General Canvass Chairman, who outlined the needs and the plan for meeting the needs; and Eric Ley, acting Executive Director for the Campaign, who explained the mechanics of the Campaign operation. Bishop Boynton gave the Invocation at each dinner.

Under the guidance of the Convocation co-Chairman and the vice-Chairman, each parish and mission through its own chairmen have begun to activate the Campaign. The general plan is that the rector, priest-in-charge, or some other trained speaker will carry the story of the Campaign to the congregation at the Sunday morning service. This will be followed by a parish meeting wherever possible, at which the congregation can view the specially prepared slide presentation and enter into a question and answer session. Then the Campaign committees organized under the parish chairmen will begin the work of soliciting for the Fund within the parish. Every effort is being made to complete the Campaign in each parish and mission before the end of the year.

Manhattan and Westchester

Similar programs and dinners were held in the early Spring in the Manhattan and Westchester Convocations. Many parishes have completed their campaigns, while others will conduct them during the Fall.

Work Combined With Faith at St. George's

THE men and women of St. George's Church, Williamsbridge, have faced up to a difficult task with a courage and singleness of purpose which gives great promise for the future of this 70-year-old church.

After having been a mission for over 65 years St. George's incorporated and became a self-supporting parish in 1954.

Time had taken its toll of the church plant. Leaders and gutters had to be replaced; the nave and sanctuary needed redecorating. The parish hall was dark and uninviting.

The hidden expenses formerly borne by the Diocese began to speak with authority. The new status meant that the parish had to take on the obligations which, added to operating costs, pushed the parish into debt.

Because the repairs were urgent, steps were taken to raise funds toward the cost of repairs and modernization. While a $7,500 fund was proposed, just over one half that amount was raised in a three year period.

Interested men and women resolved to donate their own time and labor to the task. To date all leaders and gutters have been replaced, a new hardwood floor has been laid in the sanctuary, the walls repainted, the paneling has been refinished after long, laborious work by the women in removing the old finish, and the pews refinished to match. Out of the work has come a startling transformation in the nave and sanctuary at St. George's.

The next project involved an almost complete alteration and modernization job in the parish hall. The old wood and plaster were ripped out down to the stone foundation walls. The old wiring has been replaced and new fixtures installed. All the wall areas have been recovered in knotty pine and the old stage remodeled into an up-to-date facility. A permanent public address system has been installed with a modern control room.

With it all St. George's has been able to get out of debt. A new courage and vision have come to the parish. In the words of Mr. Martin Ziembinski, senior warden, "we believe that the work and sacrifice required in making these improvements is a symbol of our zeal and for the Faith. We now have a plant which is a credit to the Church and one in which it will now be possible to work and teach and attract the unchurched; in general to work for God in this portion of His vineyard in the most advantageous way possible . . ."

MEN OF ST. GEORGE'S work two nights a week and all day Saturday to modernize the parish hall so it will be more attractive and usable for parish functions and Church School. Previously done were the many jobs in the Sanctuary, such as a new hardwood floor, complete repainting and refinishing of the panelling (after the women of St. George's had removed the old finish). The pews have been refinished to match the Sanctuary.

St. Peter's Observes 265th Anniversary

ST. PETER'S Church, Westchester Square, Bronx, of which the Rev. Leslie J. Lang is Rector, celebrated its 265th Anniversary on Sunday, September 21st, with Bishop Boynton addressing both the 9:15 a.m. and 11 a.m. congregations which numbered more than 600 people.

One of the oldest churches in the Diocese, St. Peter's was set apart by Act of the Provincial Assembly of New York on September 21, 1693, and became one of the earliest missionary stations of the Anglican Church in America.

The first church building was erected in 1700, but was not completed for several years. The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts gave financial help in the early years, and also sent over several of the early Rectors.

In 1708 Queen Anne sent an altar, Communion Silver, and Font, which are still in use. Samuel Seabury, the fourth Rector of St. Peter's, was the first Bishop of the Church in America.

In its beginning the parish boundaries of St. Peter's included Westchester (now the Bronx, extending down to the Harlem River), Eastchester, Yonkers, and Pelham. Today, in this same area, there are 37 parishes.

Early this summer historic St. Paul's Church, Eastchester, the National Shrine of the Bill of Rights in Mt. Vernon, came under the charge of St. Peter's with Fr. Lang being named as Vicar.

St. Paul's will operate as a mission chapel of the Diocese with St. Peter's assigned to maintain and staff the church.

For Fr. Lang, the assignment as Vicar will be in addition to his present responsibilities. The assistant clergy at St. Peter's, the Rev. Thomas L. Brown and the Rev. E. Perren Hayes, will also assist at St. Paul's.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY NEWS

Calendar of Events

THE events listed below are planned for all the women in the Diocese. Additional information will be announced in the Bulletin.

October 28, Tuesday, 10:30 a.m. at Synod House. Report on the Triennial Meeting by the Diocesan Delegates. (The regular Devotional Workshop will not be held in October.)

November 25, Tuesday, 10:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Devotional Workshop at the Guild Hall, St. Thomas Church, 1 W. 53rd St., Manhattan.

December 2, Tuesday, 10:30 a.m. at the Cathedral. Advent Meeting with Holy Communion and presentation of United Thank Offering. Box lunch and meeting in Synod House, 1 p.m.

First Fall Meeting

WHILE the programs, trends and new insights that come out of General Convention and the Triennial Meeting will continue to have growing significance in the next three years, it is important that a start be made in working out the Diocesan course.

In Synod Hall, on Tuesday, October 28th, at 10:30 a.m., delegates to Triennial will make their first reports on joint sessions with General Convention as well as the program at Triennial Meeting.

Program Emphasis For the Year

WITHIN the Triennial Theme "One Family in Christ", the Diocesan Board has considered the advisability of focusing attention on certain members of this "family" each year of the Triennium.

This year the program emphasis will be on "Children and Youth", and will begin by inquiring into the work of the Church in the Diocese and in the world as it relates to young people. For instance, work can be started in the Diocese with the established Youth and College fund which supports youth conference scholarships.

In the parishes, women will consider for special study and action, projects for youth in the parish and community. Plans will be made in consultation with rectors and other interested groups including young people. Perhaps most important study will be given to the means of imparting a sense of responsibility by young people to their Christian witness among their own contemporaries.

As inquiry and work emphasize each year another group in the "family", interest and work begun the year before should not be forgotten, or dropped. A "continuing responsibility" item on each year's agenda would insure continuance of work begun.

Membership teas for newcomers are a means of keeping the interest and programs going from year to year. A few older members might be delegated to keep new members up to date on the current program of the parish and Diocese as well as the program of the National Church insofar as possible.

W. A. Yearbook

WOMEN have become increasingly more aware of the necessity for re-evaluation of their part in the program of the Church. During its conference in June, the Diocesan Board felt impelled to re-examine the points of direction and suggestions which yearly go to parish branches. As a first step, the Year Book used by officers and leaders in the Woman's Auxilary was examined critically and some changes made.

The major change resulted from the Spring Education Conference at which all department chairmen presented their work plans in relation to the program emphasis for the year 1958-59: "Children and Youth." The new Year Book presents a coordinated program which is within the framework of the Triennial theme, "One Family in Christ" and the Diocesan emphasis for the year.

Included in this presentation is a suggested planning conference for parish groups, basic program ideas, resource materials and other sources of information, as well as specific information for chairmen of departments.

Where more information is needed for particular jobs, Worksheets are available. Last year's reports from the Treasurer, United Thank Offering, Mission Supply and the President have been printed separately and mailed to Branch Presidents and District and Diocesan officers.

The Diocesan calendar, interdenominational features, lists of all officers and other pertinent information are included in the present Year Book (the eighty-second). Copies may be purchased at Diocesan Meetings, or from District officers.

15 Questions On Social Relations

THE emphasis for Christian Social Relations of the Woman's Auxiliary for the coming year is "Children and Youth." This topic was selected to fit in with the emphasis of the National Auxiliary which is "One Family in Christ." Obviously this Diocesan program will involve the departments of Christian Education, Devotion and Mission Supply of the Auxiliary.

"Involvement" on the part of a Parish Branch usually means the seeking out of knowledge about the whole Parish program in an area of interest and then finding out how to cooperate with what is already being done and how to help meet unfilled needs. Parish Chairmen and members should ask themselves the following questions and, if the answers are not known, the Parish Clergy should be consulted. They will be grateful for such expressions of interest.

The Home

1. Do your Church activities tend to integrate the family or break it up?
2. What can be done to increase the influence on children of Family Worship Services and family activities within the Parish?

3. What does the Church do to improve personal relationships within the home?

The Parish

4. What do you know about the welfare work done through your Church School, your Released Time Classes or other such activities?

5. What steps are taken to enlist the help of qualified lay or professional people in your Parish for work with special situations?

6. What use is made of your facilities, or other buildings, for youth work?

7.What need does your own Parish program have for help in financing coaches or teachers or for the purchase of sport or club equipment?

The Community

8. What are the gaps in your Community's programs for children and the family?

9. What can your Parish or individual parishioners do about some of these?

10. How can community social agencies, and their professional workers, be enlisted for help with problems uncovered by Parish activities?

11. What situations in your community are a moral challenge which should be brought to the attention of the public locally?

The Nation and The World

12. What centers dealing with children and youth under the auspices of the domestic or foreign Missionary program of our Church can you name?

13. How have the refugees, sponsored by members of your Parish, fared, especially the children?

14. Has your Parish entertained foreign students or other foreign visitors during the past year?

The Most Important Question

15. What is the area of service listed above that is most important; the place where a start should be made? It is much better to do one thing than to agonize over fourteen. ASK YOUR CLERGY.

ANNUAL SCHOOL OF WORSHIP TO BE HELD IN NOVEMBER

"God's Holy Communion with His People" is the title for the Seventh Annual School of Worship sponsored by the Bishop and the Chapter of the Cathedral Church and the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary.

The School consists of four sessions to be held on Mondays of November 3rd, 10th, 17th and 24th. There will be Day and Evening Schools, and each Day School lecture will be repeated at the Evening School.

The Day School will be held at the Cathedral from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., with a service of worship, lecture and choice of discussion groups or forums.

The Evening School will be held in four Manhattan Churches, St. Mary the Virgin (Nov. 3rd), Resurrection (Nov. 10th), Calvary (Nov. 17th) and Heavenly Rest (Nov. 24th). The first three sessions will be from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. with a service of worship, followed by a lecture and discussion period. The fourth session will be from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., and will include a supper.

The Discussion Groups are small and are led by competent, trained women with members of the clergy present for advice and counsel. They seek to relate the subject of the lecture to the family and parish life of the members.

The Forums, larger in numbers, are led by the clergy, and seek to clarify and expand any parts of the lecture about which the members wish to ask questions.

The lecturers and their subjects are:

Nov. 8—The Heavenly Banquet
The Rev. Dr. Cyril Richardson, Professor at Union Theological Seminary.

Nov. 10—The Knowledge of the Risen Lord
The Rev. E. N. West, Canon Sacrist of the Cathedral Church.

Nov. 17—The Sacrifice
Professor Richardson.

Nov. 24—The Communion
Canon West.

The School of Worship offers an opportunity for both spiritual and intelluctual growth to everyone in the Diocese. The Evening School particularly, is arranged for the benefit of business and professional people, and all men, both lay and clergy, as well as women, are cordially invited to participate.

SUCCESSFUL SUMMER CONFERENCES HELD AT WOOSTER SCHOOL

THE New York Youth Conferences, conducted this year at Wooster School, were planned and sponsored by the Committee on Camps and Conferences of the Department of Christian Education under the chairmanship of the Rev. Howard Bingley, Rector of St. Andrew's Church, Brewster, N. Y. Conferences were conducted under the direction of the Rev. J. Stuart Wetmore, Director of the Diocesan Department. The Rev. Osborne Budd, Rector of St. John's, Tuckahoe was Chaplain and Mrs. Walter Vaughan, Director of Christian Education at St. Mary's Church, Lake Mohegan, was Housemother.

YOUNG PEOPLE MET IN DISCUSSION SESSIONS EACH DAY. Here the Rev. Douglas Dargeville, newly appointed Leadership Training Secretary for the Diocese of Melbourne, Australia (an observer at the Conference) fills in as discussion leader. There were ten discussion groups in the Conference, each group met sixteen times.

At the Conferences, delegates chosen by the young people met with the conference leaders each day and reported on what had happened in their discussion groups. These are some of the questions they wrestled with or asked their group leader to answer.

How would you reply?

Why is human life more precious to God than other forms of life He has created? Why do people try to run away from themselves? What does the Bible mean when it says we are made "in the image of God"? Is a friend who "uses you" really a friend? Do you have to go to Church to be religious? Is there such a thing as love at first sight? How can I love people I don't like? If I am to be humble must I hide my talents? Does God love you more if you are good? If He loves you even if you are bad, why be good? How does God speak to us? Why did God create sickness? If God were to die would the world disintegrate? What should I do if my crowd decides to do something that I think is wrong? If you lost an arm would you lose any of your spirit? Is God real, or just someone's ideal?

The above questions came up in the Junior High School Conference. The Senior Conference asked most of those questions and added the following:

Did Jesus avoid even the little sins —didn't he even get a traffic ticket? We are told what happens to the body and the spirit at death, what happens to the mind? How can we keep our faith strong in spite of what science tells us? How can I change the people in my crowd? Where should I learn about sex—at home? at Church? at school? from my crowd? from books? How can I know what purpose God made me for? How can I know whether or not something is sinful? What makes a good marriage? Why do people of different religions mistrust one another?

Summer Youth Conferences are assuming a much larger part in the overall program of the Department of Christian Education. Seven conferences conducted during July and August received response from 197 young people.

ST. ANDREWS, STATEN ISLAND was represented in the Senior Conference by 14 young people (pictured above). The Rev. Bernard Hemsley is Rector. The next largest group (10) was sent by the Chapel of the Intercession, Manhattan.

SENIOR HIGH CONFERENCE. Eighty-eight young people from 29 congregations met with 18 leaders at Wooster School over the Labor Day week-end. During the previous week 55 junior high young people from 26 congregations met with 16 leaders. In all 42 congregations sent young people to the conferences.

KEYNOTE ADDRESS was given each morning – in the Junior Conference by the Rev. Robert Spears, Vicar of the Chapel of the Intercession; in the Senior Conference by the Rev. Leslie J. A. Lang, Rector, St. Peter's Church, Westchester Square, Bronx. Both conferences followed the same theme: "My Crowd, My Lord – and Me."

No "Bar" To Religion

TRINITY, SAUGERTIES, HAS UNIQUE PARISH HOUSE

ONE of the interesting, yet little known facts about churches in the Diocese is that one of them holds a church school class in a barroom. Well, it isn't really a barroom any more, but it used to be.

For a great many years, Trinity Church, Saugerties, suffered the agonies of growing pains without any visible signs of relief. Their tiny parish house, built in 1875, was too small for parish functions and quite inadequate for the church school. The greatly increased use of the highway which runs directly in front of the church aggravated the parking problem on Sunday morning. However, this was relieved through the neighborliness of the adjoining hotel which permitted the congregation to use a sizable portion of the hotel parking lot. But this didn't help the church school space problem.

With the patience typical of the Church, Trinity waited until, in 1957, the hotel was offered for sale to the highest bidder. With financial aid from the Diocese the 45 room hotel and its treasure of 6 acres were bought by the Trinity Vestry and immediately converted into a parish house.

Because of the lack of heating facilities, the third floor is not useable in cold weather. Part of the second floor has been made into an apartment for the sexton. The balance of the second floor and all of the first floor have been fitted for church school and parish use.

The old bar fixtures are still in place in one of the first floor rooms, although the potables have long since been removed. It is in this room that one of the church school classes is held each Sunday.

Almost as important as the building was the acquisition of the parking lot. The combined properties extend from the highway down to Esopus Creek and command one of the outstanding views of the Catskill Mountains.

Recent new housing developments started on farmland proved the wisdom of the Vestry in having acquired the hotel property. Some 40 new houses have already been built and it is expected that the development will reach sizeable proportions.

Trinity itself started shortly after 1825 in the home of Henry Barclay where it was the custom for families in the neighborhood to gather on Sunday for Episcopal services and a Sunday School. A clergyman was called in 1831 and Trinity Parish was organized in February of that year. It is believed that the church owes its name to Trinity Church of New York which in those early years gave $1,000 toward its building fund, and needed furnishings. Help was also received from the Missionary Society of St. Stephen and such New York families as the Astors and the Stuyvesants. The bell of the old church came from a Spanish convent. Pews and organ were purchased for $200 from the old French Church du St. Esprit in New York.

The Sunday School flourished beyond all expectations. Starting in February of 1831 with 60 children and 17 teachers, it grew in the first year alone to 160 children and 20 teachers.

Many dedicated clergymen have served Trinity during its 127 years of existence from: the Rev. Reuben Sherwood in 1831 to its present rector, the Rev. Peter W. O. Hill who came to Trinity in 1947.

In 1931 the parish celebrated its centennial and in 1951 the church was completely restored under the leadership of its present warden, Mr. Frank A. Benson. Much of the work was donated as memorials which were dedicated by the Right Reverend Charles F. Boynton in November 1951.

Trinity has changed with the times. The old families have died, but the arrival of new industry in the area has brought many new families. The number of communicants and church school pupils have increased steadily. An intensive canvass, conducted in January resulting in an increase in weekly giving from about $90 per week to over $300 a week.

CLERGY CHANGES IN THE DIOCESE

St. James', North Salem and St. Luke's, Somers

The Rev. Robert Hybel has been called as Rector of St. James' Church, North Salem and Vicar of St. Luke's, Somers.

Mr. Hybel was born and educated in Staten Island. He served in the Navy Air Force from 1944 to 1946, and then attended Princeton where he graduated in 1951 with a B.A. in architecture.

He entered General Theological Seminary in 1953 and received his S.T.B. degree in 1956. He was then appointed Fellow and Tutor at the Seminary while working towards his S.T.M. degree. During 1956-1958, he served as an assistant at St. Stephen's Church, Manhattan.

Mr. Hybel is married and has three sons.

Christ Church, Bronxville

The Rev. Charles W. Scott, Vicar of St. Anslem's Mission, Garden Grove, California since 1955, has become an Associate Rector at Christ Church, Bronxville.

A native of California, Mr. Scott received his college training at the University of California and Carroll College from which he graduated in 1947. In 1950 he received the B.D. degree from the Church Divinity School of the Pacific.

After his ordination he served for three years as curate at St. Paul's Church, Pomona, Cal., and was also Chaplain to Episcopal students at three nearby colleges.

From 1953 to 1955 he was a Fellow and Tutor at General Theological Seminary where he received an S.T.M. degree. During this time he also acted as part-time assistant at St. Peter's Church, Bronx.

Transfiguration, Manhattan

The Rev. L. Wells Folsom has been appointed curate of the Church of the Transfiguration, Manhattan.

Fr. Folsom, a native of Tampa, Fla., graduated from the University of Fla., and received a B.D. degree from Nashotah House in 1951.

He served as curate at All Saints' Church, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., from 1951-1952 and was also vicar of St. Martin's-in-the-Field's, Pompano Beach.

From 1952-1954 he worked in the missionary field in Montana, and then for two years he was curate at St. Luke's Church, Evanston, Ill.

His most recent assignment, 1956-1958, was curate at the Church of the Holy Cross, Miami, Fla., which was founded by the Order of the Holy Cross whose headquarters are in this Diocese at West Park, N. Y.

Grace Church, Manhattan

The Rev. Stephen Chinlund has been named as assistant at Grace Church, Manhattan.

Mr. Chinlund who was born in New York City, attended New York Friends School, and was graduated from Harvard University in 1955.

His first year of seminary training was spent at General Theological Seminary, and while there he did field work at Grace Church (Van Vorst) in Jersey City.

Married in 1956, he completed his seminary work at Union Theological Seminary where he graduated this June.

While attending seminary he also did field work at St. James' Church and Riverside Church both in New York.

St. Martha's Bronx

The Rev. Field Tooley has been called as Rector of St. Martha's Church in the Bronx.

A native of North Dakota he was graduated from the State Teachers College at Minot, and after further graduate study at several universities he was an instructor of English and Music in secondary schools.

In 1950 he was graduated from Berkeley Baptist Divinity School, Berkeley, Cal. In 1952 he was ordained to the priesthood in the Diocese of Sacramento.

Fr. Tooley had served churches in California and Colorado before going to his last position as Rector of St. James' Church, West Somerville, Mass.

Sunday News Features Staten Island Church

THE Church of St. Andrew at Richmondtown, Staten Island, was the subject of a full-page pictorial presentation in the Coloroto Magazine section of the N. Y. Sunday News of September 7th, 1958.

The article traced the history of St. Andrew's from its opening in the summer of 1712 as a stone building measuring 25 by 40 feet to its present position of strong Christian witness in historic Richmondtown.

The author, Dick Owen, wrote: "The church struggled along until the Revolutionary War. Gen. Sir William Howe landed forces on Staten Island in 1776 and put it under martial law. British officers used the church as their headquarters but relinquished it for divine services on Sundays.

"The church was twice damaged during battles. On one occasion the British, surprised by American patriots, defended themselves from the edifice and the combatants traded bullets through the windows.

"But it was fire, not war, that caused the church its greatest damage. On March 29, 1867, the building was devastated by a blaze. The bell in the steeple that had called the faithful to worship for 93 years toppled into the ruins. On October 16, 1872, fire again ravaged the church. In both fires, however, the sturdy walls defied the flames. The church that was built after the latter fire is the church we see today. It will figure as part of the rebuilding of historic Richmondtown, a project sponsored by the Staten Island Historical Society and the city's Park Department."

The article was one of a series appearing in the News' Sunday issues on "Famous Churches of Our City."

ON THEIR WAY TO SESSIONS of the recent 1958 Lambeth Conference of bishops of the world-wide Anglican Communion, held this summer in London, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. and Rt. Hon. Geoffrey F. Fisher, pauses for a picture with Bishop Donegan.

TO THE OWNER OF A LEAKING BUILDING "bids" mean little. Don't let anyone tell you that water infiltration in masonry can be cured with magical "coatings". That's the easy technique employed by itinerant "waterproofers" who attempt to lure you with low prices. The only way to stop leaks and seepage PERMANENTLY is to remove disintegrated mortar from all weak areas and repoint the joints with properly compounded mortar. Rockwell Newman brings to this problem over 38 years experience, plus the skills of highly trained men equipped with modern tools. Our clientele is comprised of people who seek, and are willing to pay fair prices for PERMANENT corrective workmanship. We can prove to you that our charges are ultimately one of the lowest.

Ground Broken For New Church

AN EVENT long anticipated by the parishioners of St. Peter's Church, Stone Ridge and St. John's Church, High Falls took place on June 29th when approximately 150 members and friends of the congregation assembled at the new church site on Route 213, in Ulster County, midway between the two existing structures for the site blessing and ground breaking ceremony.

The building program of a new church unit consisting of rectory, parish hall and church on the four acre site, recently acquired by the parish, would consolidate the two churches and eliminate the present duplication of efforts, service and maintenance.

The Rev. David W. Arnold, priest-in-charge of the Parish, presided at the ceremonies, and the site was blessed by Bishop Campbell of the Order of the Holy Cross. It is expected that the church will be dedicated next Easter time.

Church Photo Contest Opens in November

THE Fourth Annual Church Photo Contest, sponsored by the National Council, will run from November 1st to November 30th.

Open to everyone, the contest will award $450 in prizes for the best photos that portray the life and work of the Episcopal Church.

Only black-and-white photographs will be eligible for judging, and they must be taken within the current Church (liturgical) year, from December 1, 1957 through the close of the Contest.

Both amateur and professional photographers are eligible to compete, and in each of these two categories, first prize will be $100; second prize, $75; and third prize, $50.

Entry blanks are available from all parish clergy or the National Council, 281 4th Ave., N. Y. C., 10.

The Value of Faith

THERE was once an old woman, who lived in a cottage at the bottom of a hill, and a good old woman, too; for, altho the hill was steep and her legs had seen their best days, she was always in church on Sundays, even though the church lay on the far side of the hill.

One day the sermon was on prayer, based on the text: 'If ye shall say unto this mountain, be thou removed and be thou cast into the sea, it shall be done'. The discourse made a great impression upon this ancient dame; for she could not help but think how nice it would be if the hill between her and the church were done away with, and how it would save her old legs.

Before she went to bed that night, she included in her prayers a petition that the hill be removed and cast somewhere on the other side of her garden. Next morning she rose and went to her window and looked out. There, sure enough, was the obnoxious hill, looking just as big and as steep as ever. 'Ah', cried the old woman, as she shook her fist at the offending obstacle, 'I thought you'd still be there'.'

from Riley's 'Athos'

Red-Face Department

WHEN visiting my parishioners, I carry calling cards, with appropriate messages, to leave when nobody is home.

In parking in a downtown area, I brushed the tail-fin of a new Cadillac. Although the owner agreed the damage was negligible, I gave her my card and asked that she send me the bill for any needed repairs.

Driving away I was embarrassed to recall that I had given her one of the cards that read, "I am sorry that I missed you. I'll try again another time."

THE 59th GENERAL CONVENTION

THE 59th General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America will be held in Miami Beach from October 5th through 17th.

The General Convention is primarily an ecclesiastical synod, meeting every three years, the official legislature of the American portion of the Anglican Communion. Its functions and procedures are carefully outlined in the Church's laws, or the Constitution and Canons. It alone has the right to alter or revise The Book of Common Prayer; it alone may change the Canons.

The General Convention is a bicameral legislature, in structure somewhat resembling the American Congress. Neither chamber may legislate by itself; hence each adopts resolutions beginning, RESOLVED, the House of . . . concurring . . .

Curiously, however, the House of Bishops is not quite as venerable as the General Convention. The latter, meeting first in 1785, consisted solely of priests and laymen. The House of Bishops came into being four years later and included only Bishop Seabury and Bishop White! As of this writing this House has the largest membership in its history: 192 members. Of these 102 are diocesan or missionary bishops, 7 are bishops coadjutor, 23 are suffragan bishops and 60 have resigned.

The high percentage of resigned bishops is primarily due to the recent requirement that all bishops must retire at age seventy-two. The Presiding Bishop is ex officio chairman of the House.

Since 1919 the sessions of the House of Bishops have been open to the public. Occasional executive sessions are necessary for the consideration of confidential matters.

The House of Deputies is a much larger chamber, with a potential membership of 656. It is equally divided between clerical deputies (who must be priests) and lay deputies. The latter must be adult, male communicants of a parish within the diocese they represent. Each diocese is entitled to four clerical deputies and four lay deputies. Each missionary district is entitled to one clerical deputy and one lay deputy.

During each General Convention there are several Joint Sessions of the two Houses, with the Presiding Bishop as chairman. These are intended for the reception of notable guests and for the receipt of important reports, such as that of the National Council. No legislative proposals are ever introduced at Joint Sessions.

Since there is so long an interval between Conventions, much advance preparation of material is delegated to Joint Committees, composed of bishops and deputies only, or to Joint Commissions, composed of bishops and deputies plus outside specialists. The reports of these Joint Committees and Commissions must be sent, prior to June 1 of the Convention year, to the Secretary who causes them to be printed and distributed to each bishop and deputy well in advance of the Convention.

Most important of all is the Joint Committee on Program and Budget whose recommendations this year will largely determine the General Church Program for the triennium 1959-61. Interestingly, it is composed of six bishops, six priests, and twelve laymen. It will meet in Miami Beach for an entire week in advance of the Convention and will review recommendations from the National Council as to items which should be included in the coming Program. It will hold public hearings after the Convention has started. Eventually it will present to the Convention in Joint Session a detailed plan for the next General Church Program.

One of the many items of business at the Convention will be the election of a new Presiding Bishop to succeed the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, D.D., who, under the Canons, must retire November 15, 1958. The choice will be made by the House of Bishops, subject to confirmation by the House of Deputies.

The Convention must elect a treasurer for its own funds, eight members and a treasurer of the National Council, fifteen trustees of the General Theological Seminary, a registrar, an historiographer, and a recorder of ordinations.

Also held in Miami Beach during the period of the General Convention will be the Triennial Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary. There are some five hundred delegates to this meeting, five women from each diocese and missionary district plus one additional delegate from each diocese and missionary district having a racial minority group of a certain size. The outstanding Woman's Auxiliary event will be the United Thank Offering Presentation Service, to be held in the Exhibition Hall early on the morning of Friday, October 10. In this celebration of the Holy Communion, the Presiding Bishop is assisted by the Church's missionary bishops.

The Woman's Auxiliary must adopt a budget for the distribution of its United Thank Offering. Secondly, it must elect eight members-at-large of its National Executive Board. Thirdly, it must send to the General Convention its nominations of four women to serve on the National Council for the ensuing triennium.

Both the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies will meet in the Hotel Deauville. The Triennial Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary will be held in Hotel Fontainebleau, about one mile distant.

The Deputies to the Convention from the Diocese are:

Clergy—The Rev. F. L. Carruthers; The Rev. P. M. Dawley, Ph.D.; The Rev. J. Heuss, D.D.; The Rev. G. W. Barrett, D.D.

Lay—Mr. T. Oxholm; Mr. C. P. Morehouse; Mr. L. S. Fowler; Mr. R. E. Hartwig.

THE # BULLETIN
of the Diocese of New York

". . . We are called as Christians—bishops, clergy and laity alike—first of all to preach Christ. That we so often fail to do so is a manifestation of the shallowness and timidity of our own spiritual experience. So we content ourselves with lesser if not unimportant matters. Here is room for repentance and amendment of life. There is a world largely pagan to be won for Christ. This can only be undertaken as we are spiritually on fire with a conviction born of companionship with our Lord. . . . If ever there was a time when we could afford to have ease in Zion, it is certainly not now. . . . Only the most convinced and resolute Christian faith expressed in sacrificial action will suffice."

Bishop Sherrill in his opening address to the 59th General Convention.

"THE ETERNAL AND THE GOSPEL"

? ? ? ? ?

ABOVE every man there stands a question mark. To most it is invisible, or if a dim shadow of the mark appears men shake their heads to dispel the phantasy and suddenly become "practical."

But those who realize the nature and the destiny of man see this mark clearly. They see it hovering above the heads of their sleeping sons and daughters. They look at a crowded room and the mark stands above each head.

What will it be for John? For Jane? For my office associates? For the members of this Auxiliary? What will it be for me? What will it be here? What will it be hereafter?

The Cross of Calvary and the Empty Tomb in the Garden state both the question and its answer.

But for Destiny there is no general answer. No broad assertion that will do for all just as it stands. The life of living sacrifice must become my living sacrifice. The Good News of life hereafter must become my hope in the present valley.

It is not one big question mark standing over massed humanity. As the cloven tongues of Pentecost hovered over every head, there stands the haunting question over every man you see—What will it be for John, here and hereafter?

This is the question to which the Church's teaching is addressed. To provide neither a "this week" answer, nor a "this year" answer or a "this problem" answer. Not a "this book" answer or a "this Church" answer. But an Eternal Answer to an Eternal question . . .

What will it be for John—here and hereafter?

BRONX-RICHMOND CAMPAIGNS MOVE ALONG

IMMEDIATELY following the Bronx Convocation Kick-off Dinner, St. Peter's, Westchester Square, in the Bronx, moved into the parish campaign for the 175th Anniversary Fund.

Under the guidance of Douglas Davis, parish chairman, and the Rev. Leslie Lang, rector, incomplete returns from St. Peter's, at press time, showed $31,000.

Following closely the procedures recommended to them by the Campaign office, Mr. Davis and Fr. Lang arranged for the slide presentation to be shown at two Sunday morning services, after which Bishop Boynton addressed the congregations.

The needs of the Diocese were featured each Sunday during the service. Mr. Davis, meanwhile, was enlisting a canvass organization which met regularly for instruction and indoctrination. No families were approached for pledges until the canvassers were ready to make solicitations. Prior to doing this each solicitor made his own pledge to the Fund.

Working largely on weekends the canvassers, up to press time, had brought in 230 pledges in the amount of $31,000. This includes the pledges of the parish clergy, all of whom had made their pledges before the kick-off dinner. Mr. Davis estimated that the organization had covered about 80 per cent of the parish and was confident that they would exceed their goal of $32,000.

St. Margaret's in the Bronx is just starting their campaign. $5,000 has been pledged to date by the clergy and the canvass organization under the Rev. Ralph Krueger, Gerald Brooks, and Randolph Rankin.

Christ Church, New Brighton, Staten Island, reports $10,449 with many solicitations still to be made. The campaign is under the direction of Mr. Lee Orton and the Rev. Andrew C. Long.

Chaplains of the New York City Mission Society have pledged $1,770 to the Fund to date.

MAN'S JOURNEY UNDER GOD

FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF CHRISTIAN EDUCATION'S 1958 REPORT

We affirm Bushnell's view that the child should be brought up to be a Christian and never know himself to be otherwise.

We are committed to a program of Christian nurture from the cradle . . .

. . . through baptism and the continued influence of godparents, clergy and the Christian congregation . . .

. . . on through Church School classes and the devoted care of teachers, superintendents, sextons, and other lay leaders . . .

. . . on through special preparation for confirmation, which ought to be the apex of any plan of Christian Nurture . . .

. . . on through the careful guidance of the new communicant into his participation in the Church's total worship and work . . .

. . . on through the important years of vocational choice and preparation, of courtship, marriage and the establishment of a new family . . .

. . . on through the challenging years of success and failure to the more restful but often disturbing years of retirement and old age. . . .

From the cradle, therefore, through all the myriad decisions and changes common to human existence, to the grave and entrance into the promised more abundant life—this is the Churchman's journey under God.

A small white church in the Kentucky hills is identified to the passing public by one large sign "Parking for Church Donors Only". It should be noted that there was no cemetery in evidence! This was a small town, and there seemed to be parking space in abundance.

What was the Church saying to its community? Regardless of the message the sign was conveying to outsiders, what does it say about the people on the inside?

In its broadest context Christian Education is the witness of the Church to its community, and success or failure in Christian Education is measured by the extent the Church is able to prepare people to worship Almighty God.

We usually think in more specific terms. In the narrowest context Christian Education takes place in a Sunday School class—a teacher and a small group of children. Further than that the picture becomes confused. The teacher may be a nervous teenager who ought to still be in a class, or the father of six children for whom the class is just like home. The pupils may be in their eighth year of Sunday School or may never have been near the Church before. In one class the teacher has her nose in a book, in another there is a screen and film strips.

A more enlightened view brings into this picture the parents, grandparents, god-parents and the brothers and sisters of each of these children. But in too many instances the class is in the center of the stage and all the other influences are in the shadowy background.

But the family is the chief earthly factor in the development of personality. Character is formed from the fabric of normal living and most people are teaching without realizing they are doing it. What is being spoken in life is having a much greater effect than anything said in speech, sermon or lesson.

The picture of Christian Education, then, is changing. The primary focus is on adults and the home. The high light is on the evidence of daily action rather than on forty minutes of stories, pictures or the answers to questions.

We have not only a new picture but we find it within a new frame. Christian Education as typified by the Sunday School class lived on an island by itself within the framework of its own leadership and administration. The modern Sunday School movement had its beginning in isolation from the usual life of the parish, frequently sparked by leadership that was in opposition to the regular ministry. It developed its own services, its own awards, its own ceremonies, its own goals. When children were graduated from the Sunday School they then began to get used to life in the Church.

The picture has a new frame, it does more than surround the picture, it provides purpose and richness which changes the whole perspective.

The primary action of the Church—worship—becomes both the primary purpose of the class, and the chief means by which the class is confronted by the Gospel. The congregation, whether or not they are directly involved in the life of children, is seen as the family of God in which clergy, choir, sextons, and all others who call themselves Christian, are bound together in an eternal journey.

becomes the total impact of the Gospel on the life of all the people. What once was seen as "vocabulary change" has now become "life result." Where once it was the purpose to produce the people who know what to do in Church services, now the question is addressed to people in their working clothes, and in their offices.

The important impact then is the impact of life on life rather than the impact of propositions on ideas. The test of education lies in the arena of daily decision rather than the lists that can be correctly written or recited. The goal is the surrender of the sinful-self in commitment to a loving God rather than neatly completed workbooks or high attendance records.

Why has the picture changed? Because someone came up with a bigger educational budget? Because a new Bushnell or a new Seabury appeared on the horizon? Because a new message was discovered in the Dead Sea Scrolls? None of these.

The change that has come arises primarily out of the chaos the former picture produced. Examine the chaos. A sentimental view of the Bible had produced a people for whom the Word of God was an option. Thousands of people had learned the words of the Church and then gone on to live a life in which the words they learned made only a superficial difference. The congregation which sat and heard the Sunday sermon on forgiveness went out with all its grudges to be a constant denial of the Gospel.

The Church had become so engrossed with the problems of maintenance that its struggle to continue became confused with its real purpose. The steam tables in the parish house kitchen have very little to say to the despondent sinner contemplating the noose end of a rope. Studies in the topography of the Holy Land, as important as they may be to the Biblical student, are grossly irrelevant to business men caught up in tense decisions.

Out of the chaos, and the light thrown on it by the return of Biblical Theology, came a demand for theological and educational realism. In answer to this demand sincere theologians and teachers became convinced that a new set of educational fundamentals is the greatest present need of the Church. What are some of these fundamentals?

(1). That man is, and always will be, a sinner, and stands in constant need of forgiveness.

(2). That the Church is God's instrument set in the world to bring all men to the place where they know "down deep inside" what God has already done for them in their redemption by Jesus Christ.

(3). That man's Christian nurture (education) supports him on his constant journey as he struggles to assimilate the benefit of God's redemption and to offer up the loving sacrifice of himself, his soul and body.

(4). That this nurture finds its richest nourishment in the worship of the Church, both private and corporate. The primary task of the Church's instruction, therefore, is the development of people for whom the liturgy becomes the best "work" they can do.

(5). That this nurture is best received by the people of God as the Good News of the Gospel is made obviously relevant to man's daily concerns and is recognized as being the chief source of healing for human need.

(6). That the communication of this Good News finds its most natural channel in the life of the people of God, and takes place primarily in the home and the Christian community.

(7). That the living experience of the people of God, as found recorded primarily in the Scriptures and formulated in the Christian creeds, is man's response to God's revelation and God's leading of man to discover the truth that God makes known. This record becomes both a guide to the experience that man should share with man, and a means whereby the truth of that experience can be preserved and formalized.

What, therefore, is Christian Education? It is man's journey under God from the cradle to the grave, (see insert from this Department's 1958 annual report on opposite page) with God's hand upon him and the people of God, past and present, constantly supporting him. It is man's journey in the Church, — through Baptism and Confirmation to communicant life in the Holy Fellowship. It is the effort to minister the healing of Eternal Truth to a disintegrated community and a humanity which stands in constant need of healing. It is the loving care of parents for their children, and of the children for their aged parents. It is the Church to teach, and the Bible to prove. It is teachers, and classes, text books and blackboards. It is man's answer to God's question in worship and man's answer to the question of his fellow man in life and word.

GENERAL CONVENTION NEWS

" . . . There Is No Greater Privilege . . ."

WHEN the election of the Rt. Rev. Arthur C. Lichtenberger as Presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church was confirmed by the House of Deputies, the New York deputation immediately sent the following message to Bishop Donegan through one of their number, the rector of Trinity Parish, the Rev. Dr. John Heuss.

"Your dedication to the work of the Diocese of New York, indicated by your wish to continue as Diocesan and spiritual Father in God, is deeply appreciated by each and every member of your delegation.

"We are sure that the entire Diocese of New York will be bound more closely than ever before to you and to the great work that lies ahead of us."

It had been generally known for many months that the Bishop was under pressure from a number of his associates in the House of Bishops to allow his name to be placed in nomination and that he had stated to them reasons why he believed he should not leave his post as Bishop of New York.

In replying to the message of the deputation, the Bishop wrote as follows to Dr. Heuss:

"I am deeply moved by your message from the New York delegation to General Convention, and I write to ask you to convey to my brethren my gratitude for the expression of friendship and understanding which means so much to me.

"In my judgment there is no greater responsibility and privilege to serve our Lord and His Church than as Bishop of New York. In withdrawing my name, I did what, after real prayer and searching of heart, I believe was in accordance with God's will.

"Now let us go back to the Diocese determined to work with zeal and dedication, that our beloved Church may go from strength to strength in the days ahead.

"The Lord be with you.

"Faithfully and affectionately,
"Your friend and Bishop,

HORACE W. B. DONEGAN."

In speaking of the election, Bishop Donegan said: "In the Rt. Rev. Arthur S. Lichtenberger the Church will have as its Presiding Bishop, a leader of deep devotion, keen wisdom and wide experience. Bishop Lichtenberger is a personal friend of mine and I rejoice that this honor has come to him.

"I have assured the new Presiding Bishop of the loyalty and cooperation of the Bishops, clergy, and the people of the Dioecese of New York."

New York Delegation Plays Important Roll

THE Bishop of New York and the clerical and lay Deputies of the Diocese, and others in the delegation from the Diocese, played many important rolls at General Convention, serving on committees, speaking on debated issues, and voting conscientiously on all matters before the House of Deputies. They were of one mind on such major issues as the budget and the recognition of the episcopally ordained ministry of the Church of South India, but divided on the seating of women deputies.

Bishop Donegan as Chairman of the Overseas Department of the National Council, presided over its last meeting under his chairmanship and addressed a joint session of both houses of the Convention on the work of that department. As Chairman of the Unit of Church Vocations, he also offered this unit's first report. He also served on several committees of the House of Bishops.

Clifford Morehouse gave signal service as chairman of the Committee on Dispatch of Business.

Theodor Oxholm devoted long hours to the work of the Committee on Program and Budget.

The Rev. Dr. John Heuss served as chairman of the Department of Christian Education of the House of Deputies, and presented its report to the House.

The Rev. Frank L. Carruthers, as a member of the House Committee on Christian Social Relations worked many long hours studying resolutions offered on both sides of a number of critical social questions.

The Rev. Dr. George W. Barrett, as a member of the Joint Committee on Committees and Commissions was that committee's representative chosen to report to the House of Deputies on the many matters referred to this group.

The Rev. Dr. James W. Kennedy, Chairman of the Diocesan Department of Promotion, was in charge of ecumenical relations at General Convention. He also addressed the Women's Triennial meeting of the Church of South India.

New Presiding Bishop Elected

THE Rt. Rev. Arthur C. Lichtenberger was elected the 21st Presiding Bishop at the 59th General Convention.

Bishop Lichtenberger was born 58 years ago in Oshkosh, Wisconsin. He graduated from Kenyon College with a Ph.B. degree and completed his theological training at the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, graduating in 1925. He later did graduate work at the General Theological Seminary. He was made a deacon in 1925 and a priest in 1926. He was married to the former Florence Tate during his seminary years.

The Rt. Rev. Arthur C. Lichtenberger

After two years as professor of New Testament at St. Paul's Divinity School, Wuchang, China, Bishop and Mrs. Lichtenberger were forced to leave China because of the Communist uprising in 1927. He served as rector of Grace Church, Cincinnati, from 1928 to 1933, then at St. Paul's, Brookline, Mass., until 1941, when he went to Newark, New Jersey, as Dean of Trinity Cathedral.

In 1948 he became professor of Pastoral Theology at General Theological Seminary in New York. He was elected bishop-coadjutor of Missouri in 1950 and became diocesan in 1952.

Bishop Lichtenberger served as chairman of the delegation chosen to visit the Church of South India. He is a trustee of three seminaries, a member of the Liturgical Commission and of the Joint Commission on Theological Education.

It is expected that Bishop Lichtenberger will be installed as Presiding Bishop around the middle of January, in the Washington Cathedral.

Bishop and Mrs. Lichtenberger will live in Dover House, Greenwich, Conn., and he will have his office at 281 Fourth Avenue in New York.

Pastoral Letter Issued By Bishops

A PASTORAL LETTER issued by the House of Bishops, and read to the final joint session of bishops, lay and clergy deputies, and delegates to the Triennial Meeting of the women of the Church, marked the end of the 59th General Convention.

In issuing their first Pastoral Letter in nearly two years the Bishops stated that it was written against the background "of our unforgettable experience at the recent Lambeth Conference." Where, "we saw anew, against the background of the world's terrible divisions, the oneness of mankind in Christ; we saw that 'in Christ there is no East or West'."

"The most urgent and frightening fact in our world," the Letter declared, "is the terrible divisiveness setting men against men—rival nationalisms, opposing philosophies, competing economic systems, and fierce racial tensions."

The Bishops recognized that, "we in America share this common world problem; for America is divided, not only by deep racial tensions, but by the breakdown of communication between those of different convictions."

"We write to you," the Letter continued, "on the subject of unity and reconciliation. We do so with a great sense of urgency, not to tell you what to do in your specific situations, but rather to share with you five great truths that will help us all to act more truly wherever we may be."

The five truths cited were, "the creative meeting of souls, the sacredness of law, God's judgement on our divisions, the light of reason, and the membership we share together in the Church guided by the Spirit."

In accordance with the Canons of the Church, the Pastoral Letter will be read from the pulpit of every Episcopal Church within thirty days, after receipt of the Letter.

Highlights Of The Convention

A NUMBER of important decisions which will effect the life and work of the Church were made at the Convention. The following brief items cover some of these.

The Budget

The Convention adopted a budget for the work of the National Council for the next three years. This will call for an advance in almost every missionary field on a rising scale of appropriations designed to meet the giving ability of the parishes.

A special drive for capital funds was abandoned in favor of a $500,000 addition to the budget in 1960, and twice this amount in 1961.

A plan to publish and pilot test a new magazine under a new unit of the National Council was approved in place of the more ambitious plan proposed.

The following budgets, including the magazine and capital funds, were adopted:

1959 — $8,060,300
1960 — $8,996,400
1961 — $9,819,800

Social Relations

The House of Bishops and the House of Deputies both passed resolutions on the subject of race relations, and, in addition, this same area was thoroughly covered in the Pastoral Letter issued by the Bishops. (See preceding column).

The abolishment of capital punishment was strongly recommended in a resolution that passed both Houses. It stated that the death penalty "appears to fall for the most part on obscure, impoverished, friendless or defective individuals."

The use of alcoholic beverages was given careful attention in a report made to the Convention by a Joint

Change Of Name Proposed

A RESOLUTION was presented at the Triennial Meeting regarding the designation of women's work in the Dioceses and parishes. The following is the text of the resolution presented on the floor and finally carried:

WHEREAS, A change in the name, "Woman's Auxiliary," is presently being considered by the Triennial Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary; and

WHEREAS, It is desirable to designate a simplified name specifically encompassing all women of the Protestant Episcopal Church; and

WHEREAS, Such designation should, in the interest of general usage, be brief;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Triennial Meeting recommend as the suggested designation for the women of a diocese "Episcopal Churchwomen, Diocese of....." The diocesan executive board of women's work might be designated as a "Division of Women's Work of the Diocese." A suggested name in parishes might be "Women of..... Church."

At the Diocesan Meeting held in Synod Hall, October 28, women representatives from parish branches in New York were given the opportunity to vote upon a new designation for their work in this Diocese, and unanimously voted to accept the recommendation from the Triennial resolution. The new name for Diocesan work of the women of the Church is EPISCOPAL CHURCHWOMEN, DIOCESE OF NEW YORK.

Rather than accept the recommendation of the Triennial Resolution as to the designation for the Diocesan Executive Board, the New York Board has chosen in the interest of unity, to be known as Executive Board, Episcopal Churchwomen, Diocese of New York.

The Diocesan Executive Board recommends to the Branches that they select an appropriate adaptation of the name suggested in the Resolution adopted at Triennial "Women of..... Church." Since this is a recommendation, no vote was in order at the Diocesan meeting. But because there is strength in unity, the Board very much hopes that the Branches will find a suitable adaptation of the name suggested which will tie together in a close working relationship parishes and the Diocesan Board.

It will take time to give proper meaning to the new designation. It should come to mean a closer relationship between all women groups and all members so that women who are carrying on their Christian vocations in such jobs as nursing, teaching, or full time jobs at home may feel that they too belong. In time it should result in joint discussion, study and planning for the parish work and the mission of the Church in the world with the richer offering of many backgrounds and talents.

Joint planning by men and women is often the practice in the parishes now and this the Episcopal Churchwomen welcome and encourage.

In adopting the new name for the Diocesan organization, it is important to understand that the General Division of Women's Work to National Council applies only at the National level and this General Division is composed of members formerly called the National Executive Board of the Woman's Auxiliary to the National Council.

Letters will be mailed to the Presidents of all parish branches explaining this change and its implications in detail.

C.P.C. Opens Book Fund Appeal

THE Church Periodical Club of the Diocese will launch its annual appeal this month for the Seminarian's Book Fund which furnishes each postulant and candidate for Holy Orders from this Diocese with the nucleus of a library with which to start his ministry.

Each New York seminarian on the Bishop's list will receive the four volume's selected by himself from the list of recommended books (up to an approximate value of sixteen dollars). The home parishes of the seminarians will be requested, as usual, to pay for these books through their women's organizations.

Contributions of parish branches of the C.P.C. having no seminarian, this year, will be used to cover the cost of books for branches that can make no contribution. All branches, however, will be asked to contribute so that selected seminarians in mission districts of the Second Province (Haiti, for example) may be included in the project.

All contributions should be sent to the Diocesan Treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. Jamie Kerr, 1430 Midland Ave., Bronxville 8, N. Y., and should be marked "For the Church Periodical Club."

Legacy For Work In Japan

THIS summer a legacy of $5,000, to be dispensed by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of New York for the work of the Church in Japan, was received by National Council. The legacy is a memorial to Miss Caroline Hazard Kitchel, sister of the late Mrs. Frederick N. Pedersen.

After consultation with Bishop John B. Bentley, the Executive Board designated it to the Central Theological College in Tokyo, an institution of the Japanese Church which our Church supports by supplying American personnel and an annual appropriation toward its support.

Mrs. Pedersen and Miss Kitchel were for many years faithful active members of the former Japan Committee which worked under the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese.

MRS. HAROLD PIM, UNITED THANK OFFERING TREASURER for the Diocese of New York, is shown placing the more than $189,000 offering of the women of the Diocese on the special gold alms basin at the United Thank Offering presentation service as part of the two-week 29th Triennial meeting at Miami Beach. The total offering was $3,869,985, which exceeded the 1955 offering by $660,000.

ANGLICANS ARE ECUMENICAL

ANGLICANS have always played a leading role in the ecumenical movement. At the meeting of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches last summer in Nyborg Strand, Denmark, nine of the members and substitutes present out of a total of seventy, were Anglicans. Eight of them were "fresh" from Lambeth Conference.

Lambeth spoke of unity and the ecumenical movement and of the World Council as its most vivid expression, declaring that the name "ecumenical" is not new, that "the basic reality is as old as the Church" and that the "movement" so labeled "is the fresh tide in this drawing together of the separated companies of God's people which has marked this past fifty years."

The Central Committee of the World Council of Churches at its tenth anniversary meeting last summer in the small, picturesque Danish town of Nyborg Strand, reported on and considered the work of the Council and spoke to the member Churches and the world at large a relevant "word" about the Christian Church and its witness to the world.

One of the most significant studies under the World Council auspices is the five-year study financed primarily by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., of "The Common Christian Responsibility Toward Areas of Rapid Social Change." The purpose of the study is to help the member Churches of the World Council to come to grips with "the extraordinary development of society in Asia, Africa and Latin America with their implications for the West." A progress report on this study was made to the Central Committee last summer, revealing that the churches are finding "great difficulty in responding to the challenge of rapid social change." However, the study has brought the World Council of Churches to the realization of its neglect of Asia, Africa and Latin American problems in the past, and the Western bias evident in its thinking on social problems. The study will be completed in 1960, and the findings published.

There are many items of report and action from the Central Committee meeting in Denmark which should be tucked away and remembered by Anglicans:

A resolution on the appalling situation in Cyprus "earnestly desiring that negotiations for Archbishop Makarious' return be successful."

The Philippine Independent Church was received into full membership along with two other Churches, bringing up the total membership to 171 member Churches.

The proposed integration of the IMC and the WCC has received approval "in principle" by both the IMC and the WCC and both Councils and member Churches are now being polled for their reactions. If all goes well this merger will take place at the Third Assembly in Ceylon.

A plan to build a $2,500,000 headquarters for the World Council in Geneva, Switzerland, was approved. The Rt. Rev. Henry K. Sherrill, retired Presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, was elected Chairman of an international committee to raise the necessary funds.

Interchurch Aid and Service to Refugees reported on their program of aid and ongoing service to refugees, displaced persons, and disaster victims in the world, with emphasis on the individual rather than the money and relief supplies which the Churches have provided to those in need. The plight of the refugee is "a continuing task of the Churches."

An important consultation on the laity was held prior to the Central Committee meeting last August in Odense. The major considerations were problems and developments in the work of the laity, the cooperation of men and women, and rapid social change. The World Council is looking forward to a merger of the Department of Work for the Laity and the Commission on the Cooperation of Men and Women in Church and Society.

The World Council of Churches has stayed together and grown together during its first ten years of existence and continues to proclaim the oneness of the Church as well as engaging in pastoral unity, as the General Secretary called it, "for the sake of mankind." Anglicans have a right to be proud of their leadership in the ecumencial movement, but when the conduct of Anglicans at the local level is examined, there is much to deplore, and great opportunities for advance.

Mosley, Bishop of Delaware (representing Bishop Dun of Washington); Presiding Bishop Sherrill; The Rev. J. W. Kennedy (representing Dr. Pusey of Harvard).

THE DIOCESE ACQUIRES NEW PROPERTY IN DUTCHESS

THE Department of Missions has announced that a rectory has been bought in Red Oak Mills, in the Town of La Grange, Dutchess County.

The building, which was purchased with funds made available by the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign, will be occupied by the Rev. Vincent H. Strohsahl, Vicar of the Church of the Resurrection, Hopewell Junction.

In addition to his work at Hopewell Junction, Fr. Strohsahl is building a congregation in this community which has been growing since the International Business Machines Corp. established a large factory and research center in the area.

The Department of Missions is seeking a site for a new church here, but final decision as to the ultimate construction of an edifice will await response to Fr. Strohsahl's ministry.

This is the newest example of how the 175th Anniversary Campaign can effectively expand the work of the Church in the Diocese.

Scholarship Given Japanese Seminary

ST. JAMES' Church, Manhattan, has given a gift of $5,000 to the Central Theological College in Tokyo, Japan.

The money will be used to endow a scholarship in memory of the late Rev. Robert H. Coleman, missionary priest in Japan from 1950 to 1957.

The sum will be invested in Japan, and the annual income will be used to pay the main part of a seminarian's yearly expenses at Central Theological College.

TO THE OWNER OF A LEAKING BUILDING "bids" mean little. Don't let anyone tell you that water infiltration in masonry can be cured with magical "coatings". That's the easy technique employed by itinerant "waterproofers" who attempt to lure you with low prices. The only way to stop leaks and seepage PERMANENTLY is to remove disintegrated mortar from all weak areas and repoint the joints with properly compounded mortar. Rockwell Newman brings to this problem over 38 years experience, plus the skills of highly trained men equipped with modern tools. Our clientele is comprised of people who seek, and are willing to pay fair prices for PERMANENT corrective workmanship. We can prove to you that our charges are ultimately one of the lowest.

City Mission Society Honors Worker

ON October 22nd, Miss Elizabeth C. Klein celebrated the Golden Anniversary of her association with the N.Y.P.E. City Mission Society.

For 35 of her 50 years with the Society she has served as Camps Registrar, selecting, without regard to race or creed, the needy children of the city whom the Society is able to send to its camps for two weeks each summer.

At a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Society, on October 15th, Miss Klein was presented with a citation and a gold watch in recognition of her years of devotion and dedication to the work of the Diocese and to the needy children of New York.

AFTER 50 YEARS of devoted service to the City Mission Society, Miss Elizabeth C. Klein still works efficiently at her desk.

Ten Little Churchmen

TEN little Churchmen went to Church when fine;
But then it started raining, and there were only nine.
Nine little Churchmen stayed up
very late.
When one lad overslept himself,
there were only eight.
Eight little Churchmen, on the road to Heaven—
But one joined a tennis club, and there were only seven.
Seven little Churchmen heard of Sunday 'flicks.'
One thought he'd like to go, and then there were but six.
Six little Churchmen kept the place alive.
One bought a television,
leaving only five.
Five little Churchmen, loyal to the core—
But the Rector bothered one of them, and so there were four.
Four little Churchmen argued heatedly
About the place of ritual, and then there were three.
Three little Churchmen sang the Service through
But got a hymn they didn't know,
and then there were two.
Two little Churchmen disputed who should run
The next parochial meeting, and then there was one.
ONE little Churchman, knowing what to do,
Got a friend to come to Church,
and then there were two.
Two little Churchmen each corraled one more,
Until the figure doubled, and then they numbered four.
Four eager Churchmen simply couldn't wait
Until they found four others, and the total rose to eight.
Eight eager Churchmen at Service
every Sunday
Found dozens more so eager that they started coming Monday!
The seats in Church were more than filled, with ne'er an empty pew.
Dear God, supply this grace and zeal in our own parish, too!

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH, BEACON CELEBRATES 125th ANNIVERSARY

ST. LUKE'S Church, Beacon, of which the Rev. Harold L. Andress is Rector, celebrated the 125th Anniversary of its founding in October.

Climaxing a week of special services and events was the morning service on Sunday, October 19th. Participating in the service with the Rector were: Archdeacon Brätt, who preached the sermon; the Rev. Albert O. Tritsch, Rector Emeritus; and the Rev. E. Otis Charles, Rector of the neighboring parish of St. Andrew's.

On Saturday night, October 18th, more than 225 members of the church attended a dinner, in the parish hall, arranged by the 125th Anniversary Committee headed by Mr. Andrew Ferrence. Also present were: the Dean of the Dutchess Convocation, the Rev. Raymond Cunningham, Jr.; the Archdeacon; and several clergy of nearby Episcopal Churches. Mr. Reginald H. Davies, Senior Warden, served as toastmaster.

St. Luke's was known originally as St. Anna's Church which was founded and built in 1833. Thirty years later the church site had become undesirable due to the proximity of the railroad, and the congregation voted to move to a new location.

Having received a gift of land, the parish decided to move to its present location. On October 17, 1868, the cornerstone was laid, and the name of the church was changed from St. Anna's to St. Luke's.

It took several years to complete the building and the first service was not held until June, 1870. A rectory was also completed in the same year. The rectory burned in 1887, but was rebuilt as the present rectory in almost exact duplication of the original building. In 1893 an inadequate parish house was replaced by the present building.

The church, rectory and parish house remained practically unchanged until 1950 when the parish began an extensive program of modernization. Since then approximately $50,000 has been raised and spent for repairing and refurbishing the buildings.

Commission on Alcoholism. Briefly, it recommended "moderate and responsible use of food and drink as creations of God."

Marriage

Various attempts to amend the Church's Marriage Canon did not succeed. The Convention voted to discharge the Joint Commission on Holy Matrimony, the feeling being that the present Canon should have a longer period of testing without amendment.

Church of South India

Limited intercommunion with the Church of South India was approved by both Houses, encompassing, with little amendment, the recommendations of the special committee which visited South India in 1957.

The Church of South India, a union of Anglicans, Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists, came into being in 1947.

Two New Dioceses

The Convention gave impetus to the growth of the Church at home when it granted the petitions of two missionary districts, Arizona and North Texas, to become Dioceses.

Arizona was originally part of the North-West Diocese organized in 1859, and in 1892 it became a separate missionary district.

Statistics show that there are 46 parishes and missions served by 51 clergy, and there are about 20,000 baptised persons and over 11,000 communicants.

North Texas was originally part of the foreign Missionary District of Texas. After Texas joined the Union the area was gradually subdivided until the Missionary District was set up in 1910.

It has 28 parishes and missions served by 24 clergy. There are more than 9,000 baptised persons and about 6,000 communicants.

CHARLES KENDALL GILBERT

Eleventh Bishop of New York

1878 - 1958

"WE REMEMBER HIM WITH THANKSGIVING . . ."

THE death of Bishop Gilbert brings to its earthly close a kindly modest life, of strong convictions, loyal to the cause of Christ and His church. His complete sincerity, naturalness, and the reality of his faith, gave him the grace to be trusted and loved by all sorts and conditions of men. He walked humbly with God, a true friend, a dedicated servant of the Church, respected and beloved.

His entire ministry of 42 years was spent in the Diocese of New York. After graduating from the General Theological Seminary in 1905, he served successively as Rector of Trinity Church, New Dorp, Staten Island, and Grace Church, Millbrook. From 1912 to 1913 he was secretary of the Social Service Commision of the Diocese of New York. He was Editor of The Churchman from 1913 to 1918. He became Rector of St. James the Less, Scarsdale, in 1918. Two years later he was appointed Executive Secretary of the Social Service Commission and served in that position for ten years. In 1930 he was elected Suffragan Bishop of New York, and seventeen years later he was chosen to succeed Bishop Manning, serving as Diocesan Bishop until his retirement in 1950.

As priest and Bishop he was an advocate of social justice. He worked for the abolishment of child labor, for old-age pensions, and the rights of labor, and for better housing. In the depression he was active in raising funds for the relief of the unemployed. He was a friend of the under-privileged and those in need.

Some people opposed the progressive stand he took in social causes, particularly in the area of civil liberties. On one occasion when he was taken to task for being associated with what his critics considered a very liberal movement, he said firmly: "I believe I am right, and I shall not change my course." In controversial issues he never hesitated to stand for unpopular causes when he was convinced his stand was for the right and the good, as he understood the right and the good. When he believed he was in the right, he was not afraid of being misunderstood.

As Suffragan, he assisted Bishop Manning in the care of the churches. William Thomas Manning and Charles Kendall Gilbert were two very different men and yet they stood side by side in loyalty to one another and in wholehearted dedication to the welfare and progress of the Church. After he became Diocesan, Bishop Gilbert was the same gentle, unaffected Father in God. The importance of his high office did not make him an exalted ecclesiastic. Untouched by pride or pomposity he remained humble and easily approachable to those who sought his counsel. At his consecration he was asked: "Will you show yourself gentle and be merciful for Christ's sake to poor and needy people and to all strangers destitute of help?" He was asked: "Will you maintain and set forward, as much as shall lie in you, quietness, love and peace among all men?" He was bidden to "be to the flock of Christ, a shepherd . . . Hold up the weak, heal the sick, bind up the broken, bring again the outcasts, seek the lost." These promises he fulfilled.

THE LATE RT. REV. CHARLES K. GILBERT shown as he greeted Bishop Donegan in the Cathedral on October 28th, 1950, just before a Service of Thanksgiving for the years of Bishop Gilbert's service to the Diocese.

Bishop Gilbert's first address to the Convention as Diocesan revealed his intimate knowledge of the Diocese, its needs, and opportunities. In his characteristic self-effacing manner he asked for, and received throughout his administration, the wholehearted support and cooperation of clergy and people. Under his leadership there increased among us that spirit of fellowship and understanding essential to the very life of the Church, and without which the Church cannot do Christ's work among men.

The cause of inter-church cooperation and unity was close to Bishop Gilbert's heart. Thus a marked aspect of his ministry was his interest in furthering good will among all Christian people. Ever loyal to his own church, he worked for closer cooperation among all churches. He was a churchman of wide vision, with countless friends in many faiths.

Our Diocese has been strengthened by the self-giving of Charles Kendall Gilbert, eleventh Bishop of New York. At the center of his life was a deep loyalty to his Lord and Master, and a conviction that the Gospel of Christ is the one answer to human needs. Unostentatious, willing to spend and be spent in the service of the Church, he showed himself a messenger of Him who said: "I am among you as He that serveth." We remember him with thanskgiving as a loving Father in God to all his people.

Unto God's gracious mercy and protection we commit him. The Lord bless him and keep him. The Lord make His face to shine upon him and be gracious unto him. The Lord lift up His countenance upon him and give him peace both now and evermore.

THE BISHOP'S CHRISTMAS MESSAGE

"THERE was no room . . . in the Inn." That was on the first Christmas Eve. Is Christ our Lord being crowded out again today by the very popularity of his feast — by all the buying and selling, all the frantic preparations for Christmas? And will he be crowded out again on the very day itself by the trees and the toys, by the noise and the tawdry secularity?

To be sure, there is over the Christmas season a spirit of geniality and generosity, of kindliness and good companionship. The Christ whose coming we commemorate is no enemy of the wholesome joy of men. But multitudes of people in this pagan world regard the story of the Nativity as if it were a legend — very lovely, very touching, — but, after all, a legend.

The central fact of Christmastide is this: "Jesus Christ the only begotten Son of God; begotten of his Father before all worlds; being of one substance with the Father: through whom all things were made: came down from heaven and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary and was made man." The everlasting God came to earth in the person of a human child, and from that divine self-revelation and self-giving has flowed all that Christianity has meant and can mean to a defeated world.

The love of God entered our world in the person of Christ: the love that suffers long and is kind, the love that has upheld man in time of darkness, evil, sorrow and doubt, and made him strong to endure, and able to meet life with both confidence and courage.

God loves the world, and for that world he gave his Son that all men, everywhere, might have eternal life. This is the sublime significance of Christmas, this is the meaning of the worship of the Church, this is the very reason for the Church itself, its ministry, its sacraments, and its preaching. God was in Christ — in the manger cradle. God is in Christ in his mystical body, the Church, reconciling the world unto himself.

If you believe that, then give the Saviour of the world his rightful place at the center of the Feast. Tell the children the wondrous story of Christ's coming to earth, and how he lived, and suffered and died and rose again. Give your gifts in his name. Go joyfully to worship him in his Church. Come reverently and kneel with penitence at the altar to receive him on Christmas Day in the sacrament of his love, and rise forgiving and forgiven.

The mightiest act in human history took place at Bethlehem, — God's giving of himself for us men and for our salvation. With gratitude for the unspeakable gift of Christ, may each one of us pray the prayer

"O come to my heart Lord Jesus
There is room in my heart for thee."

And so a joyful and blessed Christmas to you all.

THE HOUSE AT DOVER PLAINS given to the Department of Missions by Miss Dorothy R. Hayward in memory of her parents. It will be used as a rectory for the clergyman who will serve St. James Church, Dover Plains and St. Thomas, Amenia Union.

Fund Gets "Power House"

On All Saint's Day in memory of her father, the Rev. Richard Hayward and her mother, Lydia Otis Hayward, Miss Dorothy R. Hayward presented to the Department of Missions her house in Dover Plains, N. Y. The gift will, at her request, be credited to Christ Church, Bronxville, as part of its contribution to the 175th Anniversary Fund of the Diocese.

Miss Hayward's father was the first rector of Christ Church, Bronxville. She and her sisters have been making the house their summer home since she purchased it after the death of the late "Jerry" Waltman, well-known artist.

The building, originally a power house on Ten Mile River which served a mill and the surrounding community, was converted by the Waltman's into a spacious 30 x 35 foot studio with a 22 foot ceiling, fireplace, and railed gallery. They then built a duplex apartment in the other half of the house. The Waltman's received wide acclaim for the taste exhibited in the remodeling and their discrimination in selecting the furnishings.

Miss Hayward has given a number of pieces of furniture with the house. She was moved to make the gift at this time because of the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign and because of her awareness of the need of a rectory in Dover Plains. The Department of Missions has never had a resident clergyman in this area. Its plans now call for using this house as a rectory for a clergyman to be appointed to serve both St. James, Dover Plains and St. Thomas, Amenia Union.

Local parishioners are excitedly looking forward to this major step in their growth and expect the gift to infuse new life into the mission.

The father of one member of the Advisory Board, Mr. Charles L. Wyman, at one time, owned and operated the power house.

New Clergy Posts

Holy Nativity, Bronx

The Rev. Robert W. Cromey

THE Rev. Robert W. Cromey has accepted the call as Rector of the Church of the Holy Nativity in the Bronx. Fr. Cromey was graduated from New York University and General Theological Seminary. He served three months at Bellevue Hospital in Clinical Pastoral Training under the chaplains, and for the past two years he has been Curate at Christ Church, Bronxville. He and his wife have two daughters. His father, the Rev. E. Warren Cromey, is on the staff of Chaplains of the N.Y.P.E. City Mission Society.

New Archdeacon Appointed

ON November 19th the Bishop announced the appointment of the Rev. Richard E. McEvoy, Rector of St. Mark's Church in the Bouwerie, Manhattan, as Archdeacon of the Diocese, and he will assume this post on January 1, 1959.

The Canons of the Diocese provide for two Archdeacons to be appointed by the Bishop to assist him in supervising the missionary work of the Church in the Diocese. The other Archdeacon is the Ven. George F. Brätt.

In making the announcement, the Bishop pointed out that new churches — both urban and suburban — to be built with funds now being raised through the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign, and the expansion of existing work, require the additional administrative officer.

Archdeacon McEvoy is expected to devote much of his time to the urban church work supported by the Diocese. Plans are now being prepared for a new church to be erected on Castle Hill Avenue in the Bronx, to serve the new 2,000 family Castle Hill Housing Development, and additional facilities are planned in East Harlem where the Church of St. Edward the Martyr on East 109th Street is unable to meet the greatly increased demands for its services.

The Ven. Richard E. McEvoy

In the East Bronx the Diocese is making plans to build additional facilities for St. Paul's Church at Washington and St. Paul's Avenues, where work is now progressing on the erection of the Gouverneur Morris Houses, a 1600 family city housing project.

New Secretary Of Convention Takes Office January 1st

ON January 1, 1959 the Rev. Bradford W. Ketchum, Rector of St. John's Church, Pleasantville, will assume two Diocesan offices. By election at the last Convention he will become Secretary of the Convention and by appointment of the Bishop he will be the new Registrar.

He succeeds the Reverend Lawrence B. Larsen, the Rector of Christ Church, Pelham Manor, who resigned after serving as Assistant Secretary of the Convention for 15 years and as Secretary and Registrar for 7 years.

As Secretary of the Convention, Mr. Ketchum will be responsible for giving notice of all meetings of the Convention, for taking the minutes of its proceedings, publishing and preserving its Journals and its records and attesting its public acts. The Secretary also maintains records of the election of all Rectors of parishes and of all clergymen canonically received into the Diocese.

As Registrar of the Diocese the Reverend Mr. Ketchum will have responsibility, under the direction of the Bishop, of keeping a record of all Episcopal acts such as licenses to officiate issued, lay readers commissioned, postulants accepted, ordinations, confirmations, transfers of clergy, and many others. In this capacity he also attends the Bishop at ordinations and other special services and prepares official documents and certificates for the Bishop's signature.

Mr. Ketchum came to the Diocese from the Diocese of New Hampshire in 1944, when he became Rector of St. John's Church, Cornwall. Since 1950 he has been Rector of St. John's Church, Pleasantville, and has served as Assistant Secretary of Convention for 11 years.

ACCENT ON CHRISTMAS PLANNED . . . .

St. Luke's Hospital

ITS founder, Dr. Muhlenberg, described St. Luke's Hospital as "A Christian family, entertaining its guests, all of whom are ill." That conception of the hospital's function has never been lost, even though the size of the family and the number of its guests have increased, greatly, since his day. Perhaps the best expression of that spirit is in evidence during the Christmas season.

Members of the larger family of The Church come to the hospital to help entertain the guests by singing carols and bringing gifts for the children. The following groups will participate this year:

St. Paul's Chapel Choir, Columbia University

Concert Choir, Teachers College

Choristers from St. Thomas Church

A Cappella Choir of St. Matthew Lutheran Church

Choristers from the Cathedral of St. John the Divine

Intercollegiate Alumni of New York Carol Group

The Seamen's Bank for Savings

Community Club of St. Bartholomew's Church

Columbia University fraternities

In addition to these groups from the outside, the members of the House Staff, nurses and doctors and other members of the Hospital Family, maintain a cherished tradition of marching throughout the Hospital singing carols on Christmas Eve.

For the members of the Hospital Family itself a Christmas Dinner, to which all are invited, is held the week before Christmas. Members of the Administrative Staff and Heads of Departments do the serving. Special services are planned for Hospital Personnel on Monday before Christmas and on Christmas Eve.

On Christmas Day a service is held in the Chapel for patients who are able to attend and provision is made to administer the Holy Communion to those who are unable to leave their rooms. These are some of the ways in which a Hospital with a strong Church tradition celebrates the Feast of the Nativity.

BISHOP DONEGAN VISITS ST. LUKE'S. Each year it is the Bishop's custom to visit the children at St. Luke's Hospital and take part in the annual Christmas Party given by the Seamen's Bank for Savings.

City Mission Society

CHRISTMAS at St. Barnabas House for the 75 little children temporarily sheltered there will be as festive, homelike and as genuinely warmhearted as the Episcopal City Mission Society can make it.

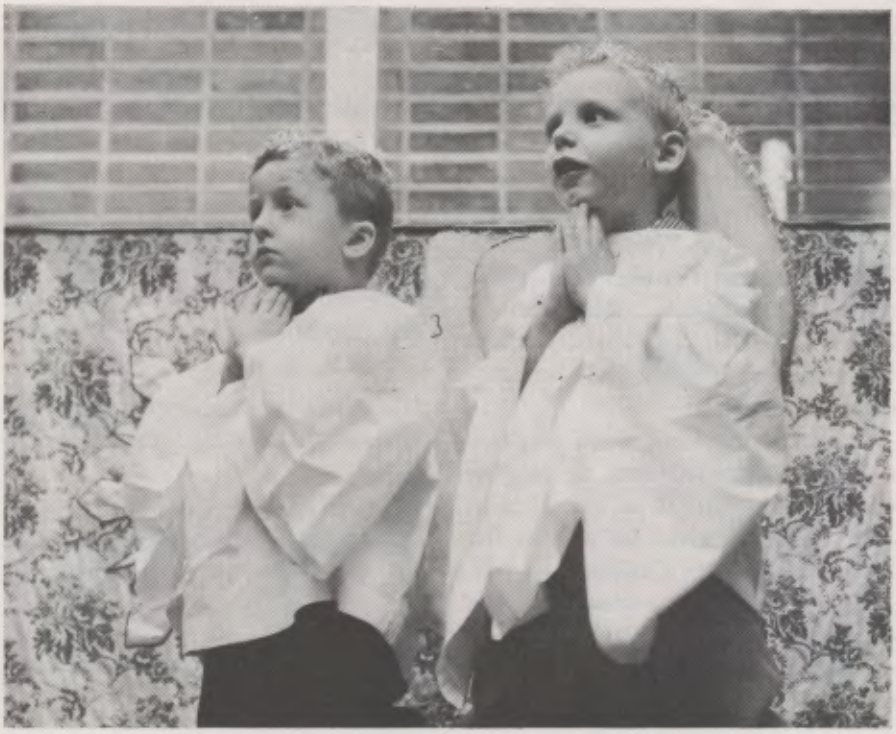
Christmas trees will be on each of the building's five floors and additional trees, brought down from the Society's summer camp at Elko Lake, will be placed in the garden with their lights gaily lit at night.

Several days before Christmas, the Resident Chaplain will gather the children together in the Chapel to assemble the Crêche and narrate to them the story of Jesus' birth. At 11 o'clock on the morning of Christmas Eve the children will participate in the annual Christmas Pageant in the St. Barnabas House Chapel.

Holy Communion will be celebrated in the Chapel early on Christmas Day, and on this exciting morning a jovial Santa Claus will distribute presents given by the churches of the Diocese to all the children.

The Family Service Department will again distribute the large, red Christmas stockings filled with presents for those whose Christmas might otherwise be slim. Church school children and adult groups in certain churches of the Diocese will fill these stockings for needy children. Other gifts are extremely welcome for those older, lonely people who are too frequently forgotten in the concentration on making Christmas joyful for the very young.

The Family Service Department also sends gifts to the Chaplains of the Society to help give the older residents of institutions, chronically ill patients and prisoners a Merry Christmas.



TWO OF THE "LITTLEST ANGELS" rehearse for the Christmas Pageant in the Chapel of St. Barnabas House.

At the Bird S. Coler Memorial Hospital on Welfare Island, the St. Thomas' Church Service Club gives an annual Christmas party for the patients. The boy's choir of this church sings carols on December 18th at the party which Mrs. Adele McPherson has arranged for twenty-two years. Holy Communion will be celebrated on Christmas morning in the hospital chapel and will be privately administered to patients unable to go to the chapel.

The Society's Chaplaincy Program, under the direction of the Rev. H. Rushton Bell, provides every one of the Chaplains with Christmas cards which they in turn give to patients and inmates of all the institutions served.

While all the Christmas activities of all the Chaplains are too numerous to describe here, a few examples may be cited as typical of the situation in most institutions.

At Camp LaGuardia, Chaplain Magnan will give out cigarettes, and from donations of the Episcopal Churchwomen's Branches, he will distribute bags to the older people at Old Colony Farm. These bags will hold the few personal things which make such a difference in their lives.

At New Hampton State School for Boys, Chaplain Magnan has developed a thirty-boy vested choir. On November 23rd, twenty-three of these boys were baptized. From among boys in the Training School and its Annex he has enlisted enthusiastic participation in the Christmas pageant. This will be presented for older people at the Welfare Home and at Camp LaGuardia.

At Rikers Island Penitentiary, two or three services will be held on Christmas morning, each attended by approximately 800 men. Chaplain Proelss will give gifts of fruit and candy to the men.

At Bellevue Hospital, toys will be given to children, and, in cooperation with the Seamen's Church Institute, Chaplain Ferris will distribute new seamen's boxes to all merchant seamen in the hospital. On Christmas Eve there will be a carol service, and on Christmas morning there will be two services of Holy Communion in the Protestant Chapel.

In all other institutions, too, Christmas services will be held and through the efforts of the churches of the Diocese and the Chaplains of the Society the spirit of Christmastide will be brought to the residents and inmates.

Youth Consultation Service

THIS is the first Christmas that Dana House, the headquarters and shelter for girls of the Youth Consultation Service of the Diocese, will be in full operation.

Located at 18 East 71st St. in New York, Dana House was opened a year ago, but it wasn't until early this year that it could be put to full use.

The girls staying at the house will put up Christmas decorations and trim a tree. Through the efforts of the staff and volunteers presents will be distributed to all the girls on Christmas day.

At the YCS branch in White Plains the case workers assigned to the girls cared for by this office learn what each girl needs or wants, and interested individuals or parishes supply these items.

The gifts are collected by Mrs. George Schottler, the Gifts Chairman, and she sees that they are wrapped and ready for distribution.

The Port And Immigration Service

THE annual Christmas party given by the Port and Immigration Service of the Episcopal City Mission Society helps to create the spirit of Christmastide for those people whose attempt to make a new home in America has been delayed.

At the party which is held at 641 Washington Street, New York City, will be a tree, decorations, carols and the distribution of gifts supplied by different social agencies and individuals.

The Episcopal Churchwomen of the Diocese have always participated in this occasion by supplying candy for all and other gifts from many parish branches. Miss Alice G. Palmer is the Director of the Port and Immigration Service.

NEWS OF THE EPISCOPAL CHURCHWOMEN

Calendar Of Events

THE events listed below are planned for all the women in the Diocese. Additional information will be announced in the Bulletin.

December 2, Tuesday, 10:30 A.M. at the Cathedral. Advent Meeting with Holy Communion and presentation of United Thank Offering. Box lunch and meeting in Synod House, 1 P.M.

January 27, Tuesday, 10:45 A.M. to 12:30 P.M. Devotional Workshop in the Guild Hall, St. Thomas Church, 1 West 53rd St., Manhattan.

February 4 and 5, Wednesday and Thursday. Diocesan Retreat at the House of the Redeemer, 7 East 95th St., Manhattan.

The Ministry Of Books

WITH so many new religious books constantly appearing on the publisher's lists, the Westchester Book Committee was founded four years ago to help the women of the Church, in that District, select books which will answer their needs, and to encourage their reading.

Each fall the Committee prepares a list of suggested reading for the women and children of the Church and has these books for sale at the Divisional Officer's Conferences.

This year the Committee, under the Chairmanship of Mrs. Frank R. Stich of Briarcliff, has compiled the following list of titles for reading, and which they feel are also especially suitable for Christmas giving.

The Sins of The Saints, by the Rev. G. D. Rosenthal, Morehouse-Gorham.

The Kirkbride Conversations, by Harry Blamires, Morehouse-Gorham.

The World In Tune, by Elizabeth Gray Vining, Harper & Brothers.

The Christian Family, by the Rev. Thomas V. Barrett, Morehouse-Gorham.

The Witnessing Community, by Suzanne de Dietrich, Westminster Press.

This Church of Ours, edited by the Rev. Canon Howard A. Johnson, Seabury Press.

Prayer and Personal Religion, by the Very Rev. John B. Coburn, Westminster Press.

A Time to Speak, by the Rev. Michael Scott, Doubleday & Co.

The following are choices from the newer children's books:

One Little Baby, by Joan Gale Thomas, Lothrop, Lee & Shepard, Co.

The Birthday of Little Jesus, by Sterling North, Grosset & Dunlap.

Raphael, The Herald Angel, by Appel & Hudson, Crown Publishers.

The Gift: A Tale for Christmas, by Helen S. Hull, MacMillan Co.

Pilgrim's Progress, illustrated by Robert Lawson, J. B. Lippincott Co.

Cave of Riches, by Alan Honour, McGraw-Hill Book Co.

The following books were recommended at the Triennial Meeting and are repeated here for emphasis:

Bigger Than Little Rock, by the Rt. Rev. Robert R. Brown, Seabury Press.

Besieged City: The Church of the World, by Denis Baly, Seabury Press.

Worship, by Evelyn Underhill, Harper & Brothers.

The Life of Evelyn Underhill, by Margaret Cropper, Harper & Brothers.

This Our Heritage, A Triennial Report.

One Family in Christ, Triennial Meditations by the Very Rev. John B. Coburn.

Treasurer Gives Triennial Report Of United Thank Offering

MRS. Harold R. Pim, Diocesan Treasurer of the United Thank Offering, has submitted her report for the triennial period of 1955-1958.

The report shows that a total of $189,407.77 was collected during the three years. This was an increase of 17⅓% over the previous triennium. Also 9,451 women shared in the Offering which is an increase of 309 over the last triennium and a record number. A goal of 10,000 women has been set for participation in the next triennium.

In conclusion Mrs. Pim stated, "this report is not complete until I say what rewarding work this United Thank Offering is. My deep and sincere and affectionate thanks go to the district chairmen and parish custodians who have made this splendid report possible."

How Come These Gifts?

CHRISTMAS Day, two thousand miles from home, a sailor in the messroom of his ship holds a package on his knees and peels away a round green seal that reads: Seamen's Church Institute of New York. He shucks off the bright wrapping. Inside he finds many smaller packages. He pulls the green covering from a tube shape and out comes a flashlight. Out of a flat red package comes a pair of slippers. The blue and white box turns up a miniature checkers game. Another, shaped the same, unfolds a sewing kit; the needles are big enough to see, the thread is stout and the thimble fits. Here is a pocket book. Another box sounds like the rattle of candy, and candy it is, Christmas candy. A mirror pops out to remind him that he should have shaved today, especially today, watch or no watch. There is writing paper and a ballpoint pen. And here—the nicest of all—knit gloves, hand knit, and a watch cap to match.

There was also a card. He finds it again and reads the signature of a Mrs. Johns in Huron, South Dakota, a place he has never been within three states of. He wonders how come. With it is another small red and white card. He reads, "These gifts were placed in your hands through the sincere good wishes of thousands of your friends who want to share their Christmas with you. The Seamen's Church Institute coordinates the efforts of these good friends, in every state in the Union, who voluntarily devote endless hours in knitting, selecting and wrapping the items included in these Christmas boxes. Thousands of seamen aboard ships, in hospitals and at the Institute will receive them on Christmas day.

"Each gift is wrapped in the spirit of good will and fellowship as we learned it on that first Christmas night.

"We all think of Christmas as a family celebration. Most of you will be far from your loved ones on this day, but we hope this gift will make your Christmas a little brighter. Our prayers go with it and we will also remember you in our prayers at the Institute Chapel as we kneel before the Christ Child. May God bless you all."

This card is signed by the Institute's Director, Dr. Raymond S. Hall.

The sailor gathers the wrapping paper and his gifts together and looks again at the happy faces in the messroom. He knows how come.

For many years, through their parish branches or individually, Episcopal Churchwomen have worked with the volunteers of the Women's Council at the Seamen's Church Institute.

Volunteers annually pack and wrap 7,000 gift packages for merchant seamen who will be aboard ship or away from home for Christmas day. Knitters in every Diocese in the country help fashion the 11,000 sweaters, socks, gloves, caps and scarves included in packages, each of which holds 10 individually gift wrapped presents.

Help in this work can be given in several different ways. Knitted garments (socks, caps, scarves, etc.) are needed and wool can be purchased from the Council. For those who do not knit, contributions to the Knitters Guild are helpful. Also wanted are old gold and silver and discarded eyeglass frames for their salvage value. And contributions can be made towards the cost of the gift packages.

Further details can be gotten by writing to The Women's Council, 25 South Street, New York 4, N. Y.

School Of Worship Concluded

THE Diocesan School of Worship has completed its seventh annual session. Every Monday morning in November some 250 women attended the Cathedral for instruction, and 150 men and women came at night to four mid-Manhattan parish churches to receive the same instruction. All Convocations were represented, and students were enrolled from three neighboring Dioceses.

The lecturers this year were the Reverend Dr. Cyril C. Richardson, Washburn Professor of Church History and Director of Graduate Studies at Union Theological Seminary, and the Reverend Dr. Edward N. West, Canon Sacrist of the Cathedral Church and Lecturer in Liturgics at The General Theological Seminary. Their subject was "God's Holy Communion with His People," a study of the doctrine of the Lord's Supper. Professor Richardson discussed "The Heavenly Banquet" and "The Sacrifice." Canon West lectured on "The Knowledge of the Risen Lord" and "The Communion."

The School was sponsored by the Episcopal Churchwomen of the Diocese in cooperation with the Bishop and the Chapter of the Cathedral Church. Chairman for the morning school was Mrs. Charles S. Reid, and for the evening school, Mrs. Landes Lewitin.

The parishes which made available their facilities for the use of the Evening School were the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, the Church of the Resurrection, Calvary Church, and the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

SINGING AT CHRISTMAS

By Alec Wyton, M.A.,F.R.C.O.
Master of Choristers
The Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine

"GLORY to God in the highest, and on earth, peace, goodwill towards men"—would that some forward-looking amanuensis might miraculously have recorded this tune for us! The spirit, however, is surely caught by the refrain to the tune of number 42 in our Hymnal which breathes an ecstatic simplicity, and is not the keynote of song at Christmastime perhaps the expression of God's mighty acts in terms of the simplicity of the manger at Bethlehem?

We think of Christmas and we think of the Carol, although of course there are Carols for Advent, Lent, Easter, Ascension and indeed every Season of the Church Year, and it is perhaps through the Carol more than any other man made means that common people are led to a deeper understanding of the message of the Nativity. The Carol seems always to have been a teaching medium, bringing in human terms a message which the austere liturgies of the early Church have sometimes failed to convey.

The original meaning of the word Carol was to dance in a ring, and indeed it may go back through the old French "Caroler" and the Latin "Choraula," to the Greek "Choraules," a flute player for chorus dancing, and of course eventually to the "Choros," a circling dance and the origin of the Attic Drama. Joyful expression is, therefore, at the heart of the Carol as it sets forth a faith which is both spontaneous and undoubting.

St. Francis of Assissi was the precursor, if not indeed the actual founder, of the Carol. It was he who, in his desire to make vivid and real to his humble parishioners the story of the birth of Christ, set up in his church a crib or crêche, and had his people dance around it singing folk tunes which they knew and loved with simple words which he had set to them.

In England in the 14th and 15th centuries, there grew up the custom of performing Mystery, Miracle and Morality Plays, once again to present the teachings of the Church to the common people in a form which they could understand and remember. These plays, which were performed on a pageant cart drawn from street to street, dealt with stories from the Bible, the lives of Saints and problems of good and evil. Interspersed between the acts was singing in which members of the cast would come down from the cart and walk through the streets, and here we find the beginning of a custom which has survived to this day in the form of singing from house to house. One of the best known and greatly loved Carols from the Mystery Plays is the Coventry Carol with its haunting and plaintive melody, singing of the massacre of the innocent children by King Herod.

From many countries and many centuries we have a tremendous heritage of these moving, yet simple songs. The attempts of puritan influences from time to time to suppress this gay and uninhibited expression of joy have never succeeded in making any but the most passing impression upon the continuity of this glorious tradition, although in 1644 the English were compelled to keep Christmas Day as a Fast since it fell on the last Wednesday in the month which day the Long Parliament had ordered to be kept as a monthly fast, and in 1647 Christmas and other Festivals were abolished altogether by the Puritan Parliament. A strong "underground movement" kept the Carols alive, however, only to meet in the 18th and 19th centuries a further threat in the form of a tendency to make Carols more grave and dignified and indeed to bring to them the same spirit as that of the metrical Hymns of the Church. Thus much spontaneity and joy were lost, but today, thanks to the careful and scholarly research of such men as Percy Dearmer, Ralph Vaughan Williams and Martin Shaw, we have a wealth of Christmas song restored to the beautiful simplicity of its original form. To those who care deeply about this inheritance, the Oxford Book of Carols is an anthology of incalculable value.

Happily now we sing Carols as they were originally made, in circumstances formal and informal, but perhaps never more movingly than in the Festival of Nine Lessons and Carols which was born in the Chapel of King's College in Cambridge and has gained so in popularity that there is now scarcely a church in which it is not lovingly presented each year. From the story of the Garden of Eden through the Old Testament prophecies, the Incarnation to the climax of the beginning of St. John's Gospel, lessons are read by representatives of the church community, beginning usually with a small chorister and ending with the Bishop or senior clergyman present. Between the Lessons there are sung carols, richly varied in form and content, singing a joyful commentary upon the unfolding drama. To many Christians, no Christmas Season would be complete without this act of corporate worship and he would be a sorry man who was not moved by its experience.

Our own Hymnal serves us well at Christmas and we all might well make the singing of numbers 29 to 45 an integral part of family celebration and perhaps the last verse of "In the bleak mid-winter" the heart of our Christmas prayers.

PAGES FROM AN ILLUMINATED 14TH CENTURY CANTATORIUM, a Medieval book giving the choral parts of the Christmas service. These two pages also have illustrations of the Nativity. The original book was the work of a Kloster Frau in a monastery at Osnabruck, Germany in the early 14th Century. Reproduction here is through the courtesy of the New York Public Library.

CHRISTMAS EVE AT THE CATHEDRAL CHOIR SCHOOL. The choir boys gather around the Crêche and sing carols as part of their traditional observance of Christmas. The Crêche was given to the School by the Trustees of the New York Training School for Deaconesses.

St. Martin's Church Observes 30th Anniversary

More than 6,000 persons attended a service of Thanksgiving at 4 p.m. on Sunday, November 16th, in the Cathedral, which marked the Thirtieth Anniversary of St. Martin's Church, Manhattan.

The congregation of parishioners, friends, and representatives of Harlem civic and fraternal organizations, also paid tribute to the Rev. John H. Johnson, D.D., Rector, who organized St. Martin's as a mission in 1928 and has been in charge of the parish ever since.

Bishop Donegan and Dr. Johnson gave addresses at the service. Over one hundred choristers from St. Martin's parish formed the choir, and twenty clergymen from other Episcopal churches in the city attended.

St. Martin's Church, at Lenox Ave. and 122nd St., was destroyed by fire in 1939, but was rebuilt, rededicated and elevated from mission to parish status the following year.

In 1942, St. Luke's Church, Convent Ave. and 141st St., became a part of St. Martin's Parish. The present Vicar of St. Luke's is the Rev. David Johnson, the son of Dr. Johnson. St. Martin's expanded again in 1949, when the congregation of the African Orthodox Church at 101 West 127th St. came into the Episcopal Church and became St. George's Mission. The Rev. E. E. Gayle is Vicar of St. George's.

Dr. Johnson is a graduate of Columbia University and received his religious training at General and Union Theological Seminaries. He was Curate, from 1923 to 1928, of St. Cyprian's Church, West 63rd St., of which his father, the late Rev. Wesley Johnson, was Rector. Dr. Johnson is President of the Standing Committee of the Diocese, a member of the Board of Managers of the Episcopal City Mission Society and a former Trustee of the Cathedral.

THE CHRISTIAN FAMILY

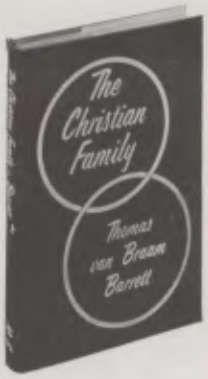
By THOMAS VAN BRAAM BARRETT



"It is a book I would want to put into the hands of parents to read and which I would also use with a parents' class. The style is excellent; crisp, vivid and readable. The chapters give discerning thought to the crucial areas of family living, seen within a Christian context."

TO THE OWNER OF A LEAKING BUILDING "bids" mean little. Don't let anyone tell you that water infiltration in masonry can be cured with magical "coatings". That's the easy technique employed by itinerant "waterproofers" who attempt to lure you with low prices. The only way to stop leaks and seepage PERMANENTLY is to remove disintegrated mortar from all weak areas and repoint the joints with properly compounded mortar. Rockwell Newman brings to this problem over 38 years experience, plus the skills of highly trained men equipped with modern tools. Our clientele is comprised of people who seek, and are willing to pay fair prices for PERMANENT corrective workmanship. We can prove to you that our charges are ultimately one of the lowest.

The Cathedral Goes To Press

THIS CHURCH OF OURS is the title of a book published by the Seabury Press for the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine. Its release in October was timed to coincide with the General Convention, where it was one of four books featured in the Seabury exhibit.

Edited by the Rev. Canon Howard A. Johnson, and containing a Foreword by Bishop Donegan, the book gives permanent form to lectures which had been delivered in the Cathedral Church by eight of the leading spokesmen of the Church today. These lectures were originally heard in connection with the Schools of Worship held in 1956 and 1957.

Taken together, they constitute an admirable explanation of what the Episcopal Church is and believes and teaches about behavior. It deals, in short, with Church, creed, and conduct.

The lecturers and their subjects are:

Professor Dawley, "Our Heritage"
Bishop Bayne, "Our Freedom"
Chaplain Krumm, "Our Law and Our Liberty"
Dean Rose, "Our Personal Life"
Dr. Simcox, "Our Life in the Parish"
Professor Mollegen, "Our Life in the Community"
Professor Casserley, "Our Life in the Nation and the World"
Canon Wedel, "Our Reason for Being"

This book—very largely a product of the Diocese of New York—has been recommended for individual and group study by the Adult and Youth Divisions of the Department of Christian Education of the Episcopal Church. The Reverend Dr. David R. Hunter, Director of the Department of Christian Education, has appraised the book generously in these words:

"Seldom has as lucid a series of meaningful statements on the Church been assembled as is to be found within the covers of this book. In addition to the rich sustenance which it will provide individual readers this series of papers has much to offer parish discussion groups. They can be used profitably with youth or adult groups wherever people are ready to ask the penetrating questions to which these pages speak."

Interim Age

By The Rev. G. W. Barrett, D.D.
Rector, Christ Church, Bronxville

BECAUSE any period in history is many sided, it is often called by many names. Our own age is called the machine age or the jet age or the nuclear age.

While all these characterizations are accurate enough as far as they go, none of them says to the Christian the really important thing about the time in which we live. And each year Advent reminds us that we live in an Interim Age, an age between two miracles, two mighty decisive acts of God. We live in the period between the coming of Jesus Christ, to live as a human being upon this earth and his coming again in judgment and in triumph.

We know very little about how Christ is coming and nothing at all about when He is coming. We know even less about how the world will end than about how it began. But just as the stories in the first chapters of the Bible, for all their inaccuracies in scientific or historical detail, are true statements of the meaning of creation and the nature of the creator, so the passages in the New Testament about the second coming of our Lord, for all their poetic, fanciful imagery, say truly that His victory is final, His judgment inexorable and that one day that victory and that judgment will be made completely decisive and plain. Evil, cruelty, sin and death will not last forever. History is not a meaningless cycle of achievement and disappointment, of war and pain and corruption; it is in the hands of the Christ who is Lord over it.

Christians of the first century believed that Christ would come soon, that as many of them had witnessed His resurrection, many would be alive to share His glory when he returned.

Centuries have passed and such a hope seems remote to us. Still as we continue to witness our Lord's resurrection in the life of the Church we continue confident of his coming. This age between two miracles may go on for centuries as men reckon time or it could end suddenly in our very own day. However that may be, we are sustained both by the memory of the one miracle and the hope of the other. Memory lasts and hope is anticipated. In fact, memory and hope blend into present reality. He who came and will come, comes even now.

Advent has been called the most characteristically Christian of all the seasons precisely because it so deftly combines memory and hope, because it so truly teaches us that the kingdom of God is coming now, yet will not fully come until the end of history. And it leads us in faith toward the cradle of Christ at Christmas, leaving us in no doubt about the eternal destiny of this child.

Youth Group Receives Award

THE New York University Social Club, a group of 15 young people affiliated with Trinity Church's Lower East Side Chapels in New York, won a Special Award and a $50 prize in the Parents' Magazine 4th Annual Group Achievement Awards Program in November.

Started three years ago by St. Augustine's and St. Christopher's Chapels, the group took its name from NYU because it was affiliated in its first year with NYU's Youth Community Participation Project.

The club's efforts are directed to work with youth and community service. The magazine cited the group for their "determined spirit and the self-betterment for which they worked."

A scholarship fund has been started to help members who are seeking a college education. The club's headquarters are at St. Augustine's Chapel, 292 Henry Street, New York City.

CHRISTIAN concern for the ills of society can never be allowed to slacken, for in this imperfect world there are always economic and social conditions which demand the attention of the Christian Church.

In the Diocese of New York — particularly in the urban areas — this is glaringly apparent every day, and the Diocesan Department of Christian Social Relations is on the alert to speak and act in such areas of neglect and moral uncertainty. Over the past few years it has taken a public stand on race relations, sub-standard housing and slum clearance, gambling, displaced persons, Court reform, alcoholism, atomic energy, and on many other problems in the field of social change and human rights.

The community situation is before our eyes and cannot be ignored. We are apt to forget the national and international picture, however, and the Christian concern in economic and social development around the world. It is appropriate that in this month following the celebration of the Tenth Anniversary of the Declaration of Human Rights, an article in this issue of the Bulletin picks up and illustrates several statements for Christians to ponder and act upon.

One of the basic responsibilities of any diocesan Department of Christian Social Relations is to keep abreast of what is happening in this nuclear age and how it affects human kind. Certainly the findings of major conferences dealing with human suffering, misery, injustice and evils of all kinds, must be noted, digested, and passed on to smaller and smaller units where concerns can be practically expressed. Statements on major issues is one way of acting, but unless such statements catch and hold the attention and prick the conscience of individuals, Christian concern is apt to be purely academic.

Through such cooperative agencies as the World Council of Churches, expressed through its Departments of Interchurch Aid and Service to Refugees and the Commission of the Churches on International Affairs, and the National Council of Churches, through its Departments of Church and Economic Life, International Affairs, Religious Liberties, and Social Welfare, we express our cooperative concern. Through the national and diocesan departments of Christian Social Relations we express our denominational concern.

But is is only when individual responsibility is assumed for any particular concern, that action is begun which in time leads to change and cure.

BISHOP'S SERMON IS WIDELY QUOTED

Address Given At Rector's Institution At Transfiguration

On December 7, Bishop Donegan instituted the Rev. Orin A. Griesmyer as rector of the Church of the Transfiguration, and preached a sermon which has been widely quoted. In part, the Bishop said:

"The Church is concerned with all of life, with the places where people dwell, with the conditions under which they live, with the injustices suffered by minority groups. Christianity has to do with the whole of human experience. The Church is concerned because God is concerned with everything that affects His children.

"A message of personal salvation which has nothing to say about the conditions under which some people must live is a distortion of the Christian faith.

"It is not the duty of the Church to endorse or propose particular legislation or methods of reform. But it is the Church's duty to speak out and condemn unrighteousness wherever and in whatever form it expresses itself; to hold up before the people within the Church and without, the principles, aims, standards and ideals of religion.

"The Church must keep the well-being of all members of the community before the people, and bring Christian influence to bear on public, civic, and commercial life.

"Where there is known evil, where there is injustice, wherever there is exploitation of human beings, wherever there is corruption, injustice and intolerance, it is the Church's duty to point to the facts and provide the spiritual dynamic that will stir people into action, to bring about the needed change.

"For example, recently one of our clergy, the Rev. James Gusweller, rector of St. Matthew and St. Timothy's Church, Manhattan, discovered evidences of wrong doing in connection with the housing and welfare of people living on the West Side. It was quite proper for him to bring this matter to the attention of the public authorities who have the power to remedy the situation, and who will, I am sure, take appropriate action.

"While our city officials have from time to time demonstrated a determination to stamp out such corrupt practices in connection with housing inspections and violations, yet these recently exposed instances should alert public officials, and the community, to be ever vigilant in their duties to safeguard the rights and privileges of all our fellow citizens and to work ceaselessly to make it possible for all people to achieve a decent home life and a better way of living."

Also in his sermon, the Bishop recalled the service the newly-instituted rector had given the Church in the past, and said:

"The responsibilty of being rector may seem fearful, but I know Father Griesmyer does not fear, because he knows that if the burden is great, he need not bear it alone."

Father Griesmyer is only the fourth rector in the 110 year history of the church which is popularly known as "The Little Church Around the Corner." He has previously served as rector of the Church of the Advent in Chicago, and at St. John's, Tuckahoe, and St. Mary's, Staten Island, in our Diocese.

Bishop Sends Letter To All Congregations

In connection with charges of alleged official corruption made by the Rev. James Gusweller, rector of the Church of St. Matthew and St. Timothy, Manhattan, the Bishop wrote to all congregations in the Diocese, and asked that his letter be read from the pulpits of our churches. After reviewing the immediate situation at St. Matthew and St. Timothy, the letter stated:

"This is not the first time that unethical practices and resulting deplorable conditions have been brought to the attention of city officials. Similar action by me and other religious leaders on past occasions had some effect in clearing up specific situations.

"I have said before, and I want to re-emphasize, that it is the duty of the Church as part of its concern for Social Relations to point to evidences of evil and to provide the spiritual dynamic that will arouse people to bold action to correct practices which create or aggravate human misery.

"If our Christian conscience is as sensitive as it ought to be, we all should be disturbed and remain disturbed until these deplorable situations and practices are stamped out.

"The Rev. James Gusweller has shown a marked degree of Christian courage, and I am sure that much good will result from the work he has done. But we cannot take the position of interested bystanders who applaud the efforts of one man and then forget our individual responsibility. This is the task of the whole Church, of every clergyman, and every lay person.

"No parish can be an island unto itself. What happens in one parish or to one human soul must be the concern of all parishes for all souls. We dare not remain silent and unmoved to action wherever corruption or social ills are tolerated. I urge our clergy and through them our laity to alert themselves to every problem affecting human welfare.

"The Department of Christian Social Relations has been asked by me to obtain from the clergy all possible information of illegal conditions and practices existing within their parish areas. Such information must be given through proper channels to the appropriate officials in government. These officials must be compelled to take action against injustice and corruption in whatever form it is expressed."

WIDE HORIZONS

By The Rev. James W. Kennedy, D.D.

FROM churchmen assembled in Cleveland at the Fifth World Order Study Conference of the National Council of Churches, came a message to the churches. This message has been given wide publicity with most of the concentration being on the much debated action asking for the recognition of the People's Republic of China by the United Nations. The part of the message, however, which has the greatest bearing on the individual Christian and his parish, is the section under the sub-title "The Quality of Our Life," here given in full:

"We cannot separate the policies of our country from the quality of our life as a people. Often what we do within our own borders contradicts our professed convictions concerning justice and freedom for all men. We have made great progress in overcoming poverty and in securing economic opportunities for our people as a whole. We have also come a long distance from the atmosphere of fear and intimidation in relation to the expression of opinions which prevailed a few years ago. But we face a grave crisis in relation to the civil rights of Negro citizens and other racial minorities.

"We reaffirm the declarations of the National Council of Churches and of many denominational bodies which express strong support for the implementation of the decisions of the Supreme Court concerning school integration. We are aware of the delicate problems in many communities but we call upon the churches to give strong support for policies in each state which provides for positive steps toward the integration of schools and the overcoming of all interference with political rights and of all other disabilities from which any racial group now suffers. The churches must begin with themselves. There is a great gulf between what they say on a national or denominational level and what they do or encourage or permit in many communities. The churches should call upon the federal government, both the President and the Congress, to give strong leadership in favor of policies of desegration.

"A) We ask our fellow churchmen to give careful consideration to the selection of political leaders who will challenge the forces of massive resistance and other forms of defiance of the court's decision.

"B) We also call upon our fellow churchmen to work to overcome segregation in all areas, beginning with their own congregation and including housing, public services and economic or occupational opportunities.

"C) Also we believe that churches should support the ratification of the genocide convention and be prepared to support the ratification of adequate covenants relative to human rights."

While the National Council of Churches in the United States of America deals with issues of social concern to its constituent members, the World Council of Churches does the same thing at the international level. For example, at the meeting of the Central Committee last summer in Nybord Strand, Denmark, two statements in particular have been called to the attention of the churches for implementation. First of all, here are some excerpts from the statement on "Disarmament and Atomic Tests."

"The governments producing atomic weapons have taken a first step towards bringing the testing of those weapons under international control.

"The cessation of atomic testing should lead to diligent efforts to halt the production of nuclear weapons and to reduce existing armaments.

"The achievement of these ends requires friendship and confidence between the nations. We need an 'open society' where people may meet freely and learn to understand and trust one another. We appeal to the churches to help prepare the way for such an open society."

The second statement has to do with Christian concerns in economic and social development. "The critical state of the struggle to accelerate the economic and social development of the countries of Africa, Asia and Latin America demands the attention of Christians everywhere.

"Two-thirds of mankind are stirred by new hopes and quickening social change. Political, economic, and social ferments, occasioned by Western technology and new awareness of the requirements of human dignity are at work in these societies. In this revolutionary situation the peoples should see the hand of God and in obedience give new heed to the claims of justice and common humanity. Beneath all divisions, men everywhere are brothers, through the love of God, and have now become neighbors through knowledge given by God. There is in consequence a common responsibility for economic and social development in the interest of a more genuine world community.

"There are special tasks confronting the churches in the present situation:

1) Christians should help to spread knowledge in their own countries about development programs and encourage a responsible attitude to them.

2) Qualified individuals should be helped to find a vocation in work for economic and social development with the understanding and dedication required.

3) Christian institutions in the economically less developed countries should review the technical services they provide, in the light of the requirements of a dynamic and balanced development program. New opportunities for Christian service in this field present a claim on the resources of church agencies.

4) Of special importance is the ministry to those uprooted by rapid social change. The breakdown of family, tribal and community patterns is a challenge to Christian evangelism and service. The Christian churches in these areas need the prayers and support of the churches in other parts of the world.

"We commend these concerns to the attention and earnest consideration of the churches, as they plan for the years ahead."

Human nature being what it is, there will always be need for Christians to declare the right as against the wrong, living by the right, and inveighing against the wrong. Whether it is the shame of sub-standard housing, spawned by greed and nourished in corruption, which is exposed, or whether it is some courageous news reporter digging into messes of greed, graft, and "gimme", and writing headline articles, there will always be need for Christians to speak and act in the Name of Christ.

Sherrill Urges Church Unity

"Not since the Roman Empire have there been governments so determined to destroy the Christian faith," declared the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, former Presiding Bishop, at a dinner given in his honor by the Diocese of Massachusetts.

He also expressed concern over the rebirth of pagan faiths in countries swept by nationalism. Confronted by a "spirit of secularism abroad and at home—foes within our own household, perhaps even in our own hearts," the Church needs "very much more determination and infinitely more concentration," Bishop Sherrill declared.

"We need unity among the Christian Churches so that we may stand, work, pray and give together," he said. "It is the only way to make the kingdoms of this world the kingdoms of Christ."

Wetmore Appointed Honorary Canon

On December 23rd the Bishop appointed the Rev. James Stuart Wetmore as Honorary Canon of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine. Canon Wetmore continues as Director of Christian Education for the Diocese of New York, a position which he has held since 1953.

Canon Wetmore

Before coming to the Diocese, Canon Wetmore was Assistant Secretary of the General Board of Religious Education of the Anglican Church in Canada. He is a graduate of the University of Kings College and Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia, having received his B.A. in 1938, L.Th. in 1939, and the B.S.Litt. in 1949. He was ordained Priest at Christ Church Cathedral, Fredericton, New Brunswick, in 1939, when he became Curate of Christ Church in that city. In 1943 he became Rector of St. James Church, St. John, New Brunswick, and in 1947 Eastern Field Secretary of the General Board of Religious Education in Canada. He has a wide reputation both in Canada and in this country as a lecturer and writer in the field of Christian Education.

He is married to the former Frances Howard Robinson, also a graduate of Kings College. They are the parents of four children: Nancy Elizabeth, 17; Charles Edward, 14; Stuart Andrew, 8; and Mary Frances, 3.

Canon Wetmore is a direct descendant of the Rev. James Wetmore, who was Rector of Christ Church, Rye, New York, from 1726 to 1760.

FIRE DESTROYS STATEN ISLAND CHURCH

All Saints' Had Bright Prospects For '59

By Thomas S. Childress

EDITOR'S NOTE: Just as we began to print this issue of the Bulletin came the sad news of a disastrous fire on December 26th at All Saints' Church, Staten Island. The building is nearly a total loss.

PLEDGED income more than doubled! This was the good news reported by the Rev. E. J. Berey, priest-in-charge of All Saints', Mariner's Harbor, Staten Island, at the conclusion of their recent Every Member Canvass.

An extensive campaign spearheaded by Vincent Genco, Every Member Canvass Chairman, John Belnavis, Treasurer, Raymond Tallackson, Warden, Kenneth Windsor and other Vestrymen was conducted with the assistance of the Department of Promotion. Pledging level was increased from $3,500 in 1958 to $8,000 for 1959. Total receipts for 1959 are estimated at $9,870 as against $2,900 in 1953 and $5,900 in 1957.

Other recent highlights of the activities in the parish include the replacement of the heating plant for the church with a new air blower system, repayment of a loan from the Diocese in its entirety last fall, replacement of the lighting system, the absorption by All Saints' of the Diocesan share of the support of the parish, and completion of many minor improvements during the past year.

These and other achievements in recent years focus attention on the long and varied history of this parish and its church building. It began as far back as 1844 when the present Church was operated as the Floating Church of Our Saviour by the Seamen's Church Institute at the foot of Market Street, Manhattan. For sixty-six years, seamen from all over the world made their way to this Church to worship, but by 1910 population shifts and changes in port facilities had forced the Institute to include a chapel in their new building being erected on South Street.

On Christmas Day, 1910, the last Service was held in the old floating church and it was transferred to what was then the Archdeaconry of Richmond for $1.00. The Church was moved to a mooring at Mariner's Harbor where it remained for four years.

All Saint's itself had its beginning in 1889 when a Sunday School was organized in a private school building on Shore Road. Within two years growth of the mission required a move to larger quarters at Franklin Hall on Harbor Road. Later, land was purchased on Central Avenue where the mission continued under the care of the Church of the Ascension until 1896 with the Rev. Robert Bell as the first priest-in-charge.

For several years following, the mission which was known as the Chapel of Our Father was under the Archdeaconry of Richmond, but in January of 1906 it was incorporated as an independent parish with Dr. J. B. Blanchet serving as Rector and in November of 1906 was admitted into The Diocese of New York as All Saints' Parish. In 1907, the present property which contained an eighteen room mansion was purchased for $7,000.

The Old Floating Church of Our Savior operated by the Seamen's Church Institute in New York Harbor until 1910 when it was sold to the Archdeaconry of Richmond.

This shows All Saints' Church, Richmond, before the recent fire. The building on the barge shown in the picture to the left was put on foundations ashore in 1914 and had been in use since that time.

Many internal problems prevented the newly incorporated parish from building a church or retiring its accumulated debts. So in 1914 the fortunes of the old floating church and the new struggling congregation merged and the old church building was raised from the barge and placed on the present foundation.

All Saints' was served by a succession of priests from 1914 until 1929. Among them is the Rev. Albert Ohse now Rector of Christ Church, Piermont, N. Y., who served the parish from 1923 until 1929. He was succeeded by a seminarian who continued to care for the parish after his ordination and remained until 1935. This seminarian is now the Bishop of Chicago, the Rt. Rev. Gerald Francis Burrill. Bishop Burrill's parents are still members of the parish.

Through the remaining difficult years of the depression All Saints' was served by a number of clergy. With the coming of World War II and the resultant shortage of clergy, the Rev. David Bowen was called from retirement by Bishop Manning and served as priest-in-charge from 1943 to 1951. From 1951 through 1954 the Rev. Douglas Glasspool, as seminarian, deacon and priest, carried on the work at All Saints' and St. Simon's, also on Staten Island. In 1954 the Rev. Mr. Glasspool, now at St. James, Goshen, arranged for a successor for All Saints' based on a three-way arrangement with the parish, the diocese, and St. Mary's, West Brighton cooperating. The assistant priest at St. Mary's, serves as the priest-in-charge of All Saints'. It is under this arrangement that the Rev. Mr. Berey cares for the congregation at All Saints'.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION NEWS

Adult Education

THE Diocesan Department of Christian Education has announced a realignment within its staff effective last September. The Rev. E. J. Rooney, who has served for the past three years as Associate Director for Leadership Training has been placed in charge of the Division of Adult Education as an additional responsibility.

The Rev. E. J. Rooney

The Department carries out its detailed work through six divisions — Children's Work, Youth Work, Boarding and Day Schools, College Work, Adult Work and Leadership Training.

Youth Work Survey

THE extent and wide variety of youth work at present conducted by parishes and missions in the Diocese has been made clear by a recent survey conducted by the Youth Division of the Department of Christian Education.

The survey indicates that there are more than 1,000 active groups, with a probable total membership of well above 20,000 young people. These groups take on 21 forms and programs.

The outstanding amount of youth participation is through Acolyte groups in 142 of 155 congregations reporting. Other forms of activity were reported in the indicated number of parishes: Boy Scouts 51, Girl Scouts 32, Youth Fellowships 122, Youth Choirs 88, Teen-age Sunday School Classes 88, Released Time Classes 46, Junior Altar Guilds 36, Girls' Friendly Society 17, Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew 3.

The Youth Division is already busy establishing subcommittees which will try to be of service to a maximum of these groups.

Curriculum Survey

THE Department of Christian Education has reported on a survey just completed, of the curriculum materials used in the Sunday Schools of the Diocese.

Of the 223 congregations, it is known that 211 conduct Sunday School classes. Detailed information has been returned on 144 of these schools (68%). The survey indicates that 72% of the schools reporting are using one or more courses of the Episcopal Church Fellowship Series published by Morehouse-Gorham, and that 30% are making use of the Seabury Series in at least one class. 23% of the parishes are preparing their own material for at least one class, 15% are using the St. James Series and 11% are using one or more courses prepared by other denominations.

Only 40% of the schools are concentrating on the use of one curriculum series in all classes.

In addition to curriculum information, 135 schools reported on their teaching staff, officers and other leaders. These total 2,342, and more than a third of this total (841) are men.

Clergy and laity wishing more detailed information resulting from this survey may obtain a copy of the mimeographed report by contacting the Diocesan Department office.

GRACE CHURCH CELEBR

THE 150th Anniversary of Grace Church, Manhattan, was observed on Sunday, December 21, when Bishop Donegan was celebrant at the Service of Holy Communion. The Bishop's visit began with the old custom of knocking on the closed doors of the church and being admitted by the rector, the Rev. Louis W. Pitt, D.D. The sermon was preached by the Rev. John Bowen Coburn, D.D., Dean of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Massachusetts. The Rev. John Heuss, D.D., rector of Trinity, Manhattan, also participated in the ceremonies in recognition of the original sponsorship of Grace Church by Trinity.

Dr. Pitt read greetings to the congregation from President Eisenhower, Governor Harriman and Mayor Wagner. All who attended the Anniversary service received copies of "The Years of Grace," an informal narrative of the Church's colorful history written by Carl Carmer.

When Grace Church was founded in 1808, the city of New York had a population of 95,000. The mayor was DeWitt Clinton, and Thomas Jefferson was President of the United States. At first, Grace Church was located at Broadway and Rector Streets, near the mother church, Trinity, but within a quarter of a century it was necessary to build a new church which would be more commodious and "better located in town," that is, nearer the homes of the leaders of the city who were members.

The site selected was at Broadway and Tenth Street, where the present beautiful Gothic church was consecrated in 1846. The land on which it was built had been part of the farm of a distinguished early New Yorker, Henry Brevoort. It was Brevoort who was responsible for the bend at 10th Street which starts Broadway on its diagonal course across Manhattan Island, and which gives Grace Church its strategic location. When Broadway was being extended, Brevoort refused to permit the city to cut down his favorite apple tree, necessitating the bend.

The new church promptly became not only the fashionable church, but the very center of New York's high society. This was perhaps in some measure due to its beautiful Gothic architecture, as striking and controversial then as the most advanced contemporary churches are today. Its flying buttresses, lofty nave and beautiful stained glass windows sparked the Gothic renaissance in America, and it is today considered by the Municipal Art Society as one of Manhattan's seven most distinguished structures, architecturally and historically.

It was the first major work of James Renwick, Jr., a grandson of Henry Brevoort and a life-long member of the church. It was designed before he had ever seen the great Gothic cathedrals in Europe (there were no comparable structures in the United States at that time) and it made his reputation as an architect. He had a long and distinguished career and among the notable church and public buildings he later designed are St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Cathedral at Fifth Avenue and 50th Street, the Corcoran Gallery and Smithsonian Institution in Washington, Booth's Theater, Calvary Church, Manhattan, and St. Bartholomew's on Madison Avenue at 44th Street. The last-named building has since been torn down.

One of the Anniversary Services at Grace Church was devoted to its architecture when on Sunday, December 7, Dean Leopold Arnaud of Columbia School of Architecture discussed its architecture and historical significance during the 11:00 a.m. service. At that time, Dean Arnaud said:

"In 1843, when the designs for Grace Church were accepted, Renwick was barely 25 years of age. He had never been abroad, was definitely an 'amateur architect,' entirely self-trained, whose knowledge of design,

Left, the Rev. Louis W. Pitt, D.D., S.T.D., the ninth rector of Grace Church, came to the parish in February, 1940. Born in Middletown, Conn., he was graduated from Wesleyan University and the Berkeley Divinity School in New Haven. Dr. Pitt received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Wesleyan University in 1940, that of Doctor of Sacred Theology from Berkeley Divinity School in 1942 and from New York University in 1951.

Right, the Rev. John Bowen Coburn, D.D., Dean of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., delivered the sermon at the 150th Anniversary Service on December 21. An assistant minister at Grace from 1942 to 1944, he left there to become a chaplain in the United States Navy. Following his naval service, Dr. Coburn became rector of Grace Church, Amherst, Mass., and chaplain of Amherst College. He was dean of Trinity Cathedral in Newark, N. J., from 1953 to 1957.

ATES 150th ANNIVERSARY

and especially of the then novel 'Gothic Design,' had been obtained exclusively through books. This is undoubtedly one of the reasons why Grace Church is so attractive to us today. It is the sensitive solution, one might say the innocent solution, of the problem by a gifted man. The design has a naive quality that is particularly appealing. . . .

"The original church was estimated to cost $145,000 in 1846 and was built of limestone. Despite the sale of pews and other donations, not enough money was raised to finish the tower, nor to install real stained glass windows. So the tower was finished with a wooden steeple, and the beautiful 'stained windows' were largely colored glass installed pending gifts of finer windows which would come later.

"The wooden steeple elicited many comments. No one seemed to realize that it was only temporary and there are several references to the inadequacy of such a tower on an otherwise beautiful building. In 1882, thirty-five years after the main body of the church was erected, Renwick replaced the temporary wooden spire by the stone spire we see today. This spire is of white marble, and even now is somewhat lighter in color than the main body of the church."

Socially, as well as architecturally, the church has made a unique contribution to the city. From its very beginning it was considered New York's fashionable church. It was also the scene in 1863 of the famous Tom Thumb Wedding. The real names of the principals were Charles S. Stratton and Lavinia Warren. Although Barnum arranged the wedding, it was the little people themselves who selected the church. The bridegroom said that it had sufficient "éclat" to please Queen Victoria, who had befriended him on his visits to England.

During the same period the congregation was providing extensive service to the community. Among these were the city's first day nursery (for working mothers) in 1877, and New York's first free circulating library (1879). In the panic of 1870, the church established an employment agency which was reactivated in the Nineteen-thirties along with vocational training. It also established the first Episcopal choir school (1894). This has evolved into the flourishing Grace Church School, an inter-faith, inter-racial grade school of high academic standing.

The church has had nine distinguished rectors in its 150 years, four of whom became Bishops. Its second rector, the Reverend Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright, was the grandfather of the hero of Bataan, while its eighth, Dr. Walter Russell Bowie, is a descendant of the hero of the Alamo.

Grace's present congregation whose Rector, Dr. Louis W. Pitt, has been with the church since 1940, is a happy amalgamation of the old families (some of whom come from as far as Westchester to attend services) and residents of the neighborhood.

At the bend in Broadway at 10th Street is Grace Church, one of the most beautiful buildings in New York City. Grace has a history as rich and inspirational as its architecture. The center of the city's fashionable life in the latter half of the nineteenth century, Grace has long been known for its community responsibility. It established the first free library in the city, the first day nursery, the first church employment agency.

NEWS OF THE EPISCOPAL CHURCHWOMEN

Calendar Of Events

THE events listed below are planned for all the women in the Diocese. Additional information will be announced in the Bulletin.

January 27, Tuesday, 10:45 A.M. to 12:30 P.M. Devotional Workshop in the Guild Hall, St. Thomas Church, 1 West 53rd St., Manhattan.

February 4, Wednesday, 6 P.M. to February 6, after breakfast. Diocesan Retreat at the House of the Redeemer, 7 East 95th St., Manhattan.

February 7, Saturday, 10:30 A.M. Diocesan Meeting at St. Barnabas House, 304 Mulberry St., Manhattan.

Successful Advent Ingathering Held

SEVERAL hundred women from all parts of the Diocese attended the Advent meeting of the Churchwomen and the ingathering of the United Thank Offering at the Cathedral on December 2nd, at which time $23,694 was presented by custodians representing nearly every parish and mission. Bishop Donegan was the celebrant at the service of Holy Communion.

The Rt. Rev. Conrad Gesner, Bishop of the Missionary District of South Dakota addressed the meeting on the work of the Church among the young people of the Dakota Indians. He reported that the United Thank Offering supports six teachers and several other women working in South Dakota, and that St. Mary's school for Girls, at Springfield, S.D., has received $100,000 for construction of the first section of a new building which will contain dining room, kitchen and recreation facilities plus additional classroom space. The present school building was built in 1874.

St. Mary's is one of the Church-centered schools which prepares Indian young people for leadership among their own people.

Twice during each of the next three years the offering made by the women through their Blue Boxes will be gathered in preparation for the Triennial Presentation at the General Convention in 1961. Through reports such as the one given by Bishop Gesner the Churchwomen are kept informed of the important uses made of their gifts, through which many women workers in missions of the Church both at home and abroad will be supported in their work during the next three years and more than a $1,500,000 will be spent for much-needed buildings.

The Rt. Rev. Conrad Gesner

Also at the meeting the Churchwomen voted to accept the $35,000 pledge to the budget of the General Church Program and the $4,350 Christian Social Service pledge.

Retreat Planned For February 4-6

WOMEN who plan to attend the Diocesan Retreat for women at the House of the Redeemer, 7 East 95th Street, on February 4th to 6th, are asked to make their registrations as soon as possible by writing to the House of the Redeemer, or by calling the Devotional Life Chairman, Mrs. Alfred Mueser, KIngsbridge 6-5901.

The Retreat will begin at 6 P.M. on February 4th and will end after breakfast of February 6th.

The Director of the Retreat this year will be the Rev. Albert A. Chambers, rector of the Church of the Resurrection, 115 East 74th St., Manhattan.

There is no fixed fee for the Retreat. Each woman places on the alms basin an amount which expresses, according to her circumstances, her thankfulness for the time spent in quietness in the presence of God.

Meeting Set For St. Barnabas House

THE Episcopal Churchwomen of the Diocese have been invited by the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society to hold their February meeting at St. Barnabas House, 304 Mulberry St., New York City.

Saturday, February 7th, at 10:30 A.M. has been set as the date and time for the meeting. A Saturday was chosen in the belief that it would afford business and professional woman and young mothers an opportunity to learn of the valuable work done by the Church with children and youth.

Women are urged to bring their husbands and other members of their families, for much of the Society's work will be of interest to civic and church minded men of the Diocese.

The meeting will be chaired by the Rev. William E. Sprenger, Director of the Society, and he will introduce members of the staff who work directly with children and young people.

The speakers will include Dr. Edward Hawthorne, Director of St. Barnabas House; Miss Alice Palmer of the Port and Immigration Service; Miss Jean Hall of the Family Service Department's "Youth Project"; and the Rev. David Simms, Chaplain of the Society's summer camps at Elko Lake. It is also anticipated that Chaplain Magnan and Chaplain Churchill will speak on the Church's ministry to children and youth in their respective institutions.

The program has been arranged by Mrs. Charles Morton, Chairman of Christian Social Relations of the Churchwomen, and Mrs. William H. Deatly, Chairman of Religious Education.

Invitations will be sent to the Presidents of all Parish Branches in the Diocese, and it is hoped that the meeting will be attended by every woman who is free to come and also by any one else who may be interested.

Nominating Committee Seeks Candidates For Executive Board

A NOMINATING Committee has been elected for the purpose of preparing a slate of candidates to fill the offices of those members of the Executive Board of the Episcopal Churchwomen of the Diocese, whose terms will expire in May, 1959. The Committee is composed of one representative from each Convocation and three members-at-large elected by the Executive Board.

The following offices are to be filled:

President — to serve two years.

Assistant to the President — to serve three years.

Vice-President in Charge of Promotion — to serve three years.

Corresponding Secretary — to serve three years.

Assistant Treasurer — to serve two years.

Chairmen of the Departments of Education, Youth and College Work, and the Church Periodical Club — each to serve two years.

Chairmen in Charge of the Convocations of Hudson-Ramapo, Richmond and Westchester — each to serve two years.

The Executive Board has the responsibility of formulating a coordinated program for the women of the Diocese and the Nominating Committee feels it extremely important that the best qualified women be nominated for the vacancies on the Board.

The Committee welcomes names of suggested candidates from any woman in the Diocese. The recommendations should be made in writing, and give a description of the candidate's qualifications, general background and past offices held. All information will be held in confidence.

The Committee will begin its deliberations in January, and suggestions for candidates can be sent to any member of the Committee who is listed below:

Chairman — Mrs. Arthur J. Simpson, 10 Park Ave., New York 16, N. Y.

Bronx — Mrs. Louis Bartholomew, 118 Fulton Ave., Bronx, N. Y.

Dutchess — Mrs. C. Meredith Delavergne, Salt Point, N. Y.

Hudson-Ramapo — Mrs. Charles Hallas, 75 Prospect St., Newburgh, N. Y.

Manhattan — Mrs. Landes Lewitin, 117 Waverly Place, New York 11, N. Y.

Richmond — Mrs. Thomas Chisholm, 217 Bard Ave., Staten Island, N. Y.

Westchester — Mrs. Leland B. Henry, St. Mary's Rectory, Scarborough, N. Y.

Members-at-large — Mrs. Warren J. Taussig, 124 W. 55th St., New York 19, N. Y.

Mrs. Raymond Lawler, 662 Wolf's Lane, Pelham 65, N. Y.

Mrs. Samuel Eager, 37 Highland Ave., Middletown, N. Y.

Rector Instituted In Yonkers Parish

The Rev. Robert C. Holmes

THE Rev. Robert C. Holmes was Instituted as Rector of Christ Church, Yonkers, in November, by Bishop Boynton.

Fr. Holmes was born and received his early education in St. Catherines, Ontario, Canada. After working in the secular field for eight years he completed his higher education at the University of Western Ontario in London, and was graduated from Huron Seminary.

He has served parishes in the Dioceses of Huron, Northern Indiana, Michigan and for the past five years he has been Rector of Christ Church, Berwick, Pa. Fr. Holmes is married and the father of 4 children.

Clergy Pensions Are Increased

THE Church Pension Fund reports that as of December 1st, 1958, all pensions were increased by twenty per cent.

Beginning with their January 1st, 1959, checks, about 2,950 individual beneficiaries will begin receiving increases aggregating about $600,000 a year.

Pensions granted in the future to clergymen presently active, and surviving widows and minor children, will likewise be increased by twenty per cent over amounts now being paid under the rules of the Fund now in effect.

This increase was made possible by the action of General Convention in voting to retain as permanent the current 15% pension premium rate. If the action had not been taken, the rate would have dropped back to 12% under a program adopted several years ago, and pensions would have remained at present levels.

The continuance of these increases will be dependent on the continued whole-hearted support of the parishes and other units of the Church in the payment of pension assessments. The accrued liability that the step creates is to be funded out of the assessment income at the fifteen per cent rate.

Social Security Rules Changed For Clergy

CLERGYMEN who have not as yet formally elected to come under Social Security, as "self employed" individuals, by filing the printed "Waiver Certificate for Use by Ministers" (form 2031) with the Internal Revenue office still have until April 15th, 1959, to do so.

This delayed election will bring earnings in 1956, 1957 and 1958 into coverage and will call for taxes on these earnings, retroactively for 1956 and 1957.

Clergy ordained in 1957 and with earnings in 1957 have until April 15th, 1959, to file the Waiver. Clergy ordained in 1958 and with earnings in 1958 have until April 15th, 1960.

Copies of the Waiver Certificate can be obtained by writing the Church Pension Fund, 20 Exchange Place, New York 5, or from local Internal Revenue or Social Security offices.

The maximum earnings for benefit and tax purposes was $4,200 in 1955-1958; it will be $4,800 beginning in 1959. Earnings excluded rental value of Rectory and utilities allowance in 1955-1956, but includes these beginning in 1957.

The tax on clergy earnings for 1955-1956 was 3%; for 1957-1958, 3⅜%; for 1959 it will be 3¾%; for 1960-1962, 4½%. It will rise further in steps to 6¾% beginning in 1975.

The 1958 amendments increased the benefits by about 7%.

Book Review

Publicity Goes To Church by William E. Leidt, Seabury Press, Greenwich, Conn.

The Department of Promotion of the Diocese takes pride in recommending a long needed guide to parish publicity and promotion. William E. Leidt, Director of Publications of the National Council, has written a practical little book entitled Publicity Goes to Church. This book is so practical it is difficult to read it without being moved to some kind of action. It contains a life-time of wisdom of a veteran magazine editor-publisher, and authority on Church publicity. Almost every parish throughout the Church needs to improve its public relations and promotional methods. Every rector will find answers to questions on how to best communicate the Christian message to a restless modern world.

The Department of Promotion recommends that every parish in the Diocese buy a copy, read it, and keep it close at hand for use from now on.

THE BISHOP OF NEW YORK BOOK FOR 1959

THE MINISTRY OF HEALING

By JOHN ELLIS LARGE

Rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York

Now at last a priest of the Church, with the authority of firsthand experience in the church's own ministry of healing, clarifies for us the nature, meaning, and full scope of spiritual healing in its resurgent revival of our day.

THE REV. ALFRED W. PRICE, says: "Writing from a rich pastoral experience, Dr. Large, in vivid and straightforward prose, sets out to investigate the facts of Spiritual Healing."

EMILY GARDINER NEAL, says: "In my opinion THE MINISTRY OF HEALING is a must for all those even remotely interested in today's revival of one of the Church's most ancient and dynamic ministries. I could wish that Dr. Large's book might find its way into the hands of everyone, clergy and laity alike, who claim membership in the Christian faith." $3.00

TO THE OWNER OF A LEAKING BUILDING "bids" mean little. Don't let anyone tell you that water infiltration in masonry can be cured with magical "coatings". That's the easy technique employed by itinerant "waterproofers" who attempt to lure you with low prices. The only way to stop leaks and seepage PERMANENTLY is to remove disintegrated mortar from all weak areas and repoint the joints with properly compounded mortar. Rockwell Newman brings to this problem over 38 years experience, plus the skills of highly trained men equipped with modern tools. Our clientele is comprised of people who seek, and are willing to pay fair prices for PERMANENT corrective workmanship. We can prove to you that our charges are ultimately one of the lowest.

MORE PARISHES REPORT CAMPAIGN PROGRESS

By Eric E. Ley

THIS month many additional parishes are reporting progress in their campaigns for the 175th Anniversary Fund.

Five parishes in the Dutchess Convocation are reporting for the first time. They are: St. Philip's, Garrison, Zion, Wappingers Falls, St. Paul's, Pleasant Valley, Grace, Millbrook, and St. Andrew's, Beacon.

Also new in the report list in the Bronx Convocation are Christ Church, Riverdale, and St. David's. St. Peter's, Westchester, continues to report an increase in pledges, having reached a total of $42,470 against their original estimated goal of $32,000.

The Vestry at St. Stephen's, Richmond, has voted to pledge $4,500 to the Fund and the Vestry at St. James the Less, Scarsdale, has pledged $30,000.

Sufficient funds are now in hand so that tangible progress can be made toward the objectives of the Campaign. A priority has been given to the purchase of a site and the building of parish facilities at the Castle Hill Housing development in the Bronx, and the firm of Adams and Woodbridge of New York City has been engaged to submit an overall plan. Approval also has been given to the purchase of a site for a new church in Washingtonville in Orange County, West of Newburgh.

A house and lot has been purchased in Red Oak Mills which is in the center of an area south of Poughkeepsie which has seen marked population growth in the last few years. The Rev. Vincent Strosahl has been assigned by the Bishop to reside in this house and to study the potentials of the area for a new congregation. At the same time he is the Vicar of the mission at Hopewell Junction which has no rectory.

Bids are now being received for the construction of a building for St. Paul's in the Bronx to provide housfor two clergymen and a sexton, office space and a basement lounge for small parish groups.

SUMMER CAMP PAGE 8

FEBRUARY, 1959

LENTEN MESSAGE

THE PURPOSE of Lent is conformity to the will of God, and closer communion with Christ, that we may be spiritually nourished and strengthened. When this is understood the necessary disciplines fall into place, and will be discharged faithfully and gladly.

As an aid to Lenten observance this year I suggest the following minimum rule.

1. To worship God in Church every Sunday.
2. To receive Holy Communion regularly.
3. To attend one week-day Service each week.
4. To strive to overcome our sins, negligences and ignorances.
5. To spend time every day in prayer, reading the Bible, "Forward Day-by-Day" and other religious literature.
6. To make a self-denial and place the cost of it in the Easter Offering.
7. To keep Ash Wednesday and Good Friday with fasting, penitence and prayer.
8. To attend the Three Hours' Devotion on Good Friday.
9. To receive Holy Communion on Easter Day.

May we try earnestly to keep this rule which represents a simple standard of Christian life and witness that we may more truly and godly serve Our Lord in whatever is our vocation and ministry.

This Lent let us live disciplined and devoted lives with Him, and for Him who "for our sake didst fast forty days and forty nights." And may God give us grace to rise with Christ on Easter Day to new and finer Christian life.

Faithfully your Bishop

AUTHOR INTERVIEWED AND BOOK REVIEWED

INTERVIEW

You can't tell the players without a score card. So the boys scream at you as you enter the ball park. There is probably a good deal of truth to the cry of the score card sellers, I thought, as I visited with the author of the Bishop's Book for 1959, the Rev. John Ellis Large, D.D., rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest on upper Fifth Avenue, Manhattan. I had not been able to get a copy of the book, "The Ministry of Healing," since my interview necessarily came before the publication date, and like many a layman, I did not know the questions to ask. This book would have been my score card.

Fortunately, Dr. Large is easy to interview. As we began, the tables were turned and he was asking me the questions. As all good pastors can do, he was putting me at my ease and helping me at the same time. He told me of his beginning interest in healing services and the whole field of spiritual healing. When he became rector of his present parish, healing services were already held there, and he found that he was expected to continue them. With a willing heart and an open mind, he accepted the opportunity thrust upon him. Dr. Large is grateful for the situation which has made it possible for him to have a part in helping so many of the sick and weary for the past nine years.

My questions were rather elementary. Before I left I was convinced that there was much of interest here for any layman, that this was not some kind of "black magic" prettied up for the Episcopal Church, that there were some problems better taken to a priest than a psychiatrist, that many of us have problems of the spirit more crushing than those of the body, that spiritual healing may well be the most absorbing movement in contemporary Christianity, and above all I had better get my hands on a copy of the book and read it.

Before I left Dr. Large's study he gave me an advance copy of his book. That gift has been responsible for the sale of twenty-two copies so far.

REVIEW

The Ministry of Healing, John E. Large, Morehouse-Gorham, 1959 $3.00. The Bishop of New York Book for 1959.

In the new Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "The Flower Drum Song" one theme is heard again and again. Sung with infinite variety are these words: "a hundred million miracles are happening every day." I had a feeling that that is exactly what John Ellis Large is trying to say in the Bishop of New York Book for 1959.

A hundred million miracles of healing are happening every day, most of them unnoted and unsung. The Ministery of Healing is an attempt to present within the covers of one book the subject of spiritual healing as practiced by the Christian Church, with particular reference to the Anglican Communion. As Bishop Donegan says in the Foreword, "The present book is not one with which every well-instructed Anglican need agree in every point. Yet every Anglican will, I believe, gladly welcome this book for it seeks to recover for the Church a function which clearly appertains to the Church, a function which the Church to her peril all too often has neglected."

Dr. Large asks his readers to "keep an open mind" and to remember that the "ultimate goal of spiritual medicine is the healing of the whole personality." The author, when he became rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York City, inherited an already launched pioneering venture in "this mystery filled field of spiritual health." During the past few years Dr. Large has explored the whole field of spiritual healing from Lourdes to the laying on of hands, and has come up with a well testamented document of at least a few of the "hundred million miracles." Dr. Large does not pose as a miracle worker, but in a very sensible, complete way he deals with all the avenues open to the average Christian for the ministry of

ARCHDEACON'S DUTIES GIVEN BY BISHOP

Announcement Made At Induction Of Ven. Richard E. McEvoy

(Editor's Note: There follow excerpts from the sermon preached by Bishop Donegan at the time of the induction of the Ven. Richard E. McEvoy as Archdeacon of New York. This Service was held in the Cathedral on Sunday, January 11, 1959.)

THE office of Archdeacon into which our brother has been inducted is an ancient and important one.

He was the Bishop's assistant in secular matters, and transacted the greater part of the business of the diocese. He conveyed the Bishop's orders to the clergy. He acted as the Bishop's representative at synods.

By the beginning of the fourth century there was in almost every diocese one Archdeacon. But as the dioceses grew and the difficulties of administration increased, dioceses were divided into numbers of Archdeaconries with an Archdeacon appointed to serve in each area.

At one time the Archdeacon had oversight of the funds of the church, and the distribution of its money to the poor. He had to superintend and instruct, and to exercise discipline over the deacons and other lesser clergy.

In later times he was even delegated by the Bishop to conduct visitations to parishes. It was his duty to inquire into the character of ordinands and to examine them, and sometimes to take part in the ordination ceremony itself.

In the early days of our church in North America, the missionaries who came here from England were under the supervision of commissaries sent by the Bishop of London to represent him. They were empowered to assume leadership of the church in the colony, to exercise discipline, to reform matters, to settle disputes, to preserve order and to build up the church.

The functions of the commissaries were those of an Archdeacon; only the technical problem of incorporation within a diocese, kept them from being described as such.

The Bishop greets Archdeacon McEvoy in the Sacristy of the Cathedral before the Service of Induction on January 11th.

In our own Diocese, the first Archdeacons were appointed in 1886, when the Diocese was divided into five Archdeaconries. Each Archdeacon was responsible for the missionary and Church extension program within his own Archdeaconry. But the system did not work well, for it resulted virtually in divisions of the missionary work of the Diocese. Each Archdeaconry was chiefly interested in its own particular district and not concerned with the others. Consequently there was a serious lack of diocesan unity in the over-all missionary work.

Another reason that the system was unsatisfactory was the fact that the Archdeacons themselves were unable to give their whole time to the work. As Rectors of busy parishes, or otherwise seriously engaged, they had duties to perform which could not be neglected, and which of necessity interfered with their activities outside their immediate parochial responsibilities.

In 1911, at the request of Bishop Greer, Diocesan Convention amended the canon so that no Archdeacon, while acting as such, could be Rector or settled minister in charge of a parish or congregation. The number of Archdeacons was reduced to three, each giving his whole time to the missionary work of the Diocese.

In Bishop Manning's time it became customary for the Suffragan Bishops of the Diocese to serve also as Archdeacons. When Bishop Gilbert took office as Diocesan and was without a Suffragan Bishop, he appointed the Venerable George Brätt as an Archdeacon of the Diocese. In due course I, as Suffragan Bishop, also served as an Archdeacon. And I want at this point to take a moment to record my own personal gratitude for Bishop Gilbert's appointment of Archdeacon Brätt.

As Suffragan, as Co-adjutor, and as Diocesan Bishop, it has been my privilege to have him by my side and I say publicly that no man could be more loyal, zealous and self-sacrificing in his service to the Diocese of New York.

We have now come to a period of vastly increased missionary activity throughout the Diocese. The influx of new people into the city and suburbs, the movement of populations, the building of churches, the formation of new congregations, and the growth of our program to meet present and future needs, have all made it imperative that an additional Archdeacon be appointed with special responsibility for supervision, pastoral care and administrative oversight of Diocesan-aided churches in urban situations.

We are determined to meet and attempt to find a solution to the presently unanswered problem of the inner city ministry.

The new Archdeacon will devote his time to all those things which may help us find the answer.

He will, as my representative, work with all churches and other agencies equally concerned with meeting the opportunities created by the drastic community changes. He will have to cooperate in the closest way with those of our clergy who are ministering in depressed neighborhoods, in the new housing areas, and with those who will have charge of the new churches which we plan.

It is my hope that opportunity will be given him to participate with every reasonable attempt to meet the social and intellectual needs arising from the one fundamental problem which is to implant stability, responsibility, hope, leadership, and a spirit of brotherhood and love in local communities where people live surrounded by fear, frustration, suspicion, insecurity and loneliness. . . .

Seen in the immediate light of its obligations, this Archdeacon's work is going to be an exacting task with little public reward. Seen in the broad vision of the work of the Kingdom, this office is a devout attempt on our part to meet the first obligation laid upon us, the ministry of reconciling people to God and to each other.

For the task which lies before him I ask not only your cooperation but also your prayers and loving trust.

February 24, Tuesday, 10:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Diocesan Devotional Workshop at St. Thomas' Guild Hall, 1 West 53rd Street, Manhattan.

March 3, Tuesday, 10:30 a.m. Diocesan Meeting, Synod House.

March 24, Tuesday, 10:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Diocesan Devotional Workshop at St. Thomas' Guild Hall, 1 West 53rd Street.

April 7, Tuesday, 11 a.m. Diocesan Meeting at Christ Church, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. All women of the Diocese are invited.

April 28, Tuesday, 10:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Diocesan Devotional Workshop, St. Thomas' Guild Hall, 1 West 53rd Street.

Program For March Meeting

A Pilot Project Program by the Church Periodical Club and the Supply Department will be offered to all women of the Diocese on Tuesday, March 3rd at 10:30 a.m. in Synod Hall, on the Cathedral Close.

The meeting is planned as a model for parish group meetings at which the Supply Chairman and the Church Periodical Club representative might run a joint program. We have chosen Liberia as our subject and will show a provocative 16-mm. sound and color film, "Portrait of Promise." There will be displays of Church Periodical Club material and Supply Work. Sources of speakers, background, material, visual aids and literature available for setting up such programs will be discussed, and opportunity for questions from the floor will be given.

Plan to come, and not only learn of the work of the Church in Liberia, but see how similar programs can be put on in your parish.

Correction

In January we gave incorrectly the the length of service of two positions open for nominations.

The President of the Churchwomen will serve a three year term and the Corresponding Secretary will serve a two year term.

50 Year Members Attend Centenary Celebration

ANNIVERSARY FUND APPROACHES $1,500,000

By Eric E. Ley

CONTINUED activity by many parishes previously reported, plus reports from several "newcomers", have pushed the total amount pledged to the 175th Anniversary Fund to $1,443,476.

For the first time in the Campaign all seven Convocations show activity through parish campaigns. Hudson Convocation is represented by St. Agnes, Balmville and St. Andrew's, New Paltz. Ramapo Convocation parishes are St. Stephen's, Pearl River, St. Paul's, Spring Valley and Christ Church, Suffern.

Other additions include: Dutchess Convocation: Holy Communion, Lake Mahopac; St. Paul's & Trinity, Tivoli; and Holy Trinity, Pawling. Manhattan Convocation: Incarnation Chapel. Richmond Convocation: St. Mary's. Westchester Convocation: Ascension, Mt. Vernon, and Christ Church, Tarrytown.

To date 66 parishes have reported 10 or more gifts or pledges to the Fund. An additional 57 parishes report one or two gifts but have not yet reached full activity in their campaigns.

The pictorial story of the needs for which the Fund is being raised has been shown at 120 parishes to date. Many others have scheduled the slide presentation during the next few months.

BOYS AND GIRLS OFFERED VAC

FOUR weeks of fun!

Next summer 75 lucky boys and 75 lucky girls between the ages of 8 and 14 will gather at beautiful Incarnation Camp for four weeks or even eight weeks of wonderful camp fun—swimming, riding, fishing, making new friends and learning new skills. And what appeals to parents is that Incarnation Camp is a church-centered camp. Pervading all is a spirit brought about because all of the staff and counselors are recruited from dedicated church people.

The setting at Incarnation Camp is one of the most beautiful in the country with an extraordinarily fine physical plant, a mile-long private lake, and 450 acres of land which includes beautifully wooded shores and trails, two large athletic fields and special equipment for land and water sports. The camp is located at Ivoryton, Connecticut, 110 miles from New York City and 28 miles east of New Haven.

SPORTS INSTRUCTION

CAMP COUNSELORS

Incarnation Camp brings together children of all races and creeds, though the majority are from our own Churches in the Diocese of New York. Counselors, too, come from many different backgrounds. They are at least nineteen years old and are selected on the basis of education, experience, maturity and a sympathetic understanding of boys and girls. There is a ratio of one senior counselor to every six campers. The staff also includes clergy and several seminary students, as well as teachers and social workers, and two registered nurses.

The program of athletics, swimming, small craft, horseback riding, pioneering, arts and crafts, nature study, fishing, and camp skills provide for the individual needs and interests of children as well as for their growth through team effort and group activities. Two spacious athletic fields provide room for many land sports. Most campers spend at least one night on a camping trip, when campers sleep in tents and cook their own food. Special trips to nearby places of interest are also a part of the camp program. The camp sends boys and girls to Mystic Seaport, Gilette Castle, Rocky Neck State Park, and to many other interesting sites.

The waterfront program at Incarnation Camp is designed to teach both the beginner and advanced swimmer. Licensed Red Cross water safety instructors are on duty for teaching and supervision of waterfront activities, including swimming, canoeing, fishing, boating, and sailing.

The philosophy of Incarnation Camp is to enable the individual through the relationships of a living situation to enter into and discover the meaning of a Christian community. The camp is set up in small units of twelve campers with two counselors.

ATION AT CAMP INCARNATION

Much of the camp program revolves around these units in which campers and counselors may learn how to respect each individual in the group. It is hoped that each will be loved and accepted for himself and that Christian teachings will be communicated to them through their living together.

The Sunday morning Service of Holy Communion brings together the entire camp family, campers, counselors, kitchen and maintenance staff, and is the center of the religious training of camp. Through this service and the brief daily Services of Morning and Evening Prayer, the camp attempts to witness to the reality of God and His power in individual lives.

Incarnation Camp is operated with the conviction that in a truly Christian camp a child should be able to know and respect children and adults of varying financial backgrounds as well as of diverse racial and religious backgrounds. A scholarship fund makes it possible for children of all income groups to enjoy Incarnation Camp. The camp actually spends $200 for each child for four weeks, or $400 for eight weeks. Therefore, those who are able to pay the full cost do so. Others pay according to their financial ability, as shown on a simple application form which is furnished by the camp. Fees include bus transportation, insurance, laundry, blankets, and there are no extras.

The Director of the Camp is Andrew Katsanis, a graduate of Union Seminary. He is a full-time employee of Incarnation Camp and he will be happy to arrange interviews with individual families or with church groups. He is visiting a different Episcopal church every Sunday during the winter and spring. Mr. Katsanis' office is at the Chapel of the Incarnation, 240 E. 31st Street, New York 16, N. Y., and the camp office telephone is MUrray Hill 9-2151.

Dates for the four week camping periods are:

July 1st - July 29th
July 29th - August 26th

While the Diocese of New York plans and conducts a very active summer program for teen-age youth, it has not the facilities for conducting its own camping program for children. Incarnation Camp, therefore, serves as a primary camping agency for the Diocesan Department of Christian Education.

Close contact is maintained between the Director of the Department and the Director of Incarnation Camp, and requests coming to the Diocesan office for information on camping are referred primarily to Incarnation Camp.

1958 MISSIONARY GIVING IN OUR DIOCESE

In speaking to the Convention of May 1958, the Bishop gave a "giving goal" to parishes as follows:

"I believe that there is a formula which can guide us and that is one which you have yourselves established for the Diocese. Ever since the establishment of the National Council in 1919 and the assignment to dioceses of shares in the National Council missionary program in 1920, the Diocese of New York has given to the National Council at least as much as it retained for itself.

"Since this is the canonical formula for our Diocese in relation to the National Church, would it not seem to be equally applicable to a congregation in its relation to the Diocese? And so I suggest to each parish and mission that it take as its minimum goal at least the amount the congregation spends on itself in one year."

An examination of the figures found below and those found on page 7 will give an indication of those parishes and missions which have achieved the giving goal or are coming close to it. By combining the actual 1958 receipts for missionary work in the Diocese we find that the dollar amount has reached the highest point in our history.

It is true that the Bishop made his statement concerning a parish goal in connection with his discussion of the 175th Anniversary Fund Campaign but he went on to say:

"I hope that even after the Campaign is completed each parish and mission will continue to think in terms of the great opportunities of our Church for growth in our nation and in the world and always strive for this minimum goal of giving to others at least as much as we spend on ourselves."

Listed below opposite the name of each parish and mission is the missionary quota assigned as directed by the canon, and the amount paid by the parish or mission toward the quota.

Book Review

healing. He deals with the helpful prayers and passages in the Prayer Book, as well as quoting from many helpful books on the subject of spiritual healing in order to drive home his theme.

He is very critical of the recent study made by the Church of England issued in the spring of 1958 on "The Church's Ministry of Healing," for its ultra conservative approach to the subject, in his judgment, allows too little room for the wondrous healings of Jesus Christ and His disciples through the power of the Holy Spirit.

The spiritual pastor will find this book an excellent instrument for enhancing his own ministry and it will nudge him into a more daring approach to this whole subject in the practice of his own ministry. I believe this book will also give courage and hope to those under affliction, for it answers many questions which constantly arise in the minds of those who suffer, about the role of pain in human existence, and the will of God for them.

There are no easy answers, and Dr. Large takes a middle-of-the-road position in between the scoffer who will accept no healing as miraculous and the zealot who dares God in dangerous ways to protect from snake bite and heal in an instant a broken bone.

Bishop Donegan, in his Foreword, gives his estimate of the book as follows: "The book . . . sheds light on many places now dark for most of us. It may well be that it will raise some questions that it does not seem to answer. With this result I shall be well content. The important thing is that the questions be raised and pondered.

... The book..., written from the level of prolonged and personal involvement, and bearing with it the quiet authority of first-hand experience, precludes the superficial questions which all too easily come to mind."

Suggested Reading

MOREHOUSE-GORHAM Company has just published a pamphlet by Canon Charles Thorley Bridgeman of Trinity Church, New York ($.85) called "The Episcopal Church and the Middle East."

Because of the current study of the Middle East by the women of the Church, this pamphlet is an attempt to deal with the more Anglican aspects of the conditions in the Middle East. Canon Bridgeman was in the field for twenty years and knows it thoroughly. His pamphlet is an excellent treatment of the subject.

"The Slow of Heart" by Matthew Warren is the title of the Harper's Book for Lent 1959.

The Rev. Matthew Warren, Headmaster of St. Paul's School, has based his meditations on the familiar phrases of the prayer of Thanksgiving after Holy Communion. These eight essays were designed to move "the slow of heart" to a renewed appreciation of their Christian heritage.

THE BISHOP OF NEW YORK BOOK FOR 1959

THE MINISTRY OF HEALING

By JOHN ELLIS LARGE

Rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York

Now at last a priest of the Church, with the authority of firsthand experience in the church's own ministry of healing, clarifies for us the nature, meaning, and full scope of spiritual healing in its resurgent revival of our day.

THE REV. ALFRED W. PRICE, says: "Writing from a rich pastoral experience, Dr. Large, in vivid and straightforward prose, sets out to investigate the facts of Spiritual Healing."

EMILY GARDINER NEAL, says: "In my opinion THE MINISTRY OF HEALING is a must for all those even remotely interested in today's revival of one of the Church's most ancient and dynamic ministries. I could wish that Dr. Large's book might find its way into the hands of everyone, clergy and laity alike, who claim membership in the Christian faith." $3.00

TO THE OWNER OF A LEAKING BUILDING "bids" mean little. Don't let anyone tell you that water infiltration in masonry can be cured with magical "coatings". That's the easy technique employed by itinerant "waterproofers" who attempt to lure you with low prices. The only way to stop leaks and seepage PERMANENTLY is to remove disintegrated mortar from all weak areas and repoint the joints with properly compounded mortar. Rockwell Newman brings to this problem over 38 years experience, plus the skills of highly trained men equipped with modern tools. Our clientele is comprised of people who seek, and are willing to pay fair prices for PERMANENT corrective workmanship. We can prove to you that our charges are ultimately one of the lowest.

Refugee Families Need Assistance

WE, of the Diocese of New York, have been asked to resettle two families coming to this country as refugees in the near future. We can only do this through the assistance and cooperation of interested and willing parishes.

The families are:

Mr. and Mrs. Kalman Molnar, a son Kalman (aged 17) and a daughter Anna (aged 23). They are Hungarians who will be arriving from France. Mr. Molnar is a waiter. Their knowledge of the English language is small.

Mr. and Mrs. Frans Mente and two small sons. Mr. Mente is an Indonesian, aged 35, of English University training and with business experience in accounting, banking, and systems. He speaks fluently English, French, German, Indonesian and Dutch. He has an I.B.M. certificate. His wife is Dutch.

These people and others need our help. Inquiries and offers of help in the form of jobs or housing should be made to the Rev. E. Walter Chater, 300 Harrison Avenue, Harrison, N. Y. The telephone number is TEnnyson 5-0864.

EASTER MIRACLE

A MAN who was seen to die is later seen alive by his friends. That is the miracle of Easter—the resurrection of Our Lord Jesus Christ! Jesus of whom the centurion who saw him die on the cross said: "Truly this was the Son of God," the same Jesus is alive forevermore. Jesus the Christ, the Messiah, triumphed over death.

The Prophet of Galilee whose teaching was so wise and wonderful, the great Healer whose mere touch cured many who seemed hopelessly diseased in mind and spirit, the extraordinarily good Man who never compromised with evil—had apparently ended his life on a cross, a criminal's death, suffering torture which He bore with matchless fortitude, a pathetic, appalling degradation.

We can imagine the disciples musing over it in bewilderment, saying, "If God is love as our Master taught us how can He have permitted such an outrage?" And then came the strange incredible news that He had risen from the dead! Mary of Magdala had seen Him, it was said. Coming to the tomb she saw Him early in the morning. It was at first difficult to believe that she told the truth. But then He appeared also to others, singly, to a few at a time, to many at once.

The stories of His appearances as we have them in the Gospels are confused but this is natural. For men repeated them by word of mouth for a generation before they were written down and when history is preserved in that way detailed accuracy gets lost. But of no fact are we more certain than that after the first Easter Day the Lord's followers began to preach His resurrection. The distressed disciples who forsook Him at His trial became triumphant worshippers and witnesses, absolutely sure that Christ was risen from the dead, and before long "Christ is risen" became the watchword with which they set out to win the world.

Christ is risen! Jesus of Nazareth is alive forevermore! As in His life He conquered sin, so by dying He conquered death! What does it mean?

It means—and this meaning is supremely important—that goodness is immortal. Just as Christ by His perfect goodness overcame death, so that the grave could not hold Him, so all that is good in man, all that partakes of the beauty and truth of God cannot perish.

The resurrection was the triumph of righteousness, the pledge and proof that the things that belong to God endure forever. It is the good in man that makes him immortal. It is by the growth of the Christ spirit within us that we become worthy of the eternal life with God.

"In Christ" says St. Paul "shall all be made alive." Through following in His steps, through being joined with Him in purity, goodness, truth and the beauty of holiness, through developing in themselves the spirit which was in Him, so shall men, so can all men gain eternal life.

The miracle of Easter brought courage, insight, vision, and purpose to the first disciples.

God grant that the Resurrection may stir us to seek and to rejoice in the things which are above, that we too shall rise with Christ and find in communion with God the perfect and everlasting joy and peace for which we all long.

Faithfully your Bishop,

Horace W. B. Donegan

HOW YOUR PROGRAM WORKS

In all the Anglican Communion, only missionary enterprises which are national in character out-rank in size or cost the missionary work of the Diocese of New York. This huge task is carried on in a great city of constant change and movement of people—in a complex suburbia—in the bustle of factory towns—and in the quietness and space of farm communities.

The concern of missions in our Diocese is equally for the new immigrant family, living under crowded conditions in poor housing, and for the new home builder in a smart suburban development. The teachings and sacraments of our Church are carried to every part of the Diocese to the extent of our means. This may require the use of an old church and parish plant in a changed neighborhood or the building of a bright new parish hall and church in a community just being settled.

All of this work is under the direction of the Department of Missions, one of the five departments under the Bishop and Council of the Diocese of New York. The words setting up this department in the canons—that is the laws—governing our Diocese, state in a concise sentence: "The duty of the Department of Missions shall be to carry on missionary and church extension work in the Diocese." On the basis of this terse sentence, some of the most interesting experiments in our Church's history are being undertaken. The present department inherited all of the powers and duties of a corporation, which was set up under the laws of the State of New York in 1912, and which has the resounding title of "The Board of Managers of the Diocesan Missionary and Church Extension Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of New York." No wonder we are glad to call it the Department of Missions!

(Incidentally this long name, quoted above, is a corporate title and is to be used in legal documents. However, readers who would like to put the Diocesan missionary work into their wills need not be concerned about the name, for it is a simple matter to have your lawyer check with the Treasurer of the Diocese when preparing your will or when you want to make a gift. The Treasurer of the Diocese can rattle off that name almost as fast as he can say Theodor Oxholm.)

Primary projects in the Department of Missions at the present time include the following:

1) Experiments in urban missionary activity where there are changing situations due to new housing as well as new residents. This is being carried on principally at St. Peter's, Chelsea, St. Mary's, Manhattanville, and St. Edward the Martyr, in three different sections of Manhattan, and at St. Paul's and St. Margaret's in the Bronx.

2) The assistance to formerly rural parishes which have recently been engulfed by new neighbors and new industries. This work is being carried on at such points as St. Peter's, Stone Ridge, St. John's, High Falls, Trinity, Saugerties, and St. Paul's, Pleasant Valley.

3) In areas where there have been no parishes or missions and where there is a great influx of people, such as the proposed project at Clason Point, and such missions as St. Francis of Assisi, Elmsford, and St. Gregory's, Woodstock.

Added to this is the continuation of the many old missions of the Diocese such as St. John the Divine, Tomkins Cove, St. James, Dover Plains, St. Martha's, North White Plains, and St. David's in the Bronx.

Taking its name from that fancy corporate title of 1912 the group which actually operates the missions of the Diocese is called the Board of Managers. It is made up as follows: The Bishop, the Suffragan Bishop, the St. James, Dover Plains.

Archdeacons, the Treasurer of the Diocese, two clergymen and eight laymen, and the Deans of the seven Convocations. These seven Convocations are geographical subdivisions of the Diocese. They are the Bronx, Dutchess (which includes Putnam County as well as Dutchess County), Hudson (which includes Sullivan, Ulster, and the northeastern section of Orange Counties), Manhattan, Ramapo (which includes the remainder of Orange County and all of Rockland County), Richmond (Staten Island), and Westchester. The dean of a convocation (who must be the rector of a parish) is elected at a spring meeting of the clergy and lay delegates representing each parish and mission within the convocation.

PARISH HOUSE BUILT BY VOLUNTEER LAYMEN

St. John The Divine, Tomkins Cove, Building Nears Completion

"YES sir, this'll be a mighty nice parish house when we get it finished." This, or something like it, has been a periodic statement of the members of St. John the Divine, Tomkins Cove.

Back in 1924, when the cornerstone was laid, there was reason to think that it would move right along. A local quarry had a lot of big sandstone blocks that nobody seemed to want. They were offered to the Church. A few active laymen, including a stone mason and a contractor, set about to build the parish house walls of the 18-inch thick sandstone.

The job took quite a while, but it was finally finished during the 1922-1928 vicarate of the Rev. Walter W. Hoffman. After the Rev. Walter W. Reid came as vicar in 1930, work was begun on finishing the undercroft. Again, members of the congregation, including the same building contractor, donned their work clothes. They helped install the heating system, put in kitchen facilities, assisted with the electrical work, painted and decorated.

It was a fine building while the weather was comparatively warm. But in winter the bare stone walls and uninsulated roof not only overtaxed the capacity of the heating system but the fuel cost blew the limited income right up the chimney.

From the time it was completed, until 1956, the building was not used during the winter months. Such use as it had at other times was largely by the Men's Club and the Woman's Auxiliary. For a four-year period during World War II it was used entirely as an emergency hospital.

Following the retirement of the Rev. Walter Reid, the Rev. William F. Fahsing became vicar in 1956. The parish house was put to use for the Church School in addition to other activities such as Woman's Auxiliary meetings, Advisory Board meetings, released-time classes, Halloween and Christmas parties, cake sales, parish suppers, and the annual P.T.A. meeting.

Increased use of the building again made the Advisory Board acutely aware of the high cost of heating. Once again the overalls and work clothes became the uniform of the day. Members of the congregation donated insulation, wallboard, lumber, nails and electrical materials. The Woman's Auxiliary, now the Episcopal Churchwomen of St. John the Divine, paid for the lumber. Wallboard was donated by John Dorfler, insulation by Paul Schaad; both are contractors and members of the congregation.

With permission of the Diocesan Council, work was again begun in June of 1958. The vicar and laymen have devoted their evenings and weekends to installing wiring, insulation and wallboard.

Since none of the Church School or organization activities have been suspended, the work party spends almost as much time cleaning up and getting things ready as they do in the actual construction work. In spite of the interruptions the work is continuing and is expected to be finished in the early fall.

A coffee hour is held each Sunday in the parish house after the Church service. This not only gives the congregation the opportunity to visit together but to see the progress being made in the work. The building is already much more comfortable in cold weather and substantial savings are expected in the heating cost.

The work party, under the leadership of John Dorfler, includes Cyrus W. Stimson, M.D., John Thomsen, Thomas B. Thompson, George Blanche, Philip Pressimone, John Belak, Daniel Tomkins, Edward Villis and the vicar, the Rev. William Fahsing.

Once again they're saying, "Yes sir, this'll be a mighty nice parish house when we get it finished." This time it looks as if they'll make it.

* * * *

The Rev. Mr. Fahsing is also in charge of St. Mark's, Fort Montgomery, and the House of Prayer at Jones Point. These organized missions and St. John the Divine, Tomkins Cove, receive assistance from the missionary funds of the Diocese.

NEW WORK REPORTED AT ST. DAVID'S, BRONX

By The Ven. Richard E. McEvoy

THIS is not a story of success, but of promise. St. David's, an organized mission of the Diocese, is situated at 384 East 160th Street, Bronx. It faces a new and promising future. Just eighteen months ago, after the retirement of the priest-in-charge who had shepherded the congregation for more than 20 years, serious consideration was given to closing St. David's. Situated in a deteriorating neighborhood, in a drab pocket between the railroad tracks on the west, and the Third Avenue tracks on the east, with most of its loyal parishioners travelling to worship from a distance, it seemed to be a casualty of the unconcerned, indifferent city, and unable to meet the challenge of change.

Founded in 1895, St. David's observed its 64th anniversary in February of this year. There was clear evidence of a lively interest and lay concern for the Church's growth, which has taken on fresh impetus since the coming of the Rev. John W. Wells a year and a half ago. Some families have been welcomed from the Melrose Houses, a short half-dozen blocks away from the Church. More significantly, within a few years, further city housing will be extended to within a block of the Church. In consequence, the struggling church finds itself preparing to meet and welcome a new and increasing population on its own doorstep. There has been a heartwarming and generous response to the 175th Anniversary Fund.

One of the members of the alert Advisory Board tells how, three weeks after his arrival, Fr. Wells announced on a Sunday morning in Church, "I want to meet with the men of this congregation after the Service." When he met them, he led them to the basement parish hall, cluttered with the debris and grime of years. He stood there quietly, saying nothing, but the men understood what he was thinking. Finally, he said, "This place ought to be cleaned up, and the men of the parish ought to do it." A House Committee, with Joe Woods, Thomas Carey, and others did get to work, and there is evidence of the work accomplished and in process of being done as the parishioners work together.

There was an opportunity at St. David's, as observed by Canon Wetmore, Director of the Department of Christian Education, to try to re-establish the parish program on the basis of the family as the central unit. While not completely achieved, still the major service on each Sunday is one where young and old, babes-in-arms, attractive children and young people, mothers and fathers, are worshipping together. Under the leadership of Fr. Wells, twenty-five parishioners have attended either the Parish Life Conferences or the Leadership Institutes conducted by the Diocesan Department of Christian Education at the Bishop Donegan Conference Center, Tuxedo Park.

Under the direction of Derothea Adams, what was an almost non-existent Church School has developed into one of forty-five members. It is good to see in every pew at St. David's a Holy Bible nudging the customary prayer book and hymnal. Fr. Wells is concerned with the grounding of his parishioners in the teaching of the Holy Scriptures and the Book of Common Prayer.

A successful Daily Vacation Bible School for parish and neighborhood youngsters was conducted last summer by Mr. Daniel Brathwaite. The Archdeacon instituted three teenage girls into the Junior Altar Guild, an auxiliary of the Altar Guild, directed by Miss Rhoda David.

The women of St. David's work together under the leadership of Mrs. Henry Andrews, Mrs. Rita Griffiths, Mrs. Eleanor Baines, Miss Margaret Majors and Mrs. Claudine Peterson. Fr. Wells says many others should be named for their devoted service.

The Rev. John W. Wells was ordained a Priest in December, 1957, and St. David's is his first charge. Mrs. Wells is a registered psychiatric nurse and a member of the faculty of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. They are the parents of two children, Patricia Ann, age two and a half years, and Barbara Joan, five months old.

GROWTH CONTINUES AT PLEASANT VALLEY

By The Ven. George F. Brätt

In the 122 years since (according to parish records) "sundry persons of the village of Pleasant Valley and its vicinity manifested a disposition that an Episcopal Church should be organized and a House built in said Village for the accommodation of its members," and the "House" was built, "St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Pleasant Valley, in Dutchess County and State of New York" has ministered unceasingly to the present day. Its location, at the fork of the roads, symbolizes the important part it has had in giving direction and purpose to the many pilgrims who have come and gone over the years. The building was made possible by a grant from Trinity Parish, New York City, in addition to the gifts of local families.

Like many another rural church, St. Paul's has had its share of ups and downs. Often needful of outside assistance, the congregation never lost sight of its missionary obligation and in direst times sent its rector to assist congregations at Manchester, Rochdale and Titusville and, through its parochial school, provided educational opportunities to the whole village. The congregations it helped have long since been absorbed by Poughkeepsie parishes and St. Paul's, and the parochial school gave way when the public school was established.

Until recent years most of the congregation engaged in dairying and farming. Low cash income limited what they could give to the Church. Clergy seldom stayed more than two or three years and there were times when lay-readers were called upon to keep the doors open. Today, as one walks amid the graves in the Churchyard, he is reminded of the indomitable spirit of faithful men and women of other generations who labored abundantly so that the Church might continue its witness.

A few years ago things began to change. Industry began to move into the area. New homes were built and new people came to Pleasant Valley. The Sunday School began to grow and the Church and its undercroft were taxed to capacity. Studies of population trends indicated clearly that this growth would continue at an accelerated pace for many years to come. The little Church, after over 100 years of static existence was faced with the alternative—build or die! The vicar, the Rev. Ernest Alt, summoned his people to discuss the opportunities opening to them and to plan ways and means for meeting them. St. Paul's was soon on the move!

First it contracted with Thomas White Associates for a professionally conducted Budget Expansion Program and the receipts from pledged income were tripled. William Hubner was Chairman, and Roger Klein was Vice-Chairman of the Canvass.

With increased giving came increased interest. From the people there arose a cry—"Let us build," and though this presented financial problems far beyond their present means to provide, they were not discouraged. Turning to the Department of Missions they presented their case and asked for a loan that their desperately needed parish house might be erected. Terms for such a loan were agreed upon and construction is now under way. It is confidently expected the structure will be ready for occupancy this June! The Building Committee has as members: J. M. Rutherfurd, Roger Klein, Robert Stiehler, Stanley Jessup, Ralph Stott, Robert Johnson, Richard Beddows, Albert Wetzel, and L. B. Smith.

The faith of loyal people in other years, the faith of the Department of Missions which assisted the congregation for so long a time, was sound. St. Paul's, with hardly a look to the past, looks confidently to a future of promise.

COMMENTS ON CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

By Canon J. Stuart Wetmore, Director, Department of Christian Education

A TEACHING TOOL

OUR Diocesan Department of Christian Education is frequently urged to bring out its own regular publication for teachers and other educational leaders. So far we have manfully resisted, not because such a publication would have no value, but because there are so many already in the field.

We are continually assured of the rightness of this decision with each issue of Christian Education "FINDINGS" prepared and distributed by our National Department of Christian Education.

FINDINGS was begun in February 1953, as a bi-monthly house organ of the Department of Christian Education of the National Council, in order to keep clergy and directors of Christian Education informed on developments of the Department's program.

In 1956 FINDINGS was redesigned in order to meet the needs of the lay leadership of the Church, as well as the professional group (the clergy and directors of religious education). Now it goes to 25,000 lay subscribers in addition to all the clergy.

Each issue contains columns by specialists—Visual Aids, Youth Work, The Church Year, and Book Reviews. More than half the space each month is devoted to articles written by National Council staff members or by men and women in the field.

Some 1500 parishes and missions subscribe to FINDINGS on the bundle plan at the cost of $1.50 per person per year in bundles of five or more sent to the same address. Some parishes prefer to send individual subscriptions to the readers home ($2.00 per year).

Clergy and Sunday School Superintendents in parishes which do not now provide "FINDINGS" for their teachers should seriously consider placing an immediate order with Seabury Press, 1 Fawcett Place, Greenwich, Connecticut.

IMPORTANT DATES

Ascension Day, Thursday, May 7th, is one of the Holy Days on which parents can request their children's absence from school for a whole day of religious instruction. A joint committee of the Children's Division and Youth Division of the Department of Christian Education is preparing suggestions as to how the day might be used in parishes as an extended educational opportunity. Those wishing to receive these suggestions are asked to inform the Department office.

Youth Sunday, May 10th. The Youth Advisor for each Convocation is planning a Convocation Youth Observance for Sunday, May 10th. Details will be sent direct to the clergy as plans are developed. In the meantime, those in charge of youth groups should note the date in their program schedules.

GIRL SCOUT RALLY

The Annual Service for Protestant Girl Scouts in New York City will be held at St. Bartholomew's Church on March 8th at 4 p.m.

In the recent youth survey 32 of the 155 parishes who returned information indicated they have a Girl Scout program. It is hoped many from these parishes will attend the rally.

FILM AVAILABLE

Action shots from last summer's St. John's Conferences and New York Youth Conferences (Wooster School) have been compiled into a ten minute color film. This is available, together with commentator's script, for free use in parish groups. Write or telephone the Department of Christian Education to make reservations.

"MAN'S JOURNEY" CONFERENCES

The article on Christian Education, "Man's Journey under God" in the November issue of the Bulletin has been made available in reprint form, and conferences have been designed using the article as a central document.

To date, nearly a thousand copies of the reprint have been sold, and conferences have taken place at Christ Church, Suffern, and St. John's, Tuckahoe. Other conferences are scheduled for St. Alban's, Staten Island; St. James, North Salem; Trinity, Saugerties; St. Stephen's, Pearl River, and Grace Church, Millbrook.

Parishes or groups wanting to schedule conferences may do so by having the priest in charge make this known to the Director of the Department.

REVOLVING FUND AIDS ULSTER CHURCHES

By Eric E. Ley

ONE of the most important objectives of the 175th Anniversary program is the Revolving Fund for use in making loans to parishes in the suburban and rural Convocations.

The first loan to be made out of the Revolving Fund has been granted by the Department of Missions to the congregations of St. Peter's, Stone Ridge, and St. John's, High Falls. The loan will be used to supplement funds raised by the two congregations to combine their physical facilities in a new location under the name of "The Church of Christ the King in the Rondout Valley."

Badly hampered by inadequate buildings and facilities, the congregations of the 112 year-old St. Peter's and the 75 year-old St. John's recognized that they would not be in a position to meet the challenge of population growth brought about by new industry in the area. Both churches are located in what is fast becoming a suburb of Kingston. Industrial growth has brought many new families into the area and considerable activity in construction of new homes.

St. John's, High Falls, is a chapel of St. Peter's. Both churches are served by the Rev. David Arnold and work closely together on mutual problems. The decision to consolidate the two congregations and to build a new church was the result of much soul-searching, discussion and compromise. Sentiment, loyalties to the nostalgic past, and natural resentment toward change were reluctantly but firmly put aside. Practical considerations dictated that new people in new communities would not be attracted to church facilities which lacked water, inside plumbing, parking space, and adequate seating capacity.

Neither church building is large enough to accomodate the two congregations which, together, total over 250. St. Peter's seats seventy and St. John's ninety. Each parish house is a one-room affair, neither of which lends itself to proper separation of Church School classes. Church School enrollment has almost tripled since 1952.

The new church and parish hall will be built on the newly purchased four acre site on Route 213, mid-way between the two present churches. Ground was broken last June on St. Peter's Day by the Rt. Rev. Robert Campbell, O.H.C., D.D., S.T.D.

The church itself will seat 175; the parish hall will be arranged for four permanent 10 by 12 foot classrooms and a single large area measuring 25 X 48 feet which can be sub-divided by partitions into four 12 X 25 foot classrooms. Both the church and parish house are designed so that additions can be made in the future.

The long-term loan granted out of the Revolving Fund is approximately $74,000. It will supplement the $30,000 raised by the parish and mission and the expected proceeds from the sale of the two present properties. The Diocese will also lend the funds required to cover expenditures during the pledge payment period of three years.

Consolidation of the two congregations into a new, modern structure will bring many benefits. It will eliminate the present duplication of efforts, service and maintenance in the heating, electrical, water and sewage systems. It will unify efforts in connection with church services, church school, choir, organizations, finances, quotas and budgets. It will centralize and strengthen educational and devotional programs and increase the spiritual strength of the parish.

This first loan from the Revolving Fund demonstrates the wisdom of having the Fund. It was visualized as a means by which new and old parishes could meet the demands resulting from population shifts and industrial growth. The influx of new people into heretofore static areas presents great opportunities to parishes in the suburban and rural areas. However, grasping the opportunities will in many cases require expansion of facilities or acquisition of additional properties.

The Rev. David W. Arnold

The suddenness with which growth comes upon a parish makes it difficult to expand in the usual, methodical way. It must be done quickly. Unfortunately, the average small parish cannot get quick credit. The inability to produce funds might well mean the

NEWS OF THE EPISCOPAL CHURCHWOMEN

SCHOOL OF WORSHIP HELD IN WESTCHESTER

Leaders of the Westchester School of Worship met the hundreds of "scholars" in informal coffee hours after each session in the parish house of St. Bartholomew's, White Plains. Top, Dr. and Mrs. Clifford P. Morehouse just after the brilliant address given by the former. The closing sentences may be found on page 16 of this issue. Center, Mrs. William N. McDonald of Christ Church, Pelham Manor, Chairman of the Episcopal Churchwomen of Westchester, greeting the speaker at the second session, Miss Lois Chevalier, of St. John's, Yonkers. Bottom, the leaders of the School this year, the Rev. Kenneth MacKenzie, Mrs. McDonald, and the Rev. Osborne Budd, Dean of the Convocation.

APRIL 7th MEETING

EPISCOPAL Churchwomen in the Convocations of Hudson, Ramapo and Dutchess will be hostesses for the out-of-town Diocesan meeting to be held Tuesday, April 7, starting at 11:00 a.m. and continuing until 2:30 p.m.

Another facet in the broad Triennial Theme One Family in Christ with emphasis on "Children and Youth" will be presented – "Church Careers for Young Women."

The choice of a meeting place seems particularly appropriate—historic Christ Church, Poughkeepsie. It was here that the earliest efforts to establish an organization for Episcopal Churchwomen in Dutchess County had their origins.

Significantly enough, that beginning saw all the women united in one group, branching out later into divisions as indicated by areas of work in which they were involved, special tasks to be done, and physical limitations such as those of the convenience of evening or daytime sessions.

With our emergence from serving the National Council as an "auxiliary" to full-fledged recognition as a "division" we are again seeking the unity we had in our early days. At the same time we recognize the many diversified tasks that make it convenient and necessary to be divided into groups. It is both a challenge and an opportunity to us all so to shape our plans for the future that we arrive at a workable solution to this ever-present dilemma.

With this renewed interest in unifying our efforts, the Presidents of the hostess Convocations, Mrs. Matthew Netter, Pine Plains, for Dutchess, and Mrs. Howard W. Weale, Middletown, for Hudson-Ramapo, have given considerable thought to a stimulating program for this occasion. There is an enthusiastic committee aiding Mrs. Netter and Mrs. Weale.

They believe that the topic "Church Careers for Young Women" should be of interest and concern to all Church women in the Diocese. A panel of four speakers will review four different phases of Church Work.

Serving as moderator will be Mrs. Gordon C. Graham, wife of the rector of St. Andrew's Church, Poughkeepsie. Mrs. Graham is a member of the Diocesan Department of Christian Social Relations and an experienced social worker with a background of professional training. Her sense of humor and pleasant personality, combined with her "know-how" in the matter of professions for women, promise a delightful session. Pamphlets, posters and other factual material will supplement what the speakers have to say.

Those attending will be urged to take the information thus gained back to their own parishes and confer with their clergy in deciding the best way to interest young women in choosing to enter one of these fields.

GOSHEN WOMEN AID AT TRAINING SCHOOL

IT is three years now since Mrs. Harris Harragin and I, representatives of the Women of St. James', Goshen, with trepidation entered the office of the Superintendent of the New York State Training School for Boys (which cares for 12 to 16 year olds), to ask Mr. A. Alfred Cohen what we might do in response to his plea for community interest in the School. When he suggested that we "sponsor" one of the cottages and start right in by visiting the 33 boys in Cottage A-2, we timidly agreed to try with the help of other members of our group: Miss Julia Grier, Mrs. Charles Keller, Mrs. Jullietta MacDougal, Mrs. R. S. Quackenbush, Miss Edna Roberts, and Mrs. John J. Van Vliet.

To put it mildly, we felt uncertain and ill at ease when we rang their bell that first evening in February 1956. The boys must have felt strange too, for they kept insisting that we were social workers making them a routine call.

Then we made a wonderful discovery: we, the mothers of boys ourselves, by showing interest in these youngsters as individuals—the kind of interest we might show for friends of our own sons—could have lots of fun with them.

Now, when we go, warm handshakes greet us. Then we talk, play games, share simple "treats." The boys get satisfaction out of teaching us such things as pool, card tricks, and Spanish. They showed good sportsmanship when one of us, a lively grandmother of nearly 80, was able to beat them at ping-pong.

This Christmastide the boys and their fine Cottage "parents," Mr. and Mrs. Miles, were our guests at a party which included a tour of our church, supper and games. "Going to Jerusalem," with the rector, the Rev. Douglas M. Glasspool at the piano, was the high spot of the evening.

Christian Social Relations is no longer a forbidding term to us, but rather a heartwarming experience.

Conference On Minority Groups

A SIGNIFICANT conference on the problems facing Puerto Ricans in the United States will be held at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine in April. This conference is being planned and arranged by the Rev. Walter Dennis, one of the clergy at the Cathedral.

The Rev. Walter Dennis

In 1957, the Rev. Mr. Dennis was appointed as a Consultant to the Division of Racial Minorities of the National Council of the Episcopal Church, and was given the responsibility of the editorship of the "Neighborhood Series." This is a series of pamphlets covering the spectrum of race relations within the Episcopal Church. The first of these, describing the Church's work among various racial and cultural minority groups in the United States, is entitled "Puerto Rican Neighbors." (Published by Seabury Press, 25¢.) Other pamphlets in the series will discuss the Church's work among the Orientals in the United States, American Indians, Latin Americans in the Southwest, and Negroes.

In addition to writing these pamphlets the Rev. Mr. Dennis has been given the responsibility of planning conferences in connection with each one of the topics explored in the pamphlets. These conferences will be held in the geographic area of the country where such inter-group relations are problematic. The first such conference, dealing with Latin-Americans, in the Southwestern United States, took place in January at the Episcopal Conference Center in Austin, Texas, of which the Rev. Dr. John W. Turnbull, former Canon Precentor of the Cathedral, is Warden. The conference on Puerto Ricans will be held in Cathedral House on April 13-15.

This pioneer work of the Rev. Mr. Dennis in the field of the Church's Relation to Racial Minorities is of great importance to the Church in securing the basic facts upon which wise policies can be built.

Canterbury Lenten Offering Shared

THE Episcopal Church's work in South Dakota and the World's Student Christian Federation will be co-sharers in the proceeds of this year's Canterbury Lenten Offering.

For several years, the National Canterbury Association, an organization composed of all Episcopalians in the academic community, has given half its Lenten Offering to one of the Church's missionary projects and half to aid the World's Student Christian Federation's work with students around the world. Part of last year's offering (which totaled more than $2,500) went to Bishop Reeves of Johannesburg.

The Episcopal Church's Missionary District of South Dakota does a great deal of its work among the Dakota Indians (commonly called the Sioux), of whom some ten thousand are baptized Episcopalians. It supports one school and two boarding homes for Indian children, in addition to its other work.

The World's Student Christian Federation, founded in 1895, includes member movements in more than 50 countries. It seeks to serve and inform student Christian movements throughout the world, to gather and publish information about student social, religious and intellectual conditions, and to work for unity and understanding among the various student Christian movements.

loss to others of desirable property, in which case the parish might be permanently blocked in their efforts to expand. In such cases it is most desirable that the Diocese be able to assist through the Revolving Fund.

This Fund was never intended to infringe on the banking business. Rather it was intended for use as a measure of faith by the Diocese when the risk seemed beyond the bounds set by conservative banking institutions and church-connected loan agencies.

It has been predicted that within the next twenty years, the great metropolitan area (embracing 22 counties, which includes most of the Diocese of New York) will be called upon to provide housing for 1,300,000 more families than are now housed in the area. Such growth will cause frequent requests by parishes for funds to finance expansion, relocation, and, it is hoped, additional churches for newly gathered congregations. The activity is expected to keep the Revolving Fund revolving at a fast pace.

A LAYMAN LOOKS AT HIS PARISH

HOW does my parish look to me, a Churchman?

IT is a poor, worldly thing, often concerned with petty matters; yet it is the doorway to the Great Church.

IT is often hopelessly behind the times; yet it is the gateway to the future.

IT is often torn by controversy; yet it holds the key to eternal harmony.

ITS rector is only human, and often makes mistakes; yet he is the type and substance of the Great High Priest.

ITS altar is humble and plain; yet from it is dispensed the Bread of Life.

ITS choir sings but indifferently; yet through it sing the choirs of angels and archangels.

ITS organizations are petty, and often seem to have little to do with religion; yet through them the organism that is Christ's Holy Body may function.

ITS preaching is often pedestrian, even dull; yet through its pulpit the Word of God speaks to His children.

ITS church school is noisy, and the teachers are not well trained; yet through them a new generation is learning to carry on the Faith.

IT seems to have little influence on the community; yet without it the community would be a poor place to live.

ITS budget is small, and hard to balance; yet within it is to be found the Great Treasure.

ITS missionary flame burns low; yet through it men are sent forth to preach the Gospel to all nations.

IT is full of sinners like me; yet it is the mother of saints.

IN the eyes of the world it is a poor and perhaps a pitiful thing, one that can be easily overlooked or ignored.

BUT in the eyes of God it is His Holy Catholic Church, the manifestation of His presence in that particular corner of His world.

MY parish may seem weak, inefficient, inadequate, and worldly; yet it is my link with the Great Reality, it is the very means whereby God comes down to earth and dwells among His people.

Clifford P. Morehouse

SEMINAR PLANNED ON HOUSING PROBLEMS

RECENT disclosures in New York City housing conditions have been followed by the authorities of the Episcopal Diocese of New York with a survey of the activities of the urban clergy in the whole field of slums, crowded conditions, and adjustment to the problems of living in low-cost housing projects. It has been found that several parishes and missions throughout this area are constructively meeting and solving the difficult problems in the regular day by day ministry of the Church.

To bring the full weight of the Episcopal Church's experience to bear in the best possible manner, the Department of Christian Social Relations of the Diocese will hold a seminar discussion on April 22nd, beginning at 4 p.m. in Cathedral House, 1047 Amsterdam Ave.

The leaders, who were chosen for their accomplishments in the field of urban housing, are the Rev. James A. Gusweller, rector of St. Matthew and St. Timothy, Manhattan; Mrs. Rollo May, Chairman, Urban Renewal Sub-Committee, Morningside Citizen's Committee; Jay V. Grimm, Esq., Attorney for the Housing Clinic of St. George's Church, Manhattan; and Victor Remer, Assistant Executive Director of Lenox Hill Neighborhood Association.

All of the clergy and parish workers, who are in "housing problem" areas, as well as many volunteer laymen and women will attend the sessions.

According to the Chairman of the Department of Christian Social Relations, the Rev. Hugh D. McCandless, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, 74th Street and York Avenue, "We want this to be the beginning of constant and regular consultation among all of us who are involved in the various problems of housing in New York City and who must deal with the difficulties arising from the present situation. We who are engaged in a parochial ministry know that the present plight of thousands of our people can be ameliorated by using methods already successfully developed. We also know that there are matters which can only be successfully handled when we cooperate to bring the full power of the Church to bear."

The seminar will be conducted under the auspices of the Committee on Christian Citizenship, under the chairmanship of the Rev. John Krumm, Ph.D., Chaplain of Columbia University.
